FRANK SEDGMAN handed Australia the Davis Cup with a flawless display of great tennis when he blasted United United States' Vic Seixas off the court in the deciding match in Sydney, Australia, Thursday.

Australia Wins Davis Cup On Sedgman's Star Performance

By GAYLE TALBOT.

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 28 — (AP).—In one of the most magnificent exhibitions of tennis ever seen in any country, Frank Sedgman today completed his job of crushing the United States Davis Cup team.

With issue still in balance in the fifth and deciding match of the challenge round, the young blonde Aussie ace sliced Vic Seixas into ribbons, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2, to retain the coveted cup for his country, three matches to two.

Ted Schroeder had kept the challengers in the running by handing Mervyn Rose his second straight set defeat, 6-4, 13-11, 7-5. The Americans at least proved they are champions of Rose.

The third straight capacity crowd of 15,300 at the White City Stadium gave a five-minute roar of triumph after Sedgman nearly knocked Seixas' racquet from his hand with his unreturnable service for final point.

On Tennis Binge

They remained standing for another 20 minutes while Prime Minister Robert Menzies presented the trophy to the winners in a midcourt ceremony. They wound up three happy days by giving three cheers for both teams.

Australia was in the throes of a fine tennis binge tonight. Sedgman was the toast on every lip.

Not until they witnessed his flawless performances the last three days had the Australians quite realized what a truly great tennis player the Melbourne youngster has become.

In defeating Schroeder on opening day, then joining Ken McGregor in the vital doubles victory over Schroeder and Tony Trabert Thursday and rending Seixas today, he lost only one set. That was to Schroeder after he led, two sets to none.

It appears certain Sedgman, called by the Prime Minister "One of the most complete champions any game ever produced" will turn professional sometime within the next year. If he does he will be worth anybody's money to see.

Best In 28 Years

Seixas today played probably as good tennis as he ever played in 28 years. He fought valiantly for every point right to the end. Yet he never had a ghost of a chance against Sedgman.

Sedgman's service was terrific. He lost it only once in the opening set. His ground strokes were brilliant and so were his volleys. His sense of anticipation bordered on the occult.

He told the crowd through the microphone later "I surprised myself today. The ball just seemed to hit the lines without any help."

An hour and five minutes after the crowd settled itself tensely for the match that would decide the world team title, it was all over. The pattern was set in the first game when Seixas had to battle through five deuces to hold his service.

From there on he struggled in a lost cause.

"Watch our smoke the rest of the way," Manager Len Symonds of the junior "B" IOOF-ers said yesterday. He predicted a win for the Links here tonight against Kingston Vics, and a steady climb in the new year for Oddfellows. "We don't go in for imports like the other clubs," Len pointed out, "and it consequently takes a while for the boys to play up to their opponents' level, but they improve from week to week and are ready now to hold their own with Kingston, Bellville or Lindsay." Well they showed that last season after a slow start, and the Oddfellows will be tough to take from now on. Their draw is this eve, and folks should bring in their tickets to the Arena

An NHL bulletin says Chicago Hawks have the heaviest defence in the league. The five blue-line bumpers on that squad average 192 pounds a man. Lightest defence is that of Boston Bruins, yet they average 182 pounds. That isn't exactly light, eh? Detroit goes 189 pounds, Canadiens 188, Leafs 187 and Rangers 184. It's true that NHL coaches like their forwards pretty husky, too, but it's a hockey axiom that defencemen be big and strong. They're the shock-absorbers of the fast, hard-hitting game, and a light guy at the blue line is liable to wind up in the rail seats. No kidding.

Some Solid Citizens

Local senior "B" defencemen are pretty solid citizens, too. Eagles have a big fellow in Moon Wootton, a chunky powerful guy in Doug Mortimer, a swell blocker in Jim Munroe and a rugged fast customer in Keith Montgomery. They can use the body effectively and aren't a bit bashful about it, either. The Petes have a big chap in Jake Wade, a real bouncer in Ron Horton, a first-class blocker in Drake Jopling and a good worker in Earl Leonard. All quite effective against incoming forwards who don't keep their heads up. We really like a rugged defenceman if he's fast and not crude. Otherwise he weakens the team by drawing too many penalties.

Canadian Olympic Association writes: "Our ice hockey team is one of the best ever chosen to represent Canada and should win laurels in the Winter Games at Oslo. Our skiers show experience and should make a fairly good showing. Figure skating is probably not so colorful as in 1948, but some good material has been developed. Canoeing has shown excellent progress and our paddlers will do well. At least one boxer is capable of winning first rating, and a couple of weight-lifters should be heard from. Rowing has shown improvement, and basketball should be better. Track and field athletes have shown much activity, and several competitors rank among the best in the world. The yachtsmen have been training faithfully." All of which is the mumbo-jumbo way the badgers have of saying we won't win anything except maybe in hockey. Winter games are in February, and the summer games in Helsinki next July.

College Cage Capers

College cagers home for the holiday season may be seen in action at the YMCA tomorrow eve. They're playing Clapper's in an annual exhibition, following a prelim game, and these affairs are usually plenty close and marked with keen rivalry. Don Griffin of Queen's—one of the finest footballers and cagers to graduate from Collegiate—will lead the college chaps, and he's a deceptive ball handler and deadly shot. Clapper's lineup has Joe and Ab Stewart, Chum Gillespie, Gord Burns, Hugh Dibben, Bill Edger and newcomers Al Northcott and Garth Jopling. Al was a top PCI-er and led the Lake Ontario district snipers last season. Garth is an outstanding guard.

No OHA senior "B" games slated for Peterborough till a week from tonight, and then it's the old enemies of the ice lanes, Eagles vs. Petes. Meantime, Petes travel tonight to Belleville and hope to increase their league lead to four points. However, the Hawks are hot on home ice and might well tie the Ellis men for top spot again. Ned Vitarelli's Eagles are off this p.m. for Kingston and can climb into a tie with the K's by winning. A loss would set 'em down four points behind the Limestone Citizens. The men o' McGillis should start rolling anytime now, we figure. No junior or senior OHA action here Monday.

East-West Fight Looms At Olympics

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK, Dec. 28—(AP)—Russia and the United States moved closer today to their first major encounter in sports, but whether it would occur in the winter Olympic games in Oslo or not until the summer games at Helsinki was open to doubt.

Many world records have been claimed in Moscow but few athletes from behind the Iron Curtain have competed in the free world—and there have been some embarrassing desertions from the teams of Russia's satellites in such events as international tennis tournaments or the 1948 London Olympic games.

Russia has never competed in the Olympics, but it took another step in that direction when the Soviet Olympics committee decided in Moscow to inform Finland that a "preliminary agreement" had been reached to participate at Helsinki July 19-Aug. 3.

Likely Show Up

The Norwegians are generally convinced the Russians will show up for the games at Oslo Feb. 14-25. The United States is sending a team of 79 competitors to Oslo, and the usual full Olympic team to Helsinki, probably 450.

Except for weight-lifting (in which the US won the honors) and minor competition, Russia and America have never met head-on in athletics. Neither is rated with the Scandinavians in winter sports, but the United States has always dominated the summer games. Russia is strong in many branches of summer sports.

The strongest indication that the Russians mean to face the rest of the world in sports is given in newspaper editorials urging Soviet athletes to greater heights.

That means the Russians want to compete—and win.

Russia has until Jan. 1 to enter the winter games at Oslo, and probably even a belated entry would be accepted. The Soviets have some good speed skaters and possibly a few skiers.

D. Brown Rolls High

D. Brown rolled high single of 330 and E. Downer top three of 799 this week in the Major Bowling League. Wood's led teams with 3,314 pinnage, high single game of 1,239 going to UEW. Six points went to Studebaker, UE, Bickell, Sun Life, B & E and Herb's over Clapper, McLeod, Wonder, Brewers, Revenoors and Examiner respectively, as 4-2 wins were taken by Mowry Selkirk, Wood's, Lillian's, Odeon and Plaza over Darling's, Kingsmen, Cherney, Crowley, Kawartha and Campbell.

Good scores included: D. Coughlin 781, A. Caccavella 763, G. Walton (304) 760, J. Playford 760, R. Bennett Jr. 759, R. Parnell 749, J. Goodson 748, E. Johnston 740, H. Legrow 731, R. Wright 727, P. Walker 726, T. Hanes 724, C. Signorotti 725, D. Pilling 722, F. Hurley 717, H. Correll 707, A. Mattucce 711, J. Patterson 705, A. Hunter a single of 308, E. Downer 328 and H. Killen 301.

Has Eye Injury

STRATFORD, Dec. 28 (CP). — James Dobbie, 17, goal keeper for Stratford Junior OHA team, was taken to Stratford General hospital Thursday night with an eye injury. He was injured during hockey practice when struck by a puck. Extent of the injury has not yet been determined.

MAPLE LEAF FANS thought they were saying goodbye to Turk Broda when he and his family, seen here, were presented with this car and mountain of other gifts for Turk Broda night in Maple Leaf Gardens. But manager Connie Smythe is perturbed with the showing of goalie Al Rollins and has ordered the Turk to start trainnig again.

Rangers Have Headache As Stanley Out Of Action

By The Canadian Press

As if Frank Boucher and Bill Cook didn't have enough troubles with their New York Rangers' defence corps, now they have another. Who will they get to replace Allan Stanley? The blueshirt bodychecking association, one of the weakest departments on the fifth-place club throughout the opening sessions of the National Hockey League schedule, was just beginning to find itself during the team's last few games. They reached the top in stopping the league-leading Detroit Red Wings 1-0 Wednesday night, but in doing so lost the services of one of their stalwarts, Allan Stanley.

Stanley, a 25-year-old 185-pounder from Timmins, collided with the Wings' Bob Goldham midway through the second period and suffered a shoulder separation. He may be lost to the blues for the remainder of the season.

Recently elected team captain, Stanley received emergency treatment in the Ranger dressing room and returned to the game. He was forced to call it quits after a minute of play and was taken to hospital where club physician Dr. Vincent Nardiello announced an operation would be necessary.

May Take 10 Weeks

Stanley will be operated on Saturday. Tissue will be taken from his leg and used to connect the separated bones in the shoulder. It could take 10 weeks to heal.

The Rangers will use Lloyd Ailsby as a replacement for the injured Stanley Saturday night. The 34-year-old veteran of the United States Hockey League St. Paul Saints will reinforce the Blues' defence for their game with the Canadiens in Montreal, but may not be able to appear in Sunday's New York game against Toronto Maple Leafs.

Ailsby has already appeared in two NHL games this season and can play only three NHL games and still keep his amateur status. He is currently coaching the Rangers' New York Rover farm club which plays in the Eastern Hockey League.

Coach Bill Cook was despondent over the loss of Stanley, claiming he was the key to the whole outfit.

"He'll be hard to replace," he said. "We've got to get someone solid with major league experience."

Broda On Call

In meeting Montreal Saturday night, the Rangers will be facing a club which is at the moment in the midst of a red-hot streak. It will be a tough game for the weakened New Yorkers, but they may have an easier time against the Leafs Sunday.

Toronto, which entertains Boston Saturday before moving into New York, is in the midst of scenery changes. Johnny McLellan has been brought up from Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League and Bob Solinger sent back to Pittsburgh.

Veteran goalie Turk Broda has also been ordered to get in playing shape and manager Conn Smythe intimated Thursday he was not satisfied with some of Al Rollins' recent games.

ACCEPTS INVITATION

Marlene Stewart, 17-year-old golfing sensation from Fonthill, said Thursday she has accepted an invitation to play in the annual Tampa women's open championship in Florida next month.

Other golf notables who will participate include Babe Didrikson Zaharias, Patty Berg and the Bauer sisters.

Miss Stewart this year won the Ontario junior, the Ontario Ladies', the Canadian ladies' closed and the Canadian ladies' open titles.

Hershey Downs Providence 4-2

By The Canadian Press.

Hershey Bears Thursday night strengthened their hold on top place in the American Hockey League's eastern division by defeating Providence Reds 4-2.

Indianapolis Capitals gave St. Louis Flyers their seventh straight setback by downing the Flyers 8-6 in the only other Thursday effort.

At Providence Arnie Kullman paced the Hershey attack with two goals. Hershey led 2-1 in the first period, and after matching the Reds' tally in the second stanza, they went two up on Kullman's second goal early in the final.

Other Hershey scorers were Leo Labine and Frank Mario. Pete Kpusta and Jack Stoddard got the Providence goals.

At Indianapolis, Caps were leading 5-4 when forward Larry Wilson scored. St. Louis protested that the puck didn't enter the cage but referee Maurice Wals overruled it.

Indianapolis forward Bert Giesebrecht drew a major penalty just after the protested goal. He was charged with highsticking.

St. Louis defenceman Max Quackenbush drew a $25 misconduct fine for protesting another Walsh ruling. Indianapolis goalie Glenn Hall made a save and Quackenbush claimed it was a score.

Marines Take Top Spot In PMHA Loop

Outboard Marines climbed into first place in the juvenile section of the PMHA last night at Civic Arena by defeateing the Oddfellows 4-1. Dodd dented the twine twice for the winners as Kearns and Pearson counted once each. White was the lone lamplighter for the IOOF squad. Lakefield took Trojans 3-1 in the other juenile joust as Pratt scored twice and Matthews once. Trojans' tally was by Seabrooke. Lakefield had seven of the 11 penalties.

In midget play, Trojans squeezed out a 2-1 win over St. Peter's, Whitnell and McFadyen getting their markers as Ferren scored for the other side. The teams divided eight penalties in a good game. The Martin-Hewitt club continued its winning streak by downing the Snowbirds 1-2. Gardner and Godfrey hit the mark three times each for them, with Floyd and Kane counting a pair apiece, and Heffernan and Chambers singles. Hamon and Chase scored for Snowbirds, who drew five of the seven penalties.

Lions bantams shut out Trojans 4-0 in a good tussle. Murphy tallied twice for the victors, as Douglas and O'Connell got the other counters. Lions drew five penalties and Trojans just two. In the second bantam tilt, Otonabee Wolves rolled to a 4-0 win against St. Peter's. Lonsberry scored a pair of goals for the improving Wolves with Heron and Hamilton getting one each. The winners drew five of the eight penalties in this contest.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Dick Irvin, then captain of Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League, suffered a fractured skull in collision with Red Dutton of Montreal Maroons at Chicago 23 years ago tonight. That ended his playing career but the dean of Canadian N.H.L. coaches coached the Hawks in 1929, masterminded the Toronto Maple Leafs for 10 years and since 1941 has coached Montreal Canadiens.

THE DEATH WEAPON, and the holes it punctured in the Shawinigan Falls police cruiser, are mute evidence of the early Christmas morning blast that brought instant death to Const. Louis Langevin, and injury to his companion, Sgt. Mathias Lachance. The gun is being held by chief of police, Arthur Loranger.

MAYOR J. ROY, of Shawinigan Falls, examines the wounds inflicted on Sgt. Mathias Lachance, who missed death by inches. Not so fortunate was Const. Louis Langevin (left), who died instantly, the victime of two bullet wounds.

Cattle Prices Advance $1 During Week

TORONTO, Dec. 28 — (CP) — Cattle prices advanced between 50 cents and $1 per hundredweight this week at the Ontario Stockyards. Calves, sheep and lambs were steady while hogs gained 50 cents.

A light run was reported with 820 cattle added to the leftover of 400 carried from last week.

Medium to good weighty steers sold at $33-$35.50 with choice from $36-$37. Common to medium light steers and heifers were $28-$32. Good heifers sold at $33-$33.50. A few good to choice fed yearlings sold at $35-$37. Medium to good cows were $24-$27. A few heavy bulls sold at $27-$27.50. Common to medium stockers sold slowly at $26-$31 cwt. About 200 plain stockers were unsold.

Calf receipts totalled only 80 head. Prices were steady at $36-$38 for choice vealers with common to medium downward to $30. A few grassers sold for slaughter at $20-$22.

Hog receipts totalled 430 head. Prices were quoted at $31 for grade A with sows $24 dressed.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled 130. Lambs sold at $32.50 for good ewes and wethers with bucks at $31.50. A few common to medium sheep brought $10-$16.

University Press Uses Two Languages

H MILTON, Dec. 28—(CP)—Canadian University Press Thursday adopted both French and English as its official languages for use on documents, reports and letters.

CUP, however, still will distribute Canadian university newspapers news copy in English.

The 60 delegates to the 14th annual CUP conference at McMaster University also decided that conferences are to be held in English, except where a delegate feels he can express himself better in French, which will be translated.

Three French-language papers are represented in the 20-member CUP, which operates a co-operative system of university news distribution.

The Ontarian, a publication of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, was granted an affiliated membership for one year to give CUP members a chance to study the publication.

Smith School Holds Concert

SELWYN, Dec. 28 (ENS)—The annual Christmas concert of SS No. 9, Smith, was held on Thursday evening, but stormy weather resulted in a small attendance.

The program was in charge of teacher, Douglas Beatty, and Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald accompanied the children on the piano.

Clifford McIlmoyl was chairman for a program of dialogues, drills, recitations, choruses, pantomines, and to bring the program to a close, a pageant entitled "The Christmas Story", as enacted.

Santa Claus arrived at the last and distributed the gifts and candy from the heavily-laden Christmas tree.

Poultry Market Continues Active

TORONTO, Dec. 28 (CP)—The poultry market this week continued active after a good Christmas clean-up. Lightweight turkeys are still in keen demand but in limited supply. Heavy chickens were firm. Ducks sold steady while geese sold poorly at reduced prices.

HONOURED BY GENERATIONS

Early settlers from England, France, Italy and Germany discovered that the Niagara Peninsula had perfect soil and weather conditions for the cultivation of fine grapes.

Now, years later, Niagara Peninsula vineyards have developed many varieties of grapes that are distinctively Canadian in flavour and bouquet. Proof of success is shown in the many international awards won by Ontario vineyards.

Stolen Money Orders Used To Buy Diamonds

WINDSOR, Dec. 28 (CP)—John Kocsis, who Detroit police allege traded stolen Canadian money orders for diamonds in Detroit, is being held by US authorities on a charge of interstate transportation of stolen securities. Bail was set at $10,000.

Police allege Kocsis brought 28 stolen $100 money orders to Detroit Dec. 4 and traded them for diamonds. The money orders are believed to be part of the loot from a robbery at the Canadian National Express Windsor office last September.

Detroit police said the diamonds have not been recovered.

About a month after the break-in at the express office, Hamilton police arrested two men who were money orders there. One of these charged with peddling the st... men was convicted here and sentenced to jail, while the other was acquitted.

Interne Charged

SEATTLE, Dec. 28 (AP).—The prosecutors office charged a Harborview county hospital doctor interne Thursday with raping a 22-year-old mother, partly paralyzed with polio, in her ward at the hospital. The man, Dr. Roy B. Patton, 29, signed a statement admitting the offence under questioning by police. Dr. Patton is married and has two children.

Killed In Collision

TORONTO, Dec. 28 (CP).—Albert A. Clark, 48, of Weston, an Etobicoke township board of education trustee, was killed on Thursday when his car was in collision with a truck on No. 5 Highway, northwest of here. Mr. Clark, suffering a crushed chest and a broken arm and leg, died in hospital 10 minutes after admittance.

Deny Mine Stolen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP). —The United States Navy Thursday attributed Communist knowledge on mining of waters in Korea to Second World War developments rather than to any theft of US secrets by spies. "So far as is known, no mine plans have been lost," a Navy spokesman said in commenting on a New York Daily News story that a search was on for spies who stole American plans.

SMOKE FILLS BUILDING

Firemen had to use oxygen masks Thursday night to penetrate the thick smoke that filled the new extension at the rear of Kingan Hardware Co., 167 Simcoe St. An oil heater had been turned low in the building and smoked the place up. There was no damage.

DAIRY CONVENTIONS

Annual meetings of rural Ontario organizations open in Toronto Jan. 3 and 4 with the convention of the Whole Milk Producers' League; and on Jan. 4 and 5, the Cheese Producers' Association. Both these meetings are booked for the Royal York Hotel.

NO MILK DELIVERIES

Housewives will have to do without delivery of milk Tuesday and Wednesday next week just as this week. One milk company this week received an angry protest from one customer who thought milkmen had no business taking two days off.

TWO CHRISTMAS MISTAKES

Two barbershop patrons were mulling over "Christmas Past" early today. One of them had an observation, common to more than one family. "I made two bad mistakes this Christmas," he said thoughtfuly. "I gave my two-year-old boy a drum and I gave my five-year-old boy a drum."

TWO CARS COLLIDE

An estimated $200 damage resulted when two cars collided at King and Rubidge Sts. Thursday morning. Frederick Meagher, 113 Aylmer St., was driving south on Rubidge St., Mrs. Mary Newson, Lakefield Highway, was driving east on King St. The two cars collided at the intersection. Constable Cecil Bowyer investigated.

KARSH EXHIBIT

Beginning Saturday, visitors to the public library will see the first Peterborough showing of a new venture in camera portraiture by Canada's world-famous photographer, Yousuf Karsh. It is a panorama display of work and workers in a large Canadian industry and will be open to the public until Jan. 9.

RETURNING TO NOVA SCOTIA

Recently graduate from an instrument flying course at RCAF Station, Centralia, Flying Officer Doug Morrison, 480 Donegal St., is returning to Greenwood, Nova Scotia. F/O Morrison has been on holiday leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison. He is an Air Search and Rescue pilot and one of the RCAF helicopter flyers.

SNOW HIDES SIGN

Two cars were in a minor collision Thursday night at the Centre Line of Smith township and Highway 28. Clarence Boorman, 43, 378 Downie St., told OPP Constable T. H. Armstrong that he was driving south on the Centre Line but didn't see the stop sign in time because of the banked up snow. He skidded out onto the highway colliding with a car driven by Norman Parkinson, 34, Burleigh Falls. Neither man was injured but the front end of Parkinson's car was dented to the extent of $75. The front right fender of Boorman's vehicle was dented.

SIX PEOPLE IN TWO DAYS have escaped unhurt in motor vehicle-train collisions at the level crossing, Bethune and McDonnell Sts. Above is the partly-demolished car of Wayne Kellett, 23, Patterson St. that ran into the side of a northbound work-train Thursday afternoon. Kellett and two passengers got out without a scratch. A truck driver and two passengers escaped with similar luck Wednesday night. There is no automatic signal at the intersection and houses obscure a driver's view of trains, particularly drivers going east. Kellett skidded on the icy road, striking the first car on the train and doing nearly $500 damage to his vehicle.

2nd Car Slides Into Train At Crossing In Two Days

Wayne Kellett, 23, Patterson St., and two passengers narrowly escaped injury Thursday afternoon when their car slid into a train at McDonnel and Bethune Sts. The front end of Kelletts' car was demolished and damage is estimated at nearly $500. It was the second accident of this kind in two days at the CNR intersection.

Truck Hit

Wednesday evening John Heffernan, George St., damaged the front end of his truck when he collided with a train. He said he neither heard the train nor saw it approaching.

Heffernan was also carrying two passengers — a total of six people who have barely escaped injury in collisions at the level crossing in two days.

Kellett was driving east on McDonnel St. when he saw the northbound work-train approach from the south. He applied his brakes but the tires would not hold on the slippery surface of snow and ice.

Rather than risk running into the train broadside, Kellett did not attempt to swerve. He struck the train in the middle of the first car following the engine.

"Another two feet and I'd have been able to come to a dead stop," Kellett told Constable Cec. Bowyer.

The two front fenders and grill were completely torn off the car; the radiator was tilted back, and the frame received some damage.

There is no automatic signal at the level crossing warning drivers of approaching trains.

Heating System In Library Board

Hot on the main floor, comfortable on the second floor and cold in the basement—that's the heating situation at the public library these days.

Librarian William Graff explained today that in order to keep the second floor comfortably heated it is necessary to suffer temperatures of 78, 80 and more degrees on the main floor.

"It's 80 degrees in my office right now," he gasped.

However, the main problem is in the basement. Temperatures can't be raised enough for comfortable working. The return pipe into the central heating system in the new city hall from the library is too high for the basement radiators. As a result they fill up with water and the temperature drops.

This is just a warning to library frequenters, that they may dress accordingly. As for the staff on the main floor and basement, they grin and bear it.

Police Chief Gets Card From UK Counterpart

"The friendly arm of the law reaches a long way," Police Chief John Thompson commented today after receiving a card from Chief Constable F. G. Markin of Peterborough, England, extending best wishes for Christmas and the new year.

The attractively designed folder bears the crest of the police department of Peterborough, England, and shows a snow covered street lamp on the outside, glowing in the darkness. The word "police" is on the street lamp, as a symbol of the important work of the men on the beat, whether they are policemen here, or in Peterborough, England.

Inside, is a picture of Santa Claus emerging from a fire place loaded with toys, as a group of wide-eyed children look on.

Vacinne Blamed In Poultry Loss

NEW GLASGOW, NS, Dec. 28 (CP)—John Proudfoot, prominent chicken farmer, said today bad vaccine from Dominion Government Laboratories at Ottawa is responsible for introducing Newcastle disease into Nova Scotia's chicken flocks.

He said the disease wiped out about one-third of the province's breeder stock.

Mr. Proudfoot and his brother James, the second largest breeding stock producers in the province, lost 7,000 birds, about half of those destroyed in Nova Scotia.

"Our birds were free from the disease until they were inoculated," Mr. Proudfoot said.

Producers, he said, would seek compensation and if necessary take legal steps.

The Federal Agriculture Department reported Dec. 17 that some Nova Scotia poultry flocks which had been vaccinated against Newcastle disease had developed a form of the disease. The department said its health of animals division has specialists investigating the situation, and that while the outbreaks were serious in the individual flocks affected, "the situation as a whole is not considered alarming."

BACK ON JOB

Major Harry Everitt of the Salvation Army has returned to his old post as chaplain of Guelph Reformatory temporarily, as the result of the sudden death of Major George Mundy. Major Mundy was appointed chaplain following the retirement of Major Everitt and served until he died December 10 after a heart seizure. In recent months, Major Everitt has been on duty, attending police court sessions here.

Chief Warns Icicles Are Dangerous

Thousands of icicles, many of them over four feet long and tapering to pencil-point sharpness are pointing downward from eaves in the city, aimed straight at everyone who walks beneath them.

Hoping to avoid serious injuries by drawing attention to the hazard, Chief of Police John Thompson advises homeowners to knock these icy daggers down before they can cause any damage.

On Thursday, two policemen covering beats in the downtown business section were busy pointing out overhanging icicles to store owners and suggesting they have them removed to protect pedestrians on the sidewalks.

Grow Bigger

Throughout the city, eaves of buildings are fringed with jagged rows of sharp icicles that grow bigger every day, as snow on roofs melts in the sun, then freezes into glacial swords, dangling over doorways and walks leading to business and home entrances.

The larger of these dangerous ice formations would weigh several pounds and it is not difficult to imagine what would happen if one fell off, just as someone is directly below.

At worst, the result could be a fatality. At best, anyone struck directly with one of these huge icicles would be seriously injured.

Members Of Masonic Craft Mark Festival Of St. John

John D. Fanning and Balfour Duder were installed as masters of Corinthian and Peterborough masonic lodges at the annual installation held on Thursday afternoon in the Temple.

The installation took place prior to the celebration of the Festival of St. John the Evangelist by the masons of Peterborough and district.

Alex Anderson, a past master of Peterborough Lodge, was installing master and he was assisted by a team of past masters from the two lodges. A past master's jewel was presented to Mr. Anderson by Alex Ellis.

The banquet, held in the Empress Hotel, was presided over by John W. Thornton and the special speaker was the Rev. Henry Cotton, minister of St. Andrew's United Church. Adam Hawley sang several solos and his accompaniments were played by Robert Johnson who also played during the dinner hour.

Toast List

The Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, district chaplain, proposed the toast to the Absent Bretheren, while the toast to the Visiting Brethren was proposed by Charles H. Elliott and replied to by Dr. R. A. Kelly. J. A. Bradshaw introduced the 1952 masters of the three lodges, John D. Fanning, Corinthian; Bulfour Duder, Peterborough, and Gordon Maniece, Royal Arthur. Angus A. Munro proposed the toast to Grand Lodge and this was responded to by Frank A. Payne, of Lakefield district deputy grand master.

Mr. Cotton, who was introduced by E. F. Reid, took as his subject, "Where Are We Now In World Affairs." He told of the world revelation that is taking place, but in spite of all the turmoil and disruption these were great days to be living in. There was no reason to get panicky, he advised, because of the situation in Egypt, in Iran or in Korea. "Democracies have nothing to fear but fear."

The speaker believed that the return of Winston Churchill marked a rallying point for all freedom loving peoples who would face their problems with informed minds and steady eyes.

He asks that Canadians become defence conscious for it is only by being prepared that a third world war can be escaped, and he held that the British Commonwealth of Nations was the greatest guarantor of the four freedoms in the world today.

Ross L. Dobbin thanked the speaker.

22 Strikers Report 11 Start Work

Walked Off Jobs 18 Days Ago UEW Urges Return

All 22 of the wildcat strikers at the CGE plant turned up for work on the morning shift today, but only 11 are actually working.

The welders who walked off their job in the structural steel department on Dec. 10 returned to the plant today on the recommendation of officials of Local 524, UEW. This followed a three-hour meeting Thursday night at the Union Hall, George St., in which about 60 welders, fitters and cranemen from the department participated.

Previously the management had warned the men that they would be fired unless they reported to work "on or before Dec. 28, 1951, at your regular starting time ... to carry on with your work in a normal manner."

Half Given Jobs

When only half of them were given a job to do the welders charged the company with lack of good faith.

The three man committee of the welders (Bill Anderson, Roy Ballantyne and Cec. Harvey) said the welders had gone back and reported for work as suggested by the company.

"But," said Mr. Anderson, speaking on behalf of the others, "a company representative said they had not made preparations for a full return to work, and until a discussion is held with higher officials 11 of the welders must remain idle."

At noon today company officials were not available for comment.

The dispute is over a change in the price paid welders for a welding job on rotors. Both sides claim a violation of the company-union contract. Management say the men should return to work and file a grievance if they feel they have a legitimate complaint. On the other hand, the welders say they have been doing the same welding job for two and a half years and the company is breaking the agreement by suddenly lowering the price.

Local 524 officials told the company they did not authorize the strike and had repeatedly urged the men to return to work.

The recommendation Thursday night was that the men should "report for work at the regular starting time Friday and carry on their work in a normal manner as suggested by the company."

Leo Herr Heads Red Patch Club

Leo Herr is the new president of the Red Patch Club following the annual meeting.

Other officers elected were Gil Downer, past president; Fred Marsden, vice-president; George Foster, treasurer; Al Nelson, secretary and Mel Morrow, Si Green, Mike Gahagan, Stan Roscoe and Dave Metcalfe, executive members

Meeting To Discuss Making Peterborough Permanent Site Of Quinte Seed Fair

A proposal to establish the Quinte Seed Fair in Peterborough on a permanent basis will be discussed here by directors and others interested in the project Monday Jan. 7 in the office of Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative.

This agricultural event is customarily held toward the end of March.

Tentative approval has been recorded by the directors of the fair, and conditional assent has been given by the Peterborough Exhibition Board.

As secretary of the local temporary committee, Mr. Paterson has been trying to devise means of expanding the project beyond seed grain interest to the farmers of a large area of Central Ontario.

The extent to which the city of Peterborough might become interested in a four-day exhibition in the interest of agriculture has only been mentioned. If the fair could be enlarged as it was here four years ago, it is regarded as a means of strengthening the position of Peterborough as the centre of farm interests for eight or nine counties. Its location and facilities attract the Central Ontario Holstein championships in October, and the Peterborough Exhibition in late August.

Thank You

Eight Board of Works employees who work on the snow loader have a bouquet to toss in the direction of Alderman Norm Graham. One night when they were working, Mr. Graham came along about two am and asked if they had had any coffee. When they said they hadn't, he went and got some for them. About four am he came back, this time with a pot of cocoa. They wanted Ald. Graham to know they appreciated it.

Elect Two Men Lakefield Fills Council

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 28 (ENS) — Lakefield settled its council vacancies Thursday, electing David Miller and Judson Hull to the two seats left vacant after the village's first nomination meeting.

Mr. Miller led the polls with 236 votes to Mr. Hull's 228. Fred Dainton and James Sharman, unsuccessful candidates, received 35 and 28 votes respectively.

Next week, the new reeve, Elwood Northey, will take office. He was elected December 17 with a 101 vote majority over 1951 Reeve William C. Grant. Mr. Grant has been reeve of the village since 1946.

Two Acclaimed

Two members of council were acclaimed at the December 3 nomination meeting—J. Lester Fraser and Kenneth Morris.

At the same meeting, Ralph Millage and Ralph Jackman were acclaimed to the public school board, and on December 20, at the second nomination meeting, the Rev. W. W. Walker was acclaimed to the vacant post on the board.

Also on December 3, Donald Hendren was acclaimed hydro commisisoner.

Village clerk Harry Hill calculated that a mere 28.4 per cent of the eligible voters cast their ballots. Most of Thursday's voters were women.

Three Businesses Join X-Ray Plan

Peterborough branches of the CNR, the Ontario Hydro Commission and the Bell Telephone have announced that they will participate in the pre-employment x-ray project sponsored by the Peterborough County TB association.

Charles Elliott, vice-president of the association, explained that this project had been supported almost 100 per cent. by industries in the city. This means that every new employee of a Peterborough industry will have to have an x-ray before starting to work.

"This announcement by the three Peterborough branches that they wish to enter the project is our first venture into business establishments," he said. We are hoping to have the 1952 mass survey of the county in the spring and following that survey we are planning to solicit all city business and retail setablishments to take advantage of these pre-employment x-rays."

Norwood Calls Nominations, 4 Townships

Norwood's nomination meeting is being held tonight in the village hall at 7.30. Four townships —Ennismore, Asphodel, Douro and Smith—are holding their meetings Monday.

Norwood will nominate a reeve, four councillors and two public school trustees. Election in the village if necessary will be on January 27.

Douro's nomination meeting was originally to have been held tonight, but the date was switched this week. There a reeve, deputy reeve, three councillors and five public school trustees for each school areas will be nominated. Election date is January 7.

Asphodel's meeting is slated for the Westwood town hall Monday, and the election there will also be January 7. Seats on the council are a reeve and four councillors. Three public school trustees must also be named.

Smith township's nominations will be held in the county council chambers at the court house from 1 to 2 pm on Monday. Election is January 7, and vacancies are for a reeve, deputy reeve and three councillors.

Nominations for Ennismore township will be held in the township hall Monday at 1 pm. Vacancies there are for a reeve and four councillors. Election date is January 7.

Cheery Couple 50 Years Wed

LINDSAY, Dec. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bingham, Lindsay, are celebrating their 53rd wedding anniversary today.

The celebration will be a quiet because Mr. Bingham is in bed suffering from injuries received when he was in collision with a delivery truck. He was hospitalized until three days ago, but since returning home Mr. Bingham has been in touch with all his friends by means of a telephone installed at his bedside. He expects to be confined to bed for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Bingham have double anniversaries to celebrate every year together. Their birthdays are on the same day.

Some Stores To Close Last Day Of Year

There has been no definite or consistent plan arranged for the closing of stores in Peterborough Dec. 31, Harry Green, president of the Businessmen's Association said today.

"The hardware stores will be closed and I understand some other stores will also be closed," he said. "But there has been no plan for a completely closed shopping district that day."

Firemen Ask City Council For Insurance

One Of Proposals For Agreement With City For 1952

Liability insurance covering employees of the Fire Department and their dependents, to be paid for by the city, is one of the proposals in the working agreement for 1952 which Peterborough Fire Fighters' Association has submitted to the council.

Firemen are suggesting a group policy to provide for men who suffer occupational disease or injury, with application of its benefits to their dependents.

Another established provision has been to the effect that any employee of the department who suffers disability would receive hospitalization, medical care and full salary for one year. After that period the decision of the Workmen's Compensation Board would govern any cases of right and claim.

The new agreement proposes an extension of this form of benefit not only to those who are injured, but also in the event of fatal injury of any fireman, and that benefits be extended to his dependents. This clause relates to men who are injured in the performance of regular duty, and the addition to it would come into effect in case of death.

Ask C-O-L Bonus

The brief to the council request that the 1951 cost-of-living bonus be incorporated in the basic pay as a salary increase; and also that of 1 per cent increase in pay be continued for every one-point advance in the cost of living.

The reference to fatalities in the plan of benefits follows from the experience of the association in Zacks' building fire last May when four men were killed, three members of the department, and the fourth a voluntary helper.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Stewart Nelson's Former Herd Sire Sells for $3,300 in Michigan — Reg McCann President of Northumberland Crop Improvement Association — Farmers Open Margarine Plant in Saskatoon — Holsteins Average $759 in Michigan Sale.

Top price for a female at the dispersal sale of the purebred Holstein herd of C. B. Smith, Williamston, Michigan was $3,650 received for Blackie Dewdrop Mercedes. This five-year-old cow was bred by C. Jantzi & Son, Gads Hill Station, Ont., and developed in the herd of Gordon W. Smith, Milverton, Ont. She was first prize dry Aged Cow at the Royal Winter Fair this year and grand champion at six US state fairs. The purchaser was J. A. Martig, Louisville, Ohio.

The seven-year-old Canadian bred herdsire, Keendale Lochinvar, brought $3,300, going to the Michigan Artificial Breeders' Assoc., East Lansing, Mich. This animal was bred by Stweart Nelson, Keene, Ont., and before going to the Smith herd was used by L. B. Reid, Ripley, Ont., in whose herd he sired Maple Lea L. G. Rosine, the All-Canadian four-year-old for 1950. Top price of the day was $3,950 paid for the seven year old bull Pabst Governor Lad who is a son of the noted Wisconsin Admiral Burke Lad. He went to J. Warren Nordyke, Springfield, Mo.

A daughter of Rembco Texal Sovereign bred by Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Todmorden, Ont., and nominated for All-American in the junior yearling class this year brought $1,900. A three-year-old bred by Gordon Smith, Milverton, Ont., brought $1,050 and a five-year-old bred by L. R. Reid, Ripley, Ont., $860.

Only one animal came to Canada, this was a six year old cow jointly purchased by J. E. Houck, Brampton, and W. S. Hall, Oakville, Ont. at $500. The 67 head sold realized $46,565 for a general of $695.

BUY CLUB CALVES

Through the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture, 33 Holstein heifer calves have been purchased in eastern Ontario for Saskatchewan boys and girls who are taking part in Calf Club work.

The calves were selected by W. D. Davies of the Dominion Livestock branch and W. Ray Wilson, Kenmore, Ont. Also assisting was Earle Roger of the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture.

This group of high class calves should provide a stimulous to the Calf Club work in Saskatchewan.

FARMERS IN MARGARINE

Saskatchewan Federated Co-Operatives and Dairy Pool are realists. They will be producing margarine in Saskatoon by the middle of January, using the products from the Wheat Pool's vegetable oil plant there as much as possible.

The margarine machinery is being set up in former Hill's Dairy building, "but arrangements for supplies of the margarine ingredients will not be completed for several weeks," as recently reported in the Saskatoon Phoenix.

NEW NIPISSING CLUB

J. E. Nelson, Port Perry, Holstein fieldman, assisted in organizing a new club of 35 members in Nipissing district. Two years ago the first test for TB resulted in rather heavy losses to many breeders, and replacements had to be made. During the past year more than 200 Holsteins have been bought in southern Ontario to make up that loss. Another advance in the year is the present membership of 109 herd owners in Maple Cattle Breeders' Association. Interest is high and it is thought that more foundation females will be bought in the near future.

DAIRY CATTLE PRICES

As evidence of dairy cattle prices as the year ends, 67 Holsteins averaged $759 for a total of $50,865 as the dispersal sale of the For-Mar herd owned by F. B. Merkley, Flint, Mich. Top price was $3,000 by Henry Bartel, Hastings, Minn. for the yearling herd sire, Franlo Treasure Chieftan. His breeding is Canadian on both sides to Brown Corporation, LaTuque, Que., and Mount Victoria Farms.

At the Wolverine Fall Invitational sale of Williamston, Mich., 87 Holsteins sold for $53,715 at an average of $617. J. J. E. McCague, Aliston, Ont., received $2,000 for Glenafton Pacesetter, son of Marksman, from Sylvester Farms, Hinsdale, New Hampshire.

J. E. Houck of Brampton also drew $2,000 from Russell Kistner of Elkheart, Ind., for the three year old Boothdale Yalta Pal, the highest priced female. McCague also took $1,500 for the second high female. C. J. Cerswell of Beeton, Ont., sold a bred heifer, a grand daughter of Marksman for $1,150 to Russell G. Reiff of Burnettsville, Ind.

PUBLIC DISCUSSION

"The system of private price-fixing by manufacturers and the system of price-fixing in the realm of farm products are as far apart as the poles."

That was part of the statement of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture on December 4, before the proposed ban on fixed retail prices by manufacturers had reached the heated stage of debate prior to Christmas.

The Federation release pointed out that floor prices for any farm products are arranged under public legislation and by a public board, only after consideration by both consumers and producers.

Fluid milk prices were fixed by legally established provincial milk boards only after public hearings were held, receiving evidence from producers, distributors and consumers.

NORTHUMBERLAND OFFICERS

Reg. McCann was elected president of Northumberland Crop Improvement Association at its recent annual meeting. Elmer Laver is vice-president for 1952. Delegates to the Ontario convention are William McKelvie and Don Rutherford of Campbellford.

A. H. Martin, director of Ontario crops, seeds and weeds branch gave a talk on sod farming. Alf Gooding won the CNE shield for identification of county crops.

A group of Northumberland young people who were in the six calf clubs and two swine clubs last year took up a collection among themselves and sent a present to Dick Heard, assistant agricultural representative in the county last summer.

Sam Philp looked after the subscriptions and forwarded the gift to Mr. Heard who is in his senior year at OAC.

Plans are under way for similar club work next year, and it is hoped that Mr. Heard will be back with the juniors again.

BITS OF CROP WISDOM

"Take care of the soil, and it will take care of you," was one of the kernels of theory and practice in an address by Professor Norman Thomas of OAC soils department, at the Elgin county crop improvement annual meeting.

"We might be millionaires and accumulate barns and machines overnight, but we can't rebuild soils in less than five years."

"Tillage is more important on a heavy soil than a bagful of fertilizer."

"What we need are more judging competitions."

"The principle that keeps manure, keeps silage . . . Keep the air out pile."

And speaking of money: "When it comes hard, it doesn't go easily" . . . "Your heart is nearest where your income lies."

"It's our business to know our business better than we do." . . . "Low prices are soil deteriorating; so are high subsidies."

Jim Kelly, winner in the Elgin high yield oat club, is credited with this quotation: "You don't get high yields in any crop in just one year. You must plan ahead."

Crop Improvers Meet Jan. 22-24

Annual convention of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association will be held at Toronto January 22 to 24. It will be held in conjunction with the Retail Farm Equipment Dealers' Show at the Coliseum, Exhibition Park.

An impressive array of practical and technical speakers will participate.

The banquet which will be held at the King Edward Hotel January 24 will have as guest speaker Dr. W. M. Myers, Beltsville, Maryland, on the subject of "Grassland Farming." Entertainment for the banquet will be provided by the International Harvester Company Male Choir, Hamilton.

As usual there will be special sessions for seed growers, potato growers and turnip growers as well as the general sessions. One-half day will be devoted to a study of soil and cultivation problems.

J. M. Appleton, Wallaceburg, will tell how he produced 600 pounds of beef per acre on pasture.

FARM DOMINION

Directly or indirectly, about 80 per cent of the population of Pakistan depends on agriculture for a livelihood.

LAST JUNE Roeland Rag Apple Cherry became the first cow in the world to produce more than 1,000 lbs. butterfat in 305 days on twice-a-day milking. Now her sister Roeland Rag Apple Lilly (above) has rudely jostled Cherry off the throne by raising her mark of 1011 lbs. fat to 1089 lbs. fat from 23,041 lbs. milk, average test 4.72 percent butterfat. These two purebred Holsteins are owned by J. W. Greenwood, Maple, Ont. Cherry made her record as a seven-year-old and Lilly at five years. Other than this pair of sisters no other cow in the world has come within 100 lbs. of producing 1000 lbs. butterfat in 305 days on 2x. Lilly and Cherry are both classified as Excellent, the highest obtainable rating for conformation.

War On Warbles Opened 1951 — Year Of Action On Peterborough Farms

The agricultural year of 1951, now ending in an old fashioned winter with fields deep in snow, is written into farm records of Ontario and the Peterborough district with many aspects of satisfaction.

Ample moisture during the growing season produced excellent crops of hay, pasture and spring grain, although occasional wet weather damaged some of the hay. Fall wheat was disappointing in a yield that averaged a few bushels an acre less than 1950.

Livestock prices held up satisfactorily, especially for beef cattle toward which there was a fairly broad trend reported throughout the province.

Outstanding local project during the early part of the year was the campaign against the warble fly in most sections of Peterborough's better agricultural area. Farmers entered into it with determination and secured the support of the municipal councils. That enterprise, based on financial considerations, was carried through successfully.

Response of farmers of this district to the artificial breeding of cattle in association with the Maple organization has been steadily increasing. Some new members signed up here this last week of the year.

Evidences of Change

Adoption of this modern method of breeding has not boomed after the first enlistment of members, but its progress has been steady, accumulating into an impressive membership in this county and its adjoining townships to the west and north. Acceptance was left to the option of farmers, but encouragement to those showing interest was maintained through the local office of the Department of Agriculture, the efficiency of the technical service, and the approval of farmers who could testify to its merits from their own results.

At the outset of this opportunity from Maple, farmers spoke only in terms of what had been accomplished at Cornell University, elsewhere in New York State, in Wisconsin and others areas south of the border, and also in Europe.

That was a potent inspiration when the Maple service was first extended from its York county headquarters. Today, hundreds of farmers in this part of the province can discuss artificial insemination from their own experience. It has been another factor offering financial advantage, including the relegation of the scrub bull to the packing plant.

Rural ideas, attitudes and practices are gradually undergoing change, in some respects at an accelerated pace this year.

The ensiling of grass last summer was an immediate development of the grassland farming that has been developing as economic adjunct of dairying. It is a new and keener interest in an old resource. Some farmers have been quick to enter into the spirit of experiment. Ten years ago who would have thought of top prizes at Peterborough Exhibition being distributed for bales of hay? Even the old ideal of farming as a way of life is loosening some of its moorings in the necessity of economic pressure. No one would wish to see that concept discarded, but present day farming with emphasis on costs has been compelling realists to recognize the necessity of more profitable management of land and herds and flocks.

However, that is something for the experts to discuss, but it does appear to be a fact that the scope of change in farming has been quickening in these recent years more broadly than some landsmen realize.

Costs Higher, Too

Farm costs were higher in 1951, and farm extension programs pointed a sharp finger at practical ways and means of meeting them. Incidentally, Norwood Agricultural Society, (Norwood Fair) still under the energetic leadership of G. A. Brethen, featured this year a demonstration of the merits of mineral fertilizers. It was aimed at increasing production as a means of reducing costs per bushel, but the season was somewhat adverse to attaining the highest hopes that were expected.

However, it was a forward-looking project by a group of farmers in east Peterborough who are in earnest about doing things for themselves and their section of the county.

Activity Increasing

Signs point to more initiative abroad, the doing of things and the seeking about them, a reflection of the spirit of change:—artificial breeding, the combined attack on the warble fly, grassland farming, more Farm Forums in the county, larger attendances at that series of "health of animals" meetings arranged by Frank C. Paterson: more people looking in at the Harry Blewett farm; approximately 250 young rural folks in club work, including the Peterborough Junior Farmers, and their club leaders.

Electrical installations on farms, purchase of power equipment, labor-saving machinery, emphasis on the sowing of quality seed, these are other indications of a plain fact that in spite of problems and difficulties, farming in this district is on the march.

Some trend, too, has been mentioned of younger farmers looking toward larger acreages, probably for more economic effect of their investment in agricultural machines. In some instances it is a problem to decide what types of machines are most practically useful, having an eye to eventual profit of the farm.

Personal Memories

Congratualtions—to the junior club leaders and the splendid work they have done. Their rewards will be cumulative in the years when the young folks they have had under their wings grow up into a larger place in the community; to Lorne Pimmett and M. H. Pimmett & Sons for their great success with their Strathore Shorthorns at the Royal Winter Fair and the International Livestock Show in Chicago; to Louis Kadesky and his Louada Farm manager, Ken Hunt, on that interesting picnic and Shorthorn field day up on the shore of Pigeon lake, in Harvey township; to Harold Lewis, Federation fieldman, for the constructive work he has done.

Memories of the year are saddened by the absence of men like Joseph T. Tully, George Mullen, Harold Cathcart. They and others who died in 1951 are gratefully remembered for their personalities and their accomplishments.

In its office of president, Mr. Mullen was one of those who helped build up the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture.

PRECIOUS TOPSOIL

Conservationists estimate it takes 400 years or more for natural processes to produce one inch of top soil.

Hay-Pasture Mixtures Offer Heavier Yields

Hay-pasture mixtures, as the name implies, are those which are harvested for hay for one or two years and then are used as pasture for two or three years or as long as they are productive. They contain tall-growing grasses like timothy, orchard grass and brome grass with alfalfa, red clover and alsike along with Ladino. They produce abundance of good quality hay to be followed by pasture in later years, as reported from Ottawa.

The so-called permanent pasture mixtures consist of timothy, orchard grass, brome grass and meadow fescue plus the bottom grasses, such as Kentucky or Canada bluegrass, red fescue or red top. The rate of alfalfa is reduced considerably and the legumes are usually white Dutch, wild white clover or Ladino. Such mixtures may develop somewhat more slowly, but a good permanent sod is formed and is left-down as pasture for a long time. Grazing may sometimes start even from the year of establishment and these pastures are not cut for hay.

Tests made by the division of forage plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, clearly show that hay-pasture mixtures always produce considerably more—often more than double—the amount of dry matter as hay, than the permanent pasture mixtures as pasture, during the same period of years. Furthermore, pastures for the next 2 or 3 years following a crop or two of hay, usually exceed the production from permanent pasture mixtures which are in continuous pasture. It is only after the stands are at least 5 years old that the permanent pasture mixtures begin to equal, and only seldom outyield, the hay-pasture mixtures. By this time the latter mixtures are usually plowed up and reseeded again.

Thus unless immediate pasture is required and the intention is to be left down for a long time, all studies made at Ottawa, indicate that hay-pasture mixtures, managed as indicated above, are definitely preferred.

Agricultural Meetings Begin Early In January

January, the month that looks back into the year that has gone, and forward into the year that is almost here, is appropriate for the stock-taking time of annual meetings of farmers' associations. February follows with its own schedule.

The long list of these events surveying rural interests and affairs opens:

January 3 and 4 — Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League, Royal York, Toronto.

January 4 and 5 — Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, Royal York.

Ontario Federation of Agriculture is holding its 15th annual convention, January 8-11, in the King Edward. It begins with the Junior Farmers' conference and Women's Day Tuesday, January 8, in the rooms assigned separately to them.

General program of the Federation opens Wednesday, January 9, at 10 am, continuing in the afternoon. The banquet is at 6.30.

Most of the Thursday subjects are concerned with co-operation. Resolutions will be dealt with on Friday morning, and officers elected at the directors' luncheon.

Dr. H. H. Hannam will be the speaker at the women's luncheon Tuesday, January 8, at 12.30 pm.

For the Junior program, there is an interesting subject. Tuesday January 8, 2 to 3 pm "Keeping the Farm in the Family," by Prof. C. E. Hendry, School of Social Work, University of Toronto, and Prof. A. C. Robertson, Ontario Agricultural College.

Don Milburn, of Smith township, is chairman of the resolutions committee, meeting at 3.30 pm.

Other meetings and their dates for the following six weeks are:

January 16-18—Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association, King Edward Hotel.

January 22-25—Ontario Crop Improvement Association in Coliseum, CNE, Toronto.

January 24—Provincial Junior Farmer machinery adjustment and safe driving competition, main ring, Coliseum, Toronto.

January 16-19—Dairy Farmers of Canada, Windsor Hotel, Montreal.

January 28, in Royal York Hotel, Toronto—Ontario Jersey Cattle Club, Ontario Aberdeen Angus Association, Ontario Shorthorn Club, Ontario Swine Breeders' Association, Dual Purpose Shorthorn Club of Canada.

January 29, same place, Toronto—Canadian Jersey Cattle Club, Canadian Hackney Horse Association, Canadian Pony Society.

January 30, Royal York, Toronto—Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, Ontario Sheep Breeders' Association, Canadian Hunter Society, Canadian Standard Bred Society, Canadian Hunter and Light Horse Improvement Society.

January 31—Royal York, Toronto—Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, Ontario Clydesdale Club, Ontario Horse Breeders' Association, Ontario Percheron Club, Ontario Cattle Breeders' Association.

Feburary 1, Royal York, Toronto—Ontario Cattle Breeders' Association.

February 4-5—Ontario Plowmen's Association, King Edward, Toronto.

February 7 and 8 — Ontario Association of Agriculture Societies, King Edward, Toronto.

February 13 and 14, Parliament Buildings, Toronto — Ontario Agricultural Council.

February 20 and 21, Royal Connaught, Hamilton—Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers' Association.

Notable Moslems Head 1951 Record Of World Deaths

By GLADYS LENNON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Death removed many political leaders from the scene in 1951, but those most likely to have an effect on world affairs were leaders in the Moslem world, who died by assassination.

Gen. Ali Razamara, 50, Premier of Iran, was shot and killed March 7 by a member of a fanatic sect favoring nationalization of Iran's oil industry. Death of Razamara, an opponent of nationalization, cleared the way for the new government to take over resources of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

King Abdullah Ibn Hussein, 69, of Jordan was assassinated July 20 in Jerusalem by a follower of the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, Abdullah's rival for control of Arab Palestine. His death removed one of Britain's staunchest friends in the Middle East.

Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan, 56, of Pakistan, who exerted a powerful influence in maintaining peace with India, was shot and killed Oct. 16 as he addressed a meeting at Rawalpindi in Northern Pakistan.

Portuguese Figures

Two notable figures in recent Portuguese history died during the year. Former Queen Marie Amelia, 86, whose husband King Carlos I was assassinated in 1908, died at Versailles, France, Oct. 25. The President of the Republic Antonio de F. Carmona, 81, died at Lisbon, April 18.

Beset by growing troubles abroad, Britain at home lost the leadership of the man who had guided her foreign policy since 1945. Ernest Bevin, Lord Privy Seal, who had been Foreign Secretary in the Labor government until failing health forced his retirement in March, died in London of a heart attack April 14.

The former Prime Minister of Australia, Labor party leader Joseph B. Chifley, died June 13 in Canberra, aged 65. Viscount Addison, 82, Labor party leader in the House of Lords, died Dec. 11 in London.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes, 85, former vice-president of the United States, and originator of the "Dawes Plan" for reparations following the First World War, died at Chicago, April 23.

Diplomat Deaths

In the diplomatic field, Robert Gerald Riddell, 42, Canada's permanent delegate to the United Nations, died of a heart attack at Virginia Beach, Va., March 16. Death also took former diplomats Baron Inverchapel, who had served as Britain's ambassador to China, Russia and the United States, Leland Harrison, US Minister to Switzerland who transmitted the Japanese surrender note to the Allied powers and James W. Gerrard, 84, United States ambassador to Germany prior to the US entry into the First World War.

Death removed many prominent figures in the military and naval spheres.

Probably the most widely known was former Marshal Henri-Philippe Petain, 9, French hero of Verdun in the First World War, who died July 23 at his prison-villa on Ile d'Yeu off the west coast of France. Head of the French cabinet which surrendered to the Germans in the Second World War Petain was convicted of treason. His death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, 54, US chief of naval operations, died at Naples July 22. He had just completed a series of western-defence talks in Madrid, Paris and London.

Other Losses

British and Commonwealth countries losses included:

Field Marshal Sir Thomas Albert Blamey, 67, commander of Australian forces during two world wars and Allied southwest Pacific commander from 1942 to 1945, who died in Melbourne May 27, and Field Marshal Lord Birdwood, 85, Anzac leader at Gallipoli in the First World War, who died in London, May 17.

Admiral Sir Max K. Horton, 67, Britain's Chief of North Atlantic convoys in the Second World War, who died July 30 in London.

Admiral P. W. Nelles, 59, Canada's Chief of Naval Staff for 10 years, who died June 13 at Victoria, BC.

A wartime Axis leader, Field Marshall Baron Carl Gustav Emil Mannerheim, 83, Finnish National hero and former president of Finland, died Jan. 27 at Lausanne, Switzerland.

Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, eldest son of Kaiser Wilhelm II, who supported Hitler in 1932, died at Hechingen, Germany, July 20 at the age of 69.

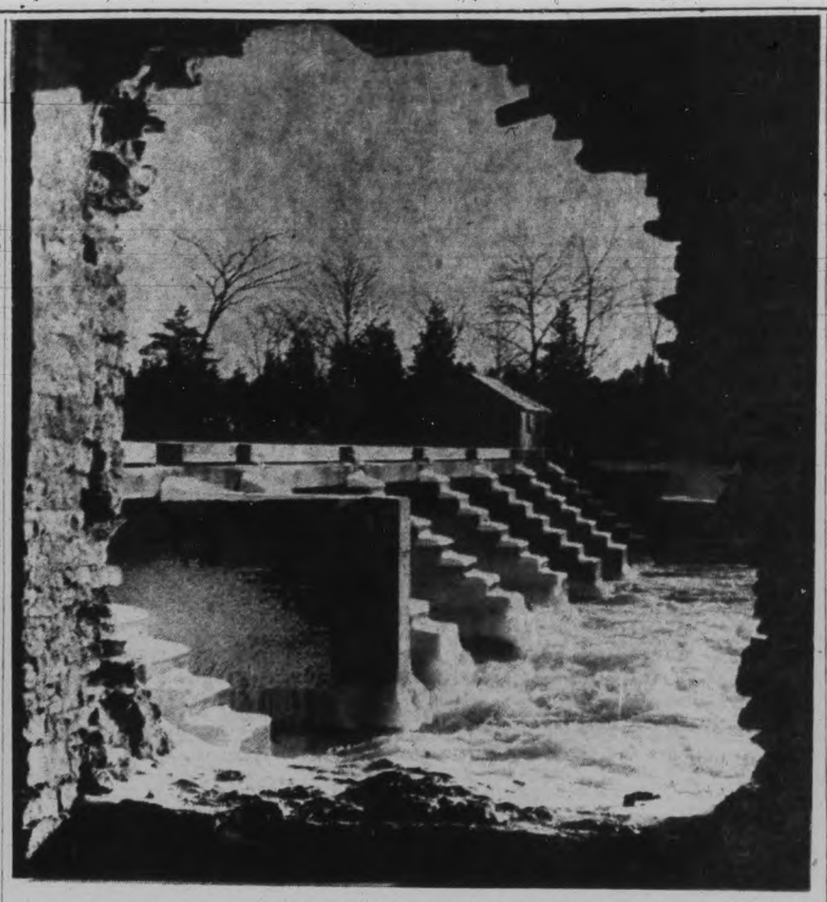
Three Canadians were among business and industrial leaders removed by death: John P. Bickell, 66, mining financier who served on Britain's wartime airplane supply board; Sir Hugh Montagu Allan, 91, Montreal ship owner and sportsman, donor of the Allan Cup, senior amateur hockey trophy; and William Henry Wright, 75, once-penniless immigrant who made millions in Canada's gold mines, founder of the Toronto Globe and Mail.

Fritz Thyssen, 77, who financed Hitler's rise to power, but later broke with him, died in Buenos Aires.

Deaths in the newspaper and literary world included William Randolph Hearst, 88, founder of an international newspaper and magazine chain and a dominant figure in United States journalism, at Beverly Hills, Calif.; Edwin L. James, 61, managing editor of the New York Times at New York, and Harold Ross, editor of the New Yorker, at Boston.

John Scott, a former president of The Canadian Press, who rose from newsboy to managing editor of the Toronto Mail and Empire, died in Toronto September 23, at the age of 77.

Sinclair Lewis, 65, one of America's leading novelists, Andre Gide, 81-year-old French author of more than 50 books, and Lloyd C. Douglas, 73, retired Lutheran minister, formerly of Montreal, author of several widely read religious and Biblical novels, died during the year.



The world of music lost many outstanding figures, among them Russian-born Serge Koussevitzky 76, one of the greatest conductors of his day, Sigmund Romberg, 64, Hungarian-born American composer of 78 musicals and 2,000 songs, and Arthur Schnabel, 69, world-famous pianist.

In Entertainment World

Deaths in the entertainment world include Fanny Brice, 59, known to radio listeners as Baby Snooks; Sir Charles Cochran, 78, theatrical producer; Warner Baxter, 58, motion-picture actor; Eddie Duchin, 41, band leader; Cyril Maude, 88, British actor; Louis Jouvet, 63, French actor-director; Mady Christians, 51, Viennese Broadway star; Leon Errol, 70, film comedian and dancer; and Ivor Novello, 57, British musical comedy star, composer and dramatist.

Dorothy Dix (Mrs. Elizabeth Meriwether Gilmer), 90, probably the most widely read woman of her time through her syndicated column of advice to the lovelorn, died at New Orleans December 6.

Canadian deaths in sport circles included those of Walter Renwick Knox, 73, former track and field star and Olympic coach, who died March 3 at St. Petersburg, Fla., and Cmdr. J. KK. L. Ross, owner of Sir Barton, the only Canadian horse that ever won the Kentucky Derby, who died in Jamaica, BWI, on July 25.

Special Services Held In Marmora

MARMORA, Dec. 28 (ENS)—Church services in the village of Christmas Eve were well attended. Churches were beautifully decorated for the occasion with evergreen, chrysanthemums and other seasonable decorations.

At St. Paul's a carol service preceded choral communion. During the latter service the choir sang two anthems by Caleb Simper "Glad Tidings" and "Arise Shine". Canon J. M. Brownlee, gave an appropriate address.

At the Sacred Heart Church, the Rev. J. A. O'Neill celebrated Midnight Mass. The crib was decorated with evergreen and lights.

At St. Andrew's United Church the Rev. G. D. Young, B.A., B.D., conducted a Christmas Eve service in which Christmas hymns and readings were used and for the meditation of the congregation, a pictorial interpretation of the Holy Child of Bethlehem was given.

Coal Production In US Shows Increase During 1951

PITTSBURGH — (AP)—The United States coal industry finished the year with surging production and rising employment amid some optimistic predictions that 1952 will see coal producers regaining lost markets while living in peace with labor.

One notable achievement was chalked up in 1951. President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers signed an industry-wide contract without calling his 400,000 soft-coal miners out on strike.

It was the first time in the industry's history of organized bargaining that an agreement was reached without a crippling, country-wide strike.

Total 1951 production is expected to run about 525,000,000 tons. Output in 1950 was about 506,000,000 tons. Production fell off during the warm months of this year but perked up in the fall—thanks to the defence program and aid to Europe.

The problem of foreign residual oil continued to plague coal men.

They contend the cheap competitive fuel is dumped on the domestic market at cut-rate prices. But late in 1951, the industry thought it saw a trend reversal from the 1949-50 period when many coal customers switched to oil.

Research made some big advances in the last 12 months. Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. began building a demonstration pipeline to carry crushed coal in water. The same firm announced new plans for gasifying coal so that it can be converted into synthetic gasoline, other fuels and valuable chemical products.

Arms Robbery Prank

CAMP BORDEN, Dec. 27 — (CP) — Army authorities said today that two Sten-guns and a quantity of ammunition taken from army stores during the weekend have been returned. They said the guns were taken by army personnel "as a prank." No charges were laid.

Snow Costs $300,000

TORONTO, Dec. 27 (CP)—Harold D. Bradley, commissioner of Toronto's street cleaning department, said today some 42 inches of snow has fallen on the city in December. Board of control was told it cost $300,000 to remove it. It hasn't all been removed. Many side streets still are piled.

2 Erieau Residents Recove. from Fumes

CHATHMA, Dec. 28 (CP)—Two Erieau residents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Coll, are recovering Thursday from the effects of coal gas fumes. They were found unconscious and near death in their home Wednesday by Mrs. Coll's brother, Jim Graham.

They had closed the damper on their coal stove, allowing the fumes to escape.

Dr. A. L. Storey of Blenheim revived the couple.

"Another 15 minutes and it would have been too late," Dr. Storey said.

Coll, a fireman on Great Lakes boats, had just moved into the home and was unfamiliar with the stove operation.

Improve Balance Through Exercise

Awkwardness is a source of embarrassment to many women. They stumble into other riders whenever a bus gives a slight lurch; the bump clumsily into perfectly-visible furniture; they sideswipe their friends as they walk with them on the street.

If your daily life is plagued with these annoying little incidents you can improve your balance through exercise.

Try overcoming clumsiness with this one. Place your right thumb upon your nose and let your hand dangle downward, fingers spread wide apart. Bend your body slightly forward from your waist.

Then, standing upon your left leg, raise your right knee until it touches the pinky of your outstretched right hand. Try this for several minutes, then reverse the procedure, touching your left knee to your left hand.

Another exercise, which will take a bit of practise before you master it, requires bending one leg to a squatting position while you hold the other leg straight in front of you.

As you bend your knee, bring the heels of the same foot upward. This will help you keep your balance as your body follows your leg downward. The straight leg should be held clear of the floor as you stoop.

GOOD NOSES

Reindeer have a very keen sense of smell, and can smell moss even through several feet of snow.

PALM TREES are printed on Junior's handsome shirt worn with twill boxer shorts with an appliqued palm. The shirt is in washable seersucker.

Make The Most Of Gift Perfume By Correct Use

How to use that lovely perfume that was under the Christmas tree and preserve its fragrance:

Perfume should be applied to the "pulse spots" such as inside wrists, inside crook of arms, at the temples, at the side of neck, even behind the knees—wherever the heat of the body tends to accentuate the fragrance. A woman really should consider herself not quite dressed until she has applied her perfume—it is the same sort of accent as her lipstick. With a atomizer, it may be sprayed in a fine mist about her person so the scent clings to her clothing. The smart woman always applies a drop or two on the handkerchief so that each time she opens her handbag, a lovely "whiff" greets her.

A cotton pellet saturated with perfume may be inserted into her brassiere. The heat of the body makes the fragrance rise so that the wearer may enjoy it herself. (Then, day, the scented cotton pellet may be tossed in her lingerie drawer to make double use of her fragrance).

A woman should realize that the joy of perfume is in the wearing of it—not seeing the pretty bottle on her dressing table. Too often, women are hesitant to wear perfume every day, during the day. Too often, they save it for "special occasions." The smart woman makes every occasion a "special occasion."

First, using a good perfume every day costs no more than a newspaper. Second, if it is saved for only special times, the alcohol evaporates out of the bottle, spoiling the fine balance of a good perfume.

In a recent scientific survey, it was found that sixty-five per cent of the businessmen questioned had no complaint about fragrance in the office. BUT the wise woman remembers that fragrance is a personalized thing that should express HER.

A bit of perfume may be touched to the hair for accent — this again surrounds a woman with an aura of fragrance.

Though perfume is longer lasting than toilet water and cologne, it does not last forever. It must be replenished just as lipstick and powder are. This is easy to do with all the purse vails now on the market. One carried in the handbag is for use during the day when away from the dressing table. This gives a woman herself a "lift" —and watch the faces of those around when they smell a new, fresh whiff of perfume.

When the perfume bottle is empty, keep it with lingerie — the scent will act as a sachet for several days.

Try Banana Pie With Big Dinner

Dessert for New Year's dinner? The traditional ones, much as we hate to part with tradition, seem just too much after a well-rounded meal with all the fixin's. Fruit of some sort seems to provide the right touch of lightness, tartness, and refreshingness.

Banana Cream Pie:

¼ cup cornstarch, 2/3 cup sugar, ¼ tsp. salt, 2 cups milk, scalded, 3 slightly beaten egg yolks 2 tbsps. butter or margarine, ½ tsp. vanilla, 2 or 3 sliced bananas, 1 9" baked pie shell.

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt Gradually add milk. Cook in double boiler until thick, about ten minutes, stirring constantly. Slowly add small amount of hot mixture to egg yolks. Stir into remaining hot mixture. Cook five minutes. Add butter. Cool. Add vanilla and mix. Slice bananas in cooled baked shell and pour filling over. Top with whipped cream and banana slices. Garnish with red and green cherries for a Christmasy touch.

Innovations Noted In Table Styles

NEW YORK— Tables are a lively lot, and whether you want a corner table, step table, end table, or coffee table, you'll find innovations you've never seen before. And the news is not only in styling; it's also in materials.

Never have so many skilfully materials been used so skilfully together to produce such likeable results. Clear and white glass, metal, wood, wicker, raffia, cane, reed, marble, cork, pandamus cloth, tiles and plastic are some of those being combined for decorative contrast in tables.

"Smock-Topper"

PARIS—Lanvin has a novelty in this type of coat, the "smock-topper," which opens to a depth of 12 inches down the side or centre front and has to be hauled on or off over the head. It is a cosy design for walking in the country as the front is closed and cannot flap open.

MRS. ROY TAYLOR, the fourth local woman to give 20 donations of blood to the Red Cross Blood Donor Service, was pictured Thursday afternoon as she checked the 28th donation from Mr. Sam Agnew, a CGE employee. Mrs. Taylor began donating in 1942 when she also worked as a technician at the Red Cross Clinic on Brock St. Now there are weekly clinics at each of the hospitals and local industries supply the quota of donors needed in addition to voluntary donors. Mr. Agnew first volunteered to give his blood in February 1943 and has been a regular donor since.

'At Home' Holiday Highlight 600 Continue The Tradition

Traditional highlight of the Christmas holidays in Peterborough is the Collegiate and Vocational School "At Home." For years the setting for this formal dance was the school gymnasium and ex-students took delight in being in it once again and in visiting the classrooms where the suppers were always served. However, the dance Thursday night was held, as last year, at the Club Aragon where the more than 300 couples found accommodation more suitable.

Blue streamers hanging from the ceiling and revolving silver balls over the bandstand were special decorations for the evening and the dance programs matched this color scheme. During intermission the band played a medley of school and college songs, commencing with PCVS song of course.

Principal Mr. C. S. Browne and Mrs. Browne were at the head of the receiving line, assisted by Dr. R. C. Honey, chairman of the Board of Education, and Mrs. Honey, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rutherford, representing the teaching staff, and students William Frisken and Miss Mamie Frost, president and vice-president of Council.

The couples signing the guest register were:

Miss Mamie Frost and Lavern Perritt, Miss Rolene James and Ron Wood, Miss Joan Hendren and James Deyell, Miss Diane Burnley and Norman Hayward, Miss Joan McMillan and Dennis Dorrington, Miss Marley Jobbitt and Zoltan Temesy, Miss Lois Bearne and Don Blaiklock, Miss Mary Raddon and Bob Boorman, Miss Gwen Todd and Grant Taylor, Miss Margaret Heal and Bob Dummitt, Miss Beverly Pollock and Bob Ross, Miss Maureen Fletcher and Beverly Eddington, Miss Irene Nicholls and Ron Bissett, Miss Joyce Pitchford and Don Bissett, Miss Mary Hunter and Fred Jay, Miss Betty Briggs and Roy Hockaday, Miss Berdene Atchison and Ralph Goodfellow, Miss Joyce Moore and Keith Goodfellow, Miss Margaret Lang and Keith Johnston, Miss Maureen Moncrieff and George Simmons, Miss Dianne Cullen and Ralph McLean, Miss Bev Goodman and Don Clapper, Miss Marilyn Jones and Warren Brown, Miss Mary Addyman and Lonnie Maudsley, Miss Dorothy Huggins and Dick Pulley, Miss Sally Poole and John Milburn, Miss Janet Estlick and John Marwood, Miss Jane McIntyre and Terry Brown, Miss Carolyn Hendren and Doug Graham, Miss Irene LaPointe and Myles Finnie, Miss Mary Cockburn and Sandy Dewar, Miss Betty Merrett and Tom Gracie.

Today's Figures

Today's fashionable figure, as agreed by the top designers in London and Paris, is slim, well-waisted, with rounded hips and shoulders (little or no padding is used). The waist is all-important and is made to look smaller by stressing and sometimes exaggerating the natural curve of the hips.

Diet Deficiency

Serious protein deficiency in the diet can result in retarded growth, susceptibility to infection, fatigue and other ailments. A day's supply for the average person can be obtained in three or four ounces of meat, plus milk and eggs, vegetables and fruit.

ISLAND PIONEER

First attempt at permanent settlement in Newfoundland was made in 1610 by John Guay, merchant from Bristol.

15 Years In San Girl Steps Out For New Year's

TORONTO, Dec. 28 (CP)—After 15 years in sanatorium with tuberculosis, Robina Buchanan is going out for New Year's.

Little wonder she can hardly believe it. Her doctors held little hope for her during the first 14 years. She had almost every type of TB in the book and they considered her recovery almost an impossibility.

But Miss Buchanan kept up her faith. She considered it her job to take the cure and her doctors' to worry. It paid off.

She will spend New Year's with her brother, James Buchanan, in Toronto.

Operation Helps

For the first five years of her illness Miss Buchanan was a patient at Muskoka Hospital, Gravenhurst. She has since been in Weston Sanatorium. It was there just a year ago this Christmas that an operation was performed which has perhaps been the largest factor toward her recovery.

A nurse by profession, and a graduate of Oshawa General Hospital, Miss Buchanan cannot speak highly enough of the doctors who refused to give up trying to get her trouble under control. Through the years Miss Buchanan has had almost every possible treatment. These contributed greatly in preparing her for the operation last Christmas when she underwent an extra pneumonectomy—the stripping of the lining of the chest wall and removing the entire lung.

Since then Miss Buchanan has gained 20 pounds, and with one lung to go on is breathing better than ever before. Ever since the operation her TB tests have been negative.

What was one do in a sanatorium for 15 years? "I don't mind saying I've very little means and so I've spent a good deal of my time making jewelry. My friends sell it for me, and that is how I buy most of my things.

"I read a lot, write a great many letters, and that takes my life outside the San. I live through my friends, their trips, and their experiences. I've trained my mind to mind its own business and stop nagging my body."

Ballet-Length Skirts Vogue Following Royal Choice

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON, Dec. 28—(CP)—The party craze for smart women this festive season is the short evening dress.

Since Elizabeth showed a preference for the shorter style during the Canadian tour and Princess Margaret followed suit on her recent trip to Paris, the seal has been set on ballet-length styles for chic, sophisticated wear.

Not only that, but Norman Hartnell is already designing a number of ballet-length dresses for Princes Elizabeth's tour of Australia and New Zealand next spring.

News available on spring styles, to be shown in late January by London's Big Ten of fashion, gives indication that the short evening dress is the latest thing.

For those whose dress bill generally runs into the three-figure bracket for one number, short dresses make up for their lack of length and bulk in fabulously-rich brocades and exquisite jewel embroidery.

Save Time

For the woman who often leaves the office already dressed for a date, short dresses save time and money. She can, for instance, turn up in a slim, dark grosgrain dress with a tiny, decorous bolero that can be removed to ensure a glamorous appearance.

These dresses, costing about £8, have strapless tops with lace or embroidery trimmings.

Many of the latest top-rank couture designs have subtle, muted toning lighted by exquisite jewel embroidery, and a prominent feature is the undernote of numerous rustling petticoats that give a soft, frou-frou effect.

A foremost choice for a cool spring evening and cold winter nights is a wide, swing ballet skirt in gleaming quilted satin, combined with dark evening sweater in smooth wool with glamorous edging of embroidery.

The wide skirts and the feminine appeal of the new "petticoat era" bring their own fashion notes in accessories. Shoes must be light, composed entirely of narrow straps, or suitably bejewelled. The prim look to most of the double-purpose dresses gives rise to such ornaments as jewelled flowers at neck and wrist.

Curling Irons May Replace Pin Curl Sets

NEW YORK — Women may wind up with curling irons again!

The new coiffures for early spring are as short as they've ever been and twice as curly, according to 57th Street hair-stylist Victor Vito.

He predicts that the "Topsy Cut" will be the hairdo of the coming season — and with the "Topsy Cut," there are too many curls to make a pin-curl set feasible.

So instead of putting up the hair at night, the stylist recommends reviving the electric curling iron to put the ringlet crown around the head.

Even for longer bobs, the iron can add shape and curl to stray hairs. And after the hair is washed —a cold iron is an excellent device to use for rolling the hair into corkscrew which will turn out fluffier than the plastered-to-the-head pin-curl.

"The curling iron," says Vito, "is a practical beauty implement. I don't know why it ever went out of favor."

EARLY POSTMARK

The first dated postmark on a letter was used in 1829, when recipients still paid cash for delivery.

BLACK BRAID adds its touch of magic to a white pique swim and play suit. The skirt is a series of unpressed box pleats and the bodice is boned.

Wools Ripple Out

LONDON, Eng. — Wool materials have rippled out from the rather coarse sporting tweeds for which Yorkshire and Scottish mills have long been famous into circles which include fine worsted reps and flannels, feather- weight wool suitings, saxonies, suede velours, fancy, deep-piled, two-color woollens and gossamer fine wools, looking rather like chiffon.

FANCY WEED

"Goat's Beard," a weed in Eastern Canada, is a perennial with a long slender root and a head like a large dandelion.

Working Girls Should Avoid Late Hours On Week Nights

DEAR MISS DIX: I have two daughters, aged 19 and 24. I think three nights a week is enough for dating. They both work, and it is too hard for them to get up in the morning. I have asked them to bring their friends here for an evening, then have them leave early. Am I wrong? I want to be fair about this.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: You are entirely right in your assumption that your daughters need more sleep, but how you can convince them of the fact is another problem. A steady routine of going out every night, coming in late, getting insufficient sleep, is bound to take its toll in haggard looks, sluggish minds and bad dispositions.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For thirty-five years my husband and I were happily married. Three years ago he met a girl, young enough to be his daughter, with whom he spent a great deal of time. A year ago he had a serious operation, is now chronically ill and probably will never be much better. I am so unhappy because I keep thinking of this girl and how she made a fool of him. He almost lost his business because of her, but I kept it going for him. R.S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You must stop brooding over something that is definitely in the past. If every wife was as unforgiving over a misstep as you, the world would be much more strewn with broken marriages than it is now. Your husband, I am sure, regrets his folly, and you can do no less than forgive it.

✧ ✧ ✧

Age Difference Unimportant

DEAR MISS DIX: For nine months I have been dating a boy 22 years old—three years my junior. I am a nurse, and he recently joined the Army. Do you think we could be happily married? L.T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: This difference is not great enough to interfere with a happy marriage. The Army has a maturing influence on men, anyway, so you'll find him soon up to you in emotional—if not calendar—years.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 18 and have been going with a girl for the past two years. We lived in different towns, but saw each other often and had fine times together. A few months ago I was going to surprise her and visit her home. To my dismay, she no longer lived in the same place. She never mentioned that she was moving. I have waited for a letter giving the new address, but so far in vain. How can I locate her? And should I try? L.R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: This girl's actions are strange, to say the lease. You are certainly entitled to some explanation. If none of your mutual friends can tell you where she is, you might try writing, stating on the envelope that you wish the letter forworded. The post office undoubtedly has a forwarding adress, and once they have done their part the only thing for you to do is wait. If no letter is forthcoming within a reasonable time, I advise you to get a new girl friend.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I like two boys very much. I have gone with one for ten months, and the other one month. I don't think I should have two boy friends; neither do they. How shall I choose? J.E.G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Judging from your letter, you are very young, and should most certainly have two boy friends—or as many more as you like. Youngsters are better off with a wider circle of acquaintances and friends.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: There are seven in our family—all married. Mother lives with us, but not one of her children invites her for Sunday dinner. A.B.C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have a thoughtless, inconsiderate batch of brothers and sisters if not one of them extends your mother the courtesy of a dinner invitation. Remind them—forcibly if necessary—of their duty towards her, and they may be jolted into a more sociable attitude.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Shortbread Tasty Tidbit At New Year's

By KAY REX,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

. . . Hogmanay they call it in Scotland— the last day of the year and the one which marks the beginning of New Year holiday festivities.

There will be all kinds of sweets on the family sideboards, including candy and cakes. And the shortbread— a must in every Scottish household— will be piled high on plates.

Here is the favorite shortbread recipe of a southwestern Ontario housewife. But no doubt it originally came from Scotland.

Ingredients: One-quarter cup shortening; three-quarters cup butter; three-quarters cup brown sugar; 2½ cups flour; pinch of salt.

Roll into balls, with a dint in middle. Before baking put a piece of maraschino cherry into each dint.

Here is another sideboard delicacy to get 1952 off to a perky start. Oatmeal crispy squares—

Ingredients: One-half cup butter one cup brown sugar; two cups rolled oats; one teaspoon baking-powder; one -half teaspoon vanilla.

Blend thoroughly together, put in greased pan, pack well. Bake 10 to 15 minutes (until golden brown). Cut in squares while hot.

Refreshing Salad.

After nearly 2 weeks of nothing but rich holiday foods house guests may welcome a plain supper—particularly if it includes some kind of salad.

Cranberry and orange salad not only is a seasonal dish but also an attractive one.

Put one full cup cranberries and one large orange through meat-grinder. Add one cup sugar and let stand 1½ hours. Dissolve one package of lemon jello in one cup boiling water wtih one tablespoon vinegar. Stir in cranberry and orange mixture and put into refrigerator to set.

To serve, cut in squares on lettuce leaf.

Use Up Chicken.

The Canadian Association of Consumers has released a recipe for chicken scrapple— an excellent way to use up the remains of that Christmas chicken or turkey.

Ingredients: 3½ cups chicken broth; one tablespoon all-purpose flour; one cup corn meal; one-half teaspoon salt (one teaspoon if broth has not been salted); one-quarter teaspoon poultry seasoning; 2 cups ground cooked chicken (or turkey).

Heat half the broth in double boiler. Blend flour, corn meal, salt, seasoning; mix with remaining cold broth. Slowly stir the corn meal mixture into the hot broth. Cook, stirring until mixture thickens. Cook for 30 minutes or longer. Stir in chicken. Pour into well greased loaf pan. Cool quickly and put in refrigerator. When firm, cut in slices. Roll slices in flour and fry until brown. Serve with chicken (or turkey) gravy. Serves 8.

"Onnellista utta vuotta" will be heard in Canaad time and time again this week— wherever Finnish is spoken. Because of course it is Finnish for "Happy New Year."

And so— "Onnellista utta vuotta."

Banana Tidbits With Leftovers

Don't forget bananas for your feast-day salad, or to pep up those inevitable left-overs. A recommended tidbit for a light meal featuring leftover turkey is a satisfying affair of banana chunks sprinkled with orange juice and rolled in finely chopped nuts. Serve on crisp greens.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Doctor's Advice Required When Child Overweight

QUESTION: (A recipe for Parsnip Wine was requested by telephone by one of our readers.)

ANSWER:

Parsnip Wine (Malmsley Wine)

Slice 4 lbs. pared fine sound parsnips into 1 gallon of boiling water and boil until tender. When cold strain and press. Measure strained liquid. To 1 gallon add one-half ounce cream of tartar, and 3 lbs. best quality white sugar. Allow this to ferment in loosely bunged wine cask, and when fermentation has ceased siphon wine off and add to 1 gallon, 8 ounces best quality brandy. Put into bottles which are perfectly clean, through funnel, and cork them and keep cool until needed for use. Wine should age at least 1 year to be at its best.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I have a little girl who is 6 years of age. She weighs 90 lbs. Would you please write out a diet for me for her. Mrs. H. T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I hate to be disappointing, but what you need is the doctor's advice. Please go to the doctor at once with the overweight child to see if she has a glandular abnormality. It may mean that it can be treated while she is very young and give her a much happier girlhood. If she is overweight from overeating the doctor will tell you that. I am sending you my calorie chart. From it you can calculate how many calories she is eating at present. If the doctor says she is to reduce you can calculate what foods she can have that would reduce the calorie count. However be sure you do not stint on eggs, meat, fish or skim milk, and all of the fresh fruits and fresh vegetables. The doctor will probably tell you to cut out all cake, pie, pudding, cookies, fats, gravies, candy, ice cream, gum. On a carefully planned protein, fruit, and vegetable diet your daughter's health will doubtless flourish.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I enjoy your column so much and have tried many of your recipes. Will you please print some of your savoury fillings suitable for Bouchees. A. T. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You may use any creamed meat or fish or fowl mixture in bouchees. The white sauce must be especially thick.

I like the following mixture and use it often for bouchees. Other interested readers might like to be reminded that bouchees are very small "cream Puff" cases, made from the same "chow paste" that cream puffs are, but very small, and slit or scooped out at the top to receive the savoury meat mixture.

Bouchee Filling

CHICKEN HOLLANDAISE: Saute 1 teaspoon finely chopped onion in 1½ tablespoons butter until onion is soaked with the butter but not at all brown. Add 2 tablespoons cornstarch and 1 cup chicken stock (or canned bouillon or strained chicken soup) and stir until thick. Add 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ cup very finely chopped celery, ¼ teaspoon salt, shake of paprika, 1 cup very finely diced cooked chicken; then stir in 1 beaten egg yolk. Stir over boiling water for about 2 minutes. Serve hot in bouchees which have been slit or from which a slice has been cut at top. (This mixture is delicious in puff pastry patties or on toast.)

When we were in Halifax we were served bouchees filled with two tiny oysters which had been fried in deep fat. They were piping hot and it was a delicious morsel.

Lobster, shrimp, crab and tuna, and of course turkey, could be made into a rich cream sauce, very thick, and well-flavored as the chicken hollandaise above is and used for variations.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"I'll give you a check, but don't cash it till next week!"

What's Right?

You arrive late for a church service and as you enter the door a prayer is being said.

WRONG: Walk down the aisle and find a place to sit.

RIGHT: Stand quietly at the back of the church until the prayer is finished.

You arrive at a large party and do not know the name of the person at the head of the receiving line.

WRONG: Greet the person, but don't introduce yourself.

RIGHT: Introduce yourself, so that the head of the receiving line can introduce you to the person next in line.

US Comic Strips Disgust Glasgow

GLASGOW, Dec. 28 (Reuters). Superman, Captain Marvel and other heroes of American comic strips were criticized today in a report issued by the Glasgow committee of the Education Institute of Scotland.

Condemning American comic papers for presenting an "unhealthy and distorted" view of life, the report said:

"They are matter supplied for adolescents and for adults of low mental calibre. Consequently they are quite unsuitable for children.

"There is an exaggerated emphasis on sex and violence. Female forms are portrayed in the most exuberant and alluring curves, and ends, good or bad, are achieved by force and violence.

"There is often a super-race—thinly disguised as Americans — whose chief business it is to exterminate inferior races. Any diabolical means justifies this end.

"Power and riches, however obtained, are represented as the most desirable things in life."

The report said hard work and honest endeavor "find no place in this literature. Instead, slickness and gangsterism are short-cuts to power."

The sub-committee called for a reduction in the importation of comics into Britain.

Beat Up Wife Given 20 Lashes

Convicted of wife beating, a Smith township man was sentenced to four months in reformatory and 20 lashes by Magistrate W. R. Philp in family court.

The man has appeared in family court several previous occasions charged with assaulting his wife.

Recently he attacked his wife, shoving her against the stove, and beat her. In addition to several bruises, her arm was broken in the fracas.

It is understood the man is to be given 10 lashes within a month and the remaining ten not sooner than a month before he is released.

Charge Dismissed Of Theft Of Eggs

After hearing the evidence in police court today, Magistrate W. R. Philp dismissed a charge of theft against James Murduff, 62, of 211 Prince St.

Murduff was charged with stealing a dozen eggs from a groceteria at Park and Lansdowne Sts., on December 17.

Constable Sherman Keliele testified that he answered a phone call from the groceteria and on arrival, found an employee of the store standing with Murduff and was informed that after Murduff had purchased three articles, a package containing a dozen eggs had been found under his belt.

Constable Keliele said the eggs were on the counter when he arrived. He said Murduff said nothing when confronted with the charge but later on the way to the police station, he said Murduff admitted having the eggs and said "go easy on me."

In court today, Murduff said he had the eggs but they were under his arm, not under his coat. He said he asked Constable Keliele to "go easy" on him in court and did not make the statement as an admission of having taken the eggs.

In dismissing the charge, Magistrate Philp told Murduff he would give him the benefit of the doubt but warned him to watch his step in the future.

Mrs. Eliza Brownell

HASTINGS, Dec. 28—(ENS)—Funeral for Mrs. Eliza Armentia Brownell, who died suddenly on Dec. 21 was held from her late residence, Norwood Road, to Trinity United church where the Rev. N. Cole conducted the service.

Mrs. Brownell was the daughter of the late William Clapper and Mary Scriver.

Her husband predeceased her. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Alethea Gordon of Toronto and one son Lewis with whom she resided. Mrs. W. S. Way of Hastings is a sister.

Pallbearers were J. R. Jones, Cliff. Scriver, E. Fitzpatrick, George Brooks, F. L. Scriver, Alton Thompson.

Flower bearers were L. A. Scriver, H. J. Scriver, Ken Andrus, Jack Scriver, P. Daniels, William Knight, A. Nelson, G. Scriver. Burial was at Trent Valley cemetery.

Driver Jailed Seven Days For Being Drunk

Delbert Perritt, 39, [illegible] Strong Dr., was convicted of driving and sentenced to [illegible] days in jail by Magistrate [illegible] Philp in police court Thursday.

After clipping the fender of a car he was passing on Charlotte St., on December 8, Perritt continued west on Charlotte St. The driver of the car, Paul Coveney, Cavan, gave chase and was just catching up with Perritt as he stopped at Reid St. Before he could get out of his car, Coveney said, Perritt drove north on Reid St., then east on Hall St., to Rubidge St., where Coveney caught up with him.

Coveney, and two police officers, constable William G. Scott and acting patrol sergeant Harold Mesley testified that Perritt was drunk at the time. Constable Scott said Perritt staggered, "his eyes were bleary and his speech was thick." Coveney described Perritt as being "quite intoxicated." APS Mesley added that Perritt "smelled of an intoxicating beverage."

Little Sleep

Perritt took the stand and admitted having two pints of beer at home a short time before the accident. He said he had had little sleep for two nights and had not had much to eat that day.

He said he swung to the right to avoid a collision with an oncoming car, which resulted in his striking the Coveney car and did not stop sooner because he could not find a place to park. When Coveney caught up with him as he stopped at Rubidge St., Perritt said he was returning to the scene of the accident.

Gordon H. T. Farquharson defended Perritt and asked for an acquittal on the grounds that the traffic was heavy, the accident slight, and the driver of the car had said he could see nothing wrong with the way Perritt was driving while he was following him after the accident.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw pointed out that two officers and Coveney had testified that Perritt was intoxicated and the fact that he tried to squeeze between two lines of traffic was an indication of his condition.

Officials of the fund emphasize that no money will be given to the victims of the fire, but that the relief will take the form of necessities for living only. The object of the committee is to re-establish the unfortunate people to the same condition as they prior to the fire. Insurance money will be taken into account, as will other donatibns of money not passing through the committee's hands.

In the event that more money is received than is actually needed, the fund will continue to stand, ready to step into the breach in the event of any future disaster that may strike the district.

Turpin To Meet Buxton February 12

LONDON, Dec. 28 (AP).—Former world middleweight champion Randy Turpin will meet Alex Buxton of England, Feb. 12, in his first fight since losing the world crown to Sugar Ray Robinson.

The bout against Buxton, a 26-year-old Negro who has lost eight fights in six years, will be staged at London's Harringay Arena, it was announced Thursday.

By signing for the Buxton match Turpin risks losing his European middleweight title by forfeit.

The European Boxing Union has ordered him to defend against Laurent Dauthuille of France by the end of February.

Had Good Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 28—(AP)—This was the most lucrative year in history for the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, an official said Thursday. He said that 2,500 writers and 400 publisher members shared $14,000,000 for 1951. The previous high was $10,000,000 in 1950. The record year was attributed largely to television.

EyeSurgeon Once Roseneath Dr.

ROSENEATH, Dec. 28—(ENS)—The funeral service for the late Dr. Frederick Allan Aylesworth, a former Roseneath physician, was held in Toronto on Wednesday. Dr. Aylesworth died on Saturday at his late residence in Toronto at the age of 69.

Forty years ago he was the resident physician in Roseneath, serving the surrounding community faithfully, always ready to go to the homes where illness had entered. The older generation can recall that Dr. Aylesworth owned one of the first automobiles in Roseneath, having purchased a new auto, as they were then called, in the spring of 1912.

He was an interested member of Roseneath Agricultural Society and a member of St. James' Anglican Church. Later moving to Toronto, he was on the staff of Christie St. Hospital and during the last 25 years he was a prominent eye surgeon. He is survived by his wife, the former Marie Bansley, one daughter, Mrs. Ronald Ide, Port Arthur, three sons, Allan, Fred and John Aylesworth. Dr. Aylesworth was a cousin of Senator Sir Allen B. Aylesworth. Interment was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery, Toronto.

Port Hope Redmen Edge Lindsay 5-4

PORT HOPE, Dec. 28.—Led by Ken Medhurst with two goals and an assist, Port Hope Redmen eked out a 5-4 win over Lindsay Muskies here Wednesday night. It was the first win for Port Hope over the leaders of the Lakeshore Intermediate "A" grouping.

Darcy Campbell was another Port Hope player who figured prominently in the win, scoring once and setting up two other goals. For Lindsay, Grant Green, who suffered a sprained ankle late in the game, was top scorer with a pair of goals.

Port Hope trailed by one goal until the last minute of play in the second period when they scored two goals in 12 seconds and hung on through a goalless third stanza.

The win places Port Hope securely in second place, one game behind Lindsay.

Japan's Budget Up

TOKYO, Dec. 28—(AP)—Finance Minister Hayato Ikeda Thursday submitted to a cabinet meeting a budget plan of 848,988,090,000 yen ($2,355,800,000) for the next fiscal year. It represented an increase of 54,331,000,000 yen ($1,510,508,300) over the current budget.

Court Upholds Labor Ruling

CHICAGO, Dec. 28 (AP) —The United States district court of appeals Thursday upheld a National Labor Relations Board ruling which had charged two printers' unions with violations of the Taft-Hartley law.

The decision involved the 22-month strike against five Chicago papers which was ended in 1949.

The court issued an enforcement order against the International Typographical Union and Local 16, Chicago Typographical Union (AFL).

The NLRB unanimously held in October, 1949, that the ITU was guilty of setting up a "bargaining strategy" which tried to impose closed-shop conditions in the newspaper publishing industry. Since the board's orders are not self-enforcing, the government agency petitioned the court for an enforcement order last January. Today's decree was the reply.

The Taft-Hartley Act bans the closed shop which requires an employer to hire only union members.

The Local went on strike against five newspapers—The Tribune, Daily News, Herald-American, Sun-Times and the Journal of Commerce. Some 1,500 union members went on strike Nov. 24, 1947.

Rochon Baffles Schwartz With Shots

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28 (CP) —Little Henri Rochon, of Montreal, baffled Sidney Schwartz, of Brooklyn, with his tricky assortment of drop shots for one set before going to defeat Thursday in a first-round match in the Sugar Bowl tennis tournament.

Rochon, third - ranked in Canada, ran off the opening set at love before Schwartz solved his tantalizing style to win, 0-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Tony Vincent, of New York, the Canadian open champion, won his first-round match from Achibald Henderson, of New Orleans, 6-4, 9-7, but was defeated in the second round by Eddie Moylan, of Trenton, NJ, 6-1, 7-5.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Harry (Kid) Matthews' manager announced Thursday night his rejection of the International Boxing Club offer for a light-heavyweight title fight with Joey Maxim.

Manager Jack Hurley said he sent this wire to matchmaker Al Weill in New York:

"Date, terms and other dictates connected with Maxim offer rejected. Matthews will continue his independent campaign, your ultimatum notwithstanding."

Weill's "ultimatum" had been for Hurley to sign for the match by the end of this week or lose the chance.

Hurley, a canny man in the fight business, long has been at odds with the IBC moguls who control big-time boxing in the east.

Weill announced Wednesday that he had jumped the terms of the offer to the Hurley-Matthews team to 20 per cent of the gate, from the original 15 per cent. He said the offer also included 20 per cent of any special television deal.

The board of directors of Philadelphia Athletics announced on Thursday they have decided not to purchase the Ottawa franchise in the International League "at this time."

Cornelius V. Whitney, owner of Counterpoint, was named winner Thursday of the New York Turf Writers Association's award for service for the second time in 30 years the choice was unanimous.

The body of Bruce Copeland, 63, formerly a sports writer of Boston and New York, was found in the grandstand area of the Idle Bay Meadows horse racing track Thursday at San Natio, Calif.

Deputy coroner Dan O'Connell said Copeland probably died of a heart attack, but an autopsy was to be performed.

H. P. Thompson, general manager of the Hamilton Tigers, said Thursday the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A club's attendance figures are 15 per cent above those of last season.

The Tigers are in third place in the six-team league after setting the pace throughout the opening part of the schedule.

Coach Frank Beisler led the 16 members of his Syracuse Warriors professional hockey team off the ice in Syracuse Thursday to keep a date at Red Cross headquarters.

"They lost a little blood in losing to the Pittsburgh Hornets 4 to 3 Wednesday night, so they decided to give our corpuscles where they'd do some good" explained owner Eddie Shore.

Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League have returned defenceman Jim Morrison to Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League. Morrison was brought up to fill in for the injured Murray Henderson and played 14 games for Boston.

Monte Irvin, top run producer for the pennant-winning New York Giants Thursday signed his 1952 contract for an estimated $25,000 salary. The pay raise of almost 100 per cent is subject to approval by the Wage Stabilization Board.

Fine Toronto Landlord $700 For Overcharging

TORONTO, Dec. 28 — (CP) — William Knihnicki of Toronto, was fined $700 and costs or three months in jail Thursday for what Magistrate W. W. McKeown called "the most deliberate and barefaced attempt" to avoid rental regulations.

Knihnicki was charged with levying excess rent for an eight-room house. Evidence revealed he overcharged a total of $545 since April, 1947. The rentals board set the rent at $37.50 and Knihnicki charged his tenant, Frank Thomas, $50. He later boosted it to $55 when the legal rent was upped to $41.25.

Thomas told the court he was forced to buy $400 worth of furniture to get into the house in the first place.

Knihnicki pleaded guilty and was given three weeks to pay the fine.

Man Committed For Trial In Higher Court

Allan Hansford, 698 Stormont St., was committed for trial in a higher court by Magistrate W. R. Philp Thursday on a charge of having in his possession a machine which he knew to be stolen.

Gordon H. T. Farquharson defended Hansford at the preliminary hearing on the charge December 17. Magistrate Philp reserved judgment until Thursday.

On $2,000 Bail.

Hansford has been on $2,000 bail since he first appeared on the charge November 5 and he will remain on the same bail until his trial.

He is alleged to have had in his possession, a clarifier machine (similar to a cream separator) which had been reported stolen from the rear of Simcoe St., cleaning establishment October 31.

At the preliminary hearing, Detective Sergeant Bud Clarke said that he questioned Hansford on November 3 and after first denying any knowledge of the machine, Hansford later admitted he knew where it was and took him to where Hansford said he had pushed it into a ditch.

John Burfield, employee of a Bell Avenue junk yard said that Hansford and another man had come to the junk yard on November 3. He said the other man had tried to sell him the machine but he recognized it as being similar to one Detective Clarke had advised him had been stolen. Burfield said he told the men he believed it was the stolen machine the police were looking for.

It was on this point that Magistrate Philp said he was committing Hansford for trial. Referring to a precedent, the magistrate said that Hansfords knowledge that the machine was stolen after being advised at the junk yard and his admission of being present when the machine was dumped into the ditch was sufficient evidence for the consideration of a jury.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS—J. R. Hetrick, 81-year-old Pagleysville, Pa., farmer, entertained "just my children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, at Christmas dinner" and 82 sat down for the meal. "We don't invite anyone else because there just isn't room," the farmer said. Here part of the group poses at the family homestead. The family ate, among other things, four turkeys, six chickens, six ducks, one goose and two hams. At today's prices, too!

Vernon Knowles Newspaperman Dies In Montreal

MONTREAL, Dec. 28 (CP). — Vernon Knowles, 61, public relations adviser to the Canadian Bankers Association since 1937 and one of Canada's best known newspapermen, died early today.

Born in Nottingham, England, in 1890, he came to Canada with his parents when they migrated to a Saskatchewan homestead. He started to study for the ministry but after he lost his arm while working in a steel plant during a vacation he gave up his studies and became a newspaper reporter.

He joined the old Saskatoon Capital, later incorporated with The Star-Phoenix, and was appointed city editor within a few months. From there he moved to the Vancouver Province as marine editor, then to Winnipeg, where he was successively city editor of the old Telegram and managing editor of the Tribune.

He was active in development of the Western Canadian Daily Newspapers Association and served as its chairman during the newsprint crisis of 1920.

Special Writer

Later he was a special writer covering the Manitoba Legislature and the Parliamentary Press Gallery at Ottawa.

In the mid-1920s he decided to try his ability in the United States and became city editor of The Miami Tribune. He left that job to join an advertising agency. Later he was appointed public relations director for the newly-built Coral Gables development.

The breaking of a big news story sent him back into the newspaper work he loved. A hurricane raked Florida in 1929 and Mr. Knowles was caught in it and suffered a broken leg.

Despite his injury, he commandeered an automobile, talked his way past police barricades and managed to reach a telegraph office. His reports from the hurricane area were carried by most major newspapers in the United States and Canada.

The Toronto Star brought him back to Canada as managing editor. However, he soon went to The Mail and Empire, which had just been bought by I. W. Killam of Montreal, and, as executive editor, helped to produce an objective and vigorous paper.

Used Special Editions

During the depression of the '30s he fought against pay cuts and conceived the idea of special editions to bolster revenues.

In 1935 he left The Mail and Empire to return to The Star as managing editor. His appointment to the Bankers' Association position was announced late in Decem, 1936, and he took over his duties early in 1937.

During the Second World War he was consultant to the National War Finance Committee on victory loans. For his work in that capacity, he was awarded the Order of the British Empire.

Surviving besides his widow, the former Beatrice Winters of Ottawa, are his father, John Knowles; a brother, John, and three daughters, Mrs. Peter MacLachlan of Buckingham, Que., and Mrs. John B. Drylie, Jr., and Mrs. John Gandier, both of Toronto.

Wayne Chosen Top Star

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28 (AP)—New York critics have picked "A Streetcar Named Desire" as the best movie for 1951. And theatre men have selected rugged John Wayne as the top box-office star for the second successive year.

In the opinion of the critics, "Streetcar" also rated No. 1 for the best direction, best actress' performance and the second best actor's job.

Wayne, currently the movies' most manly hero, captured the top spot in the motion picture Herald's 1951 poll of theatre men.

Two zanies who were voted "Stars of Tomorrow" only a year ago wound up in second place and in their case, television must rate an assist. Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis were known only to night club audiences before TV.

In third place was Betty Grable, unhurt by an eight-month suspension by her studio. Abbott and Costello were fourth, followed in order by such old favorites as Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Randolph Scott and Gary Cooper.

Roy Rogers was again voted king of the cowboys, followed by Gene Autry. Among British exhibitors, Alec Guinness got the top English award. Bob Hope was tops internationally while John Wayne was the favorite cowboy.

The New York critics adjudged Elia Kazan as the best director for work on "Streetcar," and Vivien Leigh as the best actress for her role in the film.

The best acting job was considered done by Arthur Kennedy as the blind veteran in "Bright Victory."

A close second to "Streetcar" was "The River," the final balloting on the two pictures going 8 to 7 for the former.

Ridicule Reds In Comic Strip Winning Idea

GREENWOOD, SC, Dec. 28 — (AP) — A Greenwood librarian's suggestion that a comic strip be developed to ridicule Communistic ideas and then ballooned into Iron Curtain countries has been selected as the best idea submitted in a contest seeking ways of fighting the cold war with Communism.

Elizabeth Porcher, the librarian, was announced Thursday as winner in the contest which drew more than 500 entries from the United States, Canada, Alaska and Hawaii.

As a reward, she will receive an expense-paid trip to Western Germany. There she will visit the Freedom Bell Shrine in Berlin and the transmitters of Radio Free Europe in Munich and Frankfurt.

Miss Porcher admitted that as a librarian she deplored comics, but she conceded there is no doubt that they have a tremendous appeal to children.

She continued:

"Might not a clever comic character with good punch lines become a much sought-after commodity with a wide circulation among young Iron Curtainers—if they were added to the present literature already being distributed by means of balloons behind the Iron Curtain?

"A top-notch cartoonist might be employed (or contribute his services) to Radio Free Europe and invent a character (or characters) to poke subtle fun at all Communistic ideas and uphold and explain the ideals of democracy with as much courage and enthusiasm as the beloved Superman performs his super-human deeds."

Canadian Soldiers Enjoy Christmas With Germans

HANNOVER, Germany, Dec. 28 (AP) — Nine hundred Canadian soldiers who spent Christmas with German families agreed Thursday that their visits helped create friendship between their countries.

"It was a marvellous idea," said Brigade Major D. Gillen, of Ottawa, "this Christmas has done an awful lot toward German-Canadian understanding."

The Christmas invitations resulted from a Canadian program of making friends with the Germans among whom they are stationed while reinforcing western denfences in Europe.

Everywhere, the soldiers reported, they were received with friendly hospitality and fed sumptuous dinners. Most received Christmas gifts from their hosts.

"They treated me just like a son," said 24-year-old Rfn. F. Pelky of the Royal Winnipeg Rifles, who lives in Windsor.

He visited the home of a German workman. Their 24-year-old daughter was the only one who spoke English, but "I managed to talk with everybody," he said. The family gave Pelky a cigarette case as a gift.

"I had a swell time," reported Pte. R. L. Archibald, 21, of Windsor, who was entertained by a German widow and her 37-year-old son who was a sergeant in the German army. Archibald was shown the German army "Goose Step."

Sgt. W. Quail, 35, of Toronto, visited the home of a former German army sergeant who was stationed at Dieppe when the Canadians made their famous raid in 1942.

L. Cpl. K. R. Thompson, 21, of 983½ Shaw St., Toronto, said: "I was very touched by the strong family bonds here in Germany."

Thompson joined the Germans in Christmas carols—singing the English words while they sang in German.

Capt. D. R. Brochu, 30, of Quebec, who was in Germany in 1945, conversed in French and broken German with his hosts and received an invitation to return for New Year's.

Emergency Pipeline Completed But Red Tape Delays Operation

EDMONTON, Dec. 28 (CP). — A pipeline to funnel Alberta natural gas to Montana defence industry has been completed. But not a cubic foot of gas has been delivered.

Nine months ago Charles E. Wilson, United States defence mobilizer, requested the gas as an "essential defence production emergency" measure. The Alberta Legislature put through a special Bill to provide the gas, breaking for the first time the province's no-export policy.

Construction crews pushed through the 75-mile $3,500,000 pipeline from the Pakowki Lake field in Southeastern Alberta to Shelby, Mont., from where gas was to be piped to the Anaconda Copper Mining Company's plants at Butte.

Standing Idle

The line is standing idle because the United States Federal Power Commission has not yet granted a permit for importation of the gas. Coal interests have opposed the move.

The Bill passed by the Alberta Legislature permits export of a maximum of 43,800,000,000 cubic feet of gas over a five-year period.

Work on the pipeline began in July and was completed in time to allow most of the construction crews to get back to their homes for Christmas.

Although the Southeastern Alberta rangelands appeared to be flat, easy country for pipeline construction, the crews found it far from that.

"We used more dynamite on that line than on any pipe I've worked on," said one worker, back in Edmonton. "We kept running into huge boulders and rock that had to be blasted out."

Dry river beds proved deceptive. Heavy machinery bogged down in the soft bottoms and had to be pulled out by "cats" and trucks. Some grades were so steep that large vehicles had to be lowered down them by the winches.

The line, built by Canadian Pipeline Corporation, runs from a point 20 miles south of Foremost, Alta., to Shelby, where it joins the Montana Power Company's lines.

No Decision Made

Permission to build the line was granted after the Anaconda Copper Company said it faced a "crisis" in production caused by dwindling supplies from the Montana Kelvin-Sunburst field. The gas was to be used in processing copper, zinc and other materials needed for defence.

The US Federal Power Commission has held lengthy hearings on the application for an import permit, but no decision has been announced.

Meanwhile, the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board has been hearing six other applications for export permits. Alberta policy has been to bar export until gas reserves exceeding the province's foreseeable needs have been proved. The Montana project was the first exception.

Carroll Thinks Crooners On Decline

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28 (AP)—The crooner is on the decline, says John Carroll.

Of course, he could be prejudiced. He is one of those singers who could shatter windows if he opened up.

"Some of my best friends are crooners," he remarked. "And I'm sure they're still going to be around and making money. But as far as I can judge, there is a change going on in the kind of singing the public wants.

"I believe there are styles in singing, just as there are in music. I remember when jazz became the rage, since I was brought up in New Orleans where it was born. And I remember when crooning first became popular. Gene Austin was the first one. Then came Rudy Vallee, Bing Crosby and Russ Columbo.

"Lately there has been a new trend. It was started by the success of Ezio Pinza in 'South Pacific.' Then Mario Lanza made a big hit. The success of their records has brought a big demand for the kind of singing that requires the full voice. People are not only willing but eager to hear classical and semi-classical numbers, instead of pop tunes."

Carroll just returned from playing an engagement at Houston, Texas. The trend away from crooning was impressed on him at his opening night.

"I had a bad strep throat and fever of 102," he said. "But I jabbed myself full of wonder drugs and went on. I couldn't sing full voice and I thought I could get by with crooning. After the first number, the crowd started getting restless. After the third number, they were ready to throw things. The reviews in the papers the next day were brutal."

Carroll has his own methods of dealing with crowds. When he gets a noisy audience in Texas, he tells them: "All right, if you'll shut up now, I'll sing for you." He said the Texans don't mind being treated roughly.

Calendar Used By Canadians 200 Years Old In 1952

By JACK MACKAY.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 28 — (AP). — The New Year—1952—will mark the 200th anniversary of the calendar as it is known in North America.

It was in 1752 that the English-speaking world finally got in step with nearly everyone else by adopting the Gregorian system of keeping track of days, months and years.

Special note of the anniversary is being taken by the world's largest calendar firm, Brown & Bigelow, St. Paul.

Behind the calendar of today lies centuries of research, confusion, adventure and romance — all occasioned by man's countless attempts to nail down time to an accurate schedule of measurement.

Although Pope Gregory XIII had his scientists and astronomers work out a fairly-correct calendar in the 16th century, Protestant England and her colonies were leery of things emanating from Rome. As a result, they held out acceptance of the calendar for almost 200 years.

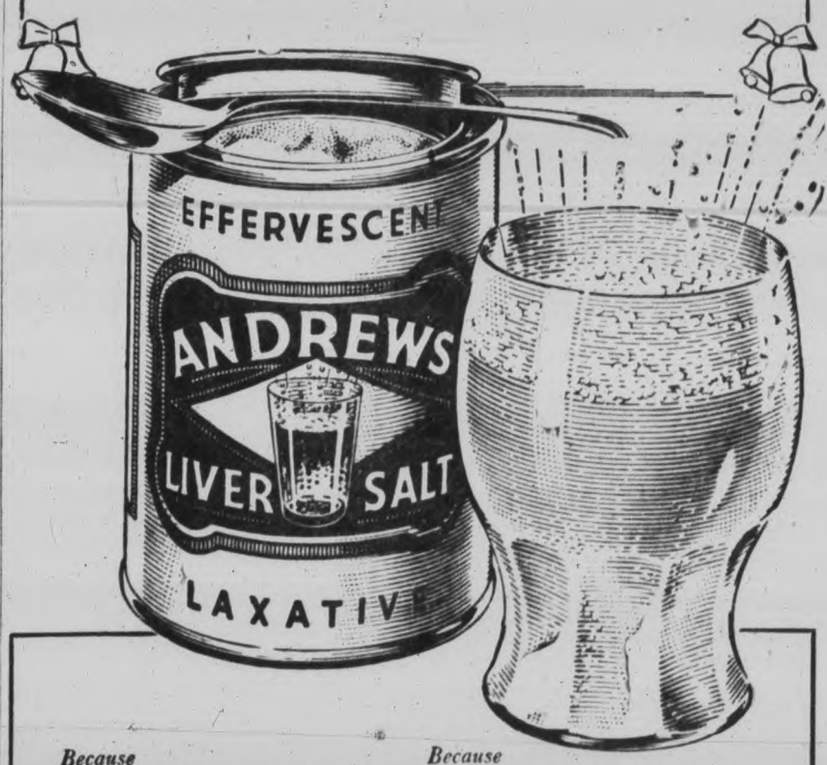
Great Confusion

When Parliament finally decided to get in step with most of the rest of the world by adopting the Gregorian calendar, the Julian calendar used to this time by England and her colonies was 11 days behind the Gregorian count. To catch up in a hurry, 11 days had to be "wiped out" and it was ordered that the calendar for 1752 should skip from September 2 to September 14. This caused considerable confusion.

As early as 3500 BC, the Sumerians came up with a calendar. It was workable even if the year was only 354 days—11 days short of a true solar year.

The Egyptians got the error down to a little over 11 minutes. Astronomers worked constantly to try to reconcile the calendar with the heavenly movements, but meanwhile the 11-minute 14-second shortage of the Egyptian calculation began to accumulate. By the 16th century the year was 10 days out of kilter.

Pope Gregory began looking into the problem. Setting aside a room in the Vatican—still known as the "Calendar Room"—he put his best scientists to work. Here they toiled until they produced a calendar which, with an extra day every four years to take up the slack, worked out pretty well.



The margin of error in this computation, though small, will acount for the loss of only one day in more than 3,000 years.

Ontario School System Called Too Juvenile By Teachers' President

TORONTO, Dec. 28 (CP)—A leading educationist Thursday attacked "revisionists" who are "designing for us an education of youth, by novelty, for immaturity." He termed Toronto's new public school report system "pseudo-psychology gone mad." George L. Roberts of Oshawa, president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, reported to the federation's annual meeting on what he termed some of the harmful influences working on Ontario education, particularly in secondary schools.

He said:

"Let us take for example the new report system in Toronto public schools—the OSU reports. (Outstanding - satisfactory - unsatisfactory.)

"This is apparently the result of pseudo-psychology gone mad. It is completely out of touch with the realities of life, let alone education. It is just the most recent evidence of a trend that I am decrying."

Mr. Roberts said the change this year from the grading system was an example of a doctrine popular in North America today —"A doctrine of avoidance of strain, tension, frustration and evasion of external standards — and that as a preparation for mid-20th century life."

Too Immature

He said this doctrine would leave decisions on principles of right and wrong, good and bad, self-indulgence and duty, privileges and responsibilities to the immature individual, rather than presenting, as inviolable, standards of excellence.

"Here we see another characteristic of modern education — the preferment of the psychologist over the philosopher. We continue thus at our peril."

Mr. Roberts emphasized that his criticisms were not an attack on the "Porter plan" for revision of Ontario educational methods.

"The Porter plan has some good features and some bad. But it is not a plan and it is not Mr. Porter's. It is not a plan because it is a collection of changes or revisions. . ."

He said another popular practice of the "irresponsible revisionist" was to disparage factual knowledge.

These trends were promoting the rise "of the careerist and narrow specialist in influence, prestige and jurisdiction in our school system."

Need Better Background

"There seems to be a growing emphasis on advanced methodology at the expense of sound general education as a background for teachers."

He said that in answer to the recognized challenge that human relations are one of the most difficult problems today, "We are being sold techniques for 'winning friends and influencing people'—in place of the painful building of inner integrity to command respect and influence."

Another threat to the continued soundness of Ontario education was the establishment of senior elementary schools.

He criticized "experts" who claimed that all courses were of equal value and that there should be no differentiation between certificates issued at the end of Grade XII.

"... The only thing equal about them is the length of time spent within the school walls.

"We may be deluding the students and their parents for the moment but the ulitmate inevitable reaction when the sham proves its hollowness can be very painful to the schools."

King's Message Warming Event Christmas Day

By FORBES RHUDE

One of the most warming events of Christmas Day is to hear the King's message.

Somehow, each year, it brings a renewed glow, and a feeling that we are sharing something with millions of people in many places. One's immediate surroundings suddenly become part of a world-encircling Christmas.

We feel we can almost say "hello" to people in Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, millions in Asia, to others scattered here and there—and, of course, to those in Britain.

We may wonder how many in the United States, and other countries, are listening with us and catching some of the drama of the simple words.

Feel Thanksgiving

We may feel thanksgiving that there are so many with whom we share the Christmas ideal. We may hope that, if so many share it now, perhaps one day many more will share it—in whatever language or faith. And it may be that many more already share it, if we know how to speak to one another.

It may come as a surprise if we listen, that the King's message means so much to us, especially those of us who have had no family links with Britain for several generations.

It is part of that elusive thing which the throne is—difficult to explain to ourselves, let alone to any one else.

The King's message seems to make history live as an inspiration for today and tomorrow; to distil the right from wrong, to express the things we feel to be worth while.

The words are not ringing ones to call us together; they are quiet words that tell us we are together.

Somehow, in a very human way, the King sems to make himself a part of each fireside and to share its worries, wherever they may centre.

Jellyfish Attack 8,000 Swimmers

MIAMI, Dec. 28—(CP)—Portuguese men-o'-war attacked more than 8,000 bathers off the south Florida coast during the Christmas weekend.

Doctors were kept busy treating casualties. But the government doesn't plan even a diplomatic note to Lisbon.

Portuguese men-o'-war are a type of jellyfish, approximately two inches in diameter with 10 to 12 tentacles. Stingers at the ends of the tentacles discharge poison under the skin.

Dr. Hilary Moore of the University of Miami said the results are painful but not serious.

The gulf stream swept the men-o'-war toward the Florida coast last Monday. Lifeguards reported that by Thursday the current had swept them out to sea again.

Dancing Girls Bring Culture To Tibet

CALCUTTA, Dec. 28—(AP)—Chinese Communists have decided to step up their culture propaganda in Tibet. Reports said Thursday they took a step in this direction by importing 500 singing and dancing girls selected by "the cultural department of the liberation army." They will give shows and pep talks about "grandfather Mao Tse-tung."

7 Sinking Ships Radio Urgent SOS In Storm

MONTREAL FLOODS — An estimated 2,000,000 tons of ice choked the Riviere des Prairies in the Montreal district this week and caused flooding in some 500 houses of the communities of Riviere des Prairies, North Monteal and St. Vincent de Paul. Residents were forced to use a rowboat to reach their flooded homes in some cases. The ice jam was blasted Friday without much success.

Well Treated In Prison 4 Fliers Say

Intelligence Officers Hear Full Story Of 40 Days In Jail

ERDING, Germany, Dec. 29 (AP)—Four United States airmen gave American intelligence officers a full account today of their 40 days in the hands of Communist Hungary. But their scheduled press conference to tell the world about it was delayed until a Washington state department official could arrive from Frankfurt.

Col. Park Holland, Erding air base commander, announced that the public would have to wait a while for the story of how Russian planes forced the fliers down and how they were tried and finally released Friday after payment of $120,000 in fines.

Holland expressed confidence the airmen would be permitted to meet the press tonight.

The four young fliers, happy enough to sob over freedom, were landed at their home base here near Munich shortly before midnight Friday to a heroes' welcome from crowds of relatives and fellow airmen.

Fliers Nervous

They were tired, haggard and nervous. But they appeared healthy and well-fed and were reported to have been "relatively-well treated" by their Red captors.

They left Erding Nov. 19 in a C-47 cargo plane for a daylight "milk run" to Yugoslavia with a load of supplies for the US embassy at Belgrade. They got lost, were shot at by Romanian and Hungarian border artillery, ran low on fuel and finally were forced down in Hungary by Russian fighter planes based in the former enemy satellite country.

Freedom came in the black mist of early dark at Nickelsdorf, on the Austro-Hungarian border, two hours after United States officials in Budapest counted out $120,000 worth of Hungarian forints to pay fines.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson closed Hungary's Consulates in Cleveland and New York and banned all American travel in Hungary.

GIVEN SENTENCE — Gnr. Robert Walter Stirling of Vancouver has been convicted of attempted murder of a Korean civilian and sentenced to seven years. A court martial found him guilty of molesting Korean civilians but acquitted him of a charge of assault. He was charged with wounding a Korean in the village of San San, near Yonchon, Sept. 30. Gnr. Stirling is a member of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

House Likely To Prorogue Now Bill Passed

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 — (CP) — The government's bill to outlaw the fixing of retail prices by manufacturers has finally won the approval of the Commons.

The bill to prevent manufacturers from setting the price at which retailers may sell their goods won third and final reading Friday night after the Commons beat down four Progressive Conservative attempts to defeat it or stall its progress.

The legislation now goes to the Senate.

These developments occurred Friday as the bill moved through the final stages of a seven-day (interrupted-by-Christmas) debate:

1. Transport Minister Chevrier putting a temporary halt to what he described as "delaying tactics" of the Progressive Conservatives, moved that "the question be now put." His motion, in effect cutting off debate on second reading, was carried by a vote of 135 to 30.

2. The bill itself then won second reading—approval in principle—by a vote of 131 to 31.

3. As the bill moved to third reading, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, moved his party's fourth proposal that the legislation be killed. It was defeated by a vote of 111 to 27.

4. A few minutes later, the bill was given third reading by a vote of 111 to 27.

Likely Prorogue

That left the Chamber with little on its order paper and there were indications that parliament would prorogue sometime today.

The Prices Bill, target of a bitter Progressive Conservative campaign that forced parliament to return to work for this post-Christmas session, got a rough ride as it was considered by committee of the whole before receiving third and final reading.

All Europe Hit Hard By Hurricane

Many Coastal Towns Badly Flooded, Worst In 37 Years

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP) — Howling hurricane winds washed mountainous seas over sinking ships along Europe's Atlantic coast today and set off a series of frantic distress calls.

At least seven threatened vessels, including two American freighters radioed SOS signals. One ship was driven aground. Others were taking water rapidly and in serious danger.

The 6,711-ton US freighter Flying Enterprise, carrying a crew of 40 and 10 passengers out of Hamburg said she was listing 45 degrees and "still taking water." She was wallowing off the southwest tip of England.

Help was standing by the Flying Enterprise and was at hand or on the way to help other threatened ships.

Winds as high as 89 miles an hour whipped up the worst eastern Atlantic storm in many years.

Towns Battered

Ports and airports closed in many places. Coastal towns from Spain to Denmark were battered.

Hundreds of small boats were sunk at anchor on the French and English coasts. Tidal floods hit river mouths all along the shore.

Most trans-Atlantic air travel halted after the Shannon river washed over low-lying Shannon International Airport. Authorities said the field would be unusable until Sunday or Monday.

The Queen Mary finally docked at Southampton 72 hours late. Its captain, Harry Grattidge, said the trip was the worst he had made since 1914. "There was no other word for the seas but 'terrific'," Grattidge said.

Young Private Winner Of VC

TOKYO, Dec. 29 (CP). — A young British private Friday was named winner of the Victoria Cross for his almost single-handed fight against hordes of attacking Chinese in Korea last month.

The soldier, Pte. William Speakman, will receive the Commonwealth's highest award for valor Sunday from Maj.-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commander of the 1st Commonwealth Division.

It is the second VC won by a British soldier in Korea. The first was awarded posthumously last January to Maj. Kenneth Muir of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders.

Speakman, whose unit is the 1st Battalion of the King's Own Scottish Borderers, won the VC for his action last Nov. 4 when 6,000 fanatical Chinese flung themselves on three companies of the Borderers.

The citation told how Speakman with grenades and a machine gun, fought almost a one-man battle against the attacking Reds. His repeated charges against the Chinese, urging his comrades along with him, were said to have saved many British lives and were the major factor in the Borderers' success.

Offer Compromise If Reds Accept New UN Proposals

MUNSAN, Korea, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Allies today agreed to abandon their demand for aerial inspection and to negotiate the question of troop rotation—if the Communists accept completely a new compromise program for policing a Korean armistice. "It is now clearly and unequivocably up to you. The future is in your hands," Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Turner told the Communists. The Reds said they would study the United Nations proposal overnight and comment on it Sunday.

In an adjoining tent, the Communists agreed to account for at least part of the 50,000 men the Allies claim were captured in Korea but were not listed on the Reds' prisoner roster.

Communist sub-committee members said they would swap information the Allies have requested repeatedly on the list of Red prisoners turned over by the UN Dec. 18.

May Clear Hurdles

UN negotiators have hinted that if the Reds furnish a satisfactory accounting, they would consider an all-for-all prisoner exchange proposed by the Communists. This would clear the major hurdles blocking agreement on agenda item four—exchange of prisoners.

Sub-committees on both prisoner exchange and truce supervision scheduled meeting for 11 am Sunday (9 pm EST Saturday) in Panmunjom.

Turner told the Reds the new six-point plan for policing a truce is the UN command's final offer.

It provides that "such rotation of military personnel as within the limits agreed upon by both sides shall be reported to the military armistice commission."

It also proposes that "both sides undertake not to introduce into Korea any reinforcing military personnel, combat aircraft, armored vehicles, weapons and ammunition after the armistice is signed.

Asked Definition

All previous United Nations proposals have said neither side should increase the numerical quantities of troops and equipment. And Chinese Maj.-Gen. Hsieh Fang asked for an exact definition of the word "reinforcing."

Turner replied that the definition was in the record.

The UN negotiator declared emphatically that the compromise on aerial observation was on a "contingent basis"—that is, the Reds must accept all of the allied proposals or none of it.

The new UN proposal incorporates the demand for a ban on military airfield construction in North Korea during an armistice.

Give Occupation Rights To Canadians

BONN, Germany, Dec. 29 (AP) —Canada has demanded — and won — for its newly-arrived troops in Western Germany the same rights as the Allied occupation forces, Western officials disclosed today.

They said the Allied High Commission has quietly pased a new law granting the Canadian troops —who have no occupation duties —and their families the "rights and immunities" of American, French and British occupation troops.

The 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade arrived in Germany recently to reinforce the defence of Western Europe.

The principal effect of the new law will be to guarantee the Canadians exemption from trial in German courts and certain facilities paid for by the Germans under "occupation costs," the officials said.

Private Delighted To Meet Draft Board

DANVILE, Ill., Dec. 29—(AP)—Edward L. Weaver, 20, of Danville, who received his orders to report for a pre-induction physical examination, wrote his draft board that he'd love to.

In a letter received Friday by the draft board, Weaver explained that he had applied unsuccessfully for an "emergency leave" from his duties as a private, first class, in the air force.

He has been stationed on Okinawa, south of Japan, for the last six months wrote Weaver, adding "you have so graciously offered to pay for my food and transportation for my physical, but this would cost you a tidy sum because Danville is 9,000 miles away."

At six cents mile, he figured, transportation alone would cost $540, and, he added, "I'm a big eater."

Reds Suffer 1,515,688 War Casualties

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 29—(AP) —The Chinese and North Korean Communist armies have suffered 1,515,688 casualties in the Korean war, a United States Eighth Army briefing officer reported today.

He said the figure for the 18-month conflict included battle casualties, estimated non-battle casualties (frostbite, illness, etc.) and prisoners-of-war.

The briefing officer listed 823,331 Chinese Communist casualties since they entered the war Nov. 7, 1950. The North Korean toll was given as 692,357.

The officer said United Nations troops inflicted 216,721 battle casualties on the Reds since the truce talks started at Kaesong last July 10.

No Major Action

There was no report of any major ground action Saturday morning, but Allied fighters and fighter-bombers were out in force.

The air force said F-86 Sabre jet pilots swept Mig Alley in Northwest Korea Saturday morning. They spotted 30 of the Russian-made planes, but made no contact. Fighter bombers pounded the Reds on the front and far to the rear.

The Eighth Army said a battalion of Chinese infantry, bolstered by 10 tanks or self-propelled guns, pushed UN troops off an advance position on the western front Friday.

The Reds attacked under cover of heavy artillery and mortar fire.

On the rugged eastern front, Allied foot troops retook snow-covered "Christmas Hill." The position has change hands four times since a Chinese battalion wrested it from UN control Christmas afternoon. The hill is west of the Munding Valley north of Yanggu.

War Preparation Being Speeded

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP) —Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Poland's exiled premier, says Russia is speeding war preparations in her mid-European satellites.

He told a press conference Friday that during the last six months he learned from the Iron Curtain underground:

1. There is an unexplained food shortage in Middle Europe, whereas all these countries except Czechoslovakia normally produce food surpluses.

2. Gasoline is scarce in Romania, an oil producer.

3. Middle Europe's steel output has been increased and new foundaries opened in East Germany, Poland and Hungary.

4. Soviet Deputy Premier Molotov, at a July 22 meeting with mid-European leaders in Poland, demanded more military production.

5. "Unnecessary" people, that is, those cool to communism, are being moved out of larger cities.

Mikolajczyk said he suspects gasoline, meat and grain are being stored for use by the Red Army.

Special Delivery Stamps To Be Ended

OTTAWA, Dec. 29— (CP). — The Post Office Department is discontinuing printing special delivery postage stamps, it announced Friday.

The department said it is taking the step because of the small demand. When present stocks of the stamps are exhausted, the public may use any regular stamp of 10-cent denomination along with a special delivery label to obtain the special delivery service.

Will Make New Attempt To Blast Montreal Ice Jam

MONTREAL, Dec. 29 (CP)—Quebec government officials today will attempt to dynamite an ice-jam in the Riviere Des Prairies although similar attempts failed Friday. Mayor Rosario Fortin of Riviere Des Prairies says he thinks the blasting attempts will prove futile. He says he hopes federal government officials will permit the RCAF to bomb the ice-choked river.

Meanwhile flood-weary residents of three Montreal suburbs saw relief only in the fact that water is gradually receding.

Three five-pound charges were set off simultaneously Friday as an experiment and all that resulted was a 5-foot geyser of snow. Then a series of seven charges of 13½ pounds each, followed creating deep pits and a dull rumble under the 10-foot ice. A 25-pound blast also failed.

The ice began piling up in the River Des Prairies near Bout de L'Ile early this week. Wednesday a state of emergency existed in the small community, when the river jumped its banks. It rose to more than 20 feet above its normal level.

Some 500 homes and 75 families have been affected by the floods.

Mayor Fortin said that no estimate of damage has been made, but "it can be conservatively estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars."

It is estimated the ice jam stretched over an area of some 10 square miles weighing 2,000,000 tons.

Red Cross teams have been operating in the area since Wednesday and are open 24 hours a day to bring relief to those still fleeing their homes because of the water and freezing temperatures.

43-Division Army Said Year Away

PARIS, Dec. 29 (AP)—Formation of a 43-division European army is at least a year away, Italian Premier Alcide De Gasperi indicated today.

Following a morning session of foreign ministers and finance ministers of France, West Germany, Italy and the Benelux nations, De Gasperi told reporters a compromise proposal was discussed.

The proposal would set up an assembly of delegates from the six nations, which would have six months to draw up an agreement on the army. Parliaments of those countries then would have three months to ratify this.

Delegates at the meeting said progress was made today, and that the atmosphere was better than Friday, when the meeting was split over how to pay for the army, and what kind of supervisory body to set up to run it.

No-Man's-Land Set Up In Egypt

CAIRO, Dec. 29 — (AP). — British and Egyptian commanders have agreed on a six-mile-wide No-Man's-Land between their respective troops along the Cairo-Suez road, it was announced today.

Gen. Saad El Din Sabour, Egyptian army liaison officer, said the arrangement was made to prevent possible clashes between the two forces.

Police authorities in the capital meanwhile, got orders from the Ministry of Interior to disperse would-be demonstrators "by all means possible" as a move to prevent a repetition of anti-British violence earlier this week.

The order went out, police officials said, after 3,200 girl students at four secondary schools walked out in protest against the government shutdown of all boys' schools.

The government closed the boys' universities and secondary schools following two days of student rioting Wednesday and Thursday over King Farouk's appointment of a pro-British adviser to head his royal cabinet.

Bob Hope Faces Bill Of $30,000

LONDON, Dec. 29 (Reuters)—Comedian Bob Hope may face an income tax bill of up to $30,000 in Britain on a gift he made to a youth club in one of London's poorest districts last April.

He earned $42,000 with a two-week appearance at the Prince of Wales Theatre in London's West-end. He gave the entire amount to Clubland, a youth centre in the poor Elephant and Castle district of South London, run by Rev. James Butterworth, a Methodist minister.

Now the income tax men have sent a claim for tax to the club.

Mr. Butterworth said the money was spent in restoring his club, severely damaged by bombs during the war.

A spokesman of the inland revenue said the onus normally would be on the earner and not on the receiver to pay the tax.

"A man can't avoid income tax just by giving his salary away," he said.

Premier Frost Sends Greetings

LINDSAY, Dec. 29—(CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario says 1952 will be a year that will test the material and spiritual resources of everyone.

In a New Year's message issued Friday night at his home here, he said:

"As we stand at the threshold of a New Year, we, the thankful people of Ontario, count the many blessings that have been ours during the year . . .

"The year 1952 will be one of testing the material and spiritual resources of all; the problems of a growing nation, the need for expansion and development, the cost of armament for defence of our Canadian way of life, will impose heavy burdens upon everyone in the land.

'It will be for us to rearm ourselves spiritually, to realize that greater burdens must be met with greater effort.

"It will be a year in which we, the people, must highly resolve to drive out defeatism, intolerance and selfishness, to the end that the burdens that are ours may be shared in proportion to the ability of each and every one of us.

"In this spirit I wish one and all a happy and prosperous New Year."

Government Sues

HONOLULU, Dec. 29 (AP) —The government Friday sued a Honolulu couple for $1,084,089 in income taxes and penalties. The tax lien, largest ever filed in Hawaii, was filed against the properties of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Santos. Santos is a Honolulu shoe store owner.

Claxton Plane Reaches Tokyo

By BILL BOSS

TOKYO, Dec. 29—(CP)—The sleek RCAF aircraft carrying Defence Minister Claxton and Veterans Minister Lapointe to Korea touched down at Tokyo's Hanada airport tonight after a long, bumpy trans-Pacific flight.

The Canadian minister and their party, obviously tired, warmed to enthusiastic greetings by Gen. Matthew Ridgway, United Nations Supreme Commander, who welcomed them. Several other high-ranking representatives of the UN command were also on hand.

Claxton told Japanese reporters he would continue on to Korea 'shortly" and that he would visit Japanese Premier Shigeru Yoshida before returning to Canada.

Lapointe said he was "really tired" after the trip.

"I've so lost track of the time that I don't know whether it's today, yesterday or tomorrow in Canada now."

During their visit here Claxton and LaPointe will stay with A. R. Menzies, head of the Canadian military mission in Japan.

Ancient British Right Restored To Citizens

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The government decided Friday to restore to Britons one of their ancient freedoms—the right to buy a foreign parrot.

The health ministry said it will revoke Jan. 1 a 21-year-old ban on all birds of the parrot type, including budgereegahs and cockatoos.

Polly used to be a favorite pet in many British households until the ban was ordered in 1930 following an outbreak of psittacosis (parrot disease).

The health ministry announced psittacosis is not confined to parrots as was thought in 1930, but occurs also in Britain's commonest wild birds.

Says Firemen Muffed Job

SANDWICH WEST, Dec. 29 — (CP)—Robert Mennenga Friday night charged that Windsor firemen "stood warming their hands" while his home burned to the ground. The charge was made at a meeting of this Windsor suburb's council.

Mr. Mennenga indicated that the fire-fighters brought the wrong equipment to the fire. He said one truck arrived with only a small hose "the size of a garden hose" some 30 minutes after the initial alarm was turned in.

"They made no attempt to save anything," he said. "They just stood around warming their hands."

Windsor fire department will be asked by council for an explanation.

3500-Year-Old Tombs Open New Chapter In History

PRINCETON, NJ, Dec. 29 (AP) —A new chapter in the history of the ancient world may be opened by the discovery of 13 tombs in the ruins of Athens, an American archaeologist says.

Finding of the tombs, dug about 3,500 years ago, was reported Friday by Homer A. Thompson, field director of the expedition restoring the market place, or agora, of the city which cradled Greek civilization.

The discoveries, Thompson said, revise long accepted theories of a period of Greek history about which little is known.

Perfectly preserved skeletons were found in the tombs, and burial ornaments which definitely change current concepts about the state of Athenian culture of the Bronze Age.

The graves contained bases, jewellery, bronze, daggers and ivory combs.

Thompson told a meeting of the Archaeological Institute of America the evidence found makes possible extension of knowledge of the Bronze Age by as much as 20 years, possibly to 1600 BC.

The skill of the handiwork on the objects found in the graves makes it clear that the Athenians of this early period were well advanced culturally, contrary to accepted ideas, Thompson said.

Archaeologists discovered the graves last summer while they were clearing away ruins built on top of the famous Athenian market place.

The project got its start in 1896 under the direction of German archaeologists.

The current American expeditions began in 1931 but were interrupted during the war.

Produce Electric Power From A-Energy For First

CHICAGO, Dec. 29—(AP)— Electric power has been produced from atomic energy by United States scientists for the first time, the Atomic Energy Commission said today.

The power—more than 100 kilowatts—was generated and used to operate pumps, reactor equipment, provide lights and electrical facilities at the National Reactor Testing Station, Arco, Idaho.

A trial run Dec. 21 and 22, produced the power, the AEC said.

The heat energy generated was removed from the reactor by a liquid metal at a temperature high enough to generate steam to drive a turbine, the Commission added.

The tests were carried on an experimental basis, because the breeder reactor can never generate large amounts of electrical power.

Cost was not an essential factor, and it was emphasized that no comparison should be made of the cost of producing electric power from this reactor with power from conventional sources.

The Commission said the experiment was not intended to show that electrical power can be economically produced from nuclear sources. But the technical information gained by the experiment may be useful in the design of future reactors aimed at generating electricity at a competitive cost, the AEC said.

Tip From Belleville Brings Arson Arrest

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 — (CP) — Firemen put out a house fire Friday night before an alarm was turned in and police charged a 24-year-old plumber with arson as the result of a tip from Belleville, 175 miles away.

Police said the plumber, Walter Gallinger, telephoned his wife earlier in the day and threatened to burn the home, owned by Mrs. Gallinger.

Mrs. Gallinger, police said, called friends in Ottawa who passed on the information to police and firemen—both on hand shortly after the fire broke out. Firefighting operations were hampered by lack of water, however, and the house was considerably damaged.

Rork Ferguson Returned Norwood Reeve

Rork Ferguson was given an 11th term as Reeve of Norwood by acclamation at the municipal nomination meeting held in the Town Hall Friday night.

Rod Webb, a councillor for the past five years, was also nominated, but refused.

Only three of the seven men nominated as councillors had qualified by press time today. Dr. A. R. Atkinson, a councillor for three years, was nominated, but refused to accept. The other six nominated were Rod Webb, Cecil Cuthbertson, Henry Pearce, Gordon Parker, John Nixon, and Ivan Beggs.

Webb, Pearce and Nixon have qualified. Webb has been a councillor for five and Nixon for seven years.

REEVE FERGUSON

Harold Bolton, Fred Kempt, and Keenie Edmunds were nominated for the two vacancies on the Utilities Commission, but Kempt was not present to accept the nomination.

Four men were nominated to fill the three vacancies on the School Board: David McNeill, 1951 chairman; Stanley Flett, Arthur Bitten, and Joseph Clements. Mr. Flett declined the nomination.

All nominees will have until tonight to qualify for the election which will be held January 7.

A STURDY AXE still is the only solution to the disposal of unsold Christmas trees, says Montreal dealer Albert Berthelette. Here he's hard at work destroying the 25 trees left on his lot after Christmas. Although he disposed of more than 200 trees to customers in his area, he claims the market this year was not as good as last Christmas.

Spotty Unemployment In 1952—Gregg

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 (CP). — Canada will have a strong demand for labor in 1952 though there may be "spotty" unemployment through the year, Labor Minister Gregg predicted Friday.

In his annual new year statement, the minister said it is likely the main characteristics of the 1951 labor picture will carry into next year as defence industries speed up.

In a simultaneous New Year message, president Percy R. Bengough of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada was critical of the government for not stemming recent unemployment and for permitting continued winter immigration without enough jobs available.

A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, expressed regret at the "general feeling of fear and frustration" in the world but said Canadians may still be buoyed by hope for a better world.

The Labor Minister said that, for the first few months of 1952, there will be winter unemployment, followed by spotty unemployment later.

Basic Trend Firm

But, he added, the basic economic trend is firm. Defence industries would step up. It was expected consumer demand would reassert itself. The year would be a busy one in construction.

"Employment and wages were never higher, but at the same time consumer prices rose and small pockets of unemployment were produced by the shifts in labor demand that took place during the year.

"In general, however, supply and demand were fairly well in balance, and shortages of certain workers did not turn out to be as severe as had been anticipated."

Employment problems during the year were caused by a decline in consumer buying, Mr. Gregg said. An unusual employment situation was created by the fact there were labor surpluses in some parts of Quebec and Ontario while there were shortages in other areas.

Calls It Serious

President Bengough, calling the December unemployment serious, said two factors had contributed to it: "Restrictions on credit buying and the wholesale importation of goods from other countries to the detriment of Canadian business and its employees."

The government should have recognized this, "instead of just drifting along haphazardly into confusion causing misery for an increasing number of people."

He added:

"Such recognition of the real factors at work and such desire for a correction of the trend of affairs is lacking in government circles, as is so well borne out by the fact that one department of government is busily bringing in new immigrants to look for work where there isn't any. . .

Not Right Method

"Canada needs a far larger population to assist in its development . . . but immigration schemes that add only to existing unemployment and encourage the spread of misery are not conducive to the making of good citizens or to the proper expansion of the country."

President Mosher said that, despite the world peace outlook, in many fields the present is better than the past and there is justification for believing the future will be even better.

"There is still much to be done, and every one of us must accept his share of responsibility for whatever contribution he can make to human welfare, but the main thing, as we look into the new year, is that we may still feel that we are buoyed by hope and by the visible evidence all about us that progress is still possible, and a better world is in the making."

House Likely

Centre) clashed with Justice Minister Garson over Mr. Diefenbaker's suggestion that the reason the government is not acting against "loss leaders"—selling to attract customers and destroy competition — is because "it might hurt their great and powerful friends."

Mr. Garson charged that Mr. Diefenbaker was not "telling the truth" and Mr. Diefenbaker retorted that the Justice Minister would retract that statement if he was "big enough". The exchange ended with neither withdrawing his charge.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested the legislation was a "sham" in that there was nothing in it to prevent a manufacturer from cutting off supplies to a retailer and without giving any reason for the action. It would be impossible for the Crown to prove that a manufacturer refused to deliver goods because a retailer declined to sell at fixed prices.

There was nothing to prevent a manufacturer from putting a retailer on a quota and alloting him only a small quantity of goods if he refused to sell at a fixed price.

Call Halt

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) suggested that the government had made such a "tight" alliance on the bill with the so-called "big interests" that never again will "any person be able to talk about big interests in terms of any political organization other than this government."

Shortly before adjournment, Mr. Drew announced that his party was calling a halt to its seven-day battle against the measure. It was evident, he said, that his party would have to bow to the weight of the government majority.

As a final attempt to get the House to reject what he described as an "ill-considered" measure, he moved that the legislation be given third reading six months hence. That technical device is used in efforts to kill government legislation. His motion was defeated 111-27.

Two Seek Post Omemee Reeve

OMEMEE, Dec. 29 — (ENS).— Omemee held nominations Friday night from 7 to 8 o'clock.

The present Council—S. Nurse, L. M. McKenzie, Walter Mitchell, and George Stephenson — were all re-nominated, as was Reeve H. Deyell. Additional nominees for Council were: N. H. Ruttle, Garnet Wallerman, Wilson Ellis, and David Deyell.

James Magee and N. H. Ruttle were also nominated for Reeve. Mr. Ruttle having received his Council nomination first and not being present to cancel it by nine o'clock, will not be able to qualify as a candidate for the Reeveship.

The two retiring men on the Hydro Board, Cecil Jones and Clifford Elliott, were the only nominations for that office.

The retiring Board of Education members are: V. Saulter, Mrs. H. Green, and Mrs. G. N. Earle. The following nominations were placed: Mrs. Saulter, Mrs. L. McQuade, Mrs. G. N. Earle, and Wiliam Fisher.

After the nominations the Reeve and councillors sketched the work accomplished during the year. The hydro report was read by H. Hill, and the school report by H. Sisson.

Errol L. Fallis

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 29 — (ENS) — Funeral services were held in Nestleton on Thursday afternoon for Errol L. Fallis, a former resident of Campbellford. Mr. Fallis had been in failing health for some time and was taken to Hamilton about two weeks ago. He died on Christmas eve.

Surviving are his wife, the former Hannah Graham and one brother, Rowena Fallis of Toronto. Services were conducted from the residence of C. H. Fallis, Nestleton, on Thursday afternoon. Burial was in Nestleton cemetery.

Warm Reception

MIDDLETOWN, O. Dec. 29 (CP) —A warm wedding reception followed the marriage of Elva Kathleen Hall of Franklin, O., and Merrill U. Muttart of Edmonton. The bride's veil caught fire. The new Mrs Muttart suffered burns on her arms and back.

Farmer Loses Bet

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 29 (AP)—A 30-year-old farmer bet his friends Friday night he could drink a pint of grappa (a strong alcoholic drink distilled from grapes) in one gulp. His funeral will be held Monday.

DIED

The Holland-Amerika liner Noordam stood by the Flying Enterprise part of the night. The New York Coast Guard said the Enterprise "has plenty of help if assistance can be carried out in heavy seas."

The Southland, a freighter of the South American Steamship Line, and a British freighter, the 4,986-ton Sherborne, also went to the aid of the Flying Enterprise. The Noordam's captain decided adequate help was on hand and resumed his trip to Rotterdam.

The Flying Enterprise is owned by the Isbrandtsen Line of New York.

None of its rescuers indicated immediately whether they had been able to take off the crew and passengers. Earlier the Flying Enterprise had radioed she hoped to stay afloat until daylight and transfer her passengers then.

Worst hit was the area off Land's End, the southwestern tip of Britain.

Worst Hit

The 7,256-ton freighter Buccaneer of Panamanian registry radioed it was rudderless with a lost propeller and needed help. French and Dutch tugs went to the rescue.

In the same area, the 4,300-ton Henry Stevenson from New York messaged for aid saying, "Quick, unable to hold."

Another Panamanian ship, the 1,307-ton freighter Wear, radioed it was out of control off Land's End, with its engine room half full of water. Later it reported rescuers were at hand.

The storm extended all along the European coast. Small coastal shipping was taking the worst beating. Off the Spanish coast the 400-ton Dutch coaster Gemma said it had lost its lifeboats after being battered among the rocks following an engine failure.

Off the Danish coast the Polish trawler Jorvis was driven aground by the violent winds during the night but its crew of 28 refused to be taken off by coast guard lifeboatmen.

Navigation Halted

Along the French coast, roofs were ripped off and trees blown down. Navigation at the big French port of Bordeaux was halted.

The high winds sent flood waters as high as four feet over some parts of England. Rail transport, too, was slowed by flood waters in Southern England. Ballast on the main line tracks from London to Plymouth was washed out by the high seas, but railroad officials said trains still could move through the area at a 10-miles-an-hour speed limit.

Liners in British ports were unable to berth or sail because of the winds, recorded up to 97 miles an hour. Transatlantic flights were cancelled or diverted.

The liner Queen Mary, in which Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and their party are due to leave Southampton for New York Sunday, was held up with other vessels off the Isle of Wight. The big liner is already two days behind schedule on her voyage from New York.

Drivers Expected To Repeat Good Record

Anyone who drives a car after drinking during the New Year holiday stands a good chance of greeting 1952 through the bars of a city jail cell.

Extra patrols will be combing residential streets and all policemen will be on the alert to nab drinking drivers before they can injure themselves and others.

Only one driver was arrested over the Christmas weekend and charged with driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol. Police Chief John Thompson said today "it was the quietest Christmas in years."

Terming this an "exceptional record," Chief Thompson urged everyone to co-operate in making the coming New Year holiday safe and free of accidents.

Now is the time to arrange for transportation and leave your car at home if you expect to be drinking any liquor at New Year's Eve parties.

Watch At Dances

Policemen will be on duty at all places where there is public entertainment to keep an eye on celebrants who appear to be under the influence as they leave.

If anyone who appears to be even slightly inebriated attempts to drive a car, he will be picked up.

Under an ammendment to the Criminal Code passed in July this year, it is an offence to drive or be in charge of a car if the driver's ability is impaired by alcohol.

A charge can be laid under this section regardless of whether the car is in motion or not. Court cases have shown it is much easier to obtain a conviction of driving while impaired than it is to convict a driver of driving while intoxicated because it is not necessary to prove the person at the wheel was drunk.

The penalty is a $50 fine for a first offence plus the cancellation of the driver's licence and the car may also be impounded. A drunk driving conviction carries with it a seven day jail sentence and also the driver's licence may be suspended and the car impounded.

Armed with this new legal weapon to curb drinking drivers, police will be in a better position than in any previous year to crack down on those who are unfit to drive cars before they have a chance to do any damage.

Last Immigrants Dock For 1951

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP)—The last group of immigrants to arrive in Canada this year are scheduled to be welcomed at the port of Halifax today, Canadian National Railways officials reported. The 2,000 new Canadians are coming from Bremerhaven, Cherbourg and Southampton in the SS Anna Salen and the SS Canberra.

One of the busiest years for immigration that Halifax has experienced in decades, today's arrivals will bring the total number of immigrants handled through Halifax to 102,000. To transport them to their new homes from Newfoundland to British Columbia, the Canadian National Railways operated 252 special boat trains as well as hundreds of extra cars on regular trains from dockside.

Work At End

When the Anna Salen arrives, it will bring to an end the work of the International Refugee Organization, which has assisted the immigration of hundreds of thousands of Europeans to various parts of the world. However, there will be no more curtailment in the immigration to this country, because the work of the IRO, insofar as Canada is concerned, will be carried on by Canadian organizations.

Indication that there will be no let up in the number of immigrants coming to Canada in 1952 is reflected by the fact that in the first 18 days of January 14 big trans-Atlantic liners are scheduled to dock at Halifax. In the past year Halifax welcomed more new Canadians than all other Canadian ports combined.

Few November Strikes

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 (CP). — Strikes caused a loss of only a small fraction of working time during November, the Labor Department reported Friday. The fraction was .04 per cent. There were 18 strikes in the month, involving 8,617 workers and causing loss of 38,315 days.

Reach Production Goal

MOSCOW, Dec. 29 — (AP) — Russia's oil industry announced today it has reached its 1951 production goal three days ahead of the deadline. In a telegram to Prime Minister Stalin, the oil industry minister reported that the production schedule had been completed Friday.

Yugoslavia's Budget

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Yugoslav parliament was handed a federal budget for 1952 today which would devote 74 per cent of the federal income to military expenses and defence industries. The total budget for Premier Marshal Tito's government was set at 282,150,-60,000 dinars.

34 Major League Records Broken Or Tied In '51 Ball

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP). — Thirty-four major league and American League records were broken or tied during the 1951 baseball season—33 fewer than last year.

High spot in the new AL marks was provided by Chico Carrasquel, Chicago White Sox shotstop. Official statistics today credited Chico with handling consecutive errorless chances, the previous mark of 288 set by New York's Phil Rizzuto during the 1949 and 1950 campaigns.

Four other individual stars tied major league batting records. New York's rookie of the year, Gil McDougald, batted in six runs in one inning. Gil Coan of Washington belted two triples in one inning. Philadelphia's Gus Zernial slammed six homers in three consecutive games. Cleveland's Al Rosen hit four grand-slam homers during the season.

Other high marks of the 1951 season included:

Major League Records Broken

Consecutive club victories—13, Cleveland.

Consecutive club victories—14, Chicago.

Most double plays started by third baseman, game—3, Vern Stephens.

'Quarter' Loan Costs Man $14

LINDSAY, Dec. 29—An attempt to borrow a quarter from a police officer in plain clothes was disastrous Thursday for a Pontypool man.

He was charged with vagrancy, placed on suspended sentence and ordered to pay $14 court costs. Accused pleaded not guilty, saying he didn't remember any of the incidents leading to his arrest.

Constable Percy Mark told Magistrate E. A. Gee that he was in a Lindsay garage Dec. 22 when the accused entered, and took a bottle of pop from the cooler. Finding he had only five cents, the accused tried to borrow a quarter from the constable.

Constable Mark arrested him on a vagrancy charge after the man claimed he was a veteran but could show no papers to prove it. Accused's brother later bailed him out for Christmas.

Asks United Front

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP). — Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg, Friday night called for a united religious front against world communism. In a sermon at Holy Blossom Temple he said a common ideological weapon would advance the cause of democracy more surely than a dozen armies.

Robbers Salary Up

VANCOUVER, Dec. 29 (CP). — Profitable expansion in their year's business has been reported by Vancouver burglars. Their annual report, handed down Friday through courtesy of the Vancouver police department, showed a gross income of approximately $700,000. This is considerably higher than the $631,000 stolen in 1950.

Decentralization In Education Wins Praise

TORONTO, Dec. 29— (CP) — Teachers, education officials and a leading United States educationist Friday looked at education from a variety of angles in the second day of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation annual convention.

From the standpoint of pay, the teachers criticized a single salary schedule adopted in Toronto because they said it deprived OSSTF members of the right to bargain exclusively for themslves.

Under the single schedule elementary school teachers with training and service equal to secondary school teachers get the same pay.

John R. H. Morgan, secondary school superintendent, replied that 87 per cent cent of secondary school teachers received top category salaries while only 1.22 per cent of elementary school teachers were in the highest category.

International Angle

From the International angle, Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, author of the book "Crisis in Education," praised Ontario's education system for its decentralization of authority. In the United States, he said, there was a danger of the Federal government using grants to make the schools propaganda agents for the group in power.

Schools had bitten off more than they could chew in attempting to educate the whole child for a whole life, he said.

"The school isn't falling down on the job. The job is falling down on the school and the teachers and it's crushing the life out of them."

Schools should set themselves to teach disciplined methods of thought, reading, writing and arithmetics and good manners.

MOH's Quarters Lack Water Basin

Architects of the city hall will have to be consulted about some minor alterations to provide water connection in the office which has been alloted to Dr. R. A. Kelly and his department of health.

Just two months of occupation have brought about this change. There is no water basin in the office of the local department. There are washrooms a short distance down the hall, but it is now proposed that a pipe connection be laid into the office room.

Council has decided to close up the former Turner house, which was for several years tenanted by Dr. Kelly and his staff. The coal bin was empty Friday, and the committee of the whole council instructed City Clerk Outram to arrange for "winterization."

Mr. Outram ordered a couple of bags of coal to keep the buildings warm until a plumber can drain off the water from the pipe systems. The new council will probably decide what is to be done with the house at the corner of Water and McDonnel Streets some time in the new year.

William Smith

MARMORA, Dec. 29 (ENS)— St. Paul's Anglican church was well filled on Thursday afternoon for the funeral of William Smith under auspices of Marmora LOL 319. Canon J. M. Brownlie officiated. The hymns sung were "Jesus, Lover of my Soul" and "Abide With Me". Burial followed in the new Orange plot in Marmora Protestant Cemetery. Last rites of the Orange Order were conducted by W. M. Cecil Holland and Chaplain W. J. Cottrell. There were many beautiful floral emblems.

Members of the Orange Order officiating as bearers were Herbert Wright, Fred Matthews, Stewart Varty, Percy Gordon, Gordon Jones and Clayton Clemenger.

Beautiful Maligne Lake Charms Visitors At Jasper

One of the most beautiful places in Canada, Jasper Park Lodge nestles on the shore of Lac Beauvert in Alberta like a sparkling jewel in a ring of mountains. Instead of one big building, like most other rocky resorts, it is a charming village of log bungalows built by the CNR to harmonize with the surroundings.

Because it is broken up into small units, Jasper has a more intimate and rustic atmosphere than most spots. This has a strong appeal for visitors. It is three miles from the CNR station, but because of its great loveliness and charm it might be a thousand miles away from the ordinary world

Lac Beauvert is an irregular horse-shoe shape with wooded peninsulas running out from each side. As its name indicates, it is a beautiful green color, ranging through every tone from pale aquamarine to beryl, emerald, jade and malachite. This is one of the chief charms of all the Rocky Mountain lakes. Beauvert's moods are varied and you may see as many as 20 colors in a single hour. Looking across from the lodge, the dominating feature is Mt Edith Cavell. At all hours, the two form one picture. The reflections are wonderful, and when the water is like glass, it is so clear that you can distinguish pebbles on the bottom 30 feet below.

The Jasper National Park was created in 1907 and the railway went through a few years later. The Lodge actually opened in 1922 and has been charming tourists ever since. This was the route for explorers and fur traders. Fur brigades went across the passes of Jasper's mountains to the western sea.

Jasper gets its name from an old Missouri fur trader known as Jasper Hawes. It must have been as wonderful and awe inspiring to him then as it is today with its massive mountains, waterfalls, lakes and tumbled ice of vast glaciers.

Lots Of Time

In days gone by, too many people have thought in terms of distance and discarded the idea of visiting Canada's mountains . . . "not enough time" being their terse excuse. With modern transportation, this is completely outdated.

By leaving Toronto on the CNR midnight train, the visitor can be in Jasper in 2½ days. He can travel 1st class or tourist, the latter bringing quite a reduction in fare, yet being quite comfortable. That leaves more than a week to enjoy the wonderful mountain country. Or if passengers choose another route and happen to be staying at Lake Louise or Banff, there is excellent bus service to Jasper. Those interested can contact E. J. Ryan at the CNR office on George St. above Charlotte.

Jasper Park Lodge is open from the middle of June to the second week in September. To give an idea of costs, there are 16-room cabins containing single rooms without bath, but with running water costing $12 a day. This includes meals (American plan). There are 16-room cabins with single rooms and bath at $14 a day, including meals.

Since these estimates include meals, they are very resonable. Officials stress that reservations should be made early because they are full during the summer. There are many other smaller hotels and lodges in the Jasper area where costs are much lower if the budget has to be cut. The same scenery and same trips are available.

Things To See

A visitor can spend months in the Jasper area and only scratch the surface of things to see and do. But for the person with limited time, there are many possibilities.

Visit Glacier

Mount Edith Cavell soars above the valley in superb beauty. A drive can be taken to the foot of the mountains.

Or there are the thrilling switchbacks, revealing more and more wonderful panoramas that carry you over 20 miles and up 2,000 feet to the wings of Angel glacier. There you can have tea at the tea house and have the unusual experience of walking over the living ice. The highest point reached here is 6,300 feet above sea level.

Something that might qualify as the piece de resistance is Mile High Lake, perhaps better known as Lake Maligne. A trip through all or part of this area, is considered worth the trip west alone.

From the lodge to the end of Maligne Lake is a trip of 100 miles. You can ride over Skyline trails on a jaunt that takes four days or you can do it in a day by car and boat. It isn't its size that makes Maligne great, though it is the largest glacier-fed stream in the Rockies. It is sheer, breath-taking beauty, a mile above sea level, walled in by mountain peaks that reach another two or more miles in the air. Impressive mountains, steep as skyscrapers and more massive can be seen from the chalet. But to get the full perspective of the tremendous shapes, it is necessary to take the 17-mile boat trip to the end of the lake.

The route via Medicine Lake, 15 miles from Jasper Park Lodge, can be reached by car. Leaving Medicine Lake, the road follows the Maligne river, tumultuous greenish-white stream of fair size. Ten miles south you catch the first glimpse of the shining snow peaks surrounding Maligne Lake. On the latter near the outlet to the river, is the chalet. Before it for 17 miles lies Maligne Lake.

Wonderful View

This is a pretty view, but to get the most out of it you must take the boat trip beyond the Narrows, nine miles from the chalet, where the upper part of the lake is revealed.

Beginning with Mount Samson (jagged peak of 10,000 ft. facing the chalet on the left) the altitude of the peaks forming the Maligne groups (Mts. Charlton, Unwin, Warren, Mary Vaux and Maligne) increases till in Mt. Brazeau it reaches 11,380 ft.

The mountains rise sharply from the lake, heavily laden with snow and ice. At the southwest end of the lake, farthest from the chalet, lies a snowfield of considerable size. Head in a southerly direction toward the Brazeau river and there is a high snow pass. There are many spots here for easy climbs for the amateurs.

Maligne Lake derives its name from the river, it is said, from the dangerous ford at its mouth. In the old days of the fur brigades, there were many mishaps to both horses and men at the crossing, so it came to be dubbed "maligne traverse."

Passing the Narrows into the upper lake, you find a natural amphitheatre with a great sheet of blue sapphire. There are more than a score of glorious peaks and 20 glaciers form wonderful reflections in the vivid blue. Great towers face in every direction with every shape of mountain architecture on display.

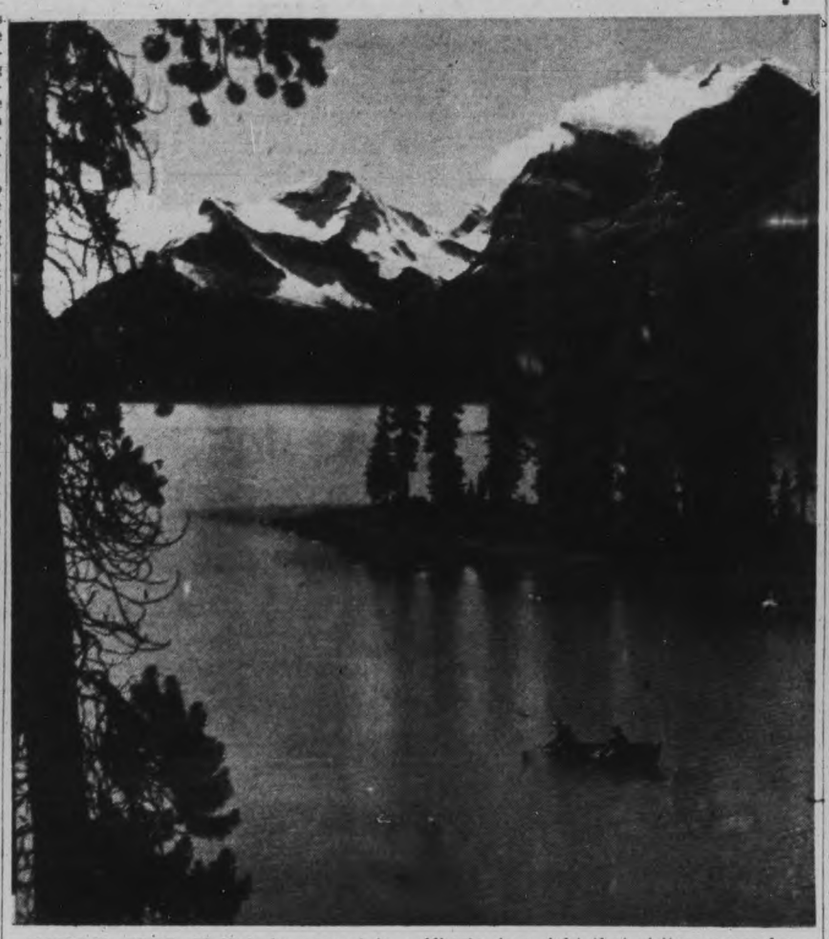
If you stay at the chalet (the American plan which includes meals) you can have a cabin room for $12 a day or in the heated canvas houses at $10 a day. The boat trip on Maligne Lake is $5 per person return.

Cheaper Trips

For those who have neither the time nor the money for such an extended tour, there are several shorter trips that are lovely and interesting. A 40-mile return trip goes to Maligne Canyon. A bus leaves the Jasper Lodge at approximately 1.30 pm. It takes 4½ hours and costs $6 per passenger. The route is over the road to Maligne Canyon and beyond for 14 miles to the lower end of Medicine Lake. Here passengers are taken on a scenic boat cruise across the lake. The unique feature of this lake is that though it is 30 feet deep in summer, it completely disappears through invisible outlets in the fall of the year.

A shorter trip covers 12 miles in 1½ hours at $2. The bus leaves the lodge at 10 am and 2.30 pm. It visits the canyon into which the Maligne river plunges through a gorge 188 feet deep, one of the most extraordinary in the Rockies. The route is over gradually ascending roads from which the tourist can get magnificent views of mountains and the Athabaska Valley. The fish hatchery on lower Maligne River, beyond Lake Edith, is also interesting.

There is also a one-day Maligne trip. You leave Jasper at 7.30 am, motor to Medicine Lake and cross by boat. Then the tourist proceeds by car to Maligne Lake, arriving at 11 am. The return journey over the same route, leaving the chalet at 4 pm has the visitor back to Jasper by 7.30 pm. This trip from the lodge to Maligne Lake—100 miles return—includes transportation, luncheon and afternoon tea at the chalet and a scenic boat trip on Maligne Lake. The total cost is $20, not exorbitant when you note all the things included.



Overnight Jaunt

There is an overnight jaunt to Maligne. A bus leaves the lodge at 9.30 am and goes to Medicine Lake, crossing and reaching Maligne Lake at 1 pm. You leave the chalet to return the next day at 2 pm and reach Jasper at 5.30 pm.

For those anglers who like to try their luck, the lower Maligne River is a good spot. The government fish hatchery in Jasper keeps the lakes and rivers well stocked. If you are in this area you are likely to become a member of the Maligne River Anglers Club. A fish of a pound or more entitles you to a bronze button. The fisherman who gets the heaviest trout in the season gets a gold button to prove his championship.

Another 3-hour general drive gives the visitor an interesting tour. The bus leaves Jasper at 9.30 am and 2.30 pm and touches the fish hatchery, visits the bears, Athabaska River, Lakes Annette and Edith, Maligne Canyon; you get a sweeping view of the Athabaska Valley, Pyramid Mountain, Lakes Patricia and Pyramid and a glimpse of "the Raven"—one of the largest totem poles.

From Jasper, you can also visit the Columbia Icefields, Amethyst Lakes, Angel Glacier and the Tonquin Valley . . . gorgeous beauty spots. There are no dull moments in such a lovely place.

LOVELY SPOT—Walled by mountain peaks towering thousands of feet into the air, Maligne Lake in Jasper National Park, Alberta, is a sight that visitors never forget. A favorite view shows the Narrows with its snow-capped peaks.

Cotten Decides Long-Run Films Not Bore

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29 (AP)—Joseph Cotten used to think making long-run pictures was a bore. Now he's not so sure.

Cotten has probably been in more long-run pictures than any other actor. That is because he has worked for David O. Selznick, who makes and remakes movies until they suit him. The actor doubtless yearns for such leisurely filming after "Untamed", a slam-bang affair in which he suffered a painful back injury.

"Citizen Kane" was Cotten's first picture. It was a good omen of what was to come, since it was made in easy-going style by the boy genius, Orson Welles. Later, Cotten appeared in "Since You Went Away," "Duel In The Sun" and "Portrait of Jenny," which averaged around two years in production.

"Nobody quite knew what 'Portrait of Jenny' was about," explained the actor. "Even the author of the book, Robert Nathan, wasn't sure. David (Selznick) would say, 'Now I know what it means,' and proceed to re-film whole sequences."

Cotten also worked for another unorthodox movie maker, Howard Hughes. He co-starred with Valli in a picture called "Weep No More" (finally released as "Walk Softly, Stranger"). It was made before the Hughes regime took over.

"I had gone to Europe to make a few pictures," Cotten said. "Every time I returned, I'd make a new ending for 'Weep No More.' I never did find out which one they used." . . .

Crosby Happy

Bing Crosby startled the Hollywood Women's Press Club by showing up to play Santa Claus at their Christmas party. He has been like the genial Bing that the public knows.

The reason for the change is not known. But insiders say that Bing and his wife, Dixie, are happier than they have been in years. And Bing is mighty proud of his four boys . . .

Trucker Killed

TORONTO, Dec. 29 — (CP) — John Houle, 24-year-old trucker whom doctors said could only live a few months more, was killed Friday when he slipped under the wheels of a friend's truck. Houle, who suffered from a bleeding ulcer, planned on being married in June despite his illness. His 21-year-old fiancee collapsed when she heard of his death.

Finding Happiness

Finding Happiness New Year Strange And Elusive

By NANCY CLEAVER

"A Happy New Year to you!" we wish our friends and relatives early in January. In our hearts we hope that the months which stretch ahead will be satisfying ones in our homes. We are eager that each and every member of our own family should find happiness in the New Year.

Happiness is a strange and elusive thing. Look at the faces of the men and women who pass you on a street. Do most of them look like happy people? Or do they appear tense and worried — and in a terrible hurry? The tempo of the age in which we live is not conductive to leisureliness or contentment!

What about the atmosphere in your homes? Early in a new year, fathers and mothers should take a long look at the kind of environment in which they are bringing up their children.

Would an impartial observer consider your home a happy one? This is not so dependent on the purchase of object as many people think. All the fine helps with housekeeping such as refrigerators, and vacuum sweepers — all the new tools for recreation such as radios,—are all very nice to own — but many of our grandparents created a happy home without them! In the twentieth century as in any past age, to a very great extent, the happiness in a home is colored, not by possessions, but by the parents' way of life.

If mothers and fathers are anxious and rushed and fearful, they poison the carefree atmosphere of the home. These attitudes are very catching. "Susan is a little worrier!" one teacher exclaimed to another teacher. "You should see her mother!" the other teacher answered. "After I had talked with Susan's mother I understood how the poor child could hardly help being such a fuss-box!"

No one will deny that these are difficult days for adults. With the high cost of living, the fear of atomic destruction and the feverish international situation, it is the easiest thing in the world to join the ranks of the "heavy worriers." Like drinking, or smoking, worry is a habit which can grow to alarming proportions in people of a certain temperament.

How can parents escape from drifting into an anxious, fearful attitude to life which destroys inner poise? Surely it would be a help to parents if they could remember the past without bitterness or regret, face the future with courage, and live each day as it downs fully and zestfully.

"What's done is done," Shakespeare said tersely. Past mistakes should not darken the present. We should learn from the errors we have committed so that we don't make the same blunder twice. But neither should we have a "Perfectionist Pattern" for ourselves! Let us not live in misery when we cannot completely reach our highest ideals.

The future lies before us and there is a very sensible old proverb about not crossing bridges until we come to them. So many dire calamities never happen which people have been sure would come to pass. They have been very uncomfortable imagining bad times overtaking them—and how they have wasted their time and energy!

We all can only live one day at a time. Sir William Osler, in his famous essay on a way of life, suggests that the path to happiness lies in living in the present and refusing to mourn over the past or be apprehensive about the future.

This all sounds very wise — but how do ordinary mortals acquire the ability to do just this? Think about the people who are your friends and acquaintances. Did you ever know anyone well who lived each day fully, without remorse or uncertainty, who was not a person of faith?

People like this do not belong to any one religion — and certainly not to any one denomination! By different paths they have reached the conviction that they do not struggle alone with their problems.

They lean on strength which comes from a Higher Power so that they can live a day at a time. In their own words, they echo in their hearts this ancient prayer:

"Temper my activity,
With manifold tranquility,
That I may do my work for Thee
In very great serenity."

A Blast At Progressive Education

The president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation aimed a blast at progressive education on Thursday, at the Federation's convention in Toronto. What Mr. George L. Roberts, of Oshawa, said was of considerable interest, and we agree with much of it. We have only space to discuss part of his address, however, and we shall give our attention at once to his contention that the progressive movement in education is out of touch with the realities of life when it eliminates, to as great a degree as possible, competition between children in classroom work. The move against competition undoubtedly arose as a protest against an undue and unfair stress upon competition which existed in classrooms years ago. Many normal children were made miserable because they did badly in the type of competition which was encouraged at that time; it was unjust to them, and their real capacities were slighted. The present trend is to the other extreme, toward no competition at all. That does not fit a child for life in a very competitive society. May not the solution, as is so often the case in education, lie in the golden mean?

* * *

Mr. Roberts also directed his scorn against the contention that public school and high school teachers should be on the same salary schedule; he said this was a sentimental, unreasoning and extravagant notion. He also said that a teacher without university training was likely to be better suited to the needs of small children than a university graduate. We do not see the logic of his argument. We do not think that university training complicates the mind; if it is any good at all, it simplifies it; it is not what a woman learns at the university which fits her to teach small children, but the breadth of sympathy and understanding of life which university education should give her. The beginners in school need the very best teachers.

* * *

Mr. Roberts' concern about education is shared by great numbers of parents in Ontario. An educational system must be judged by its results, and it often seems to parents today that methods, rather than results, are the preoccupation of modern schools. It is curious to find a child in grade six of a public school who knows a good deal about Pizzaro and Vasco da Gama, but who knows nothing about General Wolfe and has never heard of Henry VIII; what satisfaction is it if a child gains a good mark in something called "reading comprehension" if that child does not know that the verb "to be" takes the nominative case after it, and thinks "Give it to she and I" is a permissible sentence? Parents do not greatly care how children are taught, but they care greatly what they are taught. Too many products of our school system are ignoramuses, and at least half the fault lies with the methods of teaching.

* * *

In one part of his speech Mr. Roberts hit the nail square on the head. He is quoted as saying that the gravest fault of modern education is the preferment of the psychologist over the philosopher. The reason for this preferment is obvious: it is easier to be a showy, though superficial psychologist, than it is to be even a very modest philosopher. But the psychologist—applying that word loosely to some of the charlatans of education—loves to tinker with methods; either he does not care about results or is prepared to believe that anything which comes from a method of his devising must necessarily be a good result. To be a real psychologist is, of course, very difficult, and involves a long and painful course of personal re-education; the quacks who apply themselves to educational psychology are too often quickly and inadequately trained persons, more intent upon increased salary for themselves than upon the pursuit of knowledge or the advancement of education.

* * *

A philosopher, thinking about education, will first of all seek to determine what the result of education should be; he will then seek to discover by what means that result may be obtained. Very likely he will find that many methods will bring about the desired result, and he will find that in all of them the personality of the teacher is of great importance. He will then attempt to devise a method which will interfere as little as possible in the age-old and vitally important relationship between teacher and pupil. Of course, his method may not be very showy; it may not excite such professional educators as being basically indifferent to education or ignorant of what it really means—love jejune and fancy educational systems. But a reasonable, thoughtful method of education, designed to give all children a fair and broad chance to learn some necessary facts and the beginnings of wisdom, would be gratefully applauded by the parents of Ontario. We think that it would also be welcomed by great numbers of Ontario teachers who are now so hamstrung by fake-psychological methods of teaching that their own native talent for teaching has little chance to show itself.

New Stamp Designs

Our news columns have pictured two new stamps to be issued shortly: a twenty-cent and a four-cent. They are quite different from the traditional King's head stamps; and in design are better than many of the special commemorative stamps that the Dominion Post Office has issued. The twenty-cent stamp symbolizes forest products in a stylized, graphic manner. It is by A. L. Pollock, a Scotch designer and commercial artist who came to live in Canada recently. The new four-cent stamp was designed by the painter Emmanuel Hahn, R.C.A. of Toronto. It shows the head of a bighorn sheep. Both stamps are striking and attractive in black and white reproduction. We have not seen them in colour.

Canadian stamps have generally not been outstanding specimens of philatelic art. The new issues may mark a general improvement, for the Post Office Department instituted a new policy with these two issues. Canadian artists were asked to submit designs, and a selection committee headed by the Right Honourable Vincent Massey judged the entries. As a result, the designs of Mr. Hahn and Mr. Pollock were chosen. Another invitation to artists may go out shortly in preparation of other new stamps.

We believe that the new procedure may result in finer Canadian stamps. Although the final etching of the design depends on the craft and art of engravers, if the engravers do not have a good design to work from, the stamp cannot be superior. Practising artists ought to be depended on to produce good, distinctive designs.

Incidentally, the new four-cent stamp is the sixth four-center we shall have had in the last half-year—surely a record parade of them. There was the old red four showing the King's head. Next came the Mackenzie King purple-pink. Then an orange four replaced the old red one; it was of the same design. Next came a large gray four, one of the special series on transportation. Then the double mauve four to mark the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. And now the bighorn sheep four.

In planning any new series of stamps for every-day use we hope that the Post Office Department is not riddled with the anti-royal, anti-Dominion prejudices which have swept Ottawa statute books in the last months. Is the Post Office planning to do away forever with the King's head on its stamps? We wouldn't put this shameful deed past Government departments which have ousted the word 'Dominion' from the governmental vocabulary and spurned the word Royal. The Post Office department has already thrown out the traditional, honoured term 'Royal Mail'. It will have to be watched lest in the same surreptitious way it throws overboard the King's head on its stamps.

Deadly Icicles In Rome

We remarked on Thursday the vast number of icicles hanging from Peterborough walls this week. We mentioned their beauty. We pondered their hazard to life and limb but we could not remember any person who had ever been killed by a gleaming ice dagger. Mr. Wilfrid Huycke, K.C., solicitor for the city of Peterborough, has a longer memory. He remembered that a boy was killed in Rome by an icicle falling from a temple pillar, piercing his throat—two thousand years ago. He looked up the story and brought chapter and verse along.

It is told by the Spanish-Roman poet Martial who flourished in the first century A.D. It is found in his Selected Epigrams, Book IV, Number 18 ("Qua vicina pluit Vipsanis porta columnis"). Modestly saying that his Latin was rusty and apologizing because he did not have the art to translate the poem into verse, Mr. Huycke gave us this literal translation:

'In the place where the gate hard by the pillars of Vipsania is leaking and the stone is wet and slippery with continual rain, an icicle unduly heavy with the frost of winter fell down upon the throat of a boy who was crossing underneath the reeking building. And when the tender dagger had brought about the death of the poor boy, it melted away in the warm wound.

'For what has cruel fortune not chosen to deal out to you? Or where is any place safe from death, if you, O waters, take to cutting throats?'

So icicles not only look dangerous, but can be cruelly so, as Martial's poignant story proves. Thus it is best to cut them down, rather than to be cut down by them. We thank Mr. Huycke for uncovering the old story, an ancient instance of a timeless hazard.

BIBLIOMANIA

The Last For 1951

THE WINK, by Ken Bennett (Clarke, Irwin & Company).

ENGLISH WRITERS EXCEL in fantasy whimsically treated. "The Wink" is a delicate, fleshy and credible little piece about a minor saint in plaster bust in a poor Normandy church who winked at an American tourist infatuated with mysticism (despite her worldly dollars) and an English clergyman (low church) from Leeds, taking an unaccustomed holiday. The wink changed the village (conscious of the commercial possibilities as a new shrine) the American lady and the Anglican priest.

The author has a gently irreverent wit. Here is his view of the American lady: "Mrs. Hacket was probably one of the world's greatest optimists. Life had dealt gently with her. She dealt defty with it in return. Out of kindness of heart, she filled herself with good works yet she had no way of understanding any miseries she tried to relieve because she had never known misery. It suited her to spend her middle age in pursuit of God, and she set about it with the amiable determination of an elderly dairymaid chasing an elderly cow round a medium-sized field".

The book is as meaningful and meaningless as a wink, and quite as entertaining. The writer knows his people, their foibles. His French village setting in excellent. The book is very good fun, practised by a writer who knows how to handle dialogue and who half believes what he writes. It has not previously appeared, in instalments, in The New Yorker. An oversight by the late editor, no doubt. T.J.A.

THE CAPTAIN, by Russell Thatcher (Macmillan Co. of Canada).

THE MORAL OF THIS story is, I suppose, Don't join the Navy. For his hero, Mr. Thatcher has chosen a naval lieutenant and placed him in command of an LST. Ordered to take a load of Marines and equipment to Kia Orta, he encounters every difficulty the captaincy of a ship can offer as well as every dirty deal the Navy can rush up at short notice. (Anyone who has had any position of responsibility in any of the forces knows what this means, being griped at from those under and kicked by those on top.) Carrying an over-load of passengers in the form of Marines, insufficient supplies of food, mostly wormy, and no doctor or proper medical supplies, the Captain tries to successfully complete his mission, although he is riddled with fever and heartsick and exhausted from the constant friction with his crew and his superiors. When he is finally ordered to leave his recently landed Marines and retreat, under enemy fire, without unloading their equipment he refuses, thereby laying himself open to a charge of mutiny (among other things). But he is weakly human and although realizing that humanitarianism never won a war, he is determined that he will not desert the men he brought without their supplies. The end for him is a foregone conclusion. This is not a book for the weak-stomached, or those who have visions of glory with clean, smiling sailors on scrubbed decks with polished guns standing on guard over their freedom, but it is a book for those who can take the unvarnished truth. The language of men aboard ship has never been deemed a thing of beauty and it isn't; the difficulty of maintaining discipline and at the same time bolstering morale with ample rum rations is an acknowledged one—on a well-equipped ship instances of venereal disease after stopping at a supply port are not considered troublesome, nor are cases of homosexuality exactly unknown, and Mr. Thatcher makes no attempt to fluff over these details. He has something to say and the guts to say it without apology. Nor does he waste time with apologies in the form of "Any resemblance to persons living or dead are strictly coincidental" or some such nonsense; he admits that some instances and people are taken from life—his attitude being that he has nothing to be ashamed of even if they have. "The Captain" is an excellent story and ably presented. S.S.T.

THE PORTABLE HENRY JAMES, edited by M. D. Zabel (Macmillan).

THE PORTABLE CERVANTES, edited by Samuel Putnam (Macmillan).

IT IS ODD and amusing that these two additions to the excellent "Portable" Library should arrive for review together, for two geniuses less alike than James and Cervantes would be hard to imagine. Both volumes, however, should be welcome to the eager reader, and both are distinguished in a series which has, upon the whole, a very high standard of editing. The "Cervantes" contains the best of "Don Quixote" and two of the Exemplary Novels, which are unfamiliar to most English readers; the translation is Samuel Putnam's own, and as a piece of English it is masterly; it is dignified without being stuffy, and it gives the feeling of an earlier age without resorting to such baubles as "forsooth" and "eftsoons". The preface is excellent and gives a clearer account of the character of Cervantes and the nature of his genius than this reviewer has met with before.

Henry James resists this sort of digestion even more fiercely than Cervantes, and the body of his work is much larger. Mr. Zabel has given a portrait of the man as a whole, including portions from James' autobiographical writings and generous selections from his letters. The great novels have wisely been passed over, but there are five short stories and three of the short novels, as well as travel writings and criticism. As an introduction to James this volume is admirable, and Mr. Zabel must be congratulated on doing a very difficult job with skill and imagination. R.D.

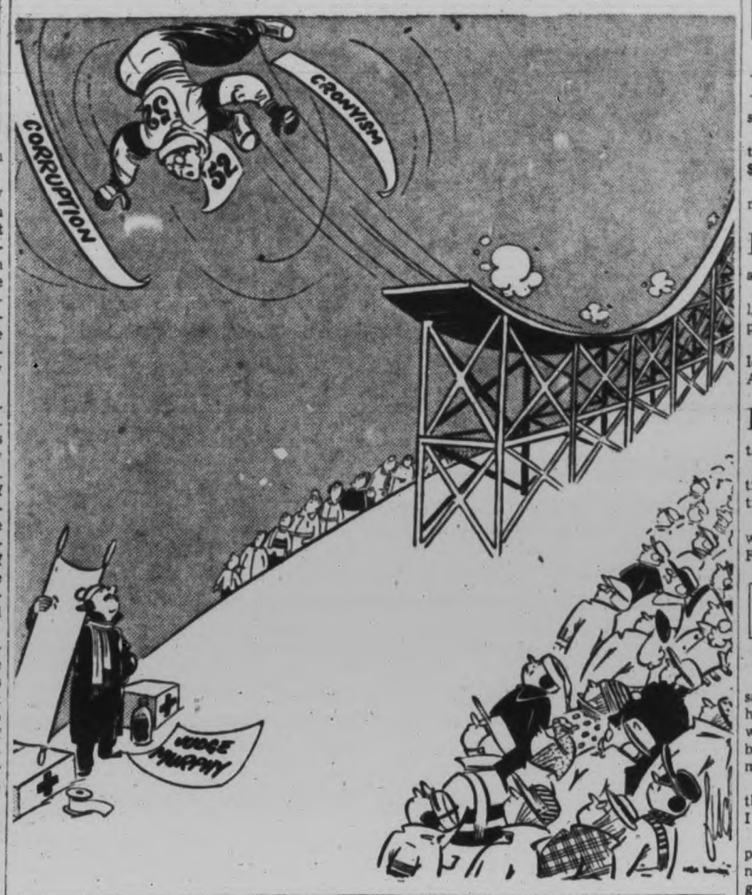
TIME AND THE WIND, by Erico Verissimo (Macmillan).



THIS BOOK, hailed by its publishers as the successor to "Gone with the Wind", will suffer rather than gain from the comparison. Whereas "Gone with the Kind" was the personal history of its leading characters, "Time and the Wind" is the impersonal history of a country as seen through the eyes of five generations of one family, the Terra-Cambaras. As in all stories that endeavour to cover such a vast span of years, (150 years approximately), and so many people during what must have been the most turbulent years of Brazilian history, "Time and the Wind" becomes a chronicle of facts about people who do not really seem to be alive at all. In the beginning of the book, Pedro, a young half-breed, is found wounded by a Portuguese pioneer family and nursed back to health by them; he stays to tend their farm and eventually seduces the daughter, Ana Terra. On discovering her pregnancy, her furious brothers ride out and murder Pedro leaving her to bear and raise her child alone. She stays on at the family farm miserably until her father and brothers are murdered, in their turn, by marauders, and then she takes her sister-in-law and the little Pedro to the town and from there the real story of the Terra-Cambaras commences. Rising to wealth and power, the family battle to hold themselves together through the battles and the feuds that the history of Santa Fe is fraught with. Eventually the great grandson of the half-breed is forced to marry a wealthy half-crazed sadist in an effort to retain his fortune and regain the family lands, and dies violently leaving his son to inherit the blood and fire bath that seemed to go with Brazilian nationhood during the 18th and 19th centuries. This is only the briefest outline of the plot, which is vast, and mention of the most essential characters, since to mention them all would read like a crowd call-sheet from a major movie production. This reviewer found it impossible to follow the history of the leading family or even the story itself with either sympathy or understanding. Perhaps other readers, not prejudiced by the excellence of Erico Verissimo's previous novels, will enjoy it more. S.S.T.

◇ ◇ ◇

HERE ARE TWO NEW YEAR'S quotations for our readers. The first is from Dean Ramsay's diary, and we hope it will be a lesson to our Scots readers, who take this season so seriously: "As a prolonged drinking-bout one of the party remarked, "What gars the Laird of Garskadden luk sae gash?' 'Ou', says his neighbour, the Laird of Kilmardinny, 'Garskadden's been wi' his Maker these two hours; I saw him step awa', but I dinna like to disturb gude company'". The second, less grisly, is a verse of Robert Herrick:

Let others look for pearl and gold,
Tissues, or tabbies manifold:
One only loc': of that sweet hay
Whereon the blessed baby lay,
Or one poor swaddling-Clout, shall be
The richest New-Year's gift to me.

An American Opinion: Clean-Up Man

Harsher Days In Russia

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

FOR the ordinary Russian, 1951 has been an unrewarding year. Although food prices have been reduced and there are now more things to buy in the shops—at any rate in the great cities—the gap between supply and demand is still so large that for the unprivileged masses the improvements amount to very little. The average Russian still gets less to eat than he had in 1940.

It is possible now for a Stakhanovite ("shock" worker) to save up his bonuses and buy a motor-cycle; but pride of possession soon diminishes when he finds that he cannot buy the most elementary spares required to keep it on the road. A motor-cycle for the ordinary worker is still as remote, spares or no spares, as a trip to the moon for the rest of us.

IF, on the purely material side, life is a little easier than it was a year ago, the mental climate of the Soviet Union is harsher than ever before. Nineteen fifty-one has been remarkable for the increase in the power of the police. And behind the scenes in the Politburo there has been in progress a drama which may have far-reaching effects on the future development of the Soviet regime.

This drama has passed largely unnoticed by the outside world (but not by the Russians) because we had assumed all along that the police, under Stalin, had absolute power over all Russia. In fact, the police in the past were simply the instrument of the Communist Party, carrying out its orders. During the past year or so, however, there have been clear indications that the Communist Party has been degenerating into the instrument of the police.

ON the surface all that has been visible has been a sudden flare-up in the rivalry between George Malenkov, who has the Party in his pocket, and Lavrenti Beria, who controls the whole colossal apparatus of the police. These two men, in their early fifties, occupy the highest positions in the land, after Stalin and Molotov. During the years immediately after the war Malenkov seemed to be winning hands down. The Party was purged and repurged under his direction and tremendous stress was laid on ideological spring-cleaning.

Two years ago it looked as though Malenkov had forged an organization in his own image, not only inside the Soviet Union, but extended also throughout the Eastern European satellites, which he could rely upon absolutely in any struggle for power which might be precipitated by the death or illness of his master, Stalin. But during the past year, Malenkov's hard core has been ripped to pieces by Beria's police; the Party organizations, reconstituted by Malenkov after thorough purging, have been found wanting and their leaders dismissed in large numbers—on evidence supplied by the police. More of Malenkov's most reliable nominees in the satellites have been unseated and broken—on evidence supplied by the police.

Throughout the minority republics of the Soviet Union itself — notably Kazakhstan, Uzbekistan and Armenia, armed police have been used to break up peasant resistance to Moscow's iron decrees. And the Party leaders who allowed this resistance to harden have been dismissed—on evidence provided by the police. Finally, on November 6, Lavrenti Beria himself who hitherto had always been content to exercise his immense and sinister power in comparative obscurity, came forward as the official spokesman for Stalin to give the annual report on the state of the nation.

WHAT all this means is not lost on the Russian people. It means, in effect, that the Kremlin is coming to rely less and less for its support on the example and blackmail of the Communist Party as such, the vanguard of the proletariat, and more and more on the undisguised force of the armed police.

During 1952 and the years to come Stalin will continue with his great effort to expand the economic basis of the Soviet Union by immense capital construction works at the expense of the immediate standard of living. His success will depend on the efficiency of Beria's police.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Moses said unto the Lord, See, thou sayest unto me, Bring up this people: and thou hast not let me know whom thou wilt send with me. Yet thou hast said, I know thee by name, and thou hast also found grace in my sight.

And he said, My presence shall go with thee, and I will give thee rest. And he said, I beseech thee, shew me thy glory.

And he said, I will make all my goodness pass before thee, and I will proclaim the name of the Lord before thee: and will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and will shew mercy on whom I will shew mercy. (Ex. 33: 12, 14, 18, 19.)

◇ ◇ ◇

In thee, O Lord, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed: deliver me in thy righteousness. . . . Oh how great is thy goodness, which thou hast laid up for them that fear thee; which thou hast wrought for them that trust in thee before the sons of men! (Ps. 31: 1, 19.)

Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. (II Tim. 2: 15.)

Disillusionment

(The Times, London)

A fresh and wholly unexpected light is thrown on Oriental maidenhood by the news that troops, firemen, and police had to be called out the other day to deal with disturbances in a Persian girls' school. The source of the trouble seems, as is so often the case, to have been ideological. Several girls having been expelled for chalking up lauditory remarks about Mr. Stalin, their sympathizers went on strike and refused to do any lessons. This led (it is not quite clear how) to a fight, which spread from the playground into the streets, between the strikers and those of their fellow-pupils who thought little or nothing of the Russian dictator. When the police intervened, both factions united against them and were rather surprisingly reinforced by a boys' school. Five fire-engines squirted water over these extra-curricular activities, the Persian Army, steady as a rock, stood by with tear gas and fixed bayonets, and when hostilities ceased a number of people were taken to hospital.

The trouble about outbreaks of this kind is that they are apt to prove infectious. When she reads of the schemozzle in Teheran, the more enterprising type of English schoolgirl may well ask herself if she is really getting all there is to be got out of life. Hitting a hockey-ball is rather tame compared with hitting a policeman; and though it cannot be agreeable to be squirted with water by the fire brigade the experience would not be without its dramatic value. The affair may not have serious repercussions everywhere; but it will be surprising if it does not lead, at the least, to further deplorable excesses at St. Trinian's.

MACMILLAN MANSIONS

We Canadians of English descent are pretty dull folk when it comes to ushering in the New Year.

From the Old Land our forefathers brought the custom of kissing under the mistletoe. Well, THAT'S not too hard to take, but, then we wind up by joining hands and singing "Auld Lang Syne!" There. We have borrowed from the Scots.

The Scots make a great thing of New Year's Eve.

Who hasn't heard of their HOGMANAY? Their "Firrrst Footin'?" Their superstitions? If a red head is the first person to set foot in a friend's house, it is bad luck but if the caller is a black head, good luck will come. The Scots try to have all their bills paid, their cupboards well filled and the house spick and span.

Woe betide the guest who arrives without a gift of some kind in his hand. It is said that a piece of coal was a welcome gift and denoted warmth in the household for the coming year. Of course, the caller's hand could clench a bottle. And THAT was the "Open Sesame" to any house in the Land.

A friend of mine frae Glaskie tells of a certain faction that march to Cathedral Square near the Royal Infirmary and smash their empty crocks on a sturdy statue of King Billie . . .

And as the bells peal midnight there is lusty toasting of the New Year with slices of Christmas bun, cake, and jigs and reels till dawn.

What fun!

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Let us not suppose that we Canadians have failed to develop a New Year's legend of our own. I refer to the four million Quebecois who with their love of song and story and twinkling Gallic wit, give us the tale of "La Chasse-Galerie." The story stems from homesickness.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Where the little white houses nestled about the church like gulls at a lighthouse to form the village of Ste. Jeanne, life passed uneventfully. In summer there was sowing, planting, haying and harvesting and wood to split continually but in winter there was little to do and many a gay party. That is for those who stayed at home.

Some breadwinners sought extra cash by working in the woods, often far away. It was a hard lonely life for these family-loving men.

Gabriel, Joseph, Jean and Philippe sat in their rough shanty one New Year's Eve far up on the Upper St. Maurice River. There was a fire to keep them warm, a spluttering candle and a few drinks apiece in a keg in the corner. They were tired, dull and depressed and each man sat with his thoughts of the fun their families would be having that night.

On, T'roo De Night, She Is Quickly Come

Gabriel could stand it no longer. He sprang from his bunk and cried,

"Come, mes amis, why pass the night here in this miserable camp? In the house of Francois Lajeune at Ste. Jeanne do they not, at this moment, dance the cotillon while old Jacques plays his fiddle as the fire roars up the chimney?

"Our canoe lies buried in the snowdrift by the pine tree and the Devil is surely not far away. Let us give him his due of rum and go on the Chasse-Galerie."

His friends saw themselves dancing and flirting with Adrienne, Nanette, Helene.

Why not go? Was it such a risk after all?

No mention must be made of le bon Dieu and they must beware of the cross on the church steeple and all would be well. And they must return by dawn.

After much digging in the snow they uncovered their canoe, righted it, seized their paddles and committed their souls to the Devil. With a rush they soared into the dark sky and headed south, far above the twinkling lights of villages.

"Sing, my comrades, sing!" roared Gabriel.

Presently, they saw their village below them. The bold paddling crew steered it down to earth, just missing the cross on the church steeple, and floundered in a great snowdrift beside the barn of Francois Lajeune.

Dat Feller Work Fiddle On Very Bes' Way

All the gay dancers rushed outside to meet the canoemen. All went inside again and the dance continued faster and more furiously than before. Music. Pretty girls. Whiskey-blanc by the gallon. Time was passing, but what matter.

It was nearly dawn and the Devil would not wait.

Gabriel dragged his friends to the canoe in the snowdrift behind the barn. A scramble, great shouting and away the canoe soared over the trees and sped northward.

It is feared that the whiskey-blanc was doing its work, for Philippe stood up and shouted,

"Mon Dieu! My Paddle! My paddle has gone!"

The mischief was done and the canoe shot down through the sky, into the great pine tree and at daylight the four men found themselves by their shanty door in the snow with their shattered craft.

So the story goes. A Canadian story on New Year's Eve, that even then cautioned against drinking and driving. See to it that you make it a Happy New Year, too.

POPULATION 38,166 — Hundreds of Displaced Persons from Europe and many more hundreds of people from Britain and Ireland arrived in Peterborough during the year to help swell the population to a record 38,166 when the decennial census was taken. These sisters, Miss Helva and Miss Irene Sarrik came from Estonia.

DEEDS OF BRAVERY were not uncommon during the year, but it was rather unusual for an eight-year-old boy to save a man of 27 from drowning, which young Gary Teneycke of the south-end Grove School did when William Chamberlain of Warsaw fell into a water-hole of the Otonabee near Crawford's Grove at the end of February.

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1951

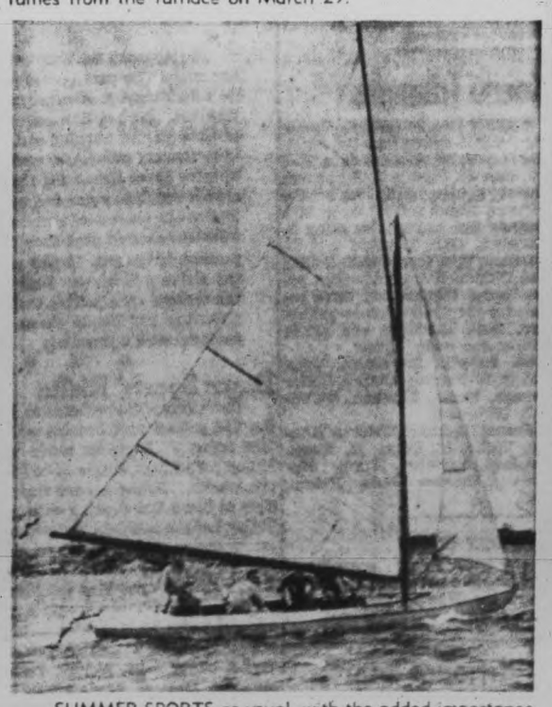
END OF THE LINE — The disputed passing of the CNR route from Peterborough to Port Hope. Here, in the first week of June, a wrecking crew were tearing up the rails between Millbrook and Port Hope.

THE BIG FIRE which made headlines across the continent, destroyed the 90-year-old Zacks building on George Street and caused the death of four firefighters on May 19.

MOST NOTORIOUS SPORTING TRIUMPH was gained by the Peterborough lacrosse team which won Provincial and Dominion championships, and the Mann Cup in Vancouver. Dootch Vitarelli, captain; Bob Peirson, president of the club, and goalie Moon Wootton were very, very happy.

ACCIDENTS AND SUDDEN DEATH befell many citizens. One of the most unfortunate accidents happened when brothers Joseph and William Hagerman and their sister, Mrs. Mary Cowie, who kept house for them on Donegal St., their dog and a canary were asphyxiated by fumes from the furnace on March 29.

AFFABLE MAYOR CHAMBERLAIN of Peterborough, England, opens the door to new City Hall with the smiling approval of Mayor Max Swanston decked in his handsome new chain of office. (October 26).



U.E. WON OVER I.U.E. AT THE C.G.E. Plant in June, as the gratified smiles of C. R. Sullivan, area representative; George Wallace, President of Local 524, and Ces. Harvey show as they read the balloting results.

AND SUMMER THEATRE DID COME TO TOWN AFTER ALL. Peter Mews and Betty Leighton in "Red Peppers."

BEEF WAS HIGH ON THE HOOF AND OFF IT. This new-born prize specimen of the McConkey Holstein herd fetched $6,000 the instant he appeared (March).

SUMMER SPORTS as usual, with the added importance of Canadian Dinghy Association Meet on Stony Lake, mid-August.

PELTING FUN —Hunters were out all over the place when the deer season opened. Also hunted at other times: foxes. The County Council paid $3 for each pelt — and 454 foxes and six wolves were brought in before the bounty was discontinued. Skunks fetched much less — only 35 cents a skin — but Mona Lee Robertson, Parkhill Road, is not turning up her nose. (March).

Oddfellows Defeat Vics In Junior "B" Joust To Climb To Third Spot

Oddfellows defeated Kingston Vics 10-3 Friday night at Civic Arena in a sparkling junior "B" hockey struggle before a small crowd. The win moved Johnny Godfreys' lads into third place in the league standing, one point ahead of Max Jackson's Kingston boys. It was a hard-fought but clean game throughout, marred only by a third-period brawl that found players of both teams mixing it as Tozer, Twist, Heffernan and Redmond became involved in a free-for-all and other players joined in before order was restored by Referee Crombie who meted out majors to the aforementioned players.

Opened Fast

Play opened fast and even in the first frame until Kevin Heffernan fired a neat goal from 12 feet out on a passout from Gord Coyle to give Links a start. Brian Robinson made it two, three minutes later as he combined with Buckton on a fast rush down centre to flip a fast 25-footer past Senior on a pretty play.

Roy Armstrong made it three, seconds later when he rapped home Ferguson's passout from close in but Kingston roared back to tally one from the stick of Wilson Reid who snared a loose puck on a scramble in front of the sorrel-topped Link custodian.

Bill Stewart, who led the local parade with four goals and two assists in a fine display next tallied for Oddfellows at the three-quarter mark to give his team a 4-1 edge on a smart play with McCracken and Guy Roy kept his team in there with a smart drive from John Redmond two minutes later. That was all as a fast first frame came to a close with Links having a fairly definite edge in play.

Had An Edge

Links also outscored Vics in the mid-frame 2-1 as Army Armstrong, who played one of his better games and Red Robinson each found the range against a single marker by Bob Vallier who played well for the Limestone City crew. The third period belonged strictly to the flying Oddfellows who asserted their complete superiority on the night's play as Bill Stewart rifled home three brilliant tallies an Robinson one with every man a contributing factor indirectly as the local squad gave a fine exhibition of team play and harmony to roll up a convincing win.

Kingston were slightly shorthanded for last night's game which partly accounted for the rout; they were minus the Hegarty brothers, Duog Mulholland and Gerow, star defenceman, for this game but Links were flying all the way to take advantage of all opportunities. Stewart and Robinson led the Oddfellows in a scoring way, the latter potting three with one assist while Kevin Heffernan and Armstrong registered the single aces. The entire team however deserved credit for a bang-up display. Oddfellows next home game will be played Wednesday night against Belleville junior Hawks.

Ted Williams Take 1951 Batting Title

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP). — Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox maintained his habit of winning American League slugging honors by taking the 1951 title with .556.

The percentage, based on 531 times at bat and 295 total bases, was far under Williams' 1950 figure of .647.

Cleveland's Larry Doby was second in the slugging department with .512. Gus Zernial of Philadelphia and Detroit's Vic Wertz shared third with .511 each.

Official league statistics released today certified Zernial as runs-batted-in champion with 129 in 143 games. It was the first time in three years that an undisputed RBI champ was crowned in the AL.

Williams and Vern Stephens split the honors in 1949 with 159, in 1950 the RBI race ended with a 144 deadlock between Stephens and his Boston teammate, Walt Dropo.

Zernial, who also was first in home-run production with 33, was followed on the 1951 RBI list by Williams with 126, Chicago's Eddie Robinson with 117, Cleveland's Luke Easter with 103 and Al Rosen, also of Cleveland, with 102.

Williams drew the most walks, 143, while Zernial repeated as the No. 1 strikeout victim, being whiffed 101 times.

Lindsay, Cobourg Renew Ice Rivalry

LINDSAY, Dec. 29.—Lindsay and Cobourg juveniles will start the new year right where they left off last season when the Ontario Minor Hockey Association's Lakeshore League opens here Jan. 3.

Lindsay trimmed Cobourg three out of four times last season, but the one defeat in goals-to-count loop final proved disastrous. The group-winning Cobourg team lost out to Whitby in the next round. The two other entries in the Class B League are Bowmanville and Orono-Newcastle Combines, a juvenile D team. Both have natural ice arenas.

Lindsay, with most of last year's Ontario midget champions on their roster, will also be strengthened by at least two players who have been playing regularly with Lindsay Kinsmen Junior B's.

Eagles Get 8-8 Tie With Kingston In Overtime Tilt

KINGSTON, Dec. 29—Peterborough Eagles and Kingston SACS split the point last night in the Community Memorial Centre in an 8-8 overtime duel that provided plenty of thrills for the estimated crowd of 900 spectators. A rally that produced two goals for the visitors in the third period forced the first overtime battle of the season and in that extra session a goal by Don Murray at the 7:12 mark saved the Scrutton forces from defeat after Berwick had shot the Eagles ahead early in the session.

It was a rousing struggle all the way although the outlook did look grim for Stan Scrutton's proteges when midway in the contest the Eagles appeared to be victory bound. In that emergency however, a goal by Don Murray and two by the elusive George MacGregor shot the locals into a 7 to 5 advantage that appeared to be assurance against defeat.

Eagles Drove

But the tide turned in the final session when the desperate Eagles abandoned defensive tactics and went for all-out attacking. Samalenko aided by the shifty Munroe, rapped in a counter at the seven-minute mark and 40 seconds before the time limit Greenlaw, with the weaving Montgomery assisting, beat Don Dougall with the tying goal. As a last resort the Eagles had taken goalkeeper Nicholls out of the game and their strategy was justified when Greenlaw hit the rigging with time running out.

In overtime both teams sought that pay-off goal and the Eagles struck swiftly when Berwick beat Don Dougall early in the session. The Eagles, who trail the four-team field, resorted to tight defensive tactics thereafter and appeared to have salted away the verdict until a rush by McGregor and a pass to Don Murray gave the latter the opportunity to force the 8-8 deadlock.

A Clean Game

It was a cleanly contested game and the only untoward incident occurred when "Gabby" White was given a misconduct penalty when he maintained that the Sacs had scored a goal late in the middle period. The penalties were five against the Eagles and two against the locals.

Cliff Aitken, youngest of the well-known North Bay-Kingston hockey family, paced the point getters with four well earned goals. His marksmanship was letter perfect and Nicolls was at his mercy. Don Murray, former Queen's University star, racked up two goals and as many assists while Stan Stewart, the rushing defenceman, engineered three scoring attacks. George MacGregor, with two goals and an assist, and Clint Tinkess and "Bud" Ohlke, each with two assists, were also among the Sac luminaries.

Greenlaw, one of the best players in the group, sparked the Eagles with three goals. Montgomery had as many assists and was one of the most dynamic puckchasers in action. Why the hard-driving Monty has escaped the tentacles of professional scouts is rather mysterious.

The teams:

Eagles — Goal, Nicholls; defence, Montgomery and Wootton; centre, Hill; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, F. Mortimer, R. Stewart, Greenlaw, Berwick, Wilson, Samalenko, D. Mortimer, and Munroe

Kingston — Goal Dougall; defence, Stewart and Sweetman; centre, Murray; wings, Ohlke, Aitken; alternates, MacGregor, Tinkess, White, Goodfellow, Williamson, Dunn and Bender.

Referee—Louis Lecompte.
Linesmap—Art Casterton.
The surimary:

First Period

Sacs—Aitken (Stewart)	1:09
Sacs—Aitken (Murray)	8:36
Eagles—Crowley (Montgomery)	11:54
Eagles—Hill (Vitarelli, Montgomery)	13:45
Sacs—Aitken (Stewart, Ohlke)	15:18

Penalties—Montgomery 2, R. Stewart, MacGregor.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

When Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL staged a practise exhibition game here a year ago for the Rotary Club, we were most impressed by the fast and fancy skating of Max Bentley. So, we were interested this week in getting a copy of Ed Fitkin's book on Max, "Hockey's Dipsy-Doodle Dandy." He's a veteran forward in the big time now but built up a great scoring rep. for years with Chicago Black Hawks and later with the Leafs. Back in 1938, Doug and Max Bentley — 18-year-old midgets of five-eight, scaling 145 pounds — were turned down by Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens after tryouts. Nor did Toronto want 'em. Too small, they were told. They've made those managers mighty sorry since.

* * * * * *

They came from Delisle, Sask., a little farming town 35 miles west of Saskatoon. Probably more fast-stepping puckists grew up in the Prairies than anywhere else in Canada. The east has produced some speed merchants in hockey, too, but not to compare with the west, according to many pro hockey experts. Max, like his brothers, has been a terrific skater for years — more than holding his own in the classy National Hockey League. A dipsy-doodler, he's not only fast but real fancy. Like a jet-propelled figure skater. Yeah, he made many defencemen look sick as he wheeled around 'em. It's a right interesting booklet.

* * * * * *

Some Have Played Here

Speaking of speedy westerners, we've had several here in hockey. In fact, there's Bill Crowley of the Eagles now, who was raised in the west. Comes by his hockey ability honestly as his dad was a dandy player in his day around here, ere moving westward. Bill can sure dangle, many folks figuring he is the fastest skater in the Central Ontario senior "B" group. There was George Gray, also, before the war, and another extra fast stepper from Moose Jaw, who played for Petes before the war. Can't think of his name offhand, but he sure split the wind on his rushes. Yeah, those wide-open spaces and long winters, with plenty of natural ice for five months or so each year, develop rugged and speedy pucksters. Max Bentley is probably the best example of them all.

* * * * * *

Our OHA junior "B" Oddfellows lived up to expectations here last gloaming before a slim gathering as they trimmed Kingston Vics 10-3. The Godfrey gang thus moved into third place over the Vics, and they should be hard to stop from now on. It was a lively struggle with a free-for-all erupting in the third period and some majors handed out by Referee Jim Crombie. Bill Stewart was hotter than somewhat for Triple Links as he threw the biscuit into the mesh four times and helped on two other occasions. But the club as a whole clicked well to earn the verdict handily. They have Belleville Hawklets here next Wednesday e'en.

* * * * * *

At Time And A Half, Eh?

The Petes did it the hard way in Bella Villa last p.m., tossing in two overtime goals to capture a 7-5 senior "B" verdict. That puts 'em out in front of the pack by four points, a pretty fair lead at this stage of proceedings. Hard-working Freddy Garvey cuffed in the overtime winner from Jake Wade, while insurance was added with a final tally by Chum Fryia from Arn Dugan. Fryia, Garvey and Wade led the Ellis crew in scoring, while Vern Goyer was brilliant on the attack for Hawks with four markers, Bastedo helping on a pair. Ray Harding had to be good, and the whole team had to step lively, to yank out this decision. Nearly a thousand fans viewed a speedy affair.

* * * * * *

Eagles came up with a fighting display on the large Limestone City surface last twilight to earn an overtime 8-8 tie with Kingston. Another swell struggle and another overtime tilt. Looked like a close win for the K's as the sands of time started running out, but the Vitarelli pack fought back fiercely and might well have yanked out the decision. They're never licked till the last gong goes. Kingston are always tough at home and proved it again last p.m., but the Eagles—in process of revamping to make up for losses and injuries—showed that they are definite contenders for top position at present. A few games down, but still well within striking distance. Last night's number was a thriller, the visitors even pulling their goalie and scoring a big goal. Greenlaw and Monty shone throughout as the whole slate came up with a fine fray.

Trent League Opens Up On January 2

TRENTON, Dec. 28.—One of Ontario's oldest independent hockey leagues will swing into action Jan. 2 when the Trent Valley Hockey League commences activities. The league, which has been operating since near the turn of the century, will be made up of teams this year from as far south as Wellington and Belleville to as far north as Lakefield.

This season 10 teams will play with Belleville, Trenton, Frankford, Wellington and RCAF, Trenton forming the southern division and Marmora, Havelock, Hastings, Norwood, and Lakefield operating in a northern division.

Each division will play a double schedule within itself, each team participating in 16 games, eight at home and eight away. The top four teams in each division will enter the playoffs with the two division champions clashing for the Thomas Bata Memorial Trophy, held by the Jack Harris coached Peterborough Brintons.

Brintons will not be intact to defend their crown this season, but Harris and several of his top performers of last year will play with Havelock's new entry.

Following is the schedule for the two opening nights of play: Jan. 2—Norwood at Marmora; Lakefield at Havelock; Belleville at Trenton; Frankford at Wellington.

Jan. 4—Marmora at Hastings; Havelock at Norwood; Trenton at Frankford; Wellington at RCAF Trenton (at Brighton).

In a few hours the year 1951 will have passed down memory lane and the year 1952 will be with us. We know of no better way to say adieu to 1951 and to welcome 1952 than to quote these few lines written by Patience Strang:

The New Year is a stranger. I do not know his face — yet I must receive him with kindness and with grace.... The Old Year must be banished, his plea I must ignore — to make room for the stranger who knocks upon the door....

A new guest must be welcome; Old Year you cannot stay; you too were a stranger when first you came this way.... You brought me many blessings, good luck and happy times; now you must be going—I hear the midnight chimes....

The New Year is a stranger, I know not what he'll bring—but he must be greeted with faith unquestioning.... I must light the lantern of welcome in the hall—praying he will bless us and prove a friend to all.

Petes Pull Further Ahead By Edging the Hawks 7-5 In Keen Overtime Tussle

Scoring twice in overtime at Belleville last night, the Petes pulled out a 7-5 OHA senior "B" win over the Hawks before a thousand fans. The victory lengthened their lead in the group race to four points over the second-place Quinte crew, while Kingston and Eagles were battling to an overtime draw in the Limestone City.

The bout in Belleville was a typical struggle between these two clubs. It was fast and exciting all the way, fairly clean, despite some stiff checking and a bit of high-sticking. Petes led 4-2 in the first frame and had a 5-4 edge going into the third, when Hawks tied it up. Fred Garvey's goal well out in overtime trickled past Goalie Leforte, who made a partial stop of it, and Fryia added one right after for insurance.

Led The Way

Fryia led the Ellis men with two goals and two assists, while Garvey scored twice and Jake Wade helped on a pair. Single goals went to Arn Dugan, Jack Mortimer and Curly Mason. The whole crew clicked well from Goalie Ray Harding out in a stiff scrap. Vern Goyer was hot for the Doran dudes to score four of their markers, Wardaugh getting the other, and Bastedo helping on two.

After Goyer got an early one from MacDonald, the Petes struck for three in a row. Mason and Dugan got two of them on passes from Fryia, and Garvey clicked for another on Floyd's assist. Goyer got in for another Belleville goal from Moher, but Mortimer kept the Petes well up on a neat play with West. Jopling, Mortimer and Jones drew minor penalties.

The homesters had a little scoring edge in the second as they fought back furiously. Goyer opened the sniping with Bastedo's pass and neither side could do anything for quite a spell then. Late in the period, Wardaugh got through defence with Doran's pass to sink it, but Fryia got that back a minute later on a pass from Wade. The only two penalties were minors to Semark and Bastedo of the Quinte squad.

Tied The Score

At 3:34 of the third period, big Vern Goyer streaked in to score the equalizer on a play set up by Jones and Bastedo. They fought hard up an down the ice through the remainder of the frame without another tally. Play was a trifle rougher with Wade and MacDonald gated once and Earl Leonard and Barrett later, though none of the penalties proved costly.

In the overtime session, it was lightning fast with both goalies on the jump. At 7:59, Garvey got away a hot angle shot from Wade and it was partially stopped but just slid over the goal-line by the post. Fryia shortly after made certain of the outcome with a nice goal, aided by Dugan. The only penalty went to Day. Teams:

Belleville — Goal, Leforte; defence, Bastedo and Semark; centre, V. Goyer; wings, MacDonald and Moher; alternates, Doran, Wardhaugh, Jones, Barrett, Day, Graham and Carey.

Petes — Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and E. Leonard; centre, G. Leonard; wings West and Mortimer; alternates, Wade, Horton, Garvey, Collins, Floyd, Dugan, Fryia and Mason.

Guelph Whitewashes Waterloo In Potent 19-0 Walloping

By The Canadian Press.

The Waterloo City Council has shelled out $10,000 to keep their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Hurricanes from folding before the end of the season, but maybe they should have thrown in a few players. From the looks of their showing in Guelph Friday night the eighth place Waterloo aggregation needs some.

Biltmores gave 3,500 Guelph fans a potent scoring display to take a 19-0 victory over the hapless Hurricanes. The win moved the second place Biltmores to within two points of the league-leading Toronto Marlboros, who bowed 2-0 to Kitchener Greenshirts.

The only other junior game scheduled saw St. Catharines Teepees lash tail-end Windsor Spitfires 12-4 in St. Catharines.

Adding insult to injury in the Waterloo defeat was the fact that they faced the Biltmores' sub goalie, 16-year-old Doug Lessor. He wasn't overworked in chalking up his first shutout and handled only two shots during the second period.

Tigers Down Dutchmen

In senior OHA play, Hamilton Tigers moved to within one point of the second place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen when they handed them a 3-2 setback in Hamilton. Owen Sound Mercurys tallied once in overtime to gain fourth spot in the six team standings with a 6-5 win over Brantford Redmen.

The Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds stretched their Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League lead with a 3-2 victory over Sudbury Wolves.

Ronnie Murphy, the junior circuit's top goal-getter, led Guelph with four big goals. Ken Laufman and Bill McCreary added three each and pairs went to Harry Howell and Ray Ross. Chick Chalmers, Danny Blair, Chuck Henderson, Jim Connelly and Dean Prentice tallied singletons.

Joe Ingoldsby and Red Novak were the scorers for Kitchener against Marlboros.

At St. Catharines, Buddy Boone led the Teepees with four goals. Chuck Marshall got three and Hank Ciesla added two. Al Kellog, Pierre Pilote and Ken Myles got singletons. Al Abour pushed in two for Windsor while Ken Watters and Bill Campbell each clicked once.

Tallied Goals

Clare Shillington, Murray Comfort and Doug Maher tallied Hamilton's goals against Kitchener-Waterloo. Ed Stankiewicz and Bill Mitchell scored for Dutchmen.

Mike Bukacheski banged in two of Owen Sound's goals, one in overtime, in their game against Brantford. Harry Kazarian, Allen Forslund, Gino Antoniazzi and Andy Grant scored the other Mercury counters while Walt Knatiuk, with two, and Bill Simpell, Billy Taylor and Bill Schill were the Redmen marksmen.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Pancho Villa, then United States flyweight champion, went out of his class to defeat bantamweight Terry Martin in 15 torrid rounds at New York, 29 years ago tonight. Pancho shortly after beat Jimmy Wilde, the English champion, for the world flyweight title and held it until his death in 1925.

Bruins Out To Humble Leafs Habs Beset By Injuries

By The Canadian Press

Last Saturday night Boston's fourth-place Bruins played some pretty fancy hockey before a packed Maple Leaf Gardens in a National Hockey League game. They bowed 3-2 to the Maple Leafs. Tonight those same Bruins figure to belt their way to a win over the second-place Toronto club. They've got to do plenty of it thought. The Smythemen revel in that sort of play.

If the Bruins are successful there'll be no happier guy than Boston coach Lynn Patrick. Now in his fourth season at National Hockey League coaching, the former Ranger star has yet to win a league game on Toronto ice.

Last weekend he came close. Leading 2-1 going into the final period, his Bruins let the Leafians tally twice for a victory. Maybe this time he'll kill the Toronto jinx.

At Montreal, the third-place Canadiens are entertaining fifth-place New York. The Rangers, minus rearguard Allan Stanley, are weak along the blue line, but the Habs have their injured players as well.

Doctors have sent Dick Irvin reaching for the crying towels with the news that Maurice Richard is still unable to play. A groin injury has sidelined the Hab star.

Gerry McNeil will be back in the Canadiens' nets, but Kenny Mosdell will still be missing. McNeil's mother is sick, but well enough to allow Gerry to leave her for tonight's tussle. Mosdell is recovering from a shoulder separation suffered a few games ago.

Tonight's other game will see Chicago Black Hawks playing in Detroit. The only tussle scheduled for Sunday has Toronto visiting in New York.

Cornwell Rolls High

The Men's City League Bowlers were very much below form last Thursday evening in closing out the 1951 season.

Claude Cornwell of Clappers continued his smashing ways with a neat 879 triple for the only good effort of the night and continues to lead the average race into the New Year.

Bill Miller of Anthony's rolled a 327 single as Sunocos rolled a single team game of 1,208. Ted Moore's rolled a mediocre 3,270 to take pinnage honors.

Madill & Post went into the league leadership as they downed the luckless Kawartha Garage outfit for a 6-0 count.

Point margins of 4-2 were taken by Clapper's Sports, Sunocos, Bassel's, Ted Moores over Bonds, DeLaval, McGillis and Anthony's.

To the members of the league and bowlers everywhere, to each and everyone a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Your New Year's Inspiration Found In New Testament

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

A correspondent in a popular magazine recently raised the question: how in years reckoned from the birth of Christ that birth could be given as having occurred in B.C. 4, making a man to be born four years before his birth.

The answer, of course, is in the errors and miscalculations in the reckoning of the calendar years, a rather complicated matter. It was easier to redate the birth of Christ as B.C. 4, than to adjust all the years backwards to that corrected date, now generally believed to be the time at which Christ was actually born.

To me it is amazing and perhaps in the providence of God, that the temporal and external aspects of the life of Jesus should be in so much obscurity and uncertainty, while the eternal, spiritual aspects of that Life are revealed in such simplicity, clarity and unquestionable certainty by the account of the life and teachings of Jesus in the New Testament Gospels.

Is it not in itself a suggestion that our faith, our emphasis, and the religion of our daily lives should be in the realm of such certainties in following the way of life that Jesus enjoined and exemplified?

I find it equally amazing that so many people should prefer to put their religion in matters that in their very nature are speculative and uncertain, rather than in plain following of the Master through the certainties of His teaching and life.

It is here that the Sunday intervening between Christmas Day and New Year's Day seems to be of such special significance and value. Inevitably, to any thoughtful person, it tends to concentrate reflection upon all that Jesus was, and said, and did. It brings us back, or it ought to, to the vivid pages of the New Testament with its Gospel story.

That story is something more than just the Christmas Story. When a couple of years ago I wrote that Story in daily articles, accompanied by artist's illustrations, a discerning editor made the criticism that the story was incomplete, inasmuch as it did not include the story of the Resurrection.

It was a valid criticism, though actually the Resurrection story is a succeeding, or continuing part. But it is all part of the story of Jesus, and our celebration of His birth can mean little unless it brings us into full realization of the life, death, and Resurrection of the One whose birth we celebrate.

It is in this that we find the best preparation and inspiration for the New Year.

May it be for all of you a year that is really new in accessions and increases in truth, growth in grace, and in all that makes a New Year really happy!

MAIN STREET TOPICS

SKATE OLD YEAR OUT

Walter Smillie manager of Civic Arena, has arranged for skating the old year out and the new year in Monday night, from 8 p.m. to 12.30 a.m.

SLIPPERY CORNERS

Unsanded bus stop corners have raised the wrath of not a few city car drivers. Some drivers believe the corners have not been sanded since the ending of the big snow.

CHEESE CONVENTION

Ontario Department of Agriculture sends out a correction that the convention of the Cheese Producers' Association is Jan. 10 and 11 in the Royal York, Toronto, and not Jan. 4 and 5 as recently listed. Few Peterborough county people attend this meeting.

MOSTLY RUMOR

"Nothing definite yet" was the comment today of Mr. Harry Zacks about rumor this week of rebuilding activity on the George St. site of the building destroyed by fire last May.

JOHN R. MARSHALL ILL

The condition of John R. Marshall was reported fair at Civic Hospital today. Friends of his were much concerned about him on Friday, but it is understood that some improvement was noted. Mr. Marshall has had a heart condition for some years. He is chairman of the Board of Governors of Civic Hospital and is retired general manager of Canadian Nashua Paper Co.

ASKS SNOW REMOVAL

Deputy Police Chief John Naples today reminded downtown business men to remove snow from sidewalks in front of their stores and offices. In some cases snow is not being scraped off the sidewalk with the result that it is being tramped into ice, making the sidewalk slippery and a hazard to pedestrians.

FAIR CONDITION

The condition of Mr John Trotter, Madoc, seriously injured in a car accident Tuesday morning near Welcome on Highway 2, was reported as fair today by hospital authorities. Her son Carl Trotter and Philip Davis, who were also injured in the accident, are reported in good condition. Mrs. Trotter's husband was fatally injured in the accident.

ATTRACTION FOR CHILDREN

That scene of Toyland countryside with its mixed train, flag station, tunnel, automatic traffic signals, and various other details will remain in the plant window of Peterborough Lumber Co. during the week of New Year's. Parents who have taken children down Monaghan Road to see this miniature of landscape have been numerous. Their interest has already decided the company to improve this Christmas feature for a year hence.

$15 a Couple Top Charge To Bring In The New Year

Peterborough citizens will welcome in 1952 Monday night to the tune of jingling coins. The cost of merry-making will be high. Already the dancing night spots, shows and semi-private parties report a fair response with quick sales from people making sure they will have reservations.

The coins will jangle loudest in the vicinity of Club Aragon where for $15 a couple the New Year can be welcomed with a full-course dinner, dancing, balloons, horns, hats and a special floor show.

Customers will sit down to dinner at 8 pm and rise around 9 pm for several hours dancing until the New Year. Then the show will commence with colored stars, Jay Smythe, a roller-skater, Joyce Jackson, a soloist, and the Nit-Wits of 1952; Marshall and Caesar.

The coins will jingle-jangle at the Brock St. arena, dancing to Hal MacFarlane and his orchestra for $6 a couple and at the Brookside pavilion, dancing to Cres Sproat and his orchestra for $3 a couple. Both dance spots will feature hats, horns, and other New Year's eve features.

At the armouries officers and their friends will eat, dance and be merry for $10 a couple. Tickets for that party are available through invitation only.

Limited to 150 Couples

Another private party will be at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club costing each member $7 a couple, attendance limited to 150 couples. Beside dancing and other entertainment the club members will dine in the main lounge during two supper hours around the midnight hour.

Two New Year's Eve parties have been added to Peterborough's entertainment program this year. At the Legion Hall the Canadian Scottish Club will hold its first annual New Year's dance while the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church in co-operation with the YMCA will hold a frolic in the Y gym.

The YMCA dance will hear considerably less coins jingling for the evening's entertainment which includes round and square dancing (featuring a movie dance) noisemakers, hats, balloons and refreshments.

For those who prefer to sit back, rest their feet and let someone entertain them all the theatres are featuring special first-appearance films to begin 1952.

Wherever the citizen brings in the New Year with a little special entertainment, the coins will jingle.

People 'Fed Up' With Parking

"People are getting fed up with the parking in front of their homes" Mayor M. J. Swanston commented at a meeting of the committee of the whole council Friday afternoon.

Discussion was just passing over a topic relating to public amusement places and rink sites.

"I can't see why some people should have to put up with continual parking around their premises, just because a hockey rink or some other place of attraction is in their vicinity," His Worship said. "It is a nuisance to those people who have to put up with conditions most other people escape. But, there is no concession in assessment or otherwise."

Mayor Swanston said he didn't blame people living in the vicinity of the Civic Arena from objecting to the winter-long parking in front of their houses.

"I think that provision should be made for adequate parking space in any such new places," he said.

This was only a parenthetic discussion, but it pointed to a community problem which has expanded in its extent and effects

Are You Going To Florida Again? Well, Just Everybody's Doing It

"Check your fur coat in Toronto in the morning, hop on a plane and step out on Florida beaches in a bathing suit in the afternoon."

This is the enthusiastic sales talk of one travel agent who explained how easy it was for Peterborough people to take a winter holiday in Florida.

For many years a few citizens have fled south as soon as the cold weather settled in the city. But in the last two years the exodus to the south for a holiday has taken on the proportions of a mass fad. All you need are a few extra coins jingling in your jeans and two, three or four weeks or more spare time.

Spreading

The number in the city who have both the means and the inclination is surprising. And the movement is spreading.

All ticket agents in the city hopefully predict a much bigger exodus from Peterborough in the next two months than there were in the 1951 winter.

Florida is the destination for most, with the favorite spots St. Petersburg and Miami. At St. Petersburg there is a regular Peterborough colony.

Most people either fly or go by train. But quite a few drive. Sometimes two couples drive, sharing one car to cut travelling expenses. The cost by air return is about $145 and by rail $115.

More than one business girl in town has saved her cash and driven down with her mother or a girl friend.

Some Have Gone

A few people left the city before Christmas but the greatest exodus is expected Jan. and Feb. About 20 people have already bought plane tickets and a great many more are sure bets according to ticket agents.

The average length of stay is four to six weeks with most coming back in April.

A few tickets have been bought for other destinations such as Jamaica, the Bahamas, Bermuda, Mexico and California.

And then for those who like boats there's the $200 or more cruise down to the West Indies.

Ho. hum, well maybe next year.

County Pays $84 On 28 Fox Pelts

To date the county clerk and treasurer has paid out $84 on 28 fox bounties since the bounty was approved by county council on Dec. 14. Eligible period for hunters to claim the award is Dec. 1 to Feb. 28.

The number of pelts brought in has not been as great as in a similar period for other years.

Top marksman to date is Donald Sharpe, Warsaw. He shot seven foxes on the fourth concession of Dummer township. His bag in the last month also includes two wolves, netting him a total of $71.

Ralph Hall, RR 2, Indian River, trapped four foxes on Lot 16, Conc. 2, Asphodel.

Here is a list of those who have drawn the bounty; Ray Johnson, Peterborough, three shot in North Monaghan township; Melville Monahan, Methuen township, one trapped near Oak lake; Reg. Parcells, Warsaw, one shot between Concs. 1-2, Douro; Donald Sharpe, Warsaw, seven shot on the 4th Conc., Dummer; Nelson Jacobs, Curve lake, one shot near Ennismore village; Donald Irwin, RR 2, Peterborough, one shot Lot 4, Conc. 4, Smith; Ralph Hill, RR 2, Indian River, four trapped, Lot 16, Conc. 2, Asphodel; Earl Carl, Peterborough, two shot in Otonabee; Dalton Jacobs, Curve lake, three shot in Ennismore; Wellington Williams, Curve lake, two shot in Ennismore; H. Dickson, Otonabee one shot in Otonabee; Joseph McMurray, Peterborough, one shot in Otonabee, and Milford Bolton, Burleigh, one shot at Burleigh Falls.

FINAL MEETING

Last meeting of the present Utilities Commission has been called for Monday, Dec. 31, at 1:30 pm.

Christmas Box 'Looks Good' To City Soldier In Korea

Private Gerard Lucano of the 25th Canadian Division in Korea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph F. Lucano, 511 Albert St., received on December 10 the parcel his parents sent for Christmas.

"This past week I have done pretty well for myself," he wrote that day. "First, three bundles of papers arrived. Then, a couple of days later I received a lot of smokes, and yesterday the parcel you sent me for Christmas. I haven't tasted the Christmas cake yet, but it looks mighty good."

It was one of those "Dear Mom" letters, similar in address and sentiment to millions of such letters in the Second World War.

Pte. Lucano includes in his warm thanks to his parents, his appreciation of the Christmas parcel from his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lucano. He also gratefully refers to pictures of his first nephew born in Peterborough since his enlistment, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Hayes.

"The baby is a cute little fellow. It was grand to get those pictures."

Driving Ambulance

Pte. Lucano was employed with the Canadian General Electric Co. in Montreal when he volunteered for service in Korea. In his latest letter he said he was driving an ambulance with the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

"Driving has been slack these last few days. The weather has turned a little on the warm side, but it is still pretty cold."

In the previous letter he mentioned Peterborough's new city hall. "Until I received the last bundle of papers, I didn't know they were building a new city hall. I guess it must be a pretty fine place. . . I guess I won't be able to send any Christmas cards this year, because we just haven't any here. . . I was back to Inchon the other day, to the rest camp. We took some of the boys back for a couple of weeks rest. It is about 50 miles from Seoul. . . I have met Connie O'Dette from Peterborough. The last time I saw him was in Fort Lewis. I was glad to see him again, because it's not often I meet anyone from my home town.

Japan "Like Heaven"

"I thought Japan a was pretty dirty country, but compared with Korea it was like heaven."

In a letter from Japan last summer, Pte. Lucano told his parents that he had been to Hiroshima quite a number of times. "A person would hardly know this was the city where the first atomic bomb was dropped. It is pretty well built up again, and is quite a city."

Of the bundles of papers he said: "When you are so far from home it is great to be able to read the news from the home town."

Chamber of Commerce will open its doors to the thousands of drivers who will renew drivers' licenses and buy the new stickers for 1952. No new plates will be issued this year for car and trucks, the 1951 plates are still good, but a sticker is required for each vehicle. Mrs. Margaret Brooks (left) of Young's Point, a Chamber employee, holds some 1952 car stickers which are yellow and black. Don Kingdon, assistant to the manager, and Miss Edith Davis, another employee (middle) check the lists of stickers which arrived recently. Miss Alma Hunter (right) looks over a form for a trailer license, the only 1952 plates issued this year. The trailer plates are colored yellow and black.

16,968 Stickers Arrive Replace Car Licence Plates

Friday's express brought 16,968 windshield stamps to the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce offices. The stamps, motor vehicle permits and drivers' licenses will go on sale at the chamber offices Jan. 2.

The Ontario government's decision to issue windshield stamps instead of plates is going to cost many motorists an additional $1. In 1952, cars must be equipped with 1951 plates as well as stamps and these plates must be in good condition. If they are defaced in any way, the car owner must buy a new set of 1951 plates as well as his stamp and this will cost him an extra dollar.

It is a traffic act offence to have defaced, dirty or obstructed markers with a fine of $5 to $50 on conviction.

Several days ago 2,350, 1951 license plates and 1,300, 1952 trailer plates were delivered to the chamber offices.

The 1951 plates will be issued for replacements or to people buying new cars.

Plates For Trailers

The trailer plates have a yellow background with black figures and letters and the crown which has been shown on Ontario plates for many years until this year.

The new 3-by-5-inch windshield stamps have yellow backgrounds with red lettering and border. The Ontario crest is in the upper lefthand corner and vehicle classification and license number are printed at the bottom. The stamps are to be placed on the inside of the windshield at the lower right corner.

Car Replacements $1

Car owners are warned not to lose these stickers. If they are lost, a replacement costs $1 and a form must be filled out with the signature of a commissioner of oaths.

Passenger car owners will pay as low as $2 for their 1952 stamp (a four cylinder car) and as high as $35 (a 16 cylinder car). Commercial vehicle licenses range from a low of $7.50 to a high of $148.50.

TWO NEW OPP

Two new constables have joined the headquarters staff in Peterborough. They are OPP Constable James Plumtree, Hamilton, and OPP Constable Douglas Kostka, Toronto. Both of them are on their first assignment, having recently graduated from the school for Provincial Police at Ajax.

Defer Decision In Suspension

LINDSAY, Dec. 29—Decision on the appeal of two suspended Lindsay policemen has been deferred until the first meeting of the 1952 town council.

Mayor Charles Lamb came out in favor of their reinstatement at the meeting, saying "I think . . . that this council should reinstate these boys."

"If your lordship wants to sit in judgment alone . . . " said Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan. The mayor denied he wanted to sit in judgment alone.

Several aldermen requested that the evidence be heard. Lindsay lawyer Mel Cunningham repeated his story of the attempted break-in that led eventually to the suspension.

"Get Out Of Here"

He told of the arrival of the police cruiser, and of how one of the men stepped up to the cruiser and was told by someone in it to "get the heck out of here".

Mr. Cunningham told of seeing the second man arrested and taken into custody.

Final decision was that the two men would remain suspended and on full pay until the decision is made at the January council meeting.

SMALL DAMAGE

Two cars collided late Friday afternoon at the junction of Highways 7 and 45, causing no injuries and only $30 property damage. Rosaire Rencourt, 34, Welland, was driving east through Highway 7 when he was in collision with a car driven by Miss Lillian Elliott, 51, Arnprior. Miss Elliott is said to have backed her car south into Highway 45, south of Highway 7, and then started across the intersection to go north. Constables James Healey and Doug Kostka investigated.

Fights Police Youth Is Charged

Cab Office Tip-Off Leads Police To Arrest Man, 22

A convict on ticket of leave, arrested today shortly after midnight, has been charged with attempted churchbreaking.

He appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp today and was remanded without bail until Monday.

Seeing a man trying to break into the rear door of Park Street Baptist Church, taxi despatcher Stewart "Scoop" McGill telephoned police.

Constable Douglas Farthing, patrolling in a police cruiser, was despatched to the scene by Sergeant Leo Murphy. When he arrived, Constable Farthing saw Ronald Gilmour, 22, 132 Maude St., walking away from the church and arrested him.

Gilmour is on ticket of leave from Kingston Penitentiary with nearly two months still to serve on a two-year sentence for robbery with violence.

Convicted In 1950

He was convicted on June 21, 1950, in Toronto. His sentence expires on February 26, 1952.

After placing Gilmour in the police cruiser, Constable Farthing said he walked around to the driver's side of the car and as he was about to start off, he said Gilmour became violent.

Constable Farthing reported Gilmour said, "Copper, you'll have to shoot to take me in," and attempted to get out of the car.

At this point, Constable Farthing asked James P. Martin, of 692 St. Lawrence Street, Niagara Falls, who was passing by, for asistance.

Passerby Helps

Gilmour was placed in the back seat, and Mr. Martin acompanied Constable Farthing to the station in the cruiser to assist him in keeping Gilmour under control.

Constable Farthing said that tracks in the fresh snow led from where he arrested Gilmour to the church door facing on Stewart Street, which was broken.

He said Gilmour's hand was bleeding and some skin had been knocked off his nose. Gilmour was "definitely drunk," Constable Farthing said.

As Gilmour was being placed in a cell at the police station, it was noticed that he had a gash on the back of his head.

Dr. Warren Gambie was called and after examining Gilmour, Dr. Gambie advised he be taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Gilmour was handcuffed and taken to hospital by Acting Police Sergeant Gordon Trennum and Constables Douglas Farthing and Harold Andrew.

Still Resisted

At the hospital, Gilmour was still offering resistance, and Dr. Gamble asked that Gilmour remain handcuffed while he placed six sitches in his head.

Constable Farthing stated in his report that it required the three police officers and a nursing sister to restrain Gilmour while he was being treated.

He was later returned to the police station and placed in a cell.

Constable Ted Stephen, on special duty at a dance, reported he had forced Gilmour to leave the dance for causing a disturbance, and that Gilmour's head was cut before he left the dance.

The door of the church which Gilmour is alleged to have tried to enter was not damaged, but Constable Farthing reported fresh tracks in the snow leading from where he apprehended Gilmour to the church.

Gilmour was placed on ticket of leave on condition he remain at the home of his parents here and abstain from drinking liquor.

Ticket of leave differs from parole, in that a convict on parole has to report at specified times to police. Anyone on ticket of leave is not required to report but is bound to observe the conditions of his ticket until the sentence has been served.

Hope Fading For Year-End Market Rally

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hope for promised year-end stock market strength faded this week as December drew to a close and no upsurge of prices developed.

Confidently predicted several weeks ago, year-end strength was confined to sporadic activity in selected issues.

The Toronto Stock Exchange's industrial index closed Friday near its December 1 level. Golds added about 1½ points while base metals climbed almost four points and Western oils about three.

Observers interpreted the trend as indicating somewhat lower levels for next year. Most optimistic traders maintained that the Christmas holiday qualified the lack of support.

Toronto and Montreal opened the week with dull pre-holiday trading which extended into Wednesday's trading.

Late strength in Toronto Thursday erased early losses and pushed industrials slightly higher. Base metals and Western oils also posted moderate advances but golds moved irregularly. All sections steadied in Montreal. Toronto's rally was checked Friday while in Montreal papers and industrials strengthened.

Trading Slow

New York traded quietly Monday and Wednesday. Bread buying encouraged a rise Thursday but the rally slowed Friday.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed Industrials up 1.52 at 339.08, golds down .63 at 83.86, base metals up 1.81 at 193.12 and western oils up .82 at 126.20.

In the Montreal averages, banks were up .25 at 30.20, utilities up .1 at 86.5, industrials up 3.3 at 227.7, combined up 2.2 at 180.6, papers up 3.25 at 790.63 and golds down .55 at 68.43.

In New York, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 40 cents to $98.

Harding Praises Canadian Troops

HANNOVER, Germany, Dec. 29 (CP)—Gen. Sir John Harding, Commander of the British Army of the Rhine, Friday paid his first visit to Canadian troops in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization force and had a few words of praise for the Canadians as a unit and as individuals.

"I am honored to have this brigade under my command and I think it should also be inspiring for the people of Western Europe that Canada has sent these troops over to be part of NATO," he said.

The general talked with several Canadians, including Sgt. John Granger, of Toronto, and Pte. S. K. Ryder, of Hope, BC.

Looking at the ruggedly built Ryder, Harding said:

"You look like you'd be worth more than many a good Russian."

The general said the Candian 27th Brigade will not be attached to any British unit although it will participate in joint training.

597 Summonses

MONTREAL, Dec. 29—(CP)—A total of 597 summonses against stores which defied a new city bylaw making Dec. 8 a civic holiday, are scheduled for delivery next week. The stores remained open on that day, the Roman Catholic Feast of the Immaculate Conception, in defiance of the bylaw which made five other Catholic holy days civic holidays.

No More Army Shorts

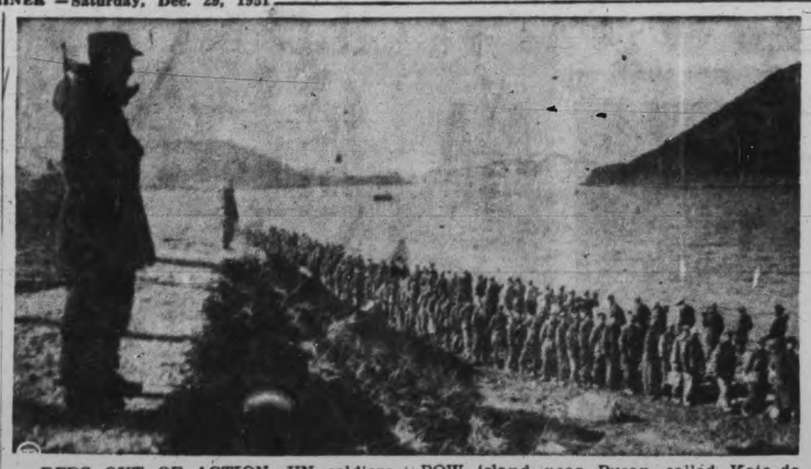
OTTAWA, Dec. 29—(CP)—No more bare knees for Canadian soldiers. Army Headquarters said Friday that a year-old discussion on the merits of shorts for the troops in summer has ended with a decision to withdraw any existing authority for their wear.

Dies From Iniuries

MONTREAL, Dec. 29—(CP)—Lionel D'Artois, 54-year-old electrician, died in hospital Friday of injuries suffered when he was sucked into the intake of an F-86 jet engine Dec. 17 at an aircraft plant (Canadair) in suburban Cartierville.

New RCAF School

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 — (CP) — Another RCAF flying training school is to open on the Pairies, it was announced Friday by the Air Force. The new school is No. 2 Advanced Flying School and is to be based temporarily at RCAF Station, MacDonald, Man., moving to Portage La Prairie, Man., late in 1952.



Skier Dies

PARRY SOUND, Dec. 29 (CP)—Donald Sherrette, 23, died in hospital here Friday of injuries suffered while skiing Dec. 23. Sherrette suffered internal injuries in a fall at the Parry Sound Ski Club.

Mail Damaged

WINDSOR, Dec. 29 (CP)—Post office officials Friday sorted 500 bags of Christmas mail damaged Sunday in a Canadian National Railways baggage car fire near Brantford. The mail, which includes letters and parcels from all parts of Canada and the United States, suffered fire and water damage.

Coca-Cola
IS PART AND PARCEL OF GOOD TIMES

REDS OUT OF ACTION—UN soldiers stand guard as North Korean and Chinese Red prisoners of war do some work on the POW island near Pusan called Koje-do Isle. The prisoners file by, each picking up a stone and placing it at the side of the road to clean up after a landslide.

Noted Financiers Prominent In Roll Of Deaths During Year 1951

By The Canadian Press

Distinguished leaders in many fields of activity were lost to Canada by deaths in 1951. Notable this year is the large number of financial and industrial leaders on the list.

W. H. Wright, mining pioneer and founder of The Globe and Mail of Toronto, died at Barrie, at the age of 75. C. H. Carlisle and J. P. Bickell both died at Toronto. Sir Montagu Allan, 91, died at Montreal, and so did P. F. Sise, aged 71. R. S. Hart, steel company president, died at Hamilton. John H. Gundy, of the firm of Wood, Gundy and Co., died at Toronto.

Another prominent financier on the 1951 list of deaths was Lt.-Cmdr. J. K. L. Ross, of Montreal, well known for his great racehorses in former years, who died at the age of 75 in Jamaica. Beaudry Leman, chairman of the board of Banque Canadienne Nationale, died at 73.

Among parliamentarians were Senators Eugene Paquet, Lucien Morand and R. W. Gladstone. A prominent Progressive Conservative member of Commons since 1938, Karl Homuth, MP for Waterloo South, died at Ottawa, and the former Liberal member Robert Emmett Finn, KC, died at Halifax. Hon. James L. Bowman, Conservative, who was Speaker of Commons in 1935, died at Dauphin, Man.

The Canadian Diplomatic Service lost R. G. Riddell, head of the Canadian delegation at United Nations headquarters, at the age of 42. Saskatchewan's Lieutenant-Governor Dr. J. M. Uhrich, and Quebec's former Lieutenant-Governor Sir Eugene Fiset both died last June.

The newspaper world was hard hit in 1951. John Scott, 77, former managing editor of The Montreal Gazette and of the old Toronto Mail and Empire, died in Toronto. J. F. Sweeney, former general manager of The Regina Leader-Post, died at the age of 70, and Henry M. Hueston in Sarnia, at age 73.

The national news-gathering co-operative, The Canadian Press, lost its former Ottawa bureau superintendent, R. K. (Andy) Carnegie, at the age of 66, and its general news editor, D. E. (Ernie) Burritt at Toronto at age 44.

Distinguished churchmen in the list included the Rev. J. H. Codby, Anglican clergyman and educationist in Toronto; the former United Church moderator, the Rev. T. W. Jones, at Montreal; and the former Presbyterian moderator, the Rev. J. R. Shortt, at Kincardine, Ont. The Roman Catholic Coadjutor, Archbishop of Winnipeg, the Most Rev. Gerald Murray, died at 65, and a former Presbyterian moderator, the Rev. Dr. Frank Board, died at Fredericton.

Two Canadian naval experts who died this year yere Admiral Percy W. Nelles, retired, at Victoria, and Commodore G. R. (Gus) Miles, also at Victoria.

Prominent in the early days of the Canadian army, Maj.-Gen. H A Panet died at the age of 82 at Kingston.

Award Withers Contract For Sludge Disposal

Leonard Withers signed Friday a contract with the city for the removal of sludge from the sewage disposal plant. He is to be paid by the city 50 cents a cubic yard.

Council recently authorized Mayor Swanston and City Clerk Outram to sign this contract which is for a term of four years. Mr. Withers is to provide a truck which is to be mounted with a special body of five cubic yards capacity, purchased by the city from Brantford Coach and Body Ltd., for $1,248, f.o.b. Brantford. The sludge body remains the property of the city.

Council in committee of the whole Friday afternoon confirmed its previous course in this detail of sewage disposal, by a resolution of Aldermen Waddell and Dewart.

Second Party Interested

It was reported that Nelson Martin had become interested in this contract since the action of the council was reported. So, the question arose as to whether council wished to make any change from its previous decision.

The facts as reported from time to time revert virtually to the planning of the expansion of the disposal plant, now in operation. City Engineer Chalmers has informed the council that Mr. Withers became interested in the sludge haulage phase about a year ago. From time to time he enquired about it, and finally on his own initiative he visited some of the disposal plants in the Toronto-Kitchener area to find out what they were doing about sludge removal.

Ald. J. E. Gillespie, chairman of the board of works, recalled that Mr. Chalmers had been concerned until recently about the possibility of getting anybody to do the sludge hauling job. It appears that there was uneasiness as to final decision of Mr. Withers. Ald. Gillespie said it was thought that the city might have to take on that detail itself.

Thought No One Interested

If there was any reason why tenders were not called, it was simply that it was believed no one was interested, with the possible exception of Mr. Withers. The problem had been suspended until Mr. Withers put his signature to the contract Friday.

His intention, it was said, was to sell the sludge for fertilizing land of the district. Ald. Dewart remarked that sales would probably be confined to two seasons of the year, fall and maybe spring. Milwaukee has built up an industry around its sewage product. It is understood that the sewage sludge is especially valuable in nitrogen content.

Mr. Withers has land for storage of the sludge during the winter, or until he organizes a sales outlet.

Ald. Dewart also commented that the council had approached the disposal problem carefully and hopefully as an administrative experiment.

The contract is terminable by either party at any time, but the four year term was proposed to give the contractor any benefit of experience as he proceeds with his job of disposal.

Canadian Business Good In 1951 No Sign Of Shortages In New Year

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor

Business was good in 1951, or it was bad depending upon what merchants had on their counters or in their warehouses.

As far as the greater part of business and the vast majority of Canadians were concerned, it was good, with the country driving ahead on a vast program of expansion.

But for the man selling automobiles, household electrical appliances, some textiles and clothing lines, and for many men and women employed in making these things, business had plenty of troubles.

The troubles, however, did not arise from any lack of basic soundness in the economy but from the fact that Canadians went on a buying spree which the government felt it had to choke off to prevent prices going through the roof.

Everyone Buying

In the early-year, everyone was buying; the householder was raiding the shelves and the storekeeper was stocking them up; while the manufacturer was making all he could to satisfy the surge of demand. Then, with spring, came credit restrictions which increased down payments and monthly installments for goods bought on credit. The buying spree became a morning-after headache.

The restrictions came at a time when the average family, partly because of the high cost of living and partly because of heavy expenditures in the last few years, felt it did not have the immediate money to meet higher payments. And, once slowed down, people took a longer look at their pocketbooks before opening them up for anything.

Chief Consolation

The chief consolation offered the businesses that were hardest hit was that the buying spree couldn't have lasted anyway, and that perhaps it was better to have it stopped before it brought about worse trouble.

In any event the result was that, though dollar volume of sales may be up for the year because of higher prices, people have probably been buying less in the last nine months of the year than they did in the same period of 1950. And the fall-off was felt the worse because it hit particularly at certain industries and at centres where these industries are located.

With inventories up at the year end many business men are facing money troubles.

This seems to mean that there should be no real worry about shortages of goods in the coming year. It probably will mean, also, an extra-heavy rash of January sales.

This should have some effect in holding back the rise in prices which marked 1951. Nevertheless potent forces continue to hold prices up.

For one thing there is a limit to the price inducements which merchants can offer, for they have paid high prices themselves and their operating costs are heavy.

Great Expansion

As both a business-sustaining and a price-sustaining force, there is the unprecedented expansion taking place across the country which keeps employment at a high level, despite pockets of unemployment here and there, and which keeps pouring new money into the economy. Coupled with this is a probably-record farm income.

New buyers will be coming into the market, and people who are not buying today will be returning to the counters and showrooms when some of their present obligations have been paid off.

However, there should be some influences this coming year to restrain the run-away price pattern of the last year.

For instance, rearmament was perhaps the major factor in setting off the early-year buying of 1950, by creating the idea that we were going back to something like wartime shortages.

This, under anything foreseeable, was an erroneous idea. Rearmament, under its present plans, is not likely to create any such shortages. It will take a growing slice out of our national production but it is nothing like full-scale war, and there is the fact that our ability to produce has been growing and will continue to grow.

Offer Free Lighting

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP).—The Toronto Hydro Commission is prepared to provide free power for street lighting, Mayor Hiram McCallum Friday told city council the proposal would save taxpayers an estimated $700,000 next year. The commission's decision must be approved by the Ontario Hydro Commission before it can be put into effect.

Toronto University Paper Wins Award

HAMILTON, Dec. 29—(CP)—The Varsity, daily newspaper of the University of Toronto, was awarded the Southam Trophy for English language papers of 3,000 or more circulation at the annual banquet of Canadian University Press last night.

McMaster University's Silhouette captured the Jacques Bureau Trophy for general excellence for papers under 3,000 for the third consecutive year.

Winners of the Bracken Trophy for excellence of editorial writing were The Manitoban, University of Manitoba, Varsity, and Carleton College, Ottawa.

Go To Edmonton

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP)—Two hundred reinforcements for Canadian army units in Korea moved out of Ontario training centres Friday night. The soldiers, mostly infantrymen, are headed for Edmonton, where they will join other Canadian special force troops.

Rip Out Wall

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 29 (CP)—Policemen ripped out a section of wall Friday to save 100-year-old Thomas Taylor who was in danger from gas fumes in a room at his home. He had fallen in the bathroom and was so wedged behind the door that it could not be opened.

Request Inquiry

PORT ARTHUR, Dec. 29 (CP).—A judicial inquiry into finding of several ballots from the recent civic election on a downtown street was requested by city council Thursday night at its final meeting of the year. A recount cannot be undertaken as a result of the resolution.

FROM UNDER THIS PILLOW in a blind man's lonely room, a thief stole $23.85 just before Christmas. But generous Montrealers saved Napoleon Bilodeau from a bleak holiday. Several visitors to his room more than made up the cash loss and brought him a complete Christmas dinner. Then George Cohen, of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, made arrangements for him to have a radio in his room, and also to take advantage of the social contacts offered by the Institute. So Christmas turned a mean act into good fortune.

26—Anti-British riots in Cairo and Alexandria, Egypt; American State Department announces US will pay $120,000 fine levied by Hungary on American fliers forced down there.
28—Australia retains Davis Cup, beating United States 3-2 in matches; United States Army estimates total enemy casualties in Korea 1,546,868; Allied casualties in early December estimated 109,459.

LOST IN NORTH — Bill Barilko, Toronto Maple Leafs hockey star, disappeared in the wilds of northern Quebec Aug. 24, while flying back from a fishing trip with Dr. Henry Hudson of Timmins. An extensive aerial search, one of many staged during the year for missing planes, failed to find any trace of the missing pair. RCAF search and rescue section spent $285,000 during this search as its planes flew 1,354,000 miles.

MEDICAL FRAUD—Ferdinand Waldo Demara, Jr., was the central figure in one of the most astounding medical frauds in years while serving with the Royal Canadian Navy. As Surg. Lt. Joseph Cyr, he performed brilliant operations aboard the destroyer Cayuga off Korea. When reports of his work came back to Canada, an investigation touched off by the real Dr. Cyr led to Demara's return to Canada and his discharge from the navy as an impostor.

STIRS CONTROVERSY — A month after Kurt Meyer, German SS commander, was flown from a Canadian to a German prison, he was found "on leave" at his home in Offleben when CP staff writer Doug How dropped by in November. Reports revived that Meyer, sentenced to life imprisonment in connection with the cold-blooded killing of Canadian prisoners, expected to be released to serve in a West German army.

ROYAL TOUR, 1951 — Canadians thronged the royal route across Canada and back during the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. The royal couple are shown here on Oct. 8 when they arrived at Dorval Airport, near Montreal, by air from England. Some 10,000 miles and 3 days later they departed by steamship from Portugal Cove, Nfld., after visiting 71 cities, towns, villages and hamlets.

CANADIANS IN EUROPE — Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization troops in Europe, inspects the first Canadian troops, part of the 27th Brigade, to arrive in Europe in November to serve under his command. In addition to these ground troops, units of the RCAF are operating in Europe and the first RCAF base outside Canada was opened at North Luffenham, England, as part of Canada's commitment to NATO.

COUNT DEPORTED—Count Jacques de Bernonville, under sentence of death as a wartime collaborator in his native France, ended four years of illegal residence in Canada Aug. 17 when he left Montreal by air for Rio de Janeiro. The Count entered Canada in 1948 under an assumed name and since then had been fighting against return to France.

DIES ON GALLOWS — J. Albert Guay, 33, Quebec jeweller, was hanged Jan. 12 for the murder of his wife who died with 22 others on Sept. 9, 1949, when an explosion wrecked an airliner over Saint aux Cochons, Que. Two other persons have been convicted of murder as a result of the tragedy: Genereaux Ruest is awaiting execution and Mrs. Arthur Pitre is awaiting result of an appeal.

MASSEY REPORT—Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, former Canadian high commissioner to England, was chairman of the Royal Commission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences. The commission report, presented to Parliament on June 1, is a guide to development of culture in Canada. It also serves as a blueprint for government policy in the fields of radio, television and edusation.

EAST WINS TITLE — Ottawa Rough Riders, eastern Canada football champions, defeated Saskatchewan Roughriders, western champions, 21-14, before a capacity crowd at Toronto Varsity Stadium on Nov. 24 to win the Grey Cup, emblem of Canadian football supremacy. The game was one of the biggest sports spectacles of the year.

Canada's Choice In A-Work Pays Dividends

By FRANK CAREY

CHALK RIVER, Dec. 29—(AP)—Canada had the chief stakes in a kind of safety side-bet made in the great wartime gamble which produced the first United States atomic bomb.

Now it's paying off in established and potential benefits to industry, agriculture and medicine in certain ways unmatched by any other country.

The side-bet was Canada's atomic project, established in 1943, to investigate the feasibility of producing plutonium—a potential bomb-material—by a process differing from the one chosen by the United States.

The idea was, Canadian scientists said, that if the method chosen by the Americans didn't pan out, the Canadian project might provide a back-stop.

The problem involved a choice of material to slow down neutrons in a pile of uranium and thus sustain a chain-reaction resulting in the production of plutonium.

Chose Graphite

The Americans chose graphite, a form of carbon, because it was much more plentiful and readily available than the principal alternative substance — "heavy water".

Britain, Canada and the United States agreed on concentrating the heavy-water research project in Canada.

The United States furnished some of its scientists, and also supplied the heavy water—an undisclosed amount, but Canadian scientists told me it was all that was available to the allies at the time.

But Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, scientific head of Canada's project implied that America's participation in the project was reduced after the war.

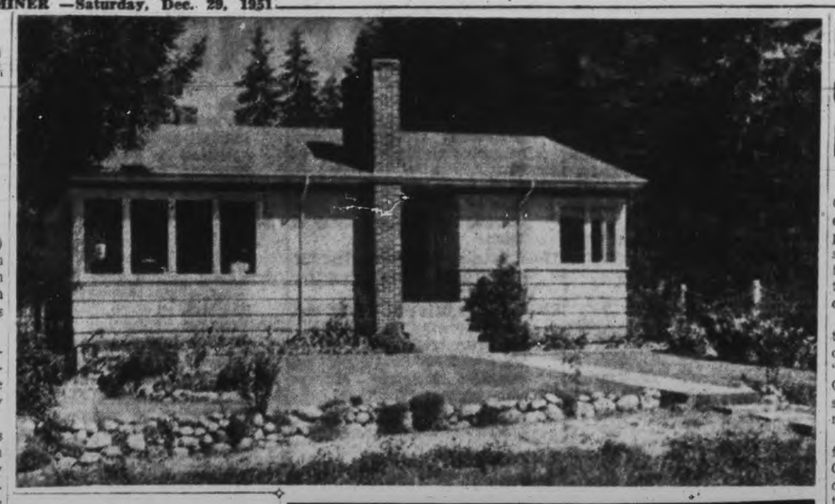
"I think was are probably further advanced than if we had (full) co-operation from the United States because we were thrown on our own," he said.

Referring to the alternatives presented during the war, he declared:

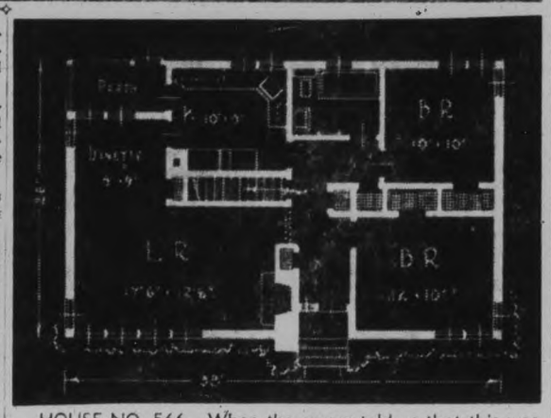
"As it turned out, graphite did click, but the heavy-water project has also clicked in many different ways, some of them spectacular."

He was referring in part of the fact that in Canada's reactor, radio-active isotopes for use in medicine, agriculture and industrial applications, can be made "hotter and smaller" than in any other reactor. That is, superior "hotness" can be produced in smaller quantities of material.

Late In Action



Canada's first heavy-water reactor—a purely experimental device of low power called the "zeep"—didn't go into operation until shortly after the Americans had dropped their first atomic bomb on Hiroshima.



Canada's second, and much larger, reactor—called "NRX" for "National Research Council Experimental"—didn't start operating until 1947.

But Canadian scientists say that one aspect of the pay-off is the finding that plutonium can be produced faster from a given amount of uranium in a heavy-water reactor than in a graphite device.

Canada's present "NRX" can produce only "small quantities" of plutonium. And in a larger reactor now under construction the Dominion does not plan large scale production.

HOUSE NO. 566—When the owner told us that this was "a very comfortable and livable home, we could understand exactly what he meant. The room arrangement is particularly good and it is fully equipped for pleasant living. Not only does the red brick chimney constitute a commanding architectural feature from the outside, its exposed surface adds a dramatic touch to the living room as well! The house was erected on a wooded site. It has an automatic hot air furnace. There is a full basement, with recreation room in knotty pine —For working plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Poorest Planning In House Often Found In Bathroom

Even if the Dominion Census Bureau "refuses to regard the bathroom as a "room" (classifying it as unoccupiable along with "clothes closets, pantries, halls, porches and summer kitchens") the fact remains that the average Canadian spends almost a fortnight a year in that part of the house. By modern standards, of the two million or so bathrooms in this country, 1,500,000 or more are poorly designed, outdated or inadequate, or all three. Few of us realize the strides that have been taken in bathroom design in the last few years.

To many prospective builders or buyers will carefully go over such matters as the heating system or the size of the recreation room and probably plan a "dream kitchen," and then pass over the bathroom with a quick nod and get down to more important—they think—matters.

What, then, has happened to bathroom design? A lot of things that make it worthwhile to do some thoughtful figuring.

For one, the trend today is to colour in bathrooms, with tinted fixtures and blending or contrasting colours on the walls. Blended colours are considered safer than contrasting colours for such small areas as bathrooms. And it is usually recommended that accessories such as towel racks and toothbrush holder be in the same colour as the walls, or at least not be in sharp contrast. After all, they are functional rather than decorative. Further, the old idea of painting the bathroom wall trim is out. Wall finishes in permanently bonded colours are being increasingly used.

The colour scheme of the room adjoining the bathroom will often help determine the colour of the bathroom, too, in order to avoid a clash.

Better Planning Needed

Even more important than colour is the question of bathroom layout. In this the same type of analytical thinking should be applied as is to the design of the kitchen.

How many bathrooms, for example have adequate shelf space? A "Fibber McGee" medicine chest, overflowing with shaving brushes, toothpaste tubes, sunburn lotion and forgotten prescription bottles, plus perhaps a narrow ledge affixed precariously to the wall as an afterthought, are the standard storage equipment of the average Canadian bathroom. Yet in good sense it is logical that towels, soap and other bathroom items be stored right in the room, rather than in the line closet or wherever they are usually put. There is a gradual acceptance of this, with the result that more and more bathrooms are featuring built-in cupboard space for this purpose.

How many people, children as well as adults, are going to be using the bathroom? If there are two grown men who compete for the basin each morning for shaving, why not put in two basins, connected by an ample shelf? If there is a baby in the family (or will be) it makes sense to consider shelf space where he can be bathed and dried safely and comfortably.

"Vanitories" Popular

One of the newest wrinkles in bathroom design, and one that meets the general approval of the female occupants of the house, is the "Vanitory." This is a built-in dressing table, set against the wall, with ample mirror space and a shelf connecting it to the hand basin. And speaking of mirrors, do make provision for a good stretch of glass, well lighted.

The manufacturers of modern waterproof plastic laminates have probably had a greater influence on modern bathroom design in recent years than any other group. These laminates have been used for years as counter and table tops in restaurants, stores and other commercial places and for wall panelling and doors in public buildings, but only in the last few years have they been applied in any quantity in the home. Because of their particular qualities, they are finding wide application in bathrooms for built-in cupboards, drawers, shelves and tables. One maker provides in the neighbourhood of 65 different patterns and colours.

Quality in the bathroom, as in the kitchen, pays off. Good plumbing equipment and fixtures, sturdy and properly installed towel racks and other accessories, and first-grade material for walls floors, shelves and cupboards will return the money invested over the years ahead.

Get Buffalo Meat

TORONTO, Dec. 29 — (CP) — Buffalo meat goes on sale in Toronto next week. Butchers in the Ontario capital are getting 30 head of the 600 buffalo killed in the annual government slaughter at Elk Island, Alta. The government graded meat tastes like sweet beef, but costs about 50 per cent more.

Covered By Agreements

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 (CP)—The Labor Department said Friday 1,282,000 Canadian workers were covered by collective bargaining agreements in 1950. This was 34.8 per cent of the number of wage and salary workers in the country. The 1950 total compared with 1,225,000 in 1949.

To Take Strike Vote

TORONTO, Dec. 29—(CP)—A strike vote will be conducted Jan. 4 among 700 union workers at the Consumers' Gas Company. Officers of Local 161, International Chemical Workers' Union (AFL) and company representatives met briefly Friday to discuss a conciliation board majority report rejected by the union.

Federation Opposes Plan On Equal Pay For Teachers With Degree

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP)—The Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation Friday adopted a policy of opposition to equal salaries for elementary school teachers with a university education and secondary school teachers.

I. M. Robb, field secretary, said the single-salaried plan was part of an "insidious movement" which "has the effect of depriving the OSSTF of its right to bargain on salary exclusively for its own members."

Thursday, the first day of the federation's annual convention, George Roberts, of Oshawa, president, said that university education for elementary school teachers is a liability because it makes their approach more complicated.

Until recently, all school boards in Ontario paid secondary school teachers a higher salary, regardless of training, and elementary school teachers with university degree were given a bonus. Early this year, the Toronto board of education gave equal salaries for equal training and service.

High school teachers must have a university education and one year at Ontario College of Education. Public school teachers must finish high school and spend a year at normal school, but many also have university degrees.

Promise Support

The federation promised complete support of any local which rejects the single salary schedule.

Later, at the annual banquet, John R. Morgan, secondary school inspector, answered criticisms of the "single salary schedule."

He said 87 per cent of Toronto's secondary school teachers were in the highest pay category while only 22 elementary school teachers of 1,800 in the city were in the top category.

Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, United States educationist who wrote the book "The Crisis in Education," said that senior public schools or junior colleges have proved their worth in the United States and he was surprised to hear anyone argue about them.

He said schools are neglecting proper discipline necessary to thought and failing to teach good manners.

Says Good Taste Guide For Papers

HAMILTON, Dec. 29—(CP)—University newspapers should print what they think is in good taste and not worry about small segments of the readers, Luc Larivee, of the University of Montreal, Friday told delegates attending the 14th annual conference of the Candian University Press.

At a round-table discussion, he said students who are elected to university newspapers have judgment and good taste and should be the ones to decide whether a story can be published.

Les Armour, of the University of British Columbia, maintained that printing objections from certain segments of the campus was desirable. It kept the paper on its toes and lifted the campus out of its lethargy.

The University of Western Ontario's Norm Shannon said student newspapers should decide whether they are newspapers or just public relations sheets. He said some printed most of the many public relations handouts.

Earlier, the 60 delegates gathered at McMaster University decided to abandon attempts to form a universal university press system linking coleges throughout the world.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Massey

Retired From Farm, Couple Celebrate 50th Anniversary

WARKWORTH, Dec. 28 (ENS)—Visitors from Brighton, Trenton, Campbellford and centres in the Warkworth district showered Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Massey of Warkworth with golden wedding anniversary greetings on Thursday.

Actually the couple were married on Christmas day, 50 years ago, but the celebrations were delayed.

On a bright, sunny, cold Christmas day, 1901, M. Gertrude Ames, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ames, Codrington, was married to Clarence Massey, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Massey, Morganston. The marriage ceremony, conducted by Methodist minister, the Rev. M. Metherell, was held in the bride's home.

Retired From Farm

The couple lived until five years ago on the Massey farm which had been worked by Mr. Massey's father and grandfather and is now being worked by a fourth generation Massey, son Donald. The Masseys retired to Warkworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Massey had six children, the four living, Mrs. W. Miller (Stella) of South Bend, Indiana, Mrs. G. VanBlaricom (Mildred) of Whitevale, Donald at the homestead, Miss Marjorie Massey of Toronto. A son, Clarence, was killed in action during the Second World War, and a daughter, Verna, died in her childhood. They have nine grandchildren.

More than 100 calls were made at the Massey home Thursday by well-wishers. They were received by the bride's sister, Mrs. Winnifred Weaver, Trenton, and Mrs. Lorne Darling, Morganston, assisted by Mrs. George Sprung, Toronto. Tea was served by Mrs. G. VanBlaricom, Mrs. M. S. Ames, Gore's Landing, Miss Marjorie Massey and Mrs. Donald Massey.

For the immediate family a buffet supper was served during which a toast to the Masseys was proposed by M. S. Ames and replied to by the groom.

During the celebrations six telegrams were received, three from West Africa, Moncton, New Brunswick and Indiana. The many gifts included a toaster and radio from the children and a mirror from the couple's brothers and sisters.

Peterborough Fuel & Transfer Change Their Oil Burner Service

For the past several years we have maintained a 24-hour Oil Burner Service Department. This department has grown to such an extent that we feel to give our customers the desired service they require, we must turn this business over to a company that does nothing else but service Oil Burners and Stokers.

The company we have chosen to handle our service in the future is the "Heat-rite Burner Service." This company is operated by two of our former employees, Mr. Mason and Mr. Wagstaff. We can highly recommend these men to you and they will maintain a 24-hour service on Oil Burners and Stokers.

In the future, if you have any burner or stoker trouble, would you please call 23129, or drop into the "Heat-rite Burner Service" office at 391 Hunter Street, and they will give your trouble immediate attention.

We trust you will find this new arrangement satisfactory. We also wish to thank you for your past business and hope we may be of service to you in the future.

Mr. Moneybags is in Florida this Christmas.

Where are you? In Korea!

You risk your life, Big Business rakes in the dough.

THE CONTRAST SHOWN in these two pictures on a Chinese Red pamphlet is made more effective by the top picture being in bright color.

Frozen rations eaten on the run.
Any moment he may have to run again,
to fight or die — and so may you.

Those who love you want you back home, safe and sound.

FIND A WAY OUT!

It's No Disgrace To Quit Fighting In This Unjust War!

Propaganda Pamphlets With a Christmas Flavor Were Sent Over By Chinese Troops to Canadian and American Soldiers.

Chinese Reds Use Pamphlets Christmas Cards On Canadians In Peace Drive

Chinese Communists scattered Christmas cards among United Nations troops in Korea just before Christmas.

The cards aren't the genial sort that people in Peterborough have been receiving for the past two weeks. By sentiment and provocation, the cards are designed to make UN troops dissatisfied with their lot.

Sent To Grandparents

Two of these "Christmas cards" were sent to Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Morphet, 789 Armour Rd., by their grandson, Private Ray Morphet, with the second battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment.

Both have two photographs printed on them—one photo in color, the other in black and white.

On one, the color photo shows two men and two women gathered around a table outside a hotel, presumably in Florida. Both men are smoking cigars, both women are dressed in bathing suits, the table bears a number of glasses filled with unidentifiable liquids and plates with cool green salads.

The caption beneath it reads: "Mr. Moneybags is in Florida this Christmas."

Contrast Photo

Below the color photo is the black and white one. It is one that has appeared in Canadian newspapers and shows a line of UN troops advancing in the lee of a hill. Snow covers the landscape around them and blows off the hill into their faces.

The caption below it reads: "Where are you? In Korea!"

Below this again, in larger type, is a third caption. This reads: "You risk your life, Big Business rakes in the dough."

The second card carries the sentimeptal appeal. The black and white photo shows a UN soldier wearing winter clothing and holding a ration can. The caption says: "Frozen rations eaten on the run. Any moment he may have to run again, to fight or die—and so may you."

Beer Ad

Opposite is a color photo taken from a beer advertisement in an American magazine. It shows a smiling, white-haired woman placing goblets of beer at each place around a table. Four candles and a turkey mark the scene as either Thanksgiving or Christmas.

Above it are three words in capitals: "Christmas, Home, Happiness". Below are the words: "Those who love you want you back home, safe and sound. Find a way out! It's No Disgrace To Quit Fighting In This Unjust War."

In a conventional style Christmas card is printed the verse:

"Whatever the color, race or creed,
All plain folks are brothers indeed.
Both you and we want life and peace,
If you go home, the war will cease.
Demand peace!
Stop the War!

It is signed "Greetings from the Chinese People's Volunteers."

Pte. Morphet remarked in the accompanying letter: "Last night the Chinese scattered Christmas cards in front of each of our Coys (companies) . . . Also they sent a girl into our A Coy. and one into C Coy. each with a bag full of cigarettes holders and lighters."

His comment on the whole affair: "They sure go in for propaganda".

Godbout Resigns Liberal Post

QUEBEC, Dec. 29 — (CP) — Wilfrid Hamel, chief Liberal Party organizer for Quebec district, said Friday night he was "not surprised" that J .L. A. Godbout resigned from a party post to join Premier Duplessis's Union Nationale Party.

Mr. Hamel said in a statement that "on several occasions, in recent weeks, while he sought a position, Mr. Godbout made threats which materialized today."

Mr. Godbout resigned Friday as president of Quebec-East Liberal Party Club. He gave as his reason a statement Liberal Party Leader Georges Lapalme was reported to have made in Victoriaville, Que., last August.

Mr. Lapalme was reported to have said at a political meeting in Victoriaville:

"When I see Iran fighting for its rich resources, I ask myself if Quebec will not become the Iran of America. When the Liberals return to power, we will take toward the Ungava (iron ore) interests the same attitude as Iran toward the oil interests, the same attitude as Iran toward the United States and British Capital."

7,953 More Accidents On Ontario Highways

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP)—This year has been a grim one for motor accidents in Ontario.

Throughout Ontario there were 7,953 more highway mishaps during the first nine months of 1951 than during the same period in 1950.

The provincial death toll to the end of September was 676 in comparison to 549 in the same period last year. Toronto's traffic toll was down. To Dec. 28 there have been 56 deaths as compared with 58 in 1950.

Must Celebrate New Year's In Daytime

MONTREAL, Dec. 29—(CP)—Montrealers must turn night into day to celebrate New Year's Eve.

Premier Duplessis' 10 pm bar-closing order has put the cover on the usual tumultuous welcome given the New Year in Canada's biggest entertainment centre.

Local night clubs, already hit by the early closing on Christmas Eve, are juggling schedules in the hopes of getting the celebrant's dollar.

Some clubs will start their floor shows at 8.30 pm. Most of them will run the hour and a half until closing.

Other cafe owners don't think this a good idea, because customers don't buy refreshments while watching entertainment.

Most of the major clubs will have shows booked for this week, and to get their money's worth from the high-priced American talent they imported, they'll have them perform even if bar sales suffer.

"It's so bad the way it is it can't be much worse no matter what happens," one night club owner said.

Dances in many halls which do not have a liquor licence will remain open until 3 am.

The concensus, even of the police themselves, is that the ruling won't do anything to curb drunkenness.

One club owner said:

"How much will this ruling cost us? Who knows. We haven't recovered from the Christmas ruling and many of us will have a tough time making both ends meet at the end of this year."

Dutch Lady and Daughter Guests

All Saints' Women's Church Year met Thursday afternoon in the parish hall which was attractively decorated for the Christmas season. The scripture lesson was part of the second chapter of St. Matthew and was read by Mrs. L. Ackford. President Mrs. J. Morley spoke a few words of welcome and wished for everyone the blessings of the new year. An interesting talk describing the way in which the Dutch people celebrate Christmas was given by Mrs. J. Alberda, a newcomer to Canada from Holland. Her daughter Karen sang several Dutch Christmas songs which were previously briefly interpreted in English by Mrs. Alberda who also played the accompaniment. Refreshments were later served by Mrs. T. Doughty and her group. The collection for the month amounted to $76. Christmas cards were mailed to 48 sick and shut-in members of the parish by Mrs. J. Adams. Mrs. G. R. Penhall gave a report on the Advisory Council meeting held earlier in the month. Mrs. F. Gray, nominations convener, spoke briefly regarding the nominations papers handed to each member for completion.

H. Wannamaker Weds Jane Darling

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29 (ENS)—

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Thursday afternoon at the Lakefield United Church manse by the Rev. W. H. Tonge when Luella Jane Darling, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Darling was united in marriage to William Henry (Harry) Wannamaker, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Wannamaker.

The bride was charming in a beige suit with matching hat, brown accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

She was attended by Miss Merle Crawford wearing a cinnamon brown suit, matching hat and accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Frank E. Hall of Toronto was groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception for members of the families was held a Thelgar Lodge, after which the happy couple left for a wedding trip to Rochester, NY. On their return they will reside in Lakefield.

BIG CHIEF

Jupiter was chief of all the gods in Roman mythology, the lord of the heavens who punished offenders with his thunderbolts.

LILAC IN THE RAIN is this viscose rayon gabardine coat. The delicate color is matched with the graceful styling. The matching hat is the popular cloche.

Mackenzie of London, Ont., was married Wednesday to Geoffrey Arthur Holland Pearson, only son of External Affairs Minister Pearson and Mrs. Pearson. Shown after the ceremony, performed at the bride's home, are, left to right: Hon. Lester B. Pearson and Mrs. Pearson, the bridal couple, and Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie.

Supper Club "Holly Hop" 3rd Holiday Week Formal

A third delightful dance of the holiday week was the Holly Hop at the YWCA Friday night. This is the main event of the year on the Friday Night Supper Club calendar and is eagerly awaited by ex-members and friends as well as members.

Decorations put up by the girls under the direction of Miss Sally Poole changed the gymnasium to a charming ballroom with roof of two tone green streamers and snow effect along the walls. Silvered Christmas trees with lights and a screened arch hung with mistletoe gave the seasonal flavor.

Miss Lois Bearne, president of the Club, and her escort Mr. Ian Blaiklock were assisted in receiving by mayor-elect Hugh Waddell and Mrs. Waddell.

Lovely prizes were given the club by downtown stores for the draws and spot dances. Winners were Miss Beverley Taylor and Don McVeety, Miss Beverley Brooks and Bill Hamblin, Miss Joyce Brooks and Harry Poole, Miss Barbara Nelson and Don Lister, Miss Helen Elliott and Jack Orde, Miss Mildred Hayward and Drew Buckland, Miss Marie Moncreif and George Simmons, Miss Helen Bradley and Ron Sargent.

Taking tickets and attending the guest register were club members Eileen Armstrong, Sheila Glen and Mary Elizabeth Hunter. The check room attendants were Teen Y members Marion Outram and Mary Wasson, assisted by Patsy Taylor of Little Women's Club. These girls also helped with the serving of lunch in the Green Room. The recreation room was open as a lounge with punch bowl provided.

Chaperones for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. D. R. McGregor and Mr. and Mrs. T. Cook.

Fancy Hats As Dance Favors Make Firemen's Ball Merry

Nearly 600 joined in a pre-New Year's celebration as they cavorted in gay paper hats at the Firemen's Ball Friday evening. The dance was held, as annually, at the Club Aragon. Arrangements were in charge of Captain George Gimblett and committee of Firemen Don Bartley, Jack Pruner, Jack Luther, Johnny LaPlante, Joe Nolan and Joe Martell, who are to be congratulated on a nicely conducted and enjoyable affair.

Mayor and Mrs. M. J. Swanston, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Girven, the Hon. and Mrs. Harold Scott and Alderman and Mrs. A. B. Burrows attended as patrons and patronesses. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser sent a telegram from Ottawa advising that they could not be present owing to a night session of parliament. The guests were received by Mr. Clare Bennett, president of the local Firefighters' Union, and Mrs. Bennett.

Alderman Burrows made the draw for door prizes and Miss Marg Hayes was winner of a cosmetic set and Mr. Tom Murray won an electric extension lantern.

In the first spot dance Mrs. Robert Strickland was winner and received a canister set while her brother, Mr. Bill Johnson, received an executive chair cushion. Second spot dance winner was Mrs. Harry Hamley who gets a permanent wave, and her partner, Mr. William Sharpe, received an auto arm rest. Sodality Dance Held In Marmora

MARMORA, Dec. 29 (ENS)—The annual formal sponsored by the Sodality of the Children of Mary in Sacred Heart Hall on Wednesday evening was largely attended and was a very enjoyable event. Music was furnished by the Peterborough Rhythmaires and the hall was gaily decorated for the occasion. Spot dances were won by Tom Hulsman and Bernadette Thompson and Jo Maloney and Joan Casey. Elimination dances were won by Peter Nicholson and Dorothy McCoy and A. M. Jones and Mrs. Roy Smith. Refreshments were served.

Organizational Prosperity By Women's Efforts In '51

By MARGARET LANCASTER
Social Editor

Though 'the high cost of living' has been women's main topic of conversation throughout 1951, the organizations they belong to have been more prosperous this year. Tightly drawn purse strings were loosened to contribute to church and charity and in all of the money-making projects for these causes there have been outstanding results.

Two early summer garden parties were each attended by close to 1,000 persons and church teas by few hundreds of guests, one at last finding the proceeds to be nearly $1,000. These affairs are a tribute to the organizational ability of Peterborough women. Their untiring efforts alone made successful these undertakings.

Few new ventures were made in the years, however. Highlights could be the disolay of Queen Mary's carpet by the IODE Chapters of the city, the three-day convention held here by the Catholic Women's League with delegates from all sections of the province attending, and the opening of the new City Hall with women taking prominence as guides to the thousands of visitors and serving refreshments to them. The YWCA was marking its 60th year, coinciding with a Diamond Jubilee dinner the end of November.

Women here became more conscious that they should concern themselves with civic affairs through the increasing activity of the Civic Affairs Study Group, yet there is room for much progress in this line. (This women's group is credited with having a certain influence on the City Council and Board of Education in the handling of municipal business this year.) Effort is being made by the YWCA to have a group of young women and men studying current events of world and local importance and two supper meetings have been held already.

Women's Missionary Societies of Peterborough had their interest extended when Miss Constance Pagar, an active member in several mission groups, resigned her position on the Normal school staff, closed her home, and went to Trinidad as a missionary teacher. In November Miss Mary ... returned from Bolivia where she had been following her father's foo'steps in the mission field.

The dozens of teas held in the year were spiked by three large cooking schools, two held by IODE Chapters and one by St. Luke's church. Women of this church also sponsored a fall fashion show, the only church group to do so. When major fashion parties of previous years were cancelled the bait was taken by other groups who presented the picture with interesting variations. One was of hair styles only, another of spring hats, another of sport togs and resort and holiday clothes and still another of the more glamorous dresses only. Local Council of Women held a children's fashion show and tea and decnded to make it an annual affair and on a larger scale.

Leap Year's propinquity may have been responsible for so few weddings the latter part of '51 and possibly this year's low total will step to unprecedented heights in '52. The loudest pealing of wedding bells was last July 20th as CGE employees began holidays and nearly 40 couples presented themselves before Peterborough ministers. Civil marriages became legal late the previous year but the magistrate has performed the brief ceremony only six times.

More Peterborough people than ever made a southward trek last winter to bask for several weeks or months in Florida sunshine. During the spring and summer they were overseas bound where the Festival of Britain was a drawing card.

Concentration on bringing up children to be good citizens caused Home and School and Parent-Teacher Associations to flourish with larger memberships and attendance. The YWCA opened a nursery school in the south end of the city where such facilities were as yet lacking, and it will likely be extended in the new year to accommodate the increased registration. Members of IODE chapters and other organizations gave their time and cars to transport crippled children to the YW for water-therapy treatments.

A new year now lies open for achievment. What will it bring?

Roast Duck For New Year's Makes A Festive Meal

Duck is not uncommon on the New Year menu and it can make a very festive picture roasted to a golden brown and garnished with spiced peaches.

A four pound duck is a good size for the family of two. It allows for one meal of hot roast duck, one of cold sliced meat and a third one with a "make-over" dish. The recipe for the "make-over" given below is an adaptation of an oriental dish made of rice and meat called Pillau. First though are offered directions for stuffing and roasting the duck. Incidentally, Savoury Cherry Stuffing is very good with this kind of poultry.

Roast Duck With Savoury Cherry Stuffing

If the duck is one of the eviscerated birds or if drawn by the butcher for you, examine the body cavity to make sure that all bits of lungs etc. have been removed. Remove any pin feathers and singe to remove down. Wash duck thoroughly allowing a stream of cold water to run through it. Dry and rub inside of cavity with salt. Fill with Savoury Cherry Stuffing (see recipe below), sew or skewer to close openings. Roast uncovered in an open pan in a moderately slow oven, 325 deg. F. allowing 30 minutes per pound. Baste occasionally with a spoonful of the syrup from the cherries. Duck is cooked when the meat is tender and no red tinge shows in the juice when the meat is pricked with a skewer or fork. If meat thermometer is used, place it in the thickest muscle being sure it does not rest on bone. Thermometer should read 180 deg. F. when duck is cooked.

Stuffing

1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons chopped onion
4 cups fine, soft bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
½ teaspoon celery salt
dash of pepper
1 fifteen-ounce can pitted cherries

Melt butter in pan, add onion and cook slowly for five minutes. Add onion and melted butter to crumbs and seasoning and combine thoroughly. Drain syrup from cherries and reserve for basting the duck during roasting. Add drained cherries to crumb mixture and mix together lightly so that fruit is not crushed.

Yields enough for a 4 pound duck.

Duck Pillau

3½ to 4 cups duck stock (see recipe below)
½ to ½ cup uncooked rice (preferably brown rice)
1 cup coarsely cut left-over roast duck
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup finely diced celery
½ cup chopped onion
Salt and pepper to taste

Bring stock to boiling point. Wash rice thoroughly and pick over. Slowly stir rice into boiling stock and cook until tender, about 20 minutes. (Rice increases in volume three times when cooked, so choose amount to suit your appetites from the two quantities given). Stir rice occasionally during cooking to prevent sticking. If extra liquid is required during cooking add boiling water. When cooked, rice should have absorbed most of the stock. It should be moist but not wet. Drain off excess stock if necessary.

Melt butter in pan and cook celery and onion slowly for ten minutes. Do not brown. Add duck and combine with rice. Heat thoroughly, season to taste and serve with pickled crabapples or other sweet pickle and a tossed green salad. 2 to 3 servings.

Duck Stock

After removing bits of left-over meat from duck carcass put bones in kettle and add:

4 cups water
½ teaspoon salt
1 medium onion chopped
3 to 4 celery leaves
1 small carrot cleaned and scraped
½ cup left-over duck gravy (optional)

Simmer covered for 1 hour or cook in pressure saucepan at fifteen pounds pressure for 25 minutes. Strain stock and measure. There should be 3½ to 4 cups of stock. Add additional hot water if necessary to make up volume.

ANCIENT EXPERTS

Plato, Aristotle and Virgil were among early experts who gave instructions on the care and management of beehives.

FOR SPRING, designer Paul Parnes likes the slim coat dress, the softness of pale pastels, the brilliance of strong black-and-white. Coat dress (left) is pale pink linen, fastens down the front with rhinestones, has white collar and cuffs. White silk shantung (centre) is coat dress also, has V-neckline and side pockets outlined in coral. Sheer black sheath dress (right) with pleated skirt has white pique bolero with black velvet collar. The coat dress, as shown here, is young and flattering.

DOROTHY DIX

Bright And Popular Girl Must Watch Being Boastful

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a boy friend with an inferiority complex. I am an officer in various social clubs, and an "A" student while he is not active in any of our school groups, and is a "C" student. I am very popular. When we are together he acts bashful. I think this is because I out-shine him. He has been avoiding me lately and I wonder if I should keep up my good work or get down to his level so he will be interested in me again.

Dorothy Dix

SALLY F.

ANSWER: While your friend may, indeed, be abashed at the superiority you display in school, I detect another reason for his avoidance. Could it be that you wax a trifle too boastful over your achievements? Perhaps even to the exclusion of other subjects? As a bright and popular girl you will have to watch this tendency, or you'll drive all boys away.

You have been endowed by your Creator with a better-than-average brain and personality. To do anything but make the most of these gifts would be a crime against nature, so give up all ideas of deliberately letting your work lapse to lower grades. Such practice will certainly not enhance you in the eyes of your schoolmates—male or female. You owe it to yourself, your teachers, your family to make the most of your talents and get the highest grades possible.

Give Him Encouragement

If you really want to interest one particular boy, give him the centre of the stage when you're together. Even though you're just dying to discuss your latest honorary post, let him have a lion's share of the conversational limelight. His achievements may not be as glamorours as yours, but to him they are mighty important. A little encouragement, properly meted out, may even spur him on to better marks and more active participation in school affairs. Such procedure will shed much more credit on you than a passive attempt to lower your marks.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 27 years old and engaged to a boy 25 who is away at college. Since he has been away I have met a nice young man 27, who is also engaged. He travels and every time he is in town I go out with him. Nothing has been said between us as to our feelings for each other; we have kept on a strictly friendly basis but I am very disturbed to find myself looking forward to seeing him. I know I love my fiance; would you advise me to stop seeing the other man?

M. L. T.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: You are playing with fire and are bound to be badly burned unless you straighten out a bad situation. If you are really in love with your fiance, the honorable thing to do is stop seeing this other man. You are being unfair to your own bethrothed, as well as his. If, however, a thorough analysis of your emotions indicates that he has wound himself more thoroughly around your heart strings than you now think, break your engagement. Don't marry one man while your mind is dwelling on another.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: A young man who works under my husband has bought a house next door to us.

We don't know the family too well. What effect will such close association have on business relations? I would like to make real friends of these people, since they will be next door neigbors. How can I do this?

RHODA

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: Men usually learn more thoroughly than women how to separate business and social associations, so I think your husband and new neighbor will have no difficulty in maintaining both relationships. You are very gracious in your desire to be a good neighbor. Be cordial to the newcomers, as helpful as you can, treat their children and animals with courtesy and above all, don't be intrusive. And don't, please, ask questions or tell stories about business.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

Question: Could you please give me the ingredients for a sweet pickle for pork. I had a recipe which called for water, salt, sugar, saltpetre, but lost it. Also a recipe for shortbread which calls for eggs and baking powder. Mrs. F. F., Lake St.,

Answer:

Sugar-Cured Hams and Bacon

Trim all ragged edges from meat. Rub the pork thoroughly with salt, and pack it in a cool place overnight. The next day pack it in a clean barrel or earthen crock, with the heaviest hams and shoulders at bottom, the lighter hams and shoulders next, and bacons and tongues (if used) on top.

For every 100 pounds of meat weigh out 10 lbs. salt, 2½ pounds of brown sugar, and 2 ounces of saltpetre. Rub these together thoroughly, taking care that the saltpetre is finely powdered. Dissolve the whole by stirring it into 4 gallons of boiling water. Allow this brine to cool for at least 4 hours until it is room temperature or colder, then pour it over the meat in barrel. If it does not quite cover the meat add more water. The brine should cover the meat at all times. If the brine is very low on the meat make another half batch — do not dilute the brine more than 10% by the addition of water. Cover the meat with a cover which fits inside of the rim, not of metal, and weigh it down with a very heavy rock.

If the brine shows signs of fermenting it should be drawn off, boiled, cooled and poured back over meat. The bacons and tongues may take from 4 to 6 weeks, before smoking if you intend to smoke them. Lighter hams and shoulders require from 6 to 8 weeks, and heavy hams the full 8 weeks.

SHORTBREAD (another variation)

One cup butter, 3⅓ cups flour (1lb.), 7 tablespoons cornstarch (2 oz.), 1 small egg yolk, 1½ cup sugar. Beat the butter to a soft and airy cream then beat in the yolk and sift in the remaining ingredients gradually. Divide into 3 sections.

Put each on a separate piece of clean paper, pat out square or round until about ½ inch thick. Pinch edges together to produce a fluted effect, and if desired, score top with fork. Prick well all over. Bake in slow oven of never over 325 deg. Fahr. until crisp feeling to the touch, but as little browned as possible.

Note: This variation of shortbread is especially good with finely chopped blanched almonds sprinkled over top just before baking. If you care to make these crisp and light you may add 1 or ½ teaspoon baking powder without changing the shortbread texture much.

Question: Am taking advantage of your kind offer and going to ask for some recipes on fancy Xmas cookies with dates, fruits, nuts in a drop cookie of you have any, or any of your own favourite ones. I know they will be good as your Xmas cake sounds very good and I am going to try it this year. I also like your other recipes. Merry Xmas and Happy New Year. Mrs. Clarence D.

Answer: Knowing that cookies recipes would be in great demand I printed in this column on Dec. 7 the recipes for Brownies and Hermits and on Dec. 13 the recipes for such traditional Christmas cookies as Lebkuchen, Scotch Shortbread (see above too), Kipferl and Swedish cookies. I hope you saw them. On Dec. 18 there were Ginger Creams, Plain white cookies, and Filbert Cookies and on Dec. 20 Fig Newtons; Porcupines and Teaball Doughnuts Dec. 22.

I am sure from that list you will find some little gems that will please you. But there is one I have wanted to find room for and that is one of my favourites so I will take this opportuntiy to give it to you.

Pecan Dreams

One-half cup best quality shortening or butter, ¼ cup icing sugar, 1 cup sifted cake flour, 2 eggs, 1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar, 2 tablespoons ordinary flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup chopped pecans (or walnuts or almonds), ½ cup moist shredded cocoanut. Cream the shortening until airy then beat in the icing sugar and flour until perfectly mixed. Spread this on 2 greased pans about 8x8x2 inches. Spread it with the following mixture: beat the eggs well then beat the sugar into them. Add the ordinary flour and baking powder which have been sifted together. Stir in nuts and cocoanut. Spread over top of first mixture then bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 30 to 40 minutes. When removed from oven cut into inch squares but let cool in pan.

Let me know when I can help again. Happy New Year to you and your loved ones.

Charlotte Whitton Voted Outstanding Woman of 1951

By The Canadian Press

East and west share the honors in Canada's outstanding women of 1951.

Heading the four chosen in a Canadian Press poll by women's editors of Canadian dajly papers is Miss Charlotte Whitton, dynamic Ottawa social worker and mayor of Canada's capital.

Others who took top honors are Marlene Stewart, Fonthill, Ont., teen-ager who won the Canadian women's open and closed golf titles; Gabrielle Roy, distinguished novelist of St. Boniface, Man., and Montreal; and Betty Jean Hagen, Edmonton-born violinist.

CP asked women's editors to choose the year's outstanding women—on a basis of news interest—in sport, a literature and art, music, and public affairs; and in addition to pick as woman of the year, from these fields or others, the one woman most in the public eye.

The result: public affairs and woman of the year, Miss Whitton; sport, Miss Stewart; literature and art, Miss Roy; music, Miss Hagen.

Makes Headlines

Charlotte Elizabeth Whitton, CBE, made headlines in October when she was chosen to fill out an unexpired term of mayor of Ottawa and thus became the first woman mayor of a Canadian city. But she had been prominent in Canadian life long before that. A glance at the history of her career at Queen's as a double medallist in English and History in 1917, after playing on championship hockey and basketball teams at the university. Her name has long been associated with social welfare in this country. She has been a delegate to the commission on social welfare of the League of Nations, a director of the Canadian Welfare Council, and an active writer in the welfare cause. Her activity in connection with adoption practices erupted in a series of libel charges against her and others by the Alberta government in 1948. They were subsequently dropped.

Another Contender

A contender in both the woman of the year and public affairs categories was Mrs. R. J. Marshall, of Agincourt. A member of Canada's United Nations delegation and former president of the National Council of Women. Others mentioned in one or other of these categories included Ellen Fairclough, MP for Hamilton East; Mme. L. de G. Beaubien, of Montreal; Kate Aitken; Celia Franca, the ballet-artiste, and Miss Stewart.

Marlene Stewart, the 17-year-old who won the Canadian and Ontario women's open golf titles and the Canadian closed championship, had little competition as outstanding woman in sport. Others whose names found some support were Winnie Roach Leuzler, first Canadian woman to swim the English Channel, Barbara Ann Scott, and Mariette Laframboise, Montreal tennis player.

In literature and art, two distinguished French-language authors won general support. Second to Miss Roy, whose "Where Nests The Water Hen" appeared in English translation during the year, was Mrs. Germaine Guevremont, who won the Governor-General's award with "The Outlander". Dr. Hilda Neatby, professor of history at the University of Saskatoon and a member of the Massey Commission; Mazo de la Roche; Lilias T. Newton, Montreal portrait-painter; Lotta Dempsey, newly-appointed editor of Chatelaine; Lilian Mr. Beckwith of St. Andrews, NB; and Marie Raymond of Montreal were others who won votes.

Miss Hagen's achievements as a violinist were news last June when the 21-year-old Edmonton girl won the Pathe Marconi prize at the Thibaud International competition in Paris, the first Canadian to do so. Second in the voting was Giselle LaFleche, the St. Boniface, Man., girl who is making good as a Hollywood chanteuse. Others mentioned were Constance Lambert, Louise Roy, Donna Grescoe, Violet Archer, Greta de Kresz, June Kowalchuck and Gloria Agostini.

POINSETTIA PARTY LOAF—A novel, easy way to prepare sandwiches for a group. Cream cheese frosting and pepper—pimiento garnish makes it holiday food hard to beat.

Poinsettia Party Loaf—as can be seen from the picture, will double for a centrepiece—yet it will satisfy the heartiest of appetites. But its best feature is that it's so simple to make. And it can be made anytime ahead and stored in the refrigerator, in fact, chilling improves it, making it easier to slice.

POINSETTIA PARTY LOAF

(Serves 10 to 12)

3 sandwich fillings of your choice, 3 packages softened white cream cheese, ½ to ¾ cup cream, 1 loaf unsliced bread, softened butter.

First of all prepare the 3 sandwich fillings. Then make the cream cheese frosting by creaming the cheese with a wooden spoon until light and fluffy. Add cream to the cheese until it is the right consistency for spreading. Set aside.

Trim off all the crusts from the top, bottom and sides of the loaf. Then slice it lengthwise into 4 even slices about ½ inch thick. Spread the bottom slice with softened butter and the first filling. Continue this with each slice using the three fillings. Then place the slices on top of each other leaving the last slice without any filling. When the slices are stacked smooth off the sides of loaf to remove any excess filling. Frost the top and sides of the loaf with the blended cream cheese. Decorate with a poinsettia on the top made with pimiento for flower and green pepper stripes for leaves. Chill for several hours before serving.

Suggested Fillings:

1. Chopped hard-cooked eggs with minced onion moistened with mayonnaise.
2. Chopped chicken or turkey and celery combined with a little mayonnaise.
3. Soft cream cheese with chopped olives and pimiento.
4. Pimiento cream cheese and a little chopped green pepper or parsley.
5. Minced ham and finely chopped celery moistened with a little prepared mustard or sweet mustard relish.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

6—In Memoriam

FREEMAN—In loving memory of my dear brother, Gerard Freeman, who passed away one year ago Dec. 30, 1950.
Calm and peaceful he is sleeping,
Sweetest rest that follows pain
We who love him sadly miss him,
But trust in God to meet again
Ever remembered by brother Frank and sister-in-law, Peg.

PYM—In loving memory of Mrs. E. P. Pym who passed away December 29th 1949.
Beyond the Sunset O glad reunion,
With our dear loved one whose gone before;
In that fair homeland we'll know no parting,
—Ever remembered by her husband.

WILSON—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Margaret K. Wilson, who passed away December 31, 1949.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
Her weary trials and troubles are past,
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
'Til God called her home to suffer no more.
—Lovingly remembered by husband and daughter Audrey.

7—Cards of Thanks

I wish to extend my sincere thanks to the sisters of St. Joseph's Hospital, Father McEachern, the nurses, attending doctors, also to those who sent flowers, fruit and cards during my illness.—John Sabatino.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, and beautiful floral offerings received from neighbours, relatives and many friends, also thanking the Rev. Maurice P. Poole for his consoling words, during our recent sad bereavement.—Mrs. Mary Adamson and family.

Mrs. A. C. White and Family wish to extend their sincere thanks to Rev. D. P. Morris, Comstock's Funeral Home, and all friends and neighbors for their kindness shown during their recent sad bereavement.

Mrs. Sidney Revoy, Sr., wishes to extend her sincere thanks to all those who sent cards and flowers, and all other acts of kindness shown during her time of illness in the hospital.

Secretary Of Giants Gets Slocum Award

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP). — Edward T. (Eddie) Brannick, popular secretary of the New York Giants, will be presented with the Bill Slocum memorial award at the New York Baseball Writers' 29th annual dinner and show Feb. 3, it was announced today.

The award, originated by the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America in 1929, is presented annually to one who has made a high contribution to baseball over a long period of years.

Brannick, who will be 59 July 22, has been with the Giants since 1905. He started as an office boy, rose rapidly to traffic manager, assistant road secretary and finally to secretary.

High Labor Costs To Cut CPR Earnings

MONTREAL, Dec. 29—(CP)—High labor and material costs are expected to lower net earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for 1951, W. A. Mather, president, said Friday.

"All of us should be most concerned with an inflationary trend which, if unchecked, will certainly place the future in jeopardy," he said.

"In spite of the gross earnings of record size, our labor and material costs have reached such proportions that our net railway earnings at the year's end are likely to be reduced substantially from those of a year ago."

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Gil Turner, unbeaten Philadelphia youngster, Friday night overwhelmed courageous Vic Tordell of Hartford to win his 13th straight pro fight with a unanimous 10-round decision at Madison Square Garden in New York.

Turner weighed 145¾, Cardell 146.

Time after time Cardell, a willing but outmatched underdog, drew cheers from the crowd by tagging the 21-year-old Negro with looping rights. Except for the third round, when he slowed up Turner, he never was able to stop the relentless attack.

Apparently a little over-anxious to make a good showing in his New York and television debut, Turner often missed fire with his wild rallies. But he kept on coming, wearing down his slender foe with the fury of his attack.

Lebaron Reid, president of Moncton Hawks of the Maritime Major Hockey League said early today the Hawks are "still in business and we hope to stay in business." Reid made the statement in reply to rumors that the team would drop out of the league after tonight's game in Saint John against the Beavers.

Stunned by the news of Don Newcombe's acceptance by the army, the bereaved Brooklyn Dodgers' front office was prepared today to venture into the open mart to seek a replacement for the 20-game winner.

Newcombe's acceptance for military service, announced Friday from Washington after weeks of delay and speculation, took the Dodgers completely by surprise.

Sugar Ray Robinson, world middleweight champion, left New York Friday for his training camp at Greenwood Lake, NY, to prepare for his title defence Jan. 24 against Bobo Olson of San Francisco.

The bout, originally scheduled for Dec. 20, was rescheduled after Robinson suffered a back injury.

Chet Nichols, 20-year-old Boston Braves southpaw who led the National League with an earned run average of 2.88, received notice in Pawtucket, RI, Friday to report for his army physical examination Jan. 22. Nichols is regarded as one of the greatest prospects the Braves have had in years.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union will receive a $25,000 good-faith bond from the proposed Vancouver entry as soon as confirmation arrives "as to whether it is to be posted," director Orville Burke said last night in Vancouver.

He was commenting on a report by Bob Gillies of Regina, WIFU secretary, that a letter from Vancouver football interests as

South Monaghan Couple Mark Golden Wedding

MILLBROOK, Dec. 29 (ENS)—On Christmas Eve, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Perrin, of South Monaghan, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Charles Brackenridge, of Millbrook. They were married in Peterborough at the home of the groom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James Howell, on December 24, 1901. The Rev. M. Kilgour, Methodist minister of the Bailieboro circuit, performed the ceremony. Attendants were Miss Mabel Moore, of Peterborough, as bridesmaid, and Fred Perrin, brother of the groom, as groomsman.

Miss Moore was one of 28 guests at the dinner held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brackenridge on Monday night. The groomsman died a few months after the ceremony as the result of an accident where he was working on th econstruction of the Quaker Oats building.

John Perrin, 83, the only surviving member of a family of nine children, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Perrin, of South Monaghan. All his life was spent farming on the Lake line of South Monaghan except 2½ years immediately after his marriage when he lived in Peterborough, and for a few years when as a boy he went to Saskatchewan with his parents. In his early teens on the Prairies he helped to break the sod with oxen.

The family was there at the time of the first Red River flood, when they had to live in a school house for two weeks along with several other families of the community until the flood subsided.

Except for the 2½ years spent in Peterborough, Mrs. Perrin, 76, is also a lifelong resident of South Monaghan. She was born Charlotte Matilda Hall (Tillie), the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Hall, one of a family of seven.

Mr. and Mrs. Perrin have two daughters, Mrs. Charlotte Brackenridge, of Millbrook, and Mrs. John Brackenridge, of Bailieboro, who married brothers.

There is one grandchild, Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brackenridge, who last year was on the Dominion championship team judging grain at the Royal Winter Fair.

Following the cutting of the cake, Meredith Perrin, of Port Hope, read the address, and Mrs. Kenneth Dawson, of Bewdley, made the presentation of a pearl necklace and bracelet to Mrs. Perrin and Mrs. Arthur Buttar presented Mr. Perrin with a pen and pencil set banded in gold, on behalf of the relatives.

The bridesmaid and her sister gave the bride a gold brooch. The immediate family presented a cheque for $50. The bride and groom of 50 years ago received many other gifts, flowers and messages of congratulation.

Those present at the dinner included: Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Perrin and Nancy, of Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Buttar, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Byers, of Bailieboro; Mr. and Mrs. George Finnie, Gerald and Keith, Bensfort; Mr. and Mrs. John Brackenridge, Bailiboro; Miss Mabel Moore, Miss Pearl Moore, Mrs. Helen Perrin and Miss Frances Hall, of Peterborough; Mrs. J. W. Perrin and Mrs. John McKnight, of Millbrook; and Miss Alma Perrin, of Ottawa. There were also a number of guests who called in the evening.

Dean Browne will be guest preacher at choral Eucharist Sunday morning. This photo is by George Lilley.

Kingston Choir Sings In New York

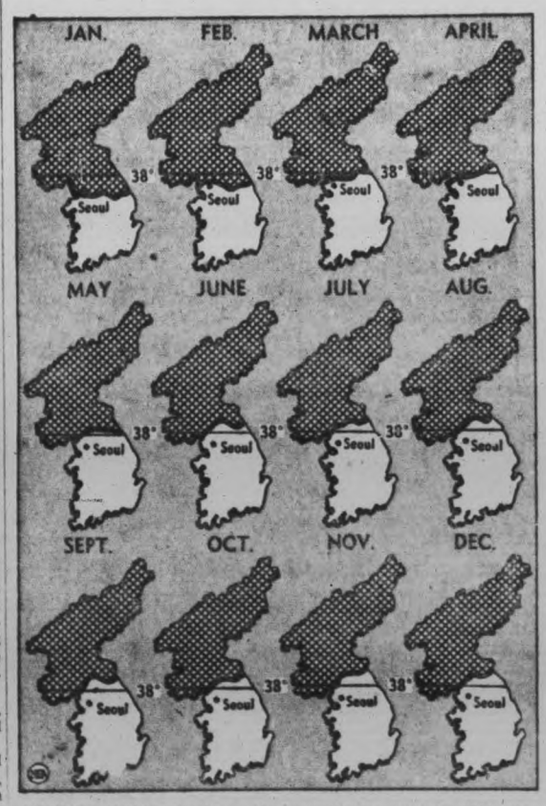
KINGSTON, Dec. 29 (CP). — Evensong at the largest gothic cathedral in New York City will be sung this afternoon by a male choir from Kingston.

The 62-voice choir of St. George's Anglican Cathedral here are scheduled to sing Saturday and Sunday at the Episcopalian Cathedral of St. John the Divine on the invitation of the Bishop of New York.

The choir, conducted by choirmaster, George N. Maybee, is believed to be the first visiting choir ever invited to sing choral eucharist at St. John's. The Very Rev. A. T. Briarly Browne, Dean of Ontario, will be guest preacher at the choral eucharist Sunday morning.

The St. George's choir, winners of the International Rotary Festival of Music trophy in 1950 and 1951, will sing many Canadian compositions by Dr. Healey Willan and a Canadian Indian carol with words written by Father Breboeuf, 17th century missionary in the Georgian Bay region.

The 30 men in the choir are looking forward to seeing New Year's eve in Times Square. Sightseeing and music tours have been arranged for the group, ending New Year's Day when they will return to Kingston.



Members of the choir range in age from nine-year-old Peter Maley to Dr. P. G. C. Campbell, 73-year-old Queen's University French professor.

Enforced Holiday

Minister Dead

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP)—The Rev. Murray Clayton Tait, 76, a retired United Church minister, died here Friday. Active in the ministry for more than 40 years, he held pastorates with the Presbyterian Church in Claremont and Wallaceburg, and in the United Church at Glencoe, Schumacher, Woodgreen, Toronto, and Lansing. He retired seven years ago.

UN WON IN '51—In Korea, the ground gains score for 1951 was UN forces, plus 100 miles, the Reds, minus 100 miles. Newsmap above shows the year was ushered in with bitter fighting that saw the UN cross the 38th parallel in March. By July, UN territory (white area) extended well above the border. The UN war machine ground to a virtual halt with start of truce negotiations in mid-July.

New Year's Eve In Canada Promises To Gay One

By The Canadian Press

It will strike first in St. John's, last where the Pacific laps the shores of Vancouver Island.

But whenever midnight strikes in Canada, Monday, the resulting celebration of the first day of a new year promises to be gay.

For it wasn't a bad year in 1951 for most Canadians. Prices of almost everything—and that includes the prospective tab for Monday's New Year's Eve high jinks—were high. But so were wages and salaries. In general, Canadians had much to be thankful for in 1951 though, for many, the Korean war and its drain on the country's resources of men and materials brought sorrow.

A Canadian Press coast-to-coast look at what's lined up in the way of celebrations this New Year's Eve found that Montreal, traditionally Canada's gayest city, where people never go to bed Dec. 31, may not sparkle as brightly as in other years. The bars must close at 10 p.m., that goes for Quebec City, too.

Toronto Takes Over

But Toronto, Canada's second largest city that once was viewed by many as the most staid, will keep its dining lounges running full blast until 2 a.m. public parties may continue until three o'clock.

Throughout Quebec province, Les Canadiens will make a night of it, of course, at home. For French-speaking Canadians, New Year's traditionally is more festive than Christmas, regarded chiefly as a religious holiday in that province.

A male celebrant in Toronto can enjoy himself for as much as $100 or as little as $2, depending on where he goes. In one downtown hotel, the charge is $35 a couple—plus incidentals such as drinks, rooms, corsages, taxis and tips. White or black tie is required. In night clubs, the minimum charge is $2.

In booming Edmonton $25 is estimated as the minimum for a good night out. Many formal functions are scheduled in that city this year as pre-war dinner jackets and white tie-and-tails are coming back.

Servicemen's parties are expected to be popular in Regina and Saskatoon, Saskatchewan's largest cities, with prices ranging from $6 to $11 a couple, but few cafes will remain open in those cities for that early-morning spot of coffee. Proprietors have found that New Year's Eve crowds are rowdy.

Booked Solid

In Vancouver, where, as in most Canadian cities outside of Ontario and Quebec, there are no bars or cocktail lounges, some night spots are booked solid as from $5 to $15 a couple. As in other cities, baby sitters will be a problem for Vancouver's married couples.

In Winnipeg, big hotels will charge $12 a couple, dress optional, with a 3 am closing hour. Dances with floor shows will cost about $4-$5 a couple and many of those are scheduled. Participants must carry—at their peril—their own alcoholic refreshments.

In the Maritimes, with Halifax setting the pace, a "big spender" can anticipate paying at least $25 for the larger parties with hotels charging from $12 to $15 a couple.

200 Children Flee As Tweed Rink Collapses

TWEED, Dec. 31 (CP)—A skating rink collapsed Saturday night seconds after 200 children, warned by the crackling of timbers, fled to safety. The weight of snow that had accumulated on the roof was blamed for the crumpling of the 24-year-old building. Members of the Canadian Legion branch, supervising the skating session, escorted the children and some adults out of the rink. The crowd was the largest of the season. The building was vacant when the cracking grew to a roar and the entire rink, except one wall, buckled under the weight of the winter's snow and crumbled. Fred Geraldi, the caretaker, was the last to leave. The concussion of the collapse sent him spinning through the front door.

Narrow Escape

The skating crowd was the largest of the season.

"If it hadn't been for some pretty quick thinking this could have been a terrible tragedy," said Reeve Clarence Graham.

The night before, a large crowd filled the rink for a hockey game between Tweed and Tamworth.

Geraldi, Tom Beatty, secretary of the Tweed Amusements Ltd., owners of the rink, Harry Leal, Ellard Clark and Len Taylor, of the Legion, were credited with averting a disaster.

They hustled the 200 children off the ice and out of the rink in less than three minutes after the heavy timber supports began to creak and crack.

Rounded Up

Beatty gave the order to have the rink evacuated. Most of the children, he said later, didn't realize the danger when they were leaving the arena. Some hung back, but they were quickly rounded up and escorted out.

When the rink collapsed the fire department was called immediately because it was feared that fallen high tension wires and smouldering coals in the dressing-room stoves might set fire to the wreckage. Power was shut off by hydro employees.

The main wall, where the gallery and dressing-rooms were located, did not collapse. Children's shoes and clothing were recovered from the building and sorted out in the municipal hall.

The Legion took over management of the rink only two weeks ago. Sunday there was talk of rebuilding it. Beatty said a meeting of shareholders would be called immediately. He said the rink was insured.

Hundreds Left Stranded By Blizzards

RENO, Dec. 31—(AP)—Hundreds of winter sports fans were snowbound today in the high Rockies and Sierra Nevada by blizzards that killed at least one man.

Three men were reported missing, presumably trapped in snow slides.

Another was rescued alive after two hours under a snowy avalanche.

Transcontinental highways were closed in the mountain passes of Colorado and along the California-Nevada state line.

Among the hundreds stranded in Sierra Nevada winter resorts were the former New York Yankee star, Joe DiMaggio, his divorced wife and their son. They were caught at Sky Tavern, on Mt. Rose, 20 miles southwest of Reno, along with 80 other skiers.

A dozen other Sierra Nevada winter resorts were isolated. None was in danger. Resorts reported guests enjoying their predicament—with ample food, fuel, and drink.

In Colorado 500 persons, mostly skiiers, were twice trapped by the winter storm. Snow plows reached them Sunday atop 11,314-foot-high Berthoud Pass. But as the caravan of 200 autos moved out, new slides sealed the pass again.

A Colorado State Highway Patrol officer said a huge slide buried a truck carrying three men Sunday night. None was said to have escaped. The other two were reported missing. None was identified.

An avalanche 65 miles southwest of Reno buried two California highway department workers, their truck and two snow plows. James Swafford, 37, Camino,. was killed. Frank Krek, 28, was dug out alive.

Fear was expressed for the safety of Joe Carson, 35, a maintenance man at the Squaw Valley ski resort 40 miles southwest of here. He left his cabin shortly before two avalanches thundered down the mountainside. Two search parties failed to find trace of him.

Buses, trains and planes were all reported late in Denver because of the snows. Pilots reported bucking 100 mile an hour winds.

Holiday Toll Seven New Year's Weekend

By The Canadian Press

With the main New Year's celebrations still to come the holiday weekend already has brought violent death to seven persons in Canada.

A Canadian Press survey from midnight Friday to early today showed three persons killed in fires, two in traffic accidents, one child drowned and another accidetally shot. The Province of Quebec reported three persons killed, Ontario showed two dead, and one each in British Columbia and Nova Scotia.

King Risked Being Speechless

LONDON, Dec. 31 — (Reuters)—The surgeons who performed the lung resection on the King risked making him speechless for the rest of his life, the Sunday Express reported Sunday.

After a hurried conference in the operating theatre at Buckingham Palace last September, the surgeons decided that to ensure success of the delicate operation they must sever a major nerve aiding the vocal cords.

Had the surgical knife gone awry by the merest fraction of an inch, the King might never have spoken again, the Express said.

In view of the grave issues at stake all the surgeons concerned—including Sir Clement Price Thomas, knighted for his part in the operation—put their signatures to a joint statement that their act was inevitable.

Judges Flabbergasted

Minister Awarded Title Of World's Champion Liar

BURLINGTON, Wisc., Dec. 31—(AP) — Flabbergasted judges of the Burlington Liars' Club today pinned the title of the world's champion liar on a member of the clergy—the Rev. Arthur R. Kirk of Biggs, Calif.

President O. C. Hullett said the judges came to a unanimous decision on the winner "and then almost fainted when they looked at the name signed at the bottom of the letter."

Here's what the pastor wrote:

"A man living west of town tried to raise watermelons this summer. He had very bad luck. The soil was too rich. The watermelon vines grew so fast that they wore the watermelons out, dragging them along the ground.

"One of the boys from town went out one night to swipe a melon. He got the melon all right, but the vines were growing so fast that warm night that the boy had to taken to the hospital. Before he could break the melon off the vine it had dragged him half a mile and he was in bad shape.

Mayor-elect Hugh Waddell, left, had occasion to hear something of the trials and tribulations of being the City's Chief Magistrate in the foyer of the City Hall on Saturday morning. Chatting beside the terrazzo floor map of the district, and concentrating on PETERBOROUGH, Mr. Waddell was congratulated by Mr. McIntyre who made his mark in the city 30 years ago. Some of Mr. McIntyre's accomplishments, as a contractor, were the building of the original YMCA building and five banks. "Accept my congratulations on the people's choice," said Mr. McIntyre. Army Engineers Asked To Help Blast Ice Jams MONTREAL, Dec. 31 (CP). — Civic officials at Riviere des Prairies have asked for aid from army engineers to break up ice jams that have caused disastrous floods in the north end of Montreal. They have not yet received a reply.

Flood waters rose 10 inches on Sunday when a dam's sluice gates were opened after water began pouring over its top. The water then piled up a new ice jam in the stricken area.

Officials said the water went down six inches during the night. Evacuation has been stopped.

It is feared that if the present warm spell that has hit the city continues, the sluce gates might have to be opened again adding further danger of more ice jams and a rise in water levels.

Fear New Jam

Mayor Rosario Fortin of Riviere des Prairies said he feared the new jam at Montreal North.

"If the pressure there should become too great' he said, "It may sweep the newly-formed jam further downstream where it may pile up against the two directly opposite our town and bring a still worse flood than what we have received so far."

Dynamiting proved futile Friday and Saturday but further attempts were expected to be made today. Officials fear that the ice jams may remain until spring.

"That's a prospect we're really afraid of," Charles St. Amour, Montreal North police chief said. "I hate to think what will happen to whole areas around here in the spring."

Since the flood was at its peak Wednesday, between 70 and 80 families have been evacuated and some 200 to 300 dwellings, the majority of them summer cottages, were damaged.

Use 180 Planes In Search

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 31 (AP)—Murky weather hindered a great land-air-water search today for a missing transport plane with 40 occupants which disappeared Saturday. The twin-engined C-46, owned by Continental Charters, Inc., of Miami, left Pittsburgh Saturday night at 9:47 pm EST on a non-scheduled flight to Buffalo, NY, with seven crew members and 33 passengers. The plane, purchased from the US government about six months ago, had a three-hour gasoline supply for a 190-mile trip expected to take one hour. Capt. Alexander Wobniak of the US air force, is in charge of the aerial search. He had 180 planes at his disposal.

Cover 100-Mile Path

Capt. Wozniak directed planes to cover a 100-mile wide path, 50 miles on each side of the intended route. RCAF planes were ordered to scour Canadian territory near the US border. A US coast guard plane from Salem, Mass., and coast guard boats covered Lake Erie in case the missing aircraft went down in those chill, choppy waters.

Bad weather conditions delayed the start of some phases of the air search.

More than 1300 persons aided state police and foresters in a ground search of the area at the southern tip of the Allegmeny National Forest about 18 miles north of Brookville, Pa., and 100 miles north of Pittsburg.

Continental Charters was ordered to halt all takeoffs from Buffalo airport.

Parks Commissioner James F. Hanlon announced the ban "in the interests of the flying public."

Rumors that the plane had been found hampered search parties. Hundreds of the curious jammed roads about 100 miles north of Pittsburgh after one report.

The latest clue being investigated was provided by Robert Hawthorne of Titusville, Pa. He reported seeing the lights of a low flying plane at 11 pm Saturday six miles south of Sheffield, Pa., only a few miles from the New York State border and the general aerial route from Pittsburgh to Buffalo.

Most of the 33 passengers board the ship are from Pittsburgh. In-

Four Fliers Questioned Relentlessly By Russians

ERDING, Germany, Dec. 31 (CP)—The dramatic story of 40 days' imprisonment behind the Iron Curtain and a Communist-style "trial" was related here Saturday night by four American airmen. Seated at a bare wooden table covered with microphones and under the glare of photographers' arc lights, the men told more than 100 reporters that when they landed in Hungary they thought they were in Yugoslavia.

Acting as spokesman for the group, Capt. Dave Henderson of Shawnee, Okla., said the plane became lost in the clouds while he was piloting it on a routine flight from Erding to Belgrade Nov. 19.

'Just as our gas was running low I sent out SOS signals," said Henderson in a quiet, often nearly inaudible, voice. "Then a fighter plane appeared in front of me and

Offer $2,700 To Kill General

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 31 (Reuters)—A left-wing Cairo newspaper has offered a reward of $2,700 to the Egyptian irregular who kills "Red-faced Thief Erskine"—Gen. Sir George Erskine, comander of British troops in Egypt.

The newspaper, Al Gomhour Al Misry, also offered $200 to anyone who kills a British officer. It lovingly dwelt on the swarthy Egyptians' insulting phrase "red face" to describe pink-complexioned or ruddy—Englishmen.

Claxton Borrows Plane From US Air Force To Speed Visit To Canadians In Korea

By WILLIAM BOSS

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 31 (CP) — Defence Minister Brooke Claxton of Canada today reached an advance Korean air base.

Claxton, on his way to visit Canadian forces in Korea, made good time against strong headwinds on his trip from Tokyo in a plane borrowed from the United States Air Force.

The RCAF plane in which he made the trip from Canada to Tokyo was grounded Sunday in Japan because of engine trouble. A new engine has been ordered from Ottawa and will be flown to Japan. The Canadian plane will be ready in time to take Claxton and his party back to Canada.

The defence minister was met at the Korean airfield by Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade, and Gen. James A. Van Fleet, comander of the US Eighth Army. Then he headed for the front.

Say Worst Storm Of Century Leaves 12 Dead

LONDON, Dec. 31 (AP)—Floods today added to the havoc caused by 100-mile-an-hour winds which swept Britain over the weekend leaving at least 12 dead and hundreds of thousands of dollars in damage. Weather experts say it may prove to be the worst storm of the century. Highest wind recorded in Britain was a 110-mile-an-hour blast at Turnhouse, airport, Edinburgh. Gusts of 90 miles an hour were common throughout the Isles. Floods were reported sweeping through Kent, where wind-whipped seas tore a 30-foot gap in the sea wall at Dymchurch and endangered hundreds of homes, shops and farms which lie below sea level. Troops finally closed the gap with sand bags.

In the raging Atlantic Ocean, 300 miles off Ireland, Capt. Kurt Carlson waited alone in his 6,700-ton ship Flying Enterprise, out of New York.

The 40 crew members and 10 passengers were rescued from the storm-disabled ship with its 40-degree list, but Carlsen refused to leave her.

Die of Exposure

Latest deaths reported were of three men who died of exposure after losing their way on the bleak Inverness moors. Searchers hunted ofr the body of a fourth member of the party.

Two deckhands were blown off their vessel near Hull and drowned. At Dysart a 13-year-old boy was killed when a light pole fell on his hut. A man who tried to rescue him collapsed and died.

At St. Ives in Cornwall, winds piled mountainous sand drifts which reached the roof tops. Entire streets were impassable.

Ordered To Help

Two more US ships, the destroyer John W. Weeks and the transport Golden Eagle, were ordered to travel at high speed to the Flying Enterprise.

There were numerous other reports of ships in trouble.

West German marine police at Borkum Island reported the recovery of 13 bodies from the wrecked German cargo ship Irene Oldendorff.

Finding of the bodies raised to almost 40 the number of deaths caused by the storm which swept the North Atlantic.

POW Exchange Deadlocks Truce Talks

MUNSAN, Korea, Dec. 31 (AP)—In final Korean truce talks of 1951, the United Nations today accused the Communists of planning war while negotiating a truce and of trying to squirm out of an agreement to tell what happened to more than 50,000 unaccounted-for prisoners-of-war.

Sub-committees wound up the year still deadlocked on the issues of policing an armistice and exchanging prisoners. Both groups scheduled meetings in Panmunjom for 11 am Tuesday—New Year's Day (9 pm EST Monday).

"By your assumed attitude of a victor and your insistence on developing a military air capability (airfields) you have served clear notice to the world that what you have in mind is not peace but war," said Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Turner, UN sub-committee head. "You have cast an ominous shadow over those negotiations."

Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby said the Communists refused to provide data on prisoners the UN says were not listed on the official Red roster until the Allies supply further information on prisoners in UN camps. Most of the 50,000 the UN claims were listed as prisoners by the Reds in official radio broadcasts were South Koreans.

Grave Matter

The Communists insisted Monday that they already had turned over all basic data on war prisoners and that only "minutiae" is left. Libby declared it was not "minutiae" but "a grave matter."

The Allied negotiators said North Korean Maj.-Gen. Lee

Damages 11 Houses With Bare Hands

BALTIMORE, Dec. 31 (CP)—The one-man gang who went on the rampage and damaged 11 houses with his bare hands died today of bullet wounds inflicted when a policeman shot him to halt the mad spree.

Albert J. Tibbs, 26, whose arms were strong enough to rip bricks from chimneys, died in hospital at 2:15 am EST.

Tibbs shattered the afternoon quiet Sunday when he slipped through the window of his third-floor room to the roof and began a reign of destruction that was stopped by a slug from a policeman's revolver.

Police said Tibbs ripped with his bare hands big chunks out of chimneys on the 11 houses, kicked in nine skylights, uprooted a television aerial, fell through the roof of one house where he wrecked two bedrooms, tore out the plumbing and caused a minor flood, then did battle with a policeman.

Allies Fail Dislodge Reds

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 31—(AP)—Communist troops clung stubbornly to an Allied hill position on the western front today in the face of a United Nations counter attack now in its fourth day.

The battle for the snow-covered hill west of Korangpo was hand-to-hand at times, in temperatures as low as 20 degrees below zero.

UN forces were driven off the hill Friday by a battalion of Chinese Reds supported by 10 tanks or self-propelled heavy guns.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said Allied troops backed by four tanks and low-flying planes failed to knock the dug-in Reds off the hill on a weekend attack.

UN forces moved out again Monday, the Eighth Army communique said, but a new snow storm curtailed aerial operations.

The battle raged 30 miles north of Seoul, less than 10 miles northeast of the truce-talk village of Panmunjom.

New Era Coming

US May Be Building Last Of Man-Flown Bombers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—The United States may be starting to build the last of the man-flown bombers.

When these big planes reach the obsolete stage, a new generation of guided missiles and pilotless aircraft is expected to be ready to take over the long-range aerial bombardment jobs.

But, airmen familiar with planning for the future, told a reporter today that doesn't mean the current new heavyweight bombers will be out of date soon. There are still a lot of bugs to be worked out of the push-button bombers.

The air force has two heavy jet bomber type projects: the Boeing B-52, now undergoing tests, and the Consolidated Vultee B-60 — the swept-wing all-jet successor to the combination piston-jet B-36 —a model of which is approaching completion.

There are several arguments advanced against keeping on building bigger and bigger bombers, including these:

1. Heavy bombers are getting too costly in money, manpower and materials.

2. Guided missiles, when improvements are attained in guidance systems, can do everything the heavy, strategic bomber does at less cost.

Using the B-52 as an example, military aviation officials make these points:

As combat planes go, it will last a long time (perhaps five or 10 years) because the design of the airframe appears to be about the maximum that can be expected. Different type engines may be used in the same frame.

The standard jets are growing progressively more powerful and faster. And designers are gradually getting more fuel-mileage out of them.

House Prorogues Likely Meet Late February

OTTAWA, Dec. 31 (CP) — The fifth session of Canada's 21st parliament, called primarily to deal with domestic legislation, ended Saturday on an international note.

One of the last acts of members was to ratify a resolution endorsing the entry of Greece and Turkey into the North Atlantic Alliance.

The measure won unanimous approval—a sharp contrast to the treatment given many of the bills at the 79-day session, marked by lengthy and at times heated and acrimonious debate.

The session was prorogued at 6.50 p.m. EST by Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, deputy Governor-General. Date for the opening of the regular 1952 session was tentatively set for Feb. 7, but that date can and probably will be changed later by the government.

Some members expect the opening will not come until late February.

The 800-word speech from the throne, read by Chief Justice Rinfret, reviewed the legislation passed during the session, including three bills adopted in the dwindling minutes before prorogation.

One measure provided for crop-failure payments to farmers in northern settlements on the prairies and British Columbia; another authorized the government to award contracts of less than $15,000 in cases of emergency without calling tenders; the third granted certain privileges to Atlantic Pact troops training in Canada.

Foreign Affairs Depate

Ratification of the Greece-Turkey entry in NATO gave rise to a debate on foreign affairs.

External Affairs Minister Pearson reported that he had returned recently from Europe with the feeling that there had been "no deterioration" in the situation there. The gap between east and west had not widened and "we are holding our own."

But, he said, the West would not continue to hold its own unless it built up its collective strength. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization would be strengthened by the inclusion of Turkey and Greece. In effect, NATO was putting "power behind peace."

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said it frequently was stated that Canada is a great arsenal of democracy, but government reports indicate that proper arms are not available even for Canada's own forces.

Wants Canada Producing

Canada should be producing the guns, rifles and other equipment which she had shown she could produce so effectively in the last war.

Gordon Graydon (PC, Peel), foreign affairs spokesman for his party supported the addition of Greece and Turkey to NATO and said that uncertainty and hesitancy only serves as an "open invitation" to aggression. The risk of the new step was not too great.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said the move was essential even though it extended Canada's NATO commitments.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said there is no doubt that risks are involved in the inclusion of Greece and Turkey into NATO because both countries occupy key and strategic positions. Anything that happened in that area now might send Canada to war.

Mr. Pearson said the inclusion of Greece and Trukey was "not provocative" and threatened no one "except the aggressor." The move did not extend the "nature" of Canada's obligations under the Atlantic Pact, though it did extend the "area" of those obligations.

He said it is hoped that Germany can be associated with Western European and North Atlantic defence through the creation of a European defence force. Progress already has been made in that direction.

Have To Wait

As for Mr. Drew's request for rifle production, Mr. Pearson said Canada has been doing all she could to achieve a standardization of weapons. It would not be sensible to embark on a program of rifle production only to find that that weapon was not the one finally agreed upon.

A "good deal" of progress on standardization might result from Prime Minister Churchill's visit to Washington next month.

To suggestions that NATO had not moved quickly enough, Mr. Pearson said he felt that much progress had been made in the two years since the organization first was founded. It had a military force and a supreme commander.

Canada was meeting her commitments under the Atlantic Pact and would continue to do so.

As for non-military co-operation, that was one of the prime objects of Canadian participation in the pact. One of the difficulties was to make sure that in building up co-operation within the pact, there was no over-lapping co-operation outside of NATO.

The speech from the throne referred briefly to the fact that the Canadian troops in Korea are fighting with "valor and distinction," and to the dispatch of an army brigade to Europe.

Reference also was made to the gratification of the Canadian people at the King's recovery and to the transcontinental tour of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Arrest No. 1 Red

AMMAN, Jordan, Dec. 31 — (Reuters)—Police arrested Fuad Nimeh Nassar, reputed to be No. 1 Arab Communist in Israel, and three colleagues in a raid on a secret meeting here, it was announced Sunday.

THE NAVY PLUGS AWAY—While Korea truce talks grab the news spotlight, you don't hear much about the Navy's "war", but, as the picture above proves the Navy is still very much on the scene. This is an unidentified US destroyer fighting heavy seas while trying to get close enough to the US carrier Essex to refuel somewhere off the coast of North Korea. The Navy's ability to apply pressure to the enemy's rear is an Allied bargaining point at the Panmunjom truce conferences.

indicated that I should land at an airfield ahead."

The airmen, released Friday after payment of $120,000 in fines by the US, said they were never mistreated physically and were never accused of being spies, but were "interrogated and interrogated" during their 39 days of solitary confinement.

They were tried before a Hungarian Military Court Dec. 23 and convicted of intentionally violating the Hungarian border. They were fined $30,000 apiece or 90 days in prison.

Questioned By Russians

Henderson said the Russians questioned them for 14 days before Hungarians took over. He said the Russians tried to extract military information from them. A US Air Force officer cautioned Henderson not to elaborate on this phase of the interrogation during the press conference.

Henderson said the airmen were represented by lawyers, but there was no thought of any defence against the charges. He said his lawyer, for one, did not "seem to know what the word (defence) meant."

The men admitted they crossed the Hungarian border, but insisted to their lawyers that they did not do it knowingly.

The trial lasted about three hours. After sentence was pronounced they were taken back to solitary confinement and questioning continued up to the time of their release. Before they were freed, they were fingerprinted and photographed from all sides.

Documents Not Destroyed

Henderson said they did not destroy equipment or documents when they landed because they thought they were in Yugoslavia.

He said that while in prison he tried to throw notes out the window. In one case he wrote a note on a dollar bill, asking the finder to telephone the United States Embassy. The note fell into Russian hands.

Other members of the crew were Capt. John Swift, 34, of Glen Falls, NY, now en route to see his sick father; Sgt. Jess Duff of Spokane, Wash., and Sgt. James Elam of Kingsland, Ark.

Duff said none of the four had been asked specifically to plead guilty or not guilty at the trial.

"We were asked whether we were guilty of the charge of violating the Hungarian border. We were in Hungary so what could I do? I pleaded guilty. But my plea did not imply any intentional border violation."

Hold 2 Juveniles In 60 Break-ins

ORILLIA, Dec. 31.—Two Kirkland Lake boys told police Sunday they broke into more than 60 homes during a Christmas holiday crime spree.

The juveniles aged 14 and 15, admitted they entered between 30 and 35 homes in Orillia and others in Kirkland Lake, Cobalt, Toronto and East York.

They were noticed opening some stolen Christmas parcels while breakfasting in a local restaurant. Constable Mervyn Wright questioned them and started to take them to the police station. One of the boys broke away and fled.

Wright took the other to the station. Accompanied by Police Chief Stanley Janes, he started searching for the missing boy. He was spotted on Colborne St., and finally caught after a wild foot chase through alleys and back yards.

The boys told police their sack of loot ranged from money to Christmas presents. In one break they took a metal box from under a bed in which a man and his wife were sleeping.

Back From Nicaragua

Aboard was Mrs. Dorothy Berman Bruce, 23, the wife of Angus Bruce of Kingston. She was flying to a New Years reunion with her mother, Mrs. Betty Berman of Toronto, now living temporarily in Buffalo.

Mrs. Bruce planned to join her and her husband, a mining engineer, in Kingston, where he had opened a business. They had spent two years in Nicaragua and had arrived in Miami only a month ago.

Besides the passengers there are two pilots, two co-pilots and three stewardesses aboard.

Three of the crew members were "deadheading" to Syracuse, NY, to pick up another plane.

The flight originated at Miami. The plane was to have returned there after its stop at Buffalo.

Not a word was heard from the ship after pilot J. C. Webber of Miami reported his takeoff time from Pittsburgh at 9:47 pm.

Fog Closed In

Visibility was good on the takeoff but fog closed in on the mountainous route to Buffalo.

The airliner is the same type of craft which crashed and killed all 56 aboard at Elizabeth, NJ, Dec. 16. It, too, was on a non-scheduled flight.

Non-scheduled airlines have no regular schedules. Generally, they take off when they have a load of passengers.

Officials of the Continental, who said they hadn't had a crash in five years of flying, came to Pittsburgh to help in the search.

Veteran airmen say the plane could have plummeted into either Lake Ontario or Lake Erie. Both are only a short distance from the route the plane would take near Buffalo.

Rumors circulated like wildfire Sunday that the plane's wreckage had been found near Hallton, Pa., about 100 miles north of Pittsburgh.

One false story sent volunteer firemen, doctors and ambulances rushing over icy roads.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 31 (AP) — Grains opened easy in a continuation of Saturday's liquidation today.

There were 420 cars of cash corn on track today, largest in some time.

Wheat started ⅛-⅝ cent lower, March $2.57¾-½; corn was unchanged to one cent lower, March $1.89½-⅝, and oats were ⅛-1¼ lower, March 92½. Soybeans were unchanged to 1½ cents lower, January $2.89¼.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Dec. 31 (CP). — Prices of coarse grains futures were lower during Saturday's session of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. The decline was in sympathy with the trend on US grain markets.

In barley there was fairly aggressive commercial demand and some export business, domestic shippers bought oats and barley. Heavier hedging appeared in flax.

Acheson Fears Red Treachery In Korea Peace

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP) — Any peace in Korea may be followed by some "Communist treachery" there, Secretary of State Acheson says, or be offset by a major Red aggression in Southeast Asia or other border areas.

"It is hard to say that any one year is more critical than another," Acheson told a meeting of Jewish war veterans, "but it seems to me certain that we will have it in our power in 1952 to take action, or to withhold action, which will have a decisive effect upon the cause of peace."

Even if an armistice is signed in Korea, he said, "we shall have to remain on guard against a renewal of Communist treachery." Furthermore there will remain the economic task of rebuilding the land and the political task of unifying the country "on a basis that provides a decent chance for the Koreans to live as free men."

Sees TV Mystery Strangles Child

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 31—(AP)—A 16-year-old baby sitter told police today how he watched a murder mystery on television, then strangled a sleeping six-year-old girl with a stocking.

"I did it, but I don't have any reasons," police quoted the high school sophomore, Delora Mae Campbell, as saying soon after a neighbor discovered the tragedy eary Sunday.

In jail on a murder booking, she said that as she lay on the couch after watching the television program, she "had a vision."

"I saw a girl lying in bed with her arms folded across her chest and a green necktie around her neck," Delora Mae said.

The girl was Donna Joyce Isbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Isbell. She died with her father's black navy sock wound with the end of a sheet wadded into her mouth.

"Donna didn't scream," said Delora Mae placidly. "She just lifted her arms once, then fell back."

Shooting Ends Farm Party

YORKTON, Sask., Dec. 31 — (CP). — James Rapchuk, 50-year-old farmer, Saturday was charged with attempted murder in connection with a shooting which followed a farmhouse party in the Wroxton district about 140 miles northeast of Regina.

Rapchuk was charged in connection with the shooting of James Malaniey, 32, and his cousin Alex, about 40.

Hospital attendants at Yorkton reported that James Malaniey still is in critical condition from stomach and chest wounds and a ruptured spleen. Alex, who had a bullet lodged in a lung, was reported slightly improved, but still in only fair condition.

Persons attending a party at the James Malaniey home said Rapchuk went home following a dispute over a gambling debt and returned later carrying a pistol.

Aerialist Falls

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 31 (AP) —Anton Gunnar Claesson, 37, of Stockholm, Sweden circus aerialist, fell Sunday from the top of a swaying steel pole while performing at the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus. He suffered arm and leg fractures and cuts.

Navy Plane Crashes

HONG KONG, Dec. 31 (Reuters)—A United States navy PBM mariner flying boat crashed into the sea while taking off from Kowloon Bay for the Philippines today. First reports said five of the crew of nine were rescued. RAF crash boats raced to the flying boat's aid.

Threatens Family

WHITBY, Dec. 31 (CP)—Police have charged Frank Woodall, 26, with threatening to harm his 24-year-old wife and daughter, Irene, 5. They said Mrs. Woodall told them her bricklayer husband tried to suffocate the child in a snowbank Saturday night and then pursued her and the child with a butcher knife.

Had Hidden Arms

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Dec. 31 (Reuters)—Police Sunday arrested a man on charges of hiding arms in readiness for a revolt against Britain. Police claimed to have found 1,250 rounds of machine-gun ammunition and eight hand grenades.

Peterborough City Began Second Century In New City Hall Building

Peterborough will long remember 1951 as the year of completion of civic projects planned by the municipal administration and terminating in its own transfer to the splendid and spacious new City Hall.

Its formal opening by Mayor G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, and attended by a group of representative citizens of Peterborough, New Hampshire, was an epochal event in the history of the city as it entered the second half of this 20th century. It was the climax of virtually a five or six year building program, since the end of the Second World War, equipping and furnishing Peterborough with a civic estate which at present is equalled in generally utility values by few other cities in Canada.

When all the details of financing purchase of the land and the erection of the municipal building have been wound up, the Council of 1952 will no doubt present to the public a complete stalement of expenditure with credits and other funding to cover the ultimate cost.

The same fiscal information should be provided to the taxpayers showing the amount of their investment in Peterborough's sewage disposal works. That plant, now coming into full stride of operation, takes a low place in newsworthiness, but it is essential to the high standards of public sanitation which this city undertook not only for itself, but also for its downstream township neighbors.

Move Paved Streets

The Council this year laid further mileage of paved streets, in a program that virtually began immediately after the war. Looking back to that comparatively recent inception of the extension of paved roads, it may be recalled that the first financing of pavement costs was at the low interest rate of 1½ per cent. Borrowing of $100,000 from the Dominion Bank for five years at that price was mentioned at the time by City Clerk Outram as the lowest charge Peterborough had paid on its debentures in many years.

The Swanston Council of 1951 had to assume the responsibility of raising $100,000 for costs of final work at Civic Hospital which the ratepayers in the elections of 1950 refused to authorize through the medium of the by-law which was submitted to them.

This money was obtained from the Bank of Montreal by the sale of notes or what may be called short term debentures for five years. The action of the Council was based on the fact that the work at the hospital had to be done for the satisfactory completion of the hospital in some details of building and in other expenditure on grounds, etc.

Sold Old Hospital

The Council of this year also disposed of its ownership in the old Nicholls Hospital property, selling the land and buildings, including the former nurses' residence to the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada for a religious college now in use with an enrolment of some 150 students.

This outgoing Council also opened negotiations for the locating and building of houses by the joint financing of the Federal and Provincial governments and the city, whose share of the cost is to be 7½ per cent. It is understood that prospective sites have already been visited and examined as a preliminary step to subsequent planning. This becomes a legacy of required expansion for the Waddell Council to promote.

This year's Council converted the old Market Square into a revenue-producing parking space, at the back door of the retail business section. Space has been laid out on George Street at Rink Street for present or future market purposes, but eligible vendors have shown no initiative or concern about that form of accommodation.

The latest agency of interest was the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture, but not one of the vendors of their produce attended the meeting. The market remains in the category of unfinished business.

It was the endeavor of Mayor Max Swanston to leave as few such items on the Council file for 1952. To that end, discussions were re-opened for the placing of the Memorial Centre in Morrow Park. Those who know the circumstances realize that difficulties which the Council respects prevent at present the pressure of action which might otherwise be prosecuted. Mayor Swanston said in recent weeks: "At least we have stirred up thinking again in that direction. So far, it does not appear to be much, but we have gone about as far as we could go, just now, toward a site for the Centre in that location."

Th old City Hall building presents a problem for the Council of 1952. Bids have been invited by advertisement, up to January 31 next.

New Industry

One new industry, Lemery Distributors Ltd., the first to build in the industrial property purchased by the city at its southwest corner, is at least an earnest for the future development of that area.

Canadian General Electric Co. are constructing one large addition to their plant on Monaghan Road. The company announced that it would be followed by another unit. Each is of individual importance in dimensions and type of structure, providing for enlarged manufacturing space when finished.

Cobourg Lumber Company completed this year 25 houses on the formgr Hayes property west of the High Street hill. These units have been sold and are occupied. Ten others are in process of building. This project when completed will comprise 67 dwellings.

Peterborough might have secured two or three industries this year if it had empty buildings suitable for immediate purchase and use.

When Mayor-elect H. F. Waddell greets the new Council at its inaugural on Monday, January 7, he will probably discuss the prospects for 1952 from the standpoint of the civic administration.

Five years of expanding and enhancing Peterborough's municipal properties and especially its public services are evidently ended. Some mention has been made of an auxiliary fire station or two, but either of them would not involve large expenditure.

The new Kenner Collegiate Institute is a responsibility of the Board of Education.

Guided By Citizens

Possibly the public should be reminded that in providing all these civic improvements the Council has been guided by approval and consent of the people. Estimated expenditures have been submitted to the ratepayers during those five years. The list includes Civic Hospital, City Hall, sewage disposal plant (also Kenner Collegiate on Monaghan Road), and in some minor matters reference was made to the Ontario Municipal Board, such as street paving.

On that score of procedure, Mayor Swanston and his associates have no worry on their consciences as trustees for the people. Projects of long standing were set in motion only with required authority. Work was done at higher costs than were anticipated towards the end of the war. It is now finished, at least in the broad program as contemplated. Peterborough now has finer assets of public health and hospital services which invite their fullest use.

The old year hit a new high in its tax rate, and just what 1952 has in store on that point is not yet clear.

MORE ABOUT—

Worst Storm

West German police at Borkum westernmost of the East Frisian islands, said part of a lifeboat from the 1,494-ton cargo ship Irene Oldendorff was washed ashore. The ship had left Emden this morning for Sweden with a cargo of coke.

There was speculation the ship may have struck a wartime mine.

Seek Eight Men

Rescue ships were also searching for eight men aboard the forward half of the Norwegian tanker Osthav, which broke in two about 50 miles northwest of Santander, Spain, last night.

The Swedish ship Gunny rescued 34 men from the stern section of the 8,525-ton tanker.

The 400-ton Dutch tanker Gemma was wrecked yesterday after the storm flung her on the rocks at Guethary, a small seaside resort near Bayonne, France. The bodies washed up on nearby beaches are believed to be members of the missing crew of eight.

The liner Queen Mary, carrying Prime Minister Winston Churchill to the United States for talks with President Truman, put out to sea today—three days late.

Delayed first by the storm and then by a balky anchor, the 81,000-ton luxury liner finally got away at 11.58 am (6.58 am EST). She originally had been scheduled to sail with her 1,104 passengers last Friday.

Waiting Since Saturday

Churchill and his party of 35, including Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, had been waiting on board since 45 minutes after Saturday midnight.

Hope of sailing Sunday was dashed when the port anchor became jammed in its housing. Workmen cut through a plate into the housing to release the jammed fluke, then replaced the plate.

Final tests on the anchor were complete in mid-morning. Even then, fog in the harbor raised doubt whether the big ship could get underway with the tide. Not until 10:30 am did a Cunard official announce:

"The Queen Mary will sail at noon."

All-Time Record

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—The Associated General Contractors of America reported Sunday that an all-time record of $39,000,000,000 worth of construction was put in place in the United States in 1951.

US Asks Britain To Recognize Farouk In Sudan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP) — The United States is said to have urged Britain to recognize King Farouk as ruler of the Sudan as part of a plan to settle western differences with Egypt.

Prime Minister Churchill is believed ready to discuss the American suggestion with President Truman when he visits the US, Jan. 4.

Responsible officials who disclosed this to a reporter said the State Department has suggested Britain join in sponsoring "a package deal" for Egypt in late January.

Under this, the Egyptian Government would be given sovereignty over the Sudan which it has been claiming as its own, but which is now jointly ruled with Britain.

Make Deal

In return for this concession, however, the US would expect the Egyptian Government to:

1. Agree in principle to join the American-backed Middle-East Defense Command which Egypt rejected, Oct. 15.
2. Consent to hold a plebiscite in the Sudan to determine the wish of the Sudanese as to their political future.

Informed diplomats said the American-drafted suggestions are designed mainly to put new steam behind the Middle East Command area. Following Egypt's refusal, all Arab governments have refused to join the command.

Whether Britain will accept the American suggestions and join in sponsoring the plan is uncertain. Britain, however, is on record as unwilling to agree to any arrangement on the Sudan without first

Drastic Penalty Asked For Spying

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP) —The un-American activities committee said Monday that Soviet spying in the United States demands "drastic steps." It proposed that foreign espionage, even in peacetime, be made punishable by death.

In a critical review of Russian activities in the US during the last 30 years, the committee reported it found "an alarming lack of prosecution in cases of espionage that have been discovered from 1919 to the present date."

The committee displayed particular interest in pre-second-world-war spy contacts within the Department of Justice. It said, without elaboration, that it was investigating what may possibly be a hitherto undisclosed instance of espionage within the department.

5 Men Seek Seats On Norwood Council

NORWOOD, Dec. 31—(ENS)—Five candidates are in the running for the four offices of councillor in Norwood village. The election will be January 7.

Candidates are Rod Webb, John Nixon, Gordon Parker, Henry Pearce and Ivan Begg.

Mr. Webb has been a councillor for five years and Mr. Nixon for seven years. Two of last year's council, Dr. A. R Atkinson and William Garden, dropped out of the 1952 electoral contest.

Reeve Rork Ferguson was returned by acclamation Friday night at the annual nomination meeting.

The three vacancies on the school board were also filled by acclamation: David McNeill, 1951 chairman, Arthur Bitten and Joseph Clements.

Utilities Commissioners: Harold Bolton and Keenie both elected by acclamation.

The two polling booths will be in the town hall.

The place of security

There is a realm where hope is no longer precarious. It is the realm of unwavering spiritual understanding. It is the realm of Truth.

How may we find it? Though knowing (understanding) the same truth which Jesus knew, and which he promised would "make us free."

The Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, plainly shows the way. To any sincere student this great book steadily unlocks the treasures of truth in the Bible and proves, by healing the sick, their practicability today.

It may be bought, borrowed or read at all Christian Science Reading Rooms. The coupon is also for your use.

Special Service At Coldsprings

COLDSPRINGS, Dec. 31 — (ENS)—"No Room in the Inn" was the theme of the address given by the Rev. P. C. Brown, at St. Paul's church service Sunday when he gave the Christmas message.

The church was beautifully decorated with gayly lighted Christmas trees. The choir sang "Silent Night," with a trio, Helen Ritchie, Lorene Timlin and Dorothea Bowman taking a part.

At the Sunday school service which was held previous to church, the following were presented with attendance prizes:

Class 1A — Carolyn Dines and Wayne Buttars; teacher, Mrs. Newton McIntosh.

Class 1B—Garth Gordon; teacher Mrs. M. Dines.

Class 2—George Vansickle, for attendance and Larry McIntosh for memory work; teacher, Mrs. E. Jamieson.

Class 3—Ivan McIntosh; teacher, Mrs. F. Ritchie.

A short program was presented with Frank Ritchie, superintendent, presiding.

Those taking part were: Diana Harris, Viva Morrison, Marlene and Linda Turk, Kathryn Harper, Mrs. A. Taylor. The offering was received by David Denny and Leslie Avery and dedicated by Helen Ritchie.

Cards and gifts were presented to the juniors and intermediates.

Those who helped with the decorations were Mrs. C. Brooks, Mrs. N. McIntosh, Mrs. W. McMann and Newton McIntosh and Mrs. T. L. Brisbin, who donated the trees.

Says Canadians Have Great Opportunities

OTTAWA, Dec. 31 — (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said in a year-end message Sunday night that no people have greater opportunities than Canadians, given peace and international stability.

Mr. Drew's message, issued as a press statement, said much has happened in Canada to give Canadians encouragement. Agricultural production was up. Labor and management were co-operating."

"Although the cost of living has reached the highest level in our history," Mr. Drew said, "Canadians have left no doubt that they are ready to support all effective measures for the preservation of peace."

Development of Canada's vast resources "is not only going to mean greater opportunity, larger population and a higher average income, but it will also increase our ability to play a key role in keeping peace."

Mrs. John McFee

Pallebarers at the funeral of Mrs. Emma McFee, widow of John McFee, on Friday were Gordon Taylor, Henkle Bidgood, Marshall McNevin, Harry McIntyre, Archibald McIntyre and Albert Spillman.

Mrs. McFee died Wednesday at the home of her son, Hugh McFee, Otonabee, after a lengthy illness.

The private funeral was at the home of her son, with the Rev. H. D. Herrington, Keene United Church, officiating. Burial was in Keene cemetery.

Flower bearers were George and John Edwards, Rendel Dickson, Herbert McFee, William Steele, Michael Moloney and Elmer Wilson.

ANCIENT PORT

Grandfather, Father, Son Birthdays New Year's Day

A Peterborough father, his son and grandson, all New Year's babies, will celebrate birthdays on Tuesday at their Ashburnham home.

This unusual array of New Year's Day birthdays will be celebrated at the Garvey home at 182 Hazlett St. by Timothy Garvey his son, Emmett Garvey, and his grandson, Jack Garvey, of Campbellford.

When the three Garveys get together on Tuesday for the one-day celebration, Timothy will be 76, Emmett 44 and Jack 15. A recent illness in the family will keep the merriment confined to members of the immediate families.

Born Near Norwood

Timothy, of pioneer stock and a former farmer and employee of the Quaker Oats Company, was born at his parents' home near Norwood. No one knows exactly the hour he was born on New Year's Day.

Emmett was also born at his parents' home, then in Douro. He came within six hours of not being a New Year's day baby when he was born at 6 pm.

Grandson Jack is the only one of the trio born in a hospital. He was a St. Joseph's Hospital New Year's baby, born at 8 am on January 1, 1937.

Two other grandchildren just missed being New Year's babies by one hour. Carl Clifford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clifford, Carlisle Ave., and Joan Cavanaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cavanaugh, Munro Ave., will both celebrate birthdays on January 2.

Carl will be six Wednesday while Joan will be eight.

Police On Toes

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (CP)—Toronto city police Sunday night listed five or six slayings here in 1951 as solved, with persons brought to court. They also said six bank holdups all were solved, with persons brought to court. The only unsolved murder was the ax-slaying of Mrs. Edwin Derikson in her husband's mid-town hardware store June 6. A reward of $3,000 for information leading to the killer's capture still stands.

Rush In Weddings

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Dec. 31 — (Reuters)—Priests dealt with a record number of weddings Sunday—the last Sunday in 1951—in Cyprus, where leap-year weddings are considered unlucky.

Mrs. R. Johnston Dies In Stouffville

HASTINGS, Dec. 31—(ENS)—The funeral of Mrs. Robert M. Johnston was held in Stouffville on Friday. Mrs. Johnston, wife of a former CNR station agent in Hastings, died on Tuesday in her 64th year. Born in Alliston her parents were the late William and Mary Jane Fields. Her father was the first white boy born in that part of Simcoe county and as a girl she was a playmate of the late Sir Frederick Banting.

Forty-six years ago Mr. and Mrs. Johnston were married and following their marriage they resided in Barrie, Lyle, Haliburton and Hastings. Fifteen years ago the family moved to Stouffville.

Identified with Stouffville United Church and formerly active in the work of the women's association, Mrs. Johnston had taken an active part in church work, wherever her husband's work took them. She was presented with a life membership in Women's Missionary Society of the United Church in Haliburton. She was also identified with the Order of the Eastern Star, Markham Chapter 155.

One daughter survives her mother, Mrs. Archie J. Campbell (Dorothy) at home and three sons, Roy of Peterborough, Cecil of Hamilton and Bert of Dundas. A nephew, Billie Fields, was raised from infancy as one of the family by the Johnstons, following the death of his mother. Billie is now with the British forces somewhere in the Middle East. A brother, Albert Fields of Hamilton and a sister, Mrs. Hirman Speers (Priscilla) of Alliston and six grandchildren also are left to mourn Mrs. Johnston's loss.

Police Ask Raise

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP) — President Michael Quill of the Transport Workers' Union (CIO) said Sunday his union represents more than 80 per cent of the New York City police department. Quill, in a letter to Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan, called for a $1,000 annual salary increase, a five-day, 40-hour week, and overtime for policemen. Monaghan has threatened disciplinary action against police who join the union.

Drank Machine Fluid

NEW CUMBERLAND, Pa., Dec. 31 (AP)—The commandant of the army disciplinary barracks said Sunday night that two prisoners died from drinking duplicating-machine fluid. Twenty-two men in all drank the fluid, which was plainly marked "poisonous." The fluid has a wood-alcohol content.

PIONEER BOTANIST

Peter Kalm, Swedish botanist who died in 1715, was the first scientific observer of natural phenomena in Canada.

Two Contesting Omemee Reeve

OMEMEE, Dec. 31—(ENS)—Harry Deyell, reeve of Omemee for five years, is being opposed at the municipal elections this year by James Magee. Six candidates are also in the running for the four offices of councillor.

Mr. Magee is a former reeve of Omemee but he has been out of municipal politics for some time.

All of the 1951 council are in the running again. They are L. M. MacKenzie, Walter Mitchell, George Stephenson and Smithson Nurse.

The two newcomers are Garnet Wallerman and Wilson Ellis.

The school board was elected by acclamation: Vernon Saulter, Mrs. Larry McQuade and Mrs. George N. Earle. Mrs. McQuade is the newcomer, replacing William Fisher who didn't qualify.

Also returned by acclamation were the two retiring hydro commissioners—Cecil Jones and Clifford Elliott.

The election will be January 7.

Mrs. Thomas McNeely Buried In Norwood

NORWOOD, Dec. 31.—The funeral was held on Saturday at the McConnell-Warner funeral home of Mrs. Thomas McNeely who died in Woodstock on Wednesday after a short illness. Rev. H. K. Wright of the United Church of which Mrs. McNeely was an active and life long member assisted by the Rev. W. J. Bingham conducted the service. Burial was in Norwood cemetery.

Pallbearers all former neighbors were W. G. Barrie, Roderick Barrie, Samuel Buchanan, Charles McConnell, George Millett and Roy Parker.

Mrs. McNeely who had been in declining health for several years was born on October 20, 1873, the youngest daughter of James Morrison and Catharine Dewart. She lived all her life in the vicinity of Norwood and for the past 16 years has resided on Queen St. in the village.

Prior to moving into the village she and her late husband who died in 1930 resided on the farm on the 12th Concession of Dummer. A good neighbor, ever ready to help when any need arose, Mrs. McNeely will long be remembered in the community where she lived for 35 years and where her family were born and raised.

The generous and kindly hospitality shown everyone made her many friends during the residence in the village.

The youngest of five sons Ainslie (Jimmie) predeceased his mother in 1944 during the Second World War. Surviving to cherish the memory of a devoted mother are Percy, Minnedosa, Man.; Rev. Verner, Wodstock, Ont., and Trevor and Dewart of Toronto; two daughters, Madeline, Toronto, and Mrs. M. R. Linscott (Eva), Belleville. There are 12 grandchildren. Mrs. David Bongard, Norwood, and John R. Morrison, Toronto, are a sister and brother.

Commence Operation On Wrecked Airliner

COBOURG, Dec. 31—(ENS)—Preliminary work has started in regard to extricating the big passenger plane from the pasture field just west of here where it landed recently with 44 passengers after both engines had conked out when the aircraft was swept off course by a storm. It was planned originally to use air jacks to elevate the plane in order to lower the wheels but instead the space under the retracted wheels was dug out and the wheels will be lowered on to a plank ramp.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

'Tis nice to start a year anew
With vows of all the good we'll do
Nicer still to wish to you—
A happy, prosperous '52.

Notable Civic Service

Today Mayor Maxwell J. Swanston concludes eleven years as a member of the City Council, the last three of them as Mayor. His terms as Alderman and Mayor have encompassed probably the most strenuous and exacting years in Peterborough's history: from 1940 when Canada was beginning to gear itself for a long, hard war; throughout those busy war years which weighed heavily on municipal officers coping with increased and shifting populations and extending industries; and then into the post-war period of readjustment, annexations and very great expansion. Mayor Swanston retires from the Council at a time when most of the civic needs of post-war Peterborough have been faced and dealt with. He leaves the Council on top of its work, and the city in fine condition to cope with its future.

During his three years as Chief Magistrate, Mayor Swanston has presided over notable civic projects. The Civic Hospital was opened. New housing was developed. Extensive paving programs were undertaken. The sewage disposal plant was renovated and extended. The new City Hall was built. Many of these projects, all making great demands on the city's finances, were long needed. The need was met during Mayor Swanston's terms and the city remains in an enviably strong financial position.

As a Committee chairman and as Mayor, Mr. Swanston has had a steady, directive hand and has earned the esteem and trust of the citizens. He also has their friendship, for he is an affable person, approachable and considerate. He has great pride in his native city, and the citizens are proud of Max. Swanston.

In expressing the gratitude which Peterborough feels for the excellent service which Mayor Swanston has given, we remark that he has given it at the peak of his business career, and not as a gesture of civic duty after retiring from private business. Council duties take much time; the duties of Mayor a very great deal of time. Mayor Swanston has found that time, and is an example thereby to other busy men of affairs. His successor, Alderman Waddell (who will be sworn in on January 7th) extends this example, taking office as a comparatively young man.

To Mayor Swanston and his wife who has shared many of the social duties of the office, we offer thanks and best wishes for the future. We hope that Mayor Swanston will make himself available for other public positions, and thus, after a breathing-spell, give his fellow citizens the continued benefit of his administrative ability and extensive knowledge of the city and district's affairs.

To all members of this year's Council, and to all others who served their municipality in public office, thanks are due for their time and effort well spent.

The Greatest Canadian Event of 1951

It is hazardous to make a blunt statement of opinion about futurities, since events may prove the statement to be not only blunt but dull-witted. And for newspapers to present an opinion without arguing it is useless. Preachers, teachers and scientists (the new didactic priesthood) may make an unreasoned statement and get away with it—they have either a captive audience that dares not talk back, or a flummoxed one which cannot. A newspaper has no quiescent audience, no authority of cult. . . Having built these hedges, we daringly state that the greatest Canadian event of this year was the publication of the Massey Report. History may prove us wrong, but we shall risk its opprobrium.

The Report of the Royal Comission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences 1949-1951 was published in the late Spring by the King's Printer. It was followed by a companion volume of Studies, edited and printed with the same care; essays selected from the special studies prepared for the Royal Commission. The chairman of the Commission was the Right Honourable Vincent Massey, whose excellent hand and mind give the Report a special distinction. No other country has ever commissioned and produced such a report. It attempts and admirably achieves a survey of Canadian culture in all its branches, and outlines paths for the future.

In the year now passing Canadian men have gone to war in Korea; others have gone east across the Atlantic in vigilant patrols. In this year great new factories have been built, prices have risen, production and population have increased, the heiress to the throne and her consort have visited, an inland seaway has been authorized. Yet we presume to say that the most important event of the year was not related directly to any of these. The thing which history will remember is the Massey Report.

We shall not here attempt to recapitulate the recommendations in the Report, nor to discuss them. Suffice it to say now that in our opinion the publication of the Massey Report is an event whose importance time will not deny. Incidentally the two volumes (the Report and the Studies) are companion pieces, well-designed and executed. They make splendid additions to a private library.

Toronto And The White Horror

We still chuckle when we remember the descriptions which the Toronto press provided for their readers of the fairly heavy snowfall of December 19 and 20; especially we treasure the Canadian Press phrase "the white horror," which was applied to the storm. Toronto people—or perhaps it would be more just to say Toronto newspapermen—seem to be horrified more easily than other people.

For instance, we were talking to a Toronto man at Christmas, and we asked him in a hushed, sympathetic voice, about the white horror; he laughed. "It wasn't easy," he said, "but most people seemed to be enjoying it; it gave everybody a chance to shake off the yoke of routine; it make us feel a little bit like pioneers." We brightened up when we heard that; it made us feel that the people of Toronto were not, after all, an entirely different race from the people of Peterborough. For we had a storm here, just as they did in Toronto, and although it made some trouble and extra work, and was hard on the delivery and mail men, it was not unbearable. Nobody thought of calling it a white horror.

Toronto, of course, suffers twice when there is a heavy snowfall. It suffers from the ordinary nuisances of rough weather, and it also suffers from a bad conscience. For Toronto's city fathers seem to convince themselves every summer that it is really a southerly city, and that snow is an ailment which only afflicts lesser settlements. But the ordinary Toronto citizen, who probably spent his boyhood in some such rugged place as Peterborough, understands snow and does not mind it too much. What he does mind is Toronto's official indifference to it.

A Quarter Century Given To Peterborough

In the year which is now almost upon us, Mr. George A. Macdonald will not be a member of the Utilities Commission; he has given ten years of good service on that local body. Mr. Macdonald was a Peterborough alderman for twelve years, during which time he headed the Finance Committee during the most difficult years of the depression. He was Mayor in 1936 and 1937. His record is twenty-five years of civic service: a quarter of a century given to Peterborough.

Very often we speak of the Makers of Canada—men who have, in one way and another, rendered notable service to this country; it is fitting that in our local loyalty we should also speak of Makers of Peterborough, and among them Mr. Macdonald's name is by no means the least. Civic service is arduous, and fraught with criticism of a peculiarly painful kind, for it comes direct to the subject of it from the people who surround him in his daily life. The reward is the gratitude of a city, all too often left unexpressed, for we are shy of paying compliments to people who are near to us. This newspaper, however, would feel remiss in its duty to its readers if it failed to take note of Mr. Macdonald's retirement from civic life, and to remind its readers that without such men the business of the city would very quickly be deep in confusion. It is not often in our power to say that we speak for all our readers, but upon this occasion we think that we may say that we express their gratitude to George A. Macdonald.

Giving Winnie An E For Effort

Some American newspapers are startlingly familiar and slangy in their editorial comments, and in our ears sometimes offensively rude. Chew on this sample of editorial journalese in the United States' biggest tabloid, the New York Daily News, and see if you can swallow it, let alone stomach it. The paper was commenting on Mr. Churchill's forthcoming visit to Washington, and Britain's decision to make interest and principal repayments on the wartime loan:

"Its prime object is to sweeten up U.S. public opinion for the British leader's visit with Truman, when Churchill is expected to ask Harry for money or material aid totalling anywhere from 600 million to 2,000 million dollars." But, says the News—probably better disposed to the Conservative than to the former Labour Government: "But let's give Winnie an 'E' for effort, just the same. At least he's doing what he can to act like the head of an honest government which wants to pay its debts. Things were different when the Socialists were in power over there." The editorial ends: "P.S. Let's not give him our shirts, though."

We'd like to give the New York Daily News a great big P, for punch the patronizing pig of a prater.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

EMERGING from the torpor that accompanies overeating at this festive season I realize with a shock that we have come to the end of one more year. The New Year is traditionally a season of taking stock of achievements and failures, and while 1951 may not rank as one of the most important years in musical history it has been more eventful than the common run. In the first place the obituary list has been unusually long. Musicians may be born, not made, but their emergence is naturally a somewhat more gradual and unspectacular affair than their extinction. Amongst those who have died during the past year the name of Arnold Schoenberg towers above the rest. Whatever future ages may think of him as composer there is no doubt that he has been one of the great seminal forces in contemporary music. If he had never existed music today would be a very different thing. His influence, which underwent a partial eclipse in the thirties, is stronger than ever before amongst the younger generation of composers, and appears to be steadily growing.

❖ ❖ ❖

CONSTANT Lambert and Koussevitzky, who died during the past year, were both extremely versatile men. I have spoken before of Lambert's ability as a conductor, which had unfortunately kept him away from composing. He was also a talented and mordant critic, with a gift for the striking phrase. Koussevitzky was not only a great conductor; he was a virtuoso of the double-bass and gave several recitals on that unwieldly instrument. He also founded a firm for the publication of Russian music, and in more recent years he commissioned Benjamin Britten to write his first opera, Peter Grimes.

❖ ❖ ❖

ANOTHER figure who has passed from the scene last year was Nicolai Medtner, who has been not ineptly described as the Russian Brahms. Of German descent, he was born in Moscow in 1879. Gaining recognition first as solo pianist he retired in 1903 in order to devote himself solely to instrumental composition. He left Russia in 1922, and spent his last years in London. Traditionalist in outlook, his music shows no signs of influence by his contemporaries; it was old-fashioned in style before he even wrote it. He has thus been passed over by modern audiences, who seldom hear it. Nevertheless it is always fluent and sometimes highly imaginative. A number of his more important works have been recorded under the patronage of the Maharajah of Patiala, a wealthy Eastern potentate who has taken a great interest in Medtner's music. I sometimes wonder what the verdict of posterity will be on Medtner. Like Bach he has continued to write in an "outdated" idiom in a strongly personal way: like Bach, too, he has received a certain amount of rather tepid esteem but no real recognition in his lifetime. Is it possible that in a hundred years' time this age will be known as the age of Medtner? At all events I feel that his music is at present unduly neglected. One of the reasons for this is its comparatively complexity coupled with a lack of more obvious appeal. Medtner is a composers' composer, if nothing else.

❖ ❖ ❖

CHRISTMAS brought me a number of recordings, as a result of which I am suffering from a surfeit of Brandenburgs and other choice musical dishes served up to perfaction by some of the best executants that the world can produce. I am more and more convinced of the worth of the long-playing records in extended works: even with automatic record changing there is an awkward pause every so often when the 78's are being played, whereas the 33's play on without a break for over half an hour. Once you have heard a whole symphony on one side of a record you will never want to go back to the old style except of course for shorter works. The tone, too, is superior, in my estimation. There is only one drawback, which I hope is curable; the long-playing records are made of a certain plastic material that accumulates in the course of playing a considerable amount of static electricity, and if there is any dust in the atmosphere the record will infallibly pick it up. In course of time, so I am told, this will clog the innumerable tiny grooves, much smaller and closer together than on the orthodox records. The makers advise one to wipe the record after use with a slightly damp cloth, but this is rather a nuisance and in any case the damage is already done. If any of my readers has any useful information on this point I will gladly pass it on.

❖ ❖ ❖

ANOTHER most welcome Christmas present was a number of miniature scores. They will fit easily into the coat pocket and can be taken to concerts, so that the student can follow the music (provided that the auditorium is not plunged in Cimmerian gloom). These little volumes provide exactly the same amount of detail that is to be found in the full scores to be seen on the conductor's desk. The only difference is that the print is smaller. Before the war the best editions of miniature scores were published by Eulenburg, with headquarters in Germany and London, and Universal, a Viennese firm. During the war the normal copyright arrangements lapsed between enemy countries, and in any case it was impossible to obtain further supplies from the former sources. For these reasons certain firms such as Boosey and Hawkes started to publish an extensive series of miniature scores. Now the Penguin publishers, who were pioneers in publishing cheap editions of novels, have branched out into miniature scores. So far they have limited themselves to nine volumes of some of the most popular works in the concert repertoire. They are very attractively got up, and the printing and engraving are of good quality, yet they sell (in England) at the amazingly low price of 2/6 (36 cents) a volume. I have spotted a few misprints in the volume with the Brandenburg concerti: one of the saddest results of the war appears to be the decline in accuracy in printed music, as the publications of the Toronto Conservatory show only too clearly. I suppose that these little volumes sell at just over twice the English price in this country owing to the rapacity of the agents!

I TAKE this opportunity to thank all those who have offered valuable criticism, praise and advice during the past year and to wish all my readers a happy and harmonious New Year, replete with all musical enjoyment. I will do my best to help to contribute towards that enjoyment. Starting next week this column will appear also in the Kingston Whig-Standard, so that if any of my Peterborough readers are temporarily in that city they may continue to read this column.

MAYOR MAXWELL J. SWANSTON, SEEN HERE with the arms of the city of Peterborough, retires from office today. As Alderman Waddell will not be sworn in as Mayor until January 7, Mr. Swanston would in all probability undertake any emergency duty which might crop up in the interim, but it is unlikely that anything of the sort will happen. A brief review and an appreciation of Mr. Swanston's civic life and mayoral term appears today in our editorial columns.

Filet Mignon A La Foret

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

MOST thought-provoking is the news that a French chemist has evolved a method of turning wood into beefsteaks. It was problems of the tropics which provided the incentive for this revolutionar discovery, as it was held that natives living in fever-ridden tropical jungles suffer vitamin deficiency which cuts down their production. In the light of this new scientific wonder these under-nourished people are starving in the midst of plenty of juicy steaks which the scientist says are just the things to buck them up.

If the wooden porterhouses prove a success in Africa, think of the possibilities in a country as heavily wooded as Canada. Those who work and travel in our forests would be spared the task of portaging heavy loads of meat. An axe and the new formula would be all they'd need.

Paper companies at last would have a useful purpose to which they could put the slash which now is left to decay and create a fire hazard. Hunters would no longer have the excuse of a meat shortage for killing game illegally. And horses, whose lives are now in jeopardy owing to the high prices of beef, could heave a sigh of relief.

Of course it won't be as simple as that everywhere. For instance in a province where the farmers are protected by a ban on the sale of butter substitutes, it might be that a similar barrier would be erected against the sale of jackpine T-bones.

We shall have to wait and see, and while waiting we might recall that another French chemical concern was recently put out of business and heavily fined for selling a product marketed as veritable Scotch whiskey. The nostrum was unmasked as something less than that by an organization in Edinburgh, Scotland, the duty of which is jealously to guard the reputation of infusions peculiar to that part of the world.

Perhaps if the meat packing interests of Toronto, Calgary, Chicago, Kansas City and Buenos Aires are similarly organized the filet mignon a la foret may never grace a Canadian table.

Letters To The Editor

ANOTHER VIEW OF NURSING

Sir: I have just read the letter of a very Discouraged Lamp Holder.

Please allow me to clarify one point. Nursing is not merely a profession, but rather a branch of the social services. It is a pity indeed so many girls entertain the idea that when they enter the field of nursing, they become big shots, when actually they are merely professional working girls.

Nursing is a noble calling. A girl who feels she would love the opportunity to render aid in time of sickness is truly the benevolent type, and to such a person the amount of wages paid for services rendered is of minor importance.

Unfortunately so many girls are prone to reverence the white cap instead of paying sympathetic heed to the patient's ills. Such type of nursing girls are nothing more than professional maids.

Nursing in the true sense of the word is an unselfish occupation, therefore, should a nurse put self first (which is common practice) she should seek some other source of material revenue.

The real sick person is truly appreciative of unselfish devtoion on the part of the nurse. And usually demonstrates his or her gratitude in some manner or other.

If Lady of the Lamp sincerely feels that the duty of nurse and the caring for suffering humanity does not fully compensate, then the writer suggests seeking other avenues, leading to more material gain.

A. J. J. STRANGE.

Bailieboro.

MORE ABOUT NURSES

Sir: With regard to the "Discouraged Lamp Holder" I would like to add a few lines.

Nurses-in-training spend three years under rigid discipline, and very often receive a poor diet, they pay for breakages, etc., which reduces their meagre salary.

Nurses are not supposed to want a holiday, are not supposed to complain, and the word "salary" is to be spoken of in hushed tones.

After graduating the highest paid nurses in Peterborough at present, receive $1 an hour, (an outrageous sum, in the eyes of most people. Out of this they pay board, laundry, transportation, and income tax. If a nurse is on a late afternoon shift 4-12, after the buses have stopped, she either takes a taxi, which in most cases is 75c, or walks home.

After a nurse spends years at her so-called profession, and if she is in circumstances which necessitates that she continue to support herself, and is getting too old to compete with younger nurses, she receives no pension. However, after January 1952 with thanks to the Canadian Government she may look forward to her "old age pension cheque."

After all, who would want to be a nurse anyway?

Thanking you,

ANOTHER DISCOURAGED LAMP HOLDER.

GOSSIP

Two women were discussing a highly confidential matter.

"I told Grace about it," said the first, "in strict confidence, of course."

"Did you warn her not to repeat it?" said the other.

"Oh, no," replied the first. "I didn't dare do that. I thought that, if I did ask her not to repeat it, she'd think it wasn't worth repeating."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price. Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. (Isa. 55: 1, 2.)

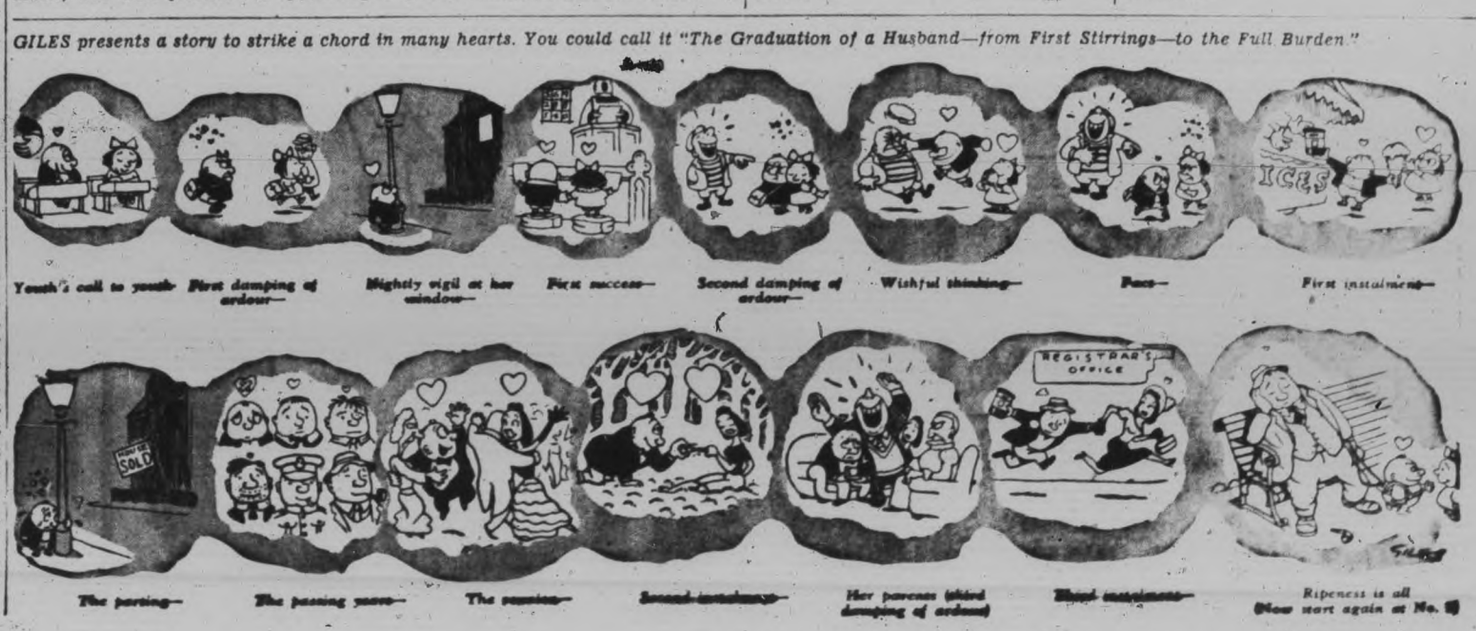
❖ ❖ ❖

Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.

Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. Ye shall know them by their fruits . . .

Not every one that saith unto me, Lord Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven: but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these sayings, the people were astonished at his doctrine: for he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes. (Matt. 7: 13-16, 21, 28, 29.)

Molasses Pitcher



(Ottawa Journal)

There was something about the old-fashioned molasses flavor in cookies, cakes, candy and baked beans that vibrated a responsive chord. Grandfather knew what he wanted in foods and the molasses pitcher was on the table for all three meals. If grandfather wanted molasses on his biscuits instead of strawberry jam or pumpkin preserve, the pitcher was always handy.

The stately glass pitcher held two quarts. This was in keeping with grandfather's philosophy. He liked to see plenty of food on the table. The molasses was full-bodied, thick and flavorful; it sometimes dripped from the wide spout and made dark stains on the red and white checked table cloth.

Men usually favored the dark Puerto Rican product; the women preferred the golden brown New Orleans. Maybe if the world can shake loose a bit from its jitteriness, we will have molasses again on porridge, griddle cakes, biscuits and hot, brown-crusted, chewy, homemade bread just out of the oven.

GILES presents a story to strike a chord in many hearts. You could call it "The Graduation of a Husband—from First Stirrings—to the Full Burden."

LAND SUPPLIES — For 89 days last summer the specially constructed Transport Department vessel, C. D. Howe, visited northern waters on the 29th patrol of Canada's eastern Arctic. Government business on this annual trip includes administration of policies regarding the Eskimos and visits to medical centres, RCMP detachments, post offices, radio and meteorological stations and missions. This photo shows supplies being landed at Fort Chimo, the only stop where both Eskimos and Indians are found together.

EXAMINE CHILDREN—Twenty-two northern outposts were visited by the Eastern Arctic Patrol last summer during voyage of the Transport Department's vessel, C. D. Howe. About 2,000 of the 6,000 Canadians Eskimos in the eastern Arctic—all who could be reached—were examined and their health found generally good. This photo, taken by Wilf Coucette for the National Film Board, shows Dr. H. Campbell, right, of Windsor senior patrol medical officer, checking Lake Harbor children aboard ship. His assistant, Dr. J. R. Judge, Winnipeg, left, was on his way to take up a post at St. Luke's Hospital, Pangnirtung, Baffin Island.

RETURNS TO BASE — A helicopter returns to its base aboard the Transport Department's vessel, C. D. Howe, after a reconnaissance flight to find leads through the ice in Ungava Bay during the 29th patrol of Canada's eastern Arctic last summer. The helicopter also transports passengers and material to icebound communities and is used for aerial photography.

Play Military Bingo, Net Prisoner

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, Dec. 31—(CP)—The sergeant's voice rang over the wireless set with a cryptic "Bingo!"

"Fine", radioed back the major from his command post. "Bring the card back and we'll check it!"

It was a game of chance, all right—but of a sort. The "card" was a Chinese prisoner and "Bingo" was the code word for the night to indicate that the sergeant's patrol had caught one.

In addition Sgt. C. H. Cole of St. Mary's, Ont., had delivered his platoon out of a cunningly-set Communist ambush and had personally killed at least one Chinese during the night's fighting.

The patrol was from the 2nd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, one in a long series of attempts to take a prisoner.

The RCR had gone out in threes and fours, in section and in platoons. Once they got into such a tough scrape with Chinese manning one position that they lost tempers, forgot their mission and killed the five enemy in it instead of persisting in the cunning required for capturing.

Just Decoys

This night's patrol switched plans in mid-gambit when two Chinese were reported near a group of houses 500 yards ahead. The two, it turned out, were decoys.

Cole split his platoon, took one half forward with him under L/Cpl. H. J. Hilden of Little River, NB, leaving the other behind as "firm base" under Cpl. Sam Harbinson of Birchton, Que.

Sixty yards from the thatched mud houses Cole saw six men in the dimly-lit interior of one and, through the doorway of a second, another five.

Deciding he would need a stronger party to take them he dispatched Pte. T. W. Stack of Petty Harbor, Nfld., the "get-away man", to bring up Harbinson's group.

Stack had barely got away when nine Chinese sprang up ahead of him, as though to bar his path.

Quick On Trigger

Cole twigged, picked out the one who he judged to be the leader, and with one shot felled him.

That momentarily disorganized the group, but the exchange of fire brought into action not only the men in the houses but another group on the far side of the village.

The Chinese, in fact, had worked an ambush. They already had closed the trap on three sides.

Gathering his men together Cole pulled them out of the jaws of the pincer, withdrawing toward the RCR's main line.

There he radioed his company commander, Maj. Bill Hill of Points Claire, Que., asking that artillery fire be brought down on the house.

Hill said he would, but added: "We're still playing Bingo." He ordered Cole to prepare an attack on the settlement with his combined sections.

The attack went in under a barrage laid down by the entire divisional artillery, whose fire was directed by Maj. Patrick Leask of Montreal.

And then the communications went out.

The aerial wireless set carried by Pte. D. W. Carley of Trenton, was abbreviated by rifle fire and its hand set was fouled by dirt and snow.

Continued Attack

Cole took on himself the responsibility of ordering the attack to go in, and during the approach Carley dismantled his hand set, putting the pieces in his pocket after cleaning them with his handkerchief, and then in the cold night air, reassembling the delicate mechanism.

He had Cole in touch with Hill again just as the final assault went in with slight opposition.

Then moaning inside one of the buildings attracted Cole's attention.

Inside was a Chinese, wounded but voluble.

The major was sceptical. "Will it live? If not we're still playing," he said.

The men checked. It would win. Hill ordered the "card" to be checked.

Meanwhile Capt. C. J. Thiel of London, Ont., organized a medical reception for the prisoner, whose wounds had been given emergency dressings by the platoon.

Said Hill: "Never did a Chinese have a reception committee like this waiting for him before."

Quite a game, Bingo, the way the RCR played it. And Cole had the winning card.

Car In Reverse Gear Damages Second Car

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 31 — (ENS) — An auto driven by Charles Fraser of Campbellford was in collision with a car driven by Arthur Morgan. The Fraser vehicle was stationary when the Morgan vehicle backed into it. The accident occurred at the intersection of Front and Bridge Sts. on Christmas Eve. Both vehicles had stopped at the intersection. When Mr. Morgan started to drive away, his vehicle was in reverse instead of low gear, and he backed into the Fraser vehicle causing considerable damage to the grill, fender and headlight.

BREAK THE LAXATIVE HABIT THIS PROVEN WAY

If you take laxatives regularly, here is how you can stop! This proven plan helps you establish your natural powers of regularity. controlled tests prove.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

When worry, overwork, overeating make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's temporarily. Never get the laxative habit.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drug store. Only 35c. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

LOCAL CLUBS WIN CANADIAN AND ONTARIO TITLES DURING 1951

LOCAL ATHLETES STAR IN '51—Among Peterborough sports 'stars who rose to heights the past year are Don Crowe, left; George (Red) Sullivan, centre; and George Brabin, right. Crowe was playing coach for the Timbermen, who won the senior lacrosse championship of Canada. He finished the fall as spare backfielder for Ottawa Riders, who won the Grey Cup. Sullivan made the jump from AHL to NHL ranks and is playing fine hockey now with Boston Bruins. Brabin in his first senior baseball season with the Petes led the Viaduct Major League in batting with a grand .420 mark.

Senior, Bantam Lacrosse UEW Soccer Champions PCVS and SPS Grid Victors

By CEC PERDUE

Peterborough sports prospered in 1951, and the year's roundup on local athletics is a pleasant one to write. The citys' name was spread prominently in provincial playoffs and, during October, all across Canada. Teams from this city won during the past twelvemonth one Dominion title, three Ontario championships, and two COSSA crowns. This COSSA district is a big strip of the province extending south from Georgian Bay to Niagara Falls. Besides these championship teams, many other local sports made a fine showing this year.

Lacrosse stole the sports spotlight here in '51. The senior "A" Petes' Timbermen built up a powerful club to sweep all possible honors. They led a strong Ontario group during the spring, summer and fall months, drawing big home crowds in Miller Bowl, and took the OLA title without a playoff. In the Eastern Canada draw, they rubbed out Fergus Thistles in semi-finals and downed Mimico Mounties in convincing style in the finals. Three players, Moon Wootton, Jerry Fitzgerald and Harry Wipper, were named to the OLA all-star team.

Won The Cup

Flying west to Vancouver the end of September, the Timbermen took the Mann Cup and Canadian championship in seven games. Coach Don Crowe's club won the first game handily, but slumped badly then to win only one of the next four games. However, they came back like champs to surge from behind and capture the final two games without too much trouble before a big, hostile BC crowd. Goalie Moon Wootton was voted the most valuable player in the Mann Cup series. The team was honored by the city council and citizens on a triumphal return.

While on the subject of the gutted-stick game, Peterborough bantam All-Stars captured the OLA bantam "B" title in October, by defeating Weston 22-0 in Burlington in the final. Earlier they had erased Toronto Lions 18-2 and Brampton by a 28-17 score in the provincial playdowns. Several other local squads went out of the large PMLA setup — in which Harry Wipper was general coach—and made good showings before being eliminated. But the bantams, under Coach Ed Woodcock and Manager Wilf Heffernan, went all the way. Lou Vitarelli's junior "A" lacrossers lost out to Mimico, the team which went on to win the Canadian junior crown, aided by several of the Peterborough boys.

Soccer Victors

For the first time, a Peterborough soccer team brought Ontario honors here when the local UEW team swept through the Eastern Ontario League schedule without a loss or a tie, and took the intermediate provincial championship over Kingston Uniteds by 1-0 and 2-0 scores. Their league included Brockville, two Kingston entries, Belleville, Batawa, O'Halloran's of this city, and UEW. The latter's playoffs included O'Halloran's and then the Simcoe County winners before Kingston in the finals. President Tommy Craig, Secretary A. L. Featherstone, Captain Eric Cotton, and the others did a big job.

Besides the two intermediate soccer clubs in action here the past season, the Public School Soccer League operated once more and gave a flock of youngsters a good grounding in fundamentals of the code. They were coached by their teachers, who also acted as referees.

COASSA Crowns

Two COSSA championships came this way in the late autumn. Bev Goulding's Senior A PCVS pack won out in the final over Stamford, and the locals' only loss of a fine season was to Kirkland Lake in the Red Feather tourney at Toronto. The classy Garnet and Grey gridders kept high the football tradition of the Collegiate here, this being their sixth COSSA senior crown in the last eight years.

Johnny Lynch's junior squad from St. Peter's High ousted Welland in the final to take the COSSA Junior B pennant, the first time this division was set up. The Saints had a dandy season and came up with a powerful club through the autumn months. St. Peter's seniors won the Senior B Catholic Conference from Toronto St. Mike's in another good gridiron showing.

Leo Deadey started as Orfuns' coach in the ORFU play, but gave way soon to Frank Gnup and the team finished strong. It was the only one to hold a decision all fall over Oshawa Raiders, group champions, this team losing later to a Hamilton powerhouse, eventual Canadian champs.

Lost To Champs

The Petes proved best in their OHA senior "B" grouping last season and advanced into Allan Cup senior "A" playdowns, but fell before the eventual champions Owen Sound. Eagles ran into a lot of serious injuries toward the end of the schedule and fell before Belleville in "B" group semi-finals, the Quinte crew then losing out in group finals to Kingston Nyhus. The junior "B" Oddfellows finished strong in group play after a slow start, but did not go too far, either.

They had a tough break when all their equipment was burned in a disastrous early summer fire downtown. But that was nothing to the tragic blaze which killed three firemen and a volunteer worker—Earl (Doc) Spencley, a former football star. The most impressive sight seen in Peterborough during the year was the long funeral cortege down George St. to the cemetery. Not a sound could be heard from the thousands present but the hesitation step of the dead march and the wailing of the mournful bagpipes.

No Centre Yet

There was plenty of minor and district hockey around here, too, last winter, though the outdoor city rinks saw little service. Nor was any headway at all made on the shelved Memorial Community Centre. However, local puckists sought ice action in the TVL, EPL, various rural loops, the well-handled PMHA, school circuits and so on. Boston Bruins arranged a working agreement with the juniors here.

Baseball had a so-so season in this town. The senior Petes led the Viaduct Major League all season but lost out in playoffs to the packed Oshawa Merchants. One bright spot saw George Brabin of Ed Whitehill's team win the league batting honors with a swell .420 mark, and pro clubs are now interested in him. Indifferent opposition—apart from Oshawa — made for small crowds under the Riverside lights. The PMBA struggled on in fair style, though not blessed with a strong executive.

A Huge Crowd

A softball highlight was the return of the King and his Court to a huge crowd in Riverside Park. Neither the men's nor the girls' City Leagues drew too well in Bowl schedules, though a lot of fine softball was served up. This sport has many participants, also, in shop leagues, minor circuits, and around the district. None of the winners went far in provincial play. Public schools sponsored softball again, as they do soccer and hockey.

A raft of basketball was played in the city, Clapper's and Marines supplying top competition for male cagers. There were some keen contests as well during the winter months in the YM and YW house leagues, and plenty of hoop activity dished up by the PCVS boys' and girls' teams, and SPS squads. None went through to take a COSSA or provincial title, though PCVS junior and senior boys got to COSSA finals, as did the junior Collegiate colleens.

Sports For All

Besides the spectator sports, there were many participant games to engage hundreds of men, women and children. Games like cricket, tennis, golf, lawn bowling, curling, carpetball, alley bowling, aquatic sports, badminton, weight-lifting, gym games, and so on. Also, many fans saw the pro wrestlers in their cards, and the harness horse races. A large crowd viewed the water meet at Little Lake. Also many took in the Ontario sailing races in the four-day summer meet at Clear Lake. Schools staged annual track and field meets as in the past. Certainly there was no scarcity of sports in Peterborough during 1951.

Don Crowe got in on two senior Canadian championship clubs the past autumn. After leading the local Timbermen to the lacrosse Mann Cup, he finished out the fall as a spare backfielder for Rough Riders of Ottawa, Grey Cup winners. Ross Powless of the Timbermen won the Tom Longboat Shield as being the outstanding Indian athlete this year in this Ontario zone. George (Red) Sullivan, an Ashburnham boy, made the jump successfully from Hershey in the AHL to Boston of the NHL. The city lost a fine sportsman in Rollie Glover, longtime hockey official here and a life member of the OHA.

Some Highlights

Frank Buckland was returned to the Ontario Hockey Association as a vice-president. Dot Millar was re-elected treasurer of the Provincial Women's Softball Union. The Liftlock Gold Trophy and Black Trophy bowling tournaments again attracted province-wide attention. Also several curling 'spiels. Kawartha and Peterborough Golf Clubs each came through again with outstanding Ontario links tourneys. Joe Rochetta broke his leg early in the first hockey game of the season to end his puck career.

And so it went. And so it will go. The good, the bad, the dull, the exciting. Also the champions, and the losers. Sports. But, on the whole, it was an exciting and profitable sports year for this city. Indications are that 1952 will be another good year, and that Peterborough will continue to be known as one of the best athletic centres in Ontario.

Clark Quartet Captures Examiner Curling Trophy

By HERB. MARTIN.

Dr. Ralph Clark's rink of B. Ashmore, D. Lister and S. Lambert won the Examiner Trophy and first prize in the curling bonspiel here Saturday, which drew a capacity 28 rinks. The Clark quartette was high for three wins, closely followed by Dr. M. McCartney. Other three-game winners were K. Bissett and D. Rankine. R. Williamson was high two-game winner and Z. Levine high for one win.

The competition was keen all day, and as the rinks had to be of schedule calibre, this gave many of the younger players a chance—to many of them it was their first experience in open competition, and they acquitted themselves in grand style. Several of them reached the pay-off station.

Ten-End Games

Each rink played the usual three 10-end games. Play commenced around 9 am and the bonspiel was all over by 11 pm. The ice was fast and in good condition. Dr. McCartney's committee attended to all the details in fine style.

Boys Do Well

Over at Lindsay on Friday our junior boys had four rinks entered in the school boys' bonspiel. Considering that this is their first season, they made a fine showing, reaching the semi-finals in both events. The will do better the next time.

Skips, check the notice board re the Neill Trophy draw for Wednesday night.

The Winners

First—Examiner Trophy, and each a silver-plated humidor and tray, donated by the Examiner—S. Lambert, D. Lister, B. Ashmore, Dr. R. Clark, skip.

Second—Each a flannel sport shirt—G. Mason, C. Lovitt, A. Rooke, Dr. M. McCartney, skip.

Third—Each a flannel sport shirt—R. Dyer, H. Woodcock, I. McGowan, K. Bissett, skip.

Fourth—Each a flannel sport shirt—L. Foord, L. Higgins, R. Rye, D. Rankine, skip.

Fifth—Each a flannel sport shirt—D. Smith, B. Jones, F. Green, R. Williamson, skip.

Sixth—Each a flannel sport shirt—E. Hanbidge, B. Mortlock, Dr. H. Worton, Z. Levine, skip.

Hershey Edges Buffalo 7-6

By The Canadian Press.

The American Hockey League had another heavy weekend schedule and Pittsburgh Hornets and Hershey Bears continue to set the pace in their respective divisions.

At Buffalo, Leo Labine's goal with 40 seconds left in the third period gave Hershey a 7-6 victory over Buffalo's Bisons.

Jerry Brown and Norm Corcoran each scored two goals for the Bears and Sid McNabney led the losers with three goals.

At Cincinnati, the Mohawks completed a weekend sweep of games with the league's top teams, downing Hershey Saturday night and Pittsburgh Sunday. Sunday's score was 4-2.

At Indianapolis Gerry Reid scored his first goal of the season, broke a 2-2 tie and gave Cleveland Barons a 3-2 victory over Indianapolis.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor

You can't improve on Robert Burns as the old year bows out, so let's have one of his verses:

And surely ye'll be your pint stowp!
And surely I'll be mine!
And we'll tak a cup o' kindness yet,
For auld lang syne.

You'll have to do your own translating, but if you've any Scotch in you this New Year's Eve you'll get the general idea. So, Happy New Year to you, folks!

* * * * * *

Our annual sports roundup appears today, but as usual full justice to a year of local and district athletics cannot be done in one story. It just skims the surface and mayhap inadvertently misses some sports highlights of 1951. But it serves to remind fans that this is a fine sports centre. Peterborough people get a bit of everything in the line of athletics, everything that a metropolis like Toronto gets except professional hockey, baseball and football. Not lying very close to other centres its size, Peterborough nevertheless supplies year-around sports of a calibre equalling similar cities in Ontario. And with modern conveniences like floodlights and artificial ice.

* * * * * *

They Proved The Best

This past year, our athletes won three provincial championships and two COSSA crowns. Also, local history was made when our senior "A" lacrossers proved the best in the country to capture the Canadian title out in Vancouver. That was the year's highlight here in sports. The Petes' Timbermen took it all, and brought much renown and favorable publicity to this city. Our bantam lacrossers won an Ontario pennant, and the local UEW soccer team took provincial honors. PCVS and SPS grid teams were COSSA winners, too. Many clubs came close, but space does not permit going into details on this last day of the year. The city did real well in 1951 sports.

* * * * * *

While spectator sports come in for much publicity, we are not unaware of the many participant games where hundreds of men, women, boys and girls enjoy healthful competition without crowds paying to see 'em. Lawn bowling and curling, alley bowling and golf, tennis and aquatic contests. Lots of others, too. Generally speaking, the facilities for all types of games here are excellent. The sad thread that appears annually in the Peterborough pattern is the lack of action in building our Memorial Centre. Let us hope definite action will occur on this project in 1952. When that auditorium is up, this city can hold up its head proudly with the best of them.

* * * * * *

It Looks Promising

What lies ahead? Time alone will tell, but one can make some fair guesses. The hockey picture is bright enough in city and district from the peewees to the seniors. OHA games here should draw better as the competition throughout is good and local clubs are not weaklings this semester. There's plenty of lively basketball to entertain hoop followers. Senior "A" lacrosse and baseball will be up to par again in these here, and there'll be oodles of softball activity once more. Football and soccer, also, should maintain a high standard locally. The only pro sport we have is the weekly wrestling shows through the winter, and we get the top talent down this way. Yes, things look promising for Peter's borough in 1952.

* * * * * *

But enough of reviewing and predicting. The old year is washed out—a good year for many, a sad one for some. It's over and done with. The new year comes tomorrow and with it the hopes of all for happiness, a word which can mean so many things for so many people. We hope it will be an exciting and prosperous year for city and district sports, and that fans will enjoy every season of it at their favorite game. We'd like to win more titles, but more important we want keen and healthy competition, good sportsmanship always evident, and fun for all. So, let's start it off tonight by having fun and let's try to have fun all through 1952. What do you say?

Down Sports' Rialto

Don't forget the OHA junior "B" fixture here Wednesday night betwixt Belleville and Oddfellows. Eagles play Petes on Friday.

Six PHMA tilts go Thursday p.m. in Civic, commencing at six bells. Proper name for the Keene entry in the EPL is Otonabee All-Stars. Tussles at Keene tonight: Indian River vs. Westwood, and Downer's vs. Keene. Lakefield and Warsaw fought it out to a 4-all draw at Warsaw. Bancroft opened their puck schedule at home with a 10-6 win o'er Madoc, as Elwood Brough had seven assists. Bowmanville beat Port Hope intermediates 4-2 in a rough fray at Bowman Villa. Tweed rink roof collapsed under a load of snow but no one was injured; our junior pucksters played there at times in the 30s. Don Crowe was a junior here at that time. Quinte columnist is crying over the injury jinx on his Hawks after scoffing at us for bemoaning Eagles' injuries. Dr. Ralph Clark's rink won The Examiner Trophy at a curling 'spiel here Saturday. Happy New Year.

Bancroft Triumphs

BANCROFT, Dec. 31 (ENS). — With Elwood Brough assisting on seven goals, Bancroft Pontiacs downed Madoc 10-6 here Friday to open play in the Hastings-Addington Hockey League. The 20-year-old centre was in great playmaking form in compiling this post-war record for the village. It was an open game before 400 fans with "Tom" Ross in the Madoc net a busy man. Glen Nickle of the visitors shone to keep the tilt close enough. Norman Brough scored four goals as Bill Delyea got two. Joe Kavanagh two and Ted Maxwell and Jim Bruce one each. Nickle led Madoc with three teams:

Madoc: Ross, Crawford, Lavender, G. Nickle, Carswell, Tufts, Lister, Shadbolt, F. Nickle, Reynolds, Thompson.

Bancroft: Young, Stringer, McAlpine, E. Brough, N. Brough, Kavanagh, E. Maxwell, J. Maxwell, Bruce Dugald, Hattin, Delyea, Fox, D. Maxwell, G. Maxwell.

Referees: Goyer and Carpenter.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

● This is the first of a series of columns dedicated to sport, sportsmen, and sportsmanship.

We mean the sort of sportsmen who don't cheat, who keep within the bounds of true sportsmanship. We mean the fishermen who would scorn to take an ounce of fish over the legal limit, no matter how well the fish were biting. Or the hunter who would never think to shoot a bird, or a deer, or anything else out of season. The golfer who would rather add than subtract a stroke from his score in case of doubt. The good losers. The sportsmen.

These come in all divisions of sport, amateur and professional, in all games. And one of the finest displays of courage and sporting spirit was given two years ago by Bill Durnan, rated by many the greatest net-minder of all time, when just after he had completed his sixth Vezina Trophy victory in seven seasons, he stepped aside, in the midst of the 1950 Stanley Cup series, to be replaced by a comparative rookie, because he was convinced his continued stay in the nets was unfair to his own club.

Never before have we known, in a long association with hockey, of a top-ranking player, rated the world's best in his position, suddenly deciding that he wasn't good enough to carry on, feeling that some greatness, some reflex, has suddenly failed him, and voluntarily stepping down, to hand over the job to a comparative neophyte.

It's an epic of fine sporting spirit, of team loyalty. And someone of more gifted pen, who can analyze and describe such mental torments and conflicts could find here the material for a compelling story of conflicting emotions, of the hours of troubled thought Durnan must have given to his own problem, a problem he had to solve himself, with no outside help. Because, to be a man at the top of his profession, a man with intense pride of craft, it represents tremendous athletic and moral sacrifice that suddenly he must say to the world: "I think I'm through. I can't carry on. I want a younger man to take my place."

Durnan told coach Dick Irvin: "I'm not playing up to the mark, Dick. My vision hasn't been really good since that accident in Chicago. Something has happened to my reflexes, to my nerves. It isn't fair to the boys that I should carry on. We've lost three straight, and I don't feel that my nerves are capable of going in there for a fourth game."

Irvin was amazed. He told Durnan to sleep on it, think it over. But the next morning, as the players went out for a light skate, prior to the game that night, Durnan didn't attempt to dress.

So Irvin sat down, told young Gerry McNeil exactly what had happened. McNeil listened, nodded, started to dress. Then he stopped. "No," he said, "I can't do this. Bill is too fine a guy to have anyone push him out right in the Cup series. I won't do it."

But Durnan rose to this problem too. Preaching team loyalty, he sold his own job to McNeil, settled his own problem.

What problem? someone might enquire. That someone wouldn't, of course, be very close to the sports picture, nor would that someone understand what pride of craft, what team loyalty means to those who achieve the higher brackets, in part because they possess those very attributes.

Your comments and suggestions for this column will be welcomed by Elmer Ferguson, c/o Calvert House, 431 Yonge St., Toronto.

Red Wings Whip Chicago In 3-1 Tussle, Leafs Blank Boston 4-0

By The Canadian Press

The half-way mark of the 1951-52 National Hockey League season is reached New Year's Eve and its becoming increasingly evident there isn't a club to stop Detroit Red Wings from winning their fourth straight league title. The Wings go into tonight's game at home against Montreal Canadiens 12 points ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs who were able to gain only one point on Detroit in weekend games. It was a standoff in the pennant race Saturday night as both Detroit and Toronto came up with victories. The Red Wings whipped their "cousins," Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 and Leafs made it 4-0 over Boston Bruins.

Toronto had a good chance to bridge the gap Sunday at New York but the Rangers, playing before a crowd of 15,603—largest of the season at Madison Square Garden—scored a goal with five minutes left to play to salvage a 2-2 tie. Rangers were drubbed 7-2 by Montreal Canadiens Saturday, the only other weekend game.

Don Raleigh pierced a tight Toronto defence to score the tying goal. Leafs led 2-0 on goals by Ted Kennedy and Max Bentley but the Rangers roared back to gain the split in points on markers by Hi Buller and Raleigh.

Canadiens Go Wild

The third-place Canadiens went wild against the Rangers before a 14,270 crowd at Montreal Saturday. Maurice (Rocket) Richard and rookie Maul Meger led the scoring parade with two goals each and the others went to freshmen Dick Gamble, Dollard S. Laurent and Dickie Moore.

Paul Ronty and Steve Kraftcheck notched the Ranger goals.

Gordie Howe scored two third period goals in Detroit's 3-1 victory over the Hawks—their sixth straight triumph at home and the sixth in seven starts against Chicago. Marty Pavelich netted the other for the Wings while rookie Steve Hyrmnak scored for Chicago.

The Boston-Toronto game was a bruiser with referee Bill Storey handing out 10 minor and four major penalties—all in the second and third periods. Boston's Ed Kryzanowski and Toronto's Jimmy Thomson provide the fireworks with a couple of clashes.

The hockey was provided by Bentley and Danny Lewicki. Bentley scored a pair and Lewicki received credit for three assists.

The other Toronto goals were scored by Sid Smith and Gus Mortson.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Georges Vezina, perhaps the greatest goalie in professional hockey, played his first pro game with Montreal Canadiens 41 years ago today. His last game was on Nov. 28, 1925, when illness forced him to quit during the game at Montreal against Pittsburgh, ending an NHL career of 15 years. He died at Chicoutimi on March 24, 1926.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Montreal's Elmer Lach, with a pace-setting 27 assists, heads the National Hockey League's individual scoring race with 32 points, two more than team-mate Maurice Richard whose 18 goals are also a league mark.

Ted Kennedy and Sid Smith of Toronto and Don Raleigh of New York Rangers are tied for third place with 31 points. They are followed by Gordie Howe of Detroit who has 30 points.

Don Raleigh, New York, whose goal late in the third period Sunday gave the Rangers a 2-2 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Al Rollins, Toronto, who racked up his third shutout of the year Saturday as the Leafs blanked Boston Bruins 4-0.

Maurice Richard and Paul Meger, Montreal, who each scored two goals Saturday to pace the Canadiens to a 7-2 victory over New York.

Gordie Howe, Detroit, whose two goals gave the Red Wings a 3-1 decision Saturday over Chicago.

Australia Leads Series 2 to 1

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 31 (Reuters)—A fighting 108 from Frank Worrell today paced the West Indies to a moderate total of 272 all out on the first day of the fourth cricket test against Australia.

With the five-test series standing at 2 to 1 in Australia's f... the West Indies must fight hard Tuesday in Australia's first innings to keep the rubber open.

Worrell was thrice hit on his injured right hand and made many of his strokes with the left only.

The fans booed their own team lustily when the West Indians' number 10, spinbowler Sonny Ramadhin, was given out caught at the wicket on a belated appeal. Cheers greeted every stroke made by the last pair, while Australia's captain Lindsay Hassett and bowler Bill Johnston got catcalls for their every move.

Keith Miller, with five for 60, was Australia's most successful bowler.

Lindsay Kinsmen Down Buzzers 8-4

LINDSAY, Dec. 31.—Led by Ken Schinkel, Lindsay Kinsmen's top team of the Central Ontario Junior G group whipped Toronto Saint Michaels Buzzers, league leaders of the Big Six, 8-4, in a fast exhibition game here.

Schinkel paced Lindsay goalgetters with three, scoring two late in the third after the Irish had threatened to come from behind. Norm Dysart and Garry Copeland scored a pair each for Lindsay and Gord Deeth added a singleton. Charlie Burns fired two in the third, while Bill Tattersall and Jack Kaffery counted the other St. Mikes' goals.

Windsor Spitfires Come To Life Edge Oshawa Generals 4-3

By The Canadian Press.

It's not very often the tail-end Windsor Spitfires win a game. In fact up until Saturday night they had been able to collect only three victories in no less than 29 Ontario Hockey Association Junior A appearances.

Saturday they chalked up their fourth win of the season. It was a 4-3 affair over ninth-place Oshawa Generals, all on the strength of forward Jimmy Robertson's two last period goals.

The Spits were one goal down midway through the final session when Don McBeth and Al Arbour drew majors for fighting. A minute later Robertson rapped home his first tally to knot the count at 3-3.

With 63 seconds left to play in the game Robertson split the Oshawa defence to notch the final marker. It gave Windsor its 4-3 win and put them in a tie with the Generals in the victory department. Both teams have collected but four this season.

Six ties gives Oshawa four-point edge in the standings. Windsor has but two deadlocks.

Second Whitewashing

In the only other Junior OHA game played Saturday those hapless Waterloo Hurricanes absorbed their second whitewashing in as many nights. Fourth-place Galt Black Hawks handed them a 10-0 setback.

The Hurcs, languishing in eighth place, have allowed 29 goals past them in their last two games. Friday night Guelph Biltmores drubbed them 19-0 at Guelph.

Sunday afternoon, Toronto Marlboros went four points up in their fight for first place in the 10-team standings when they downed second place Guelph Biltmores 6-2 before 10,000 Maple Leaf Gardens fans. St. Michael's consolidated third place with a 6-2 victory over Kitchener Greenshirts.

The tail-end North Bay Black Hawks came up with their most impressive display of the season here Saturday night to hand the pace-setting Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds a 7-3 thumping in a Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A fixture.

Down Tigers

Saturday night's senior OHA play saw Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen move three points up on Hamilton in their fight for second place with an 8-4 tussle over the Tigers. Owen Sound edged Brantford Redmen 4-3 in the only other senior game. It was the third straight win for the Mercurys.

In the senior game at Kitchener, Jim Pernfuss, Bobby Schnurr and Mike Dzuira all counted twice for the 8-4 win by the Dutchmen. Singletons went to Scotty Mair and Bill Mitchell. Murray Comfort scored three of the Tiger goals with the fourth going to Ron Kemp.

Mike Bukacheski, Andy Grant Roy Leckie and Ray McCallum fired the Mercury markers at Owen Sound. Bob Bragagnola, Don Oberholtzer and Bill Schill scored for Brantford as the Redmen bowed 4-3.

Rod McElroy scored twice for Marlboros 6-2 win in Toronto on Sunday, with Chuck Lumsden, Gus Karrys, Parker MacDonald and Wally Maxwell accounting for the others. Charles Henderson and Dean Prentice tallied for Guelph.

St. Mike's Bill Lee and Mike Ratchford each scored twice and Bob Sabourin and Jim Logan scored singletons in the college crew's 6-2 win over the Greenshirts. Kitchener goals went to Frank Toyota and Dino Candido.

Windsor Scores

Windsor scorers at Oshawa were Jim Robertson with two and John Lumley and Bob Rawlyk with one apiece. Harry Sinden, Al Lawrence and Bob Holden scored one each for Oshawa who bowed 4-3.

In the game at Galt speedy Tony Poeta rapped in three goals during the second period to lead Black Hawks to their 10-0 victory. Ken Wharram scored twice. Singletons went to Tommy Fyles, John Price, Jack Hill, McIntosh and MacDonald.

Both leagues are idle today and Tuesday, but Stratford goes to Kitchener for a senior game on Wednesday and four games are scheduled that night in the junior circuit.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Doug Bentley, newly-appointed playing coach of Saskatoon Quakers of the Pacific Coast Hockey League will take over the team for the first time when Quakers play Calgary in Saskatoon Jan. 5.

Frankie Eddolls, currently coaching Quakers, will remain with the team for their Jan. 5 game here and will then fly to New York to rejoin New York Rangers of the National League.

Recovered from a groin injury, Bentley, whose appointment was announced in New York Sunday night, expects to do "quite a lot of playing" for the Quakers. He said he might try himself on defence after Eddoll's departure and if that scheme does not work out, he will get another defenceman and move up to the forward line.

Murph Chamberlain, deposed coach of the Vancouver Canucks, will succeed Leroy Goldsworthy as coach of the Buffalo Bisons in the American Hockey League.

Canucks' owner Coley Hall reported Sunday in Vancouver that general manager Art Chapman of the Bisons has agreed to hire Chamberlain.

Chamberlain left here by plane last Friday. He ended his job with the Canucks Christmas Day. Hugh Currie was named acting coach.

Goldsworthy will come to Vancouver where he will be pro at the Point Grey Golf Club.

Glasgow Rangers, glamor team of the Scottish Football League, have been invited to tour Canada in 1952. The tour, it was reported in Vancouver Saturday, would involve 10 matches from Montreal to Victoria, BC. The invitation was sent to the Rangers by the Canadian Football Association.

Joe Yosurak, pitcher for Waterloo Tigers of the Intercounty Baseball Association senior circuit for the last two seasons, has signed a contract with the team for 1952. Last year he was credited with 13 victories.

Allie Reynolds, double no-hit righthander of the world champion New York Yankees, Saturday in New York was named player of the year by the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

A total of 37 runners so far have entered the 31st annual New Year's Day road races in Hamilton. Chick Taylor YMCA physical director, announced Sunday, the 20 runners now entered in the 10-mile race will not have to compete with last year's winner, Selwin Jones of Hamilton, who said he will not be running.

Mrs. Peter G. McNeil, 51, mother of Gerry McNeil, goaler of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, died in hospital in Quebec Sunday after several months' illness.

TIDE TURNS RIGHT HERE IN DOUBLES ENCOUNTER—Here's where Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor of Australia (upper court) turned the tide to break the 1-1 deadlock after the Australia vs. United States opening singles matches at Sydney. The Aussie pair defeated Ted Schroeder and Tony Trabert of United States (lower court) 6-2, 9-7, 6-3. That's McGregor lunging for one of Trabert's sizzlers. Sedgman keeps an eye on things at the top baseline. His singles triumph over Vic Seixas gave Australia the deciding 3-2 edge.

FRANK SEDGMAN
MASTER OF TENNIS

In one of the most magnificent exhibitions of tennis ever seen in any country, Frank Sedgman completed his job of crushing America's Davis Cup team.

With the issue still in balance in the fifth and deciding match of the challenge round, the young, blond Aussie ace sliced Vic Seixas into ribbons, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2, to retain the coveted Cup for his country, three matches to two.

Ted Schroeder had kept the challengers in the running by handing Mervyn Ross his second straight-set defeat, 6-4, 13-11, 7-5.

The third straight capacity crowd of 15,300 at the White City Stadium let loose with a five-minute roar of triumph after Sedgman nearly knocked Seixas' racquet from his hand with his unreturnable service for the final point.

They remained standing for another 20 minutes while Prime Minister Robert Manzies presented the trophy to the winners in a mid-court ceremony.

Lakefield Puckists Tie With Warsaw

WARSAW, Dec. 31 (ENS) — Lakefield and Warsaw battled to a 4-4 league tie here Friday, with no overtime played. It was a good speedy game before a large crowd on fast ice. Birch scored in the first for Lakefield from R. Calberry and Wilford. In the second for Lakefield, R. Calberry counted from Birch, and Knox scored on Wanamaker's pass. Birch tallied one more in the third. Warsaw tallied twice in the second frame, S. Lonsberry on passes from Batten and McMillan, with J. Watts scored from E. Payne. They added two in the third on goals by S. Lonsberry and L. Lonsberry, the latter being aided by Paterson and Evans. Lakefield drew eight of the 10 penalties. Teams:

Lakefield: Wasson, P. Calberry, Sabatino, Knox, McIlmoyle, Henry, Coons, Wanamaker, Hockaday, Morrison, R. Calberry, Birch, Wilford.

Warsaw: Darling, Sharp, Clements, Paterson, Evans, L. Lonsberry, G. Payne, Eadie, S. Lonsberry, E. Payne, Batten, Watts, McMillan.

Referees: Nigh and Romhanyi.

Clapper's Take Cage Win Against Grads

Clapper's cagers edged the Grads (made up of local hoopsters attending college) 49-48 in a thrilling exhibition game at the YMCA Saturday night. It was a furious tussle throughout, with the lead see-sawing back and forth as the well-matched teams gave it the works and dished up some dandy basketball. The Grads had a 24-22 lead at the halfway mark but Clapper's edged them out in the dying seconds of play with a terrific drive.

Griffin sparked his side with a sizzling performance to rack up 21 points, Estlick, M. Richardson and several more of the Grads also being potent on the attack. Al Stewart led the way for Clapper's with 11 points, Joe Stewart getting 10, as six apiece went to Gillespie, Edger and Smith. Teams:

Grads: Estlick, Lee, McKee, D. Dibben, M. Richardson, Dinsdale, N. Thompson, Payne, Grafstein, Thompson, Griffin, P. Richardson.

Clapper's: A. Stewart, Gillespie, Edger, Jopling, Smith, Northcott, Dibben, J. Stewart, Burns.

Six Entries Form TVL Minor League

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 31 — (ENS).—The executive of what is to be known as the Trent Valley Minor Hockey League met at the home of Dr. W. W. Baker on Sunday afternoon to discuss plans for the grand opening of the league on Friday next at the arena here.

The league will comprise six teams as well as the two OMHA teams sponsored by the local Rotary Club. While the OMHA teams are not actually in the TVM League, they will be under jurisdiction of the league, and the league will no doubt supply sweaters, transportation and supervision to the two teams. They will be the bantams and midgets.

No representative has yet been chosen for the Seymour West team, although W. F. Scott is sponsoring this team and supplying sweaters.

The Officers

The executive of the league is: president, Dr. W. W. Baker; vice-pres., Donald W. Erskine; secretary-treasurer, Forrest Dennis. Representatives of the teams are Rotary, Bill Holmes; Legion, Howard Wilson; Kinsmen, Forrest Dennis; Fish and Game, Russel Ayrhart, Seymour East, Donald W Erskine.

The executive expects a large turnout for the gala opening on Friday evening when Dit Clapper of Peterborough will be on hand to referee the game. The boys are selling tickets now and hoping for a packed house.

About 100 boys between the ages of 10 and 16 will be members of the league, and with the support of the parents and friends of these boys, the executive hopes to develop them into a bunch of fine, clean sportsmen. In other years, the local hockey fans have not given the youngsters the support they deserve. Last year the local Rotary-sponsored OMHA team went right to the top in their first attempt at the Ontario championship, only to be beaten by the champions by a narrow margin. They won the first game of the series but lost the second on strange ice.

The organizations sponsoring each team are supplying the sweaters, and each team will hit the ice on opening night fully dressed in their own colors.

NINE-YEAR-OLD George Samuel Edgar, of Wappingers Falls, N.Y., moves up from toy trains to the real thing as he accepts a share of Erie Railroad stock from Erie President Paul W. Johnston in the latter's New York City office. The youngster's letter to Johnston offering his $11.75 savings for a share of the railroad's stock brought on the presentation, with the road's boss putting up the additional $7.75 in cash. A board of directors meeting sealed the transaction—then Johnston and the youngster got down to the serious business of toy trains.

Montreal Market Chalks Up Higher Prices

By PETER BUCKLEY

MONTREAL, Dec. 31—(CP)—Canadians this year took a look at their natural resources and liked what they saw. This confidence made itself felt in dealings on the Montreal stock exchange and curb market over the year.

Stock prices were generally higher at the end of the year in comparison with the beginning of 1951, despite periodical recessions.

Last year's climb extended well into February of this year. From that peak, prices generally drifted lower. However, an improved tone permeated the list in midsummer and by September most groups were hitting new highs for the year. Enthusiasm waned during the final months and a casual withdrawal blunted the edge of many early gains.

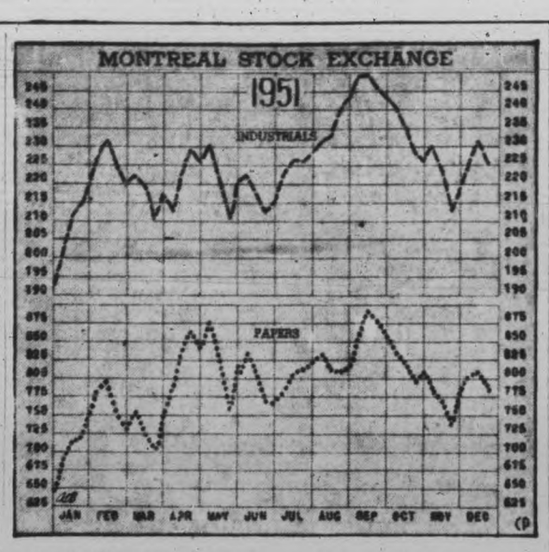
Papers were again the focal-point of investing interest. Their value showed a considerable increase over the previous year's levels. Senior metals were also prominent.

Attract Notice

Other countries also took note of Canada's potential natural wealth. Investment by United States and European speculators reached new levels with developments in western Canadian oil fields and ore discoveries in Quebec and Labrador.

Increased taxation reduced dividend payments during the second half of the year. Incomplete records showed that total payments would probably fall short of the $471,000,000 paid in 1950.

Year's Changes



A representative list of top Canadian securities showed that over the year Bathurst "A" rose from 40⅞ to 52; Fraser from 38½ to 59; St. Lawrence Corporation from 30½ to 41¾; Consolidated Smelters from 127 to 180; Noranda from 70¾ to 82½; Canada Cement from 54 to 80; Dominion Bridge from 55¾ to 74; Gypsum from 21¼ to 30½; Algoma from 28½ to 49; Shawinigan from 32 to 38; C.P.R. from 23¾ to 37; Imperial Oil from 27⅝ to 37¼; McColl-Frontenac from 18⅞ to 40¾ and Canadian Breweries from 17 to 18¼.

However, some issues were off from last year's close. Among these were International Paper down from 55½ to 49; Bell from 39¾ to 38½; Quebec Power from 19½ to 18¾; Canadian Celanese from 50¾ to 47¾; Corby's "A" from 18½ to 12½ and Seagram's from 30½ to 26.

Industrial volume of 19,320,000 shares was approximately equal last year's 19,450,000 shares. Despite little change in the volume, the dollar value of stocks increased from $9,350,000,000 in 1950 to almost $12,000,000,000 this year.

Mining volume fell short of last year's total of 91,056,000 shares. Major changes for the year were few, with most issues settling around last year's levels. However, the large number of new additions to this group received considerable attention.

Western oil shares were generally stronger. The vast potentiality of Canada's oil field is only now being recognized with a consequent rise in interest among native and foreign speculators.

PAPERS ADVANCED—Paper stocks, a feature on the Montreal Stock Exchange, followed the big swings in the general industrial list in 1951, with the papers making their sharpest advance in April-May. Both general and paper prices were on a declining trend in late-year trading.

Toronto Trading at Record Level in '51

By DICK BAIDEN

TORONTO, Dec. 31—(CP)—Toronto stock exchange prices which reached record highs in September, slipped during the latter part of 1951 to cut about one-third off the industrial gains. Base metals and western oils, however, managed to retain most of their advances.

The exchange's industrial index ended 1950 at 290.65, reached 360.28 Sept. 14, and ended this year near 340. Base metals climbed from a year-end figure of 163.01 to 198.55 Oct. 3, and held around 193. Western Oils advanced from 80.25 to 126.31 Nov. 12, and stayed close to that figure. Golds went from 74.72 to 94.44 Feb. 17, but were down to around 84 at the year-end.

Heavy volume during the year, reflecting enthusiasm for mining issues, reached a peak turnover of 7,537,000 shares Oct. 11, an all-time daily record.

Started Strongly

All divisions started the year strongly. Industrials jumped 45 points by early February, while golds added 20 points, base metals 26 and western oils 23. The advance slowed later in the month and reversed direction in the final week.

March hesitancy was replaced in April by renewed confidence. Investors noted increased expenditures for re-armaments and selected industrials drew firmer support, sending the industrial index up another 25 points. Mining issues, however, showed little change.

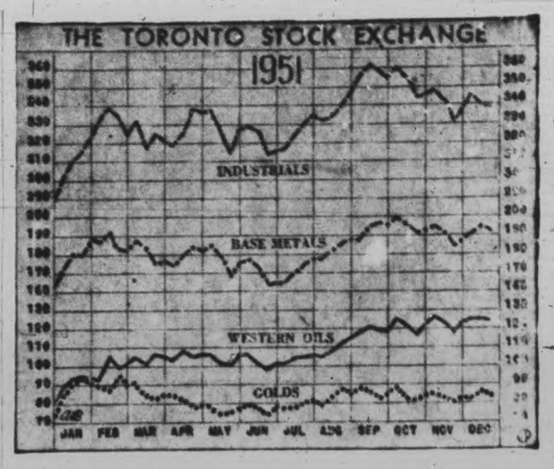
A sudden wave of selling May 15 dropped prices for their greatest loss in six months, leaving observers bewildered; but the selling ended as suddenly as it began and industrials ended the month near their opening levels. Base metals eased, but golds and western oils showed only slight changes.

Announcement in June of armistice talks in Korea caused a brief recession, but in general investors held to the view that armament programs would be continued.

Summer Doldrums

Prices moved drowsily through July and most of August, but late support added 13 points to the industrial index, and carried on into the record high-ground of mid-September. Base metals and oils showed only slight gains in this period. Golds, which earlier captured the interest on rumors that restrictions on gold sales in world markets would be relaxed, were relatively quiet when the restrictions were finally eased.

Increased demand for strategic base metals, coupled with interest in western oil developments, sent the daily volume to an average of 6,000,000 shares in the second week of October, with the turnover topping 7,000,000 shares in two sessions.



Optimists saw their hopes of a rising industrial market fade as prices slipped in relatively slow November trading. Only western oils held their ground.

No Year-end Rally

December trading failed to produce a predicted year-end rally. Western oils closed near their high for the year, but industrials were down about 20 points while base metals and golds finished about 5 and 10 points lower.

Looking ahead, most observers predicted steadily growing demand for base metal and western oil stocks. Selected industrials, notably steels and some manufacturing companies, they thought, would also be in demand. Golds would show little change unless there were a sudden reversal of the currently rising trend for other security prices. Some professionals noted increasing buying of common stocks as opposed to preferred issues, as a hedge against inflation.

Volume for the year was more than 550,000,000 shares compared with about 500,000,000 in 1950, while value of the trading was around $1,165,000,000, compared with last year's $885,000,000.

INDUSTRIALS ACTIVE. — Early-year and late-summer advances featured trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange in 1951. The late year saw a decline, but figures still were were above the close of 1950 at year-end. Industrial issues made the biggest swing. Base Metals and Western Oils pursued a more consistent, if less sensational climb upward. Golds found little encouragement in the year.

Early Snows Cut Yield, Quality of Prairie Crop

By A. L. VICKERY

WINNIPEG, Dec. 31—(CP)—Western grain growers, especially those in Alberta and Saskatchewan, probably will refer to 1951 as the year of the early snow.

Early in the season, an all-time high wheat crop was forecast. But unfavorable weather during the harvest season reduced the Bureau of Statistics' estimate at Nov. 15 to 562,398,000 bushels, a drop of 17,000,000 bushels from the previous estimate. However, it still remains the second largest crop in history. Record crop was 566,000,000 bushels in 1928.

Private company reports in December indicated that 32 per cent of this year's crops were still lying under snow across the prairies, including about 175,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Not only did the frost and snow cut the yield but the quality of the grain also was lowered, much of it too tough or damp. The Board of Grain Commissioners reported that less than one per cent of the year's crop would grade No. 1 Northern due to the weather, compared with a 10-year average of 28 per cent.

Only seven per cent of the crop was estimated to grade No. 2 Northern compared with 46 per cent over the 10-year period.

Field Crops Up

Despite there factors, the Bureau of Statistics reported the gross value of Canada's principal field crops in the current crop year at more than $2,000,000,000, the highest in history.

The estimate covered 20 different crops, including wheat, coarse grains (barley, oats and rye), root crops and sugar beets. All provinces except Quebec showed gains over 1950.

As western farmers began to harvest their expected bumper crop, much of last year's low-grads crop was still on hand in terminals, country elevators and on farms. The carryover was 18,400,000 bushels.

The Canadian Wheat Board told farmers they would have more grain than could be delivered during the fall, and low delivery quotas were established to allot available space on an acreage basis. The government appointed Roy Milner of Winnipeg as transport controller to ensure fast movement of grain.

From West Coast

About 100,000,000 bushels of grain was scheduled for movement from the east coast—30,000,000 more than usual. The Port of Prince Rupert was used for grain for the first time in several years. Emergency prairie storage was authorized in temporary buildings. The lake shipping season was extended to Dec. 15, and a near-record peacetime total of 316,600,000 bushels of grain was shipped by lake vessel east. Record peacetime year was 1928 when the total reached 385,100,000 bushels.

Wheat Board officials reported a brisk demand for milling grades of Canadian wheat and these shipments were expedited.

During the year, farmers received final payment for wheat sold to Great Britain under the five-year pool ending in 1950. Including a $65,000,000 vote by the federal government, the final price was $1.83 a bushel for No. 1 Northern.

Final payments for last year's crop brought the price for No. 1 Northern to $1.85 a bushel. Western farm leaders said it was more than farmers expected.

For the second year, farmers were obliged to sell virtually all their oats and barley as well as wheat through the Canadian Wheat Board. Following petitions against this method of selling oats and barley, the Manitoba government held a referendum on Nov. 24. Farmers voted overwhelmingly in favor of retaining the system.

Trading continued in oats, barley, flax and rye on the Winnipeg grain exchange with both private and government dealings.

Canada Develops As World Nation

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, Dec. 31—(CP)—Canada's decision to build the St. Lawrence seaway—with or without the long-awaited co-operation of the United States—emerges as one of the major developments in this country's foreign relationships in 1951.

It was Canada's way of saying, without committing herself to paper, that her patience has been exhausted, that she is fed up with the endless congressional wrangle over whether the United States should or should not join Canada in constructing the waterway.

But, perhaps more important than that, the decision came in a year in which Canada bluntly told her southern neighbor that their days of "relatively easy and automatic political relations" are over, that this country is not willing to be merely an echo of somebody else's voice.

That frank declaration, presaging a new phase of Canadian-American relations, was put into words last April by External Affairs Minister Pearson in a speech before a joint meeting of Toronto's Empire and Canadian Clubs.

Made It Clear

This is what he went on to say:

". . . We need not try to deceive ourselves that because our close relations with our great neighbor are so close, they will always be smooth and easy. There will be difficulties and frictions.

"These, however, will be easier to settle if the United States realizes that while we are most anxious to work with her and support her in the leadership she is giving to the free world, we are not willing to be merely an echo of somebody else's voice."

Stiff Protest

Four months later, one of those "frictions" developed and Canada reacted sharply in one of her stiffest diplomatic protests to her southern neighbor in years.

It developed out of the publication in Washington of an allegation of Communism — totally denied by the Canadian government — against a top Canadian diplomat. His name — he was Herbert Norman, then acting chief of Canada's United Nations delegation—was mentioned in a Congressional committee hearing.

Canada, labelling the charge was "unimpressive and unsubstantiated," told Washington of her "surprise," "regret," and "annoyance" at the way Mr. Norman's name had been "dragged" into a committee hearing. She asked that the Congressional official who publicized the charge be rebuked.

Then, making her position even clearer, this country pointedly announced that Mr. Norman would be Canada's principal adviser at the American-sponsored Japanese peace treaty conference at San Francisco.

New Complaint

Another spat developed a few weeks later when Congress adopted legislation banning the import of dairy products. Canada quickly registered another protest, pointing out that the prohibition violated the Geneva trade agreement, to which both countries were party, and threatened this country's dairy industry. The US promised to repair the damage.

Other factors on the international scene enhanced Canada's growing stature in world relations during the year.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which Canada was one of the founding countries, decided to make Ottawa the site of its general meeting, the most important since the defence alliance came into being. Delegations from the 12 member-states converged on this capital for the week-long sessions.

Earlier in the year, the military chief of the organization, General Eisenhower, visited Ottawa to discuss NATO problems with Canada's defence chiefs and the federal cabinet.

Another front-rank visitor during the year was President Auriol of France. He came to Ottawa from a visit to Washington and addressed a joint session of the houses of parliament.

Supports UN

Canada pursued her policy of vigorous support of the United Nations during the year and Canadian representatives played an important part in UN deliberations both at New York and Paris, site of the late-year General Assembly.

As 1951 moved to a closed, this capital prepared to welcome Prime Minister Churchill of the United Kingdom, making his first visit to this country since he met at Quebec with the late President Roosevelt in the dark days of wartime. He visits Ottawa in January after a stay in Washington with President Truman.

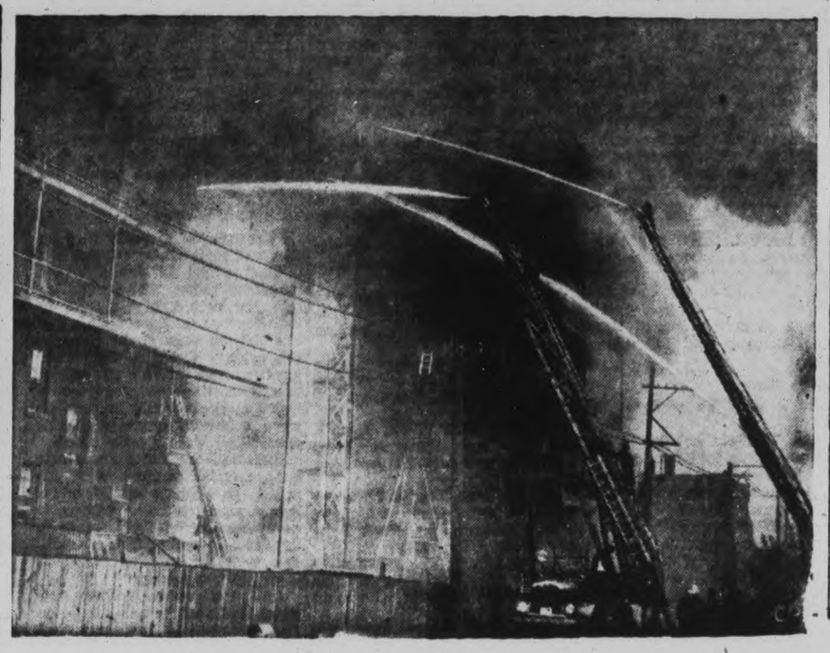
CANADIANS IN ACTION — February of 1951 saw Canadian troops undergo their baptism of fire in Korea. This photo shows Canadians moving into the line. During the year, additional units of the 25th Brigade arrived to reinforce Canadian forces fighting for the United Nations in Korea. As the year drew to a close, members of the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, first unit to go to the Far East, were returning after a year's service and were replaced by other Canadian units. Throughout the year, ships of the Royal Canadian Navy patrolled the waters off Korea and took part in coastal actions.



TERM EXTENDED—Viscount Alexander of Tunis, Canada's popular Governor-General, continued to endear himself to the people by his appearances at functions in all parts of the country. Here he tries his skill with a cross-cut saw. On Oct. 26, his term of office was extended until the fall of 1952.

BRIDGE COLLAPSES — In the early hours of Jan. 31, residents of Three Rivers, Que., thought they heard an earthquake. Four big spans of the Duplessis Bridge over the St. Maurice River had crashed into the water taking with them four men crossing in cars at the time. Here are shown the bare concrete piers and debris lying on the river ice. An inquiry commission report failed to determine the cause of the collapse.

SEAWAY NEARS REALITY — The St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project moved a step nearer reality during 1951 with decision by the Canadian government to proceed with construction without aid of the United States. Legislation was passed by Parliament and a power agreement was signed with Ontario. Here Prime Minister St. Laurent, right, and Premier Frost of Ontario sign the agreement while Robert Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, looks on.

MONTREAL DISASTER — Tragedy struck in Montreal June 15 when fire swept Hospice Ste. Cunegonde in the centre of the city. The death toll was 35. The institution was a home for the aged and for orphaned children. Here firemen pour water into the burning structure, scene of many acts of bravery by nuns who sought to save their young and aged charges.

STORMY WEATHER — Alberta was plagued with one of the worst years in its weather history. Snowstorms isolated communities and even buried trains such as this passenger train near Oyen, Alta., in March. An ice and sleet storm in June caused millions of dollars damage to communication lines. In September, another unseasonal snow buried crops before they could be harvested.

DAREDEVIL DIES—William (Red) Hill, Jr., veteran Niagara riverman and son of another famous riverman, tried to conquer Niagara Falls in a rubber-tube-and-netting contraption on Aug. 5. His body was recovered from below the falls the next day.

Canadian Air Transport Hits New Peak

By G. R. McGREGOR,
President Trans-Canada Air Lines

The year 1951 was one of record achievement for Trans-Canada Air Lines. Not only did passenger and commodity traffic far exceed all previous levels, but the company experienced the best financial year in its history, G. R. McGregor, president, said today.

"During 1951 approximately 980,000 persons flew over TCA's North American and international routes, 18 per cent more than in 1950. The volume of aircargo and air express transported by the airline increased by about 15 per cent to 5,200,000 ton miles. The carriage of "all-up" mail continued under a new agreement with the Post Office Department and the amount of mail transportation required of TCA increased by 7 per cent over 1950 and exceeded 4,300,000 tons miles.

"Increased revenues during 1951, coupled with careful control of the Company's expenses, will result, when the final figures have been compiled, in a very substantial surplus for the system as a whole. While it is hoped this most satisfactory condition will continue, it must be realized that the Company, like all other organizations, is confronted with increasing cost of maetrials and labour.

"A dominant influence on the growth of air traffic was the rapid expansion of the Canadian economy. The rising prosperity of the nation as a whole was keenly reflected in the amount of travel and shipment which took place last year as air transport kept pace with a quickening of business tempo generally."

Cost Of Travel Stabilized

"The gain in air transport popularity can also be attributed to another factor. While the general marked increases, the cost of air travel showed no rise whatsoever during 1951, and has in fact been stabilized at a level not much higher, when compared with other commodity increases, than it was in 1939.

"Demand for space in 1951 was met by concenfrated effort on the part of staff and equipment. During the summer the highest frequency of flights in TCA's history was scheduled. On transcontinental and inter-city routes, 500 additional seats daily were made available, an increase of 10 per cent over the peak scheduling of the year before. Winter schedules, which became effective on November 1, called for a 20 per cent increase in hours flown over the previous winter and, in fact, involved almost as much flying as during the summer. On all services, approximately 14 per cent more ton miles of transportation than in 1950 were placed at the disposal of the public."

A Record For North Stars

"No expansion of the existing fleet of 20 North Stars and 27 DC-3's was made. But at the height of the summer, the North Stars were operated at a utilization rate in excess of 9¾ hours a day, a figure which has not been exceeded by any other carrier with so diversified a route pattern. The fleet as a whole flew more than 24,000,000 revenue miles, an increase of 11% over 1950.

"The outlook for continuing traffic growth argued, however, for future fleet expansion and in 1951 Trans-Canada Air Lines signed a contract for the purchase of five Super Constellation aircraft for delivery in 1953, at which time they will enter overseass service. The Super Constellations were selected after a careful study had been made of current design trends. While based on proven design, they incorporate many advanced features and possess the necessary requisites of speed and range, as well as great load carrying capacity. They will be capable of meeting all competition on the Atlantic route during the next few years and may well prove the ideal link with the development of fully turbine powered aircraft.

"To meet immediate requirements three more North Stars were purchased. Equipped with sleeperette seats, these aircraft will be placed in service early in 1952 on the international routes. They will enable the company to make 20% more seat miles available to the travelling public during the coming year on trans-continental and inter-city services.

"During the year, TCA carried approximately 8,000 immigrants to Canada from the United Kingdom and Europe under an arrangement made with the Dominion Government. Immigrant travellers were accommodated on a "fill-up" basis after normal revenue passenger requirements had been satisfied."

Teachers Federation Asks Federal Aid For Schools

TORONTO, Dec. 31 — (CP) — Federal aid to elementary and secondary schools was asked Saturday by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. The request was one of a number of resolutions passed at the annual three - day convention which closed Saturday.

The teachers said there were grave lacks in educational opportunities available for many children and great differences in salaries paid to teachers. Federal financial aid, such as the $7,000,000 voted this year for universities, might improve the educational picture, federation delegates agreed.

On senior schools—for Grades 7 to 11—the teachers voted opposition to training in a separate building. They also recommended that only fully qualified secondary school teachers should be allowed to teach Grades 9 and 10.

Won't Extend Plan

A scheme operating in Toronto puts Grades 7 and 8 by themselves. Secondary School Superintendent John R. H. Morgan told the teachers Friday that there was no intention of extending the plan to Grades 9 and 10 in Toronto.

A selection or promotion committee was suggested to take the place of the now-abolished "entrance exam" at the end of Grade 8. The committee would guide students to courses best suited for them, and provide parents with information on high school courses.

The federation recommended that its members continue to study educational philosophy.

John T. Stubbs, of Sault Ste. Marie, was elected president of the federation Saturday. He teaches social studies at the Sault technical and commercial school.

French Town Honors Canadian

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER.

MENTON, France, Dec. 31 — (CP). — The United States army pushed through this French Riviera town in 1944, but its inhabitants say now that it was the Canadians who liberated them.

They have placed a plaque beside the door of their city hall honoring the memory of a French-Canadian lieutenant who died leading a reconnaissance patrol of the 1st Canadian Special Battalion, attached to the 1st US Airborne Task Force.

Lieut. Paul Gatien Laporte of St. Michel des Saints, Que., was struck down by German fire on the outskirts of this ancient Mediterranean town, beside the Italian border, September 9, 1944, the day Menton was liberated.

The memory of Laporte, who is buried in Canada, was honored again December 27, when a wreath was placed at the plaque by a Canadian girl who is among a group of United Nations journalists from 17 countries touring the French Riviera as guests of the French Government.

Dorothy Fletcher of Toronto, CBC supervisor of broadcasts from the United Nations in Paris, was escorted to the plaque by Rene Beaudoin, Liberal member of Parliament for the Quebec constituency of Vaudreuil-Soulanges.

Beaudoin is on a brief holiday in France on his way to Ceylon for a general conference of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association.

Beaverbrook Heir

LONDON, Dec. 31 (Reuters) — Mrs. Max Aitken, wife of Lord Beaverbrook's heir, gave birth to a son Saturday, it was announced Sunday. The 41-year-old Aitken, born in Montreal, married Miss Violet de Trafford, daughter of Sir Humphrey de Trafford, in Jamaica last January.

Elected Chairman

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 31 (CP) — Alexander Porter of Niagara Falls, NY, has been elected chairman of the Niagara Falls Bridge Commission. Carl D. Hanniwell of Niagara Falls, Ont., is vice-chairman and C. Ellison Maumeyer of nearby Chippawa secretary-treasurer.

DRIFTING ALONG—Snowplows are clearing up sideroads all across eastern Canada and the United States. Old Man Winter paralyzed transportation in the snow-bound Midwestern states where this snow plow is throwing back the snow to widen the road enough for cars to pass.

Newsprint Experiment

THREE RIVERS, Que., Dec. 31 (CP)—The Quebec government's paper-making school here will start experimenting early in January to find a practical method of making newsprint from sugar cane waste. Used in the experiments will be bagass, a by-product of the Cuban sugar cane.

Your Garden:

Peeking Into the Old Gardener's Mail

By HENRY PREE.

Many letters received by this gardener asking for help in solving problems are of such general interest that it seems a good idea to wrap some of them up in one article.

One reader wants to know whether Paperwhite Narcissus bulbs should be planted in the garden after they have been forced for indoor bloom. The answer is that Paperwhites are just about useless in cold climates, as they are not at all hardy. Since these bulbs grow actively in the winter months, they will bloom only in the South, where there are usually no frosts after the growth is above ground.

• • •

Another reader has a fragrant viburnum which, though it has grown several feet tall during the past two years, has produced only "scentless, colorless, tiny, greenish-white blossoms."

The fragrant Viburnum Carlesi is usually grafted on some other variety of viburnum and my guess is that the desired carlesi part died two winters ago and what this reader now has is growth from the understock. Such growth would have a rather coarse leaf and an uninteresting bloom.

• • •

N. K.'s 30-year-old privet hedge he says, is steadily growing poorer despite regular trimming. He wants to know whether it should be cut back to the ground or taken out altogether.

Assuming that all NK did was to trim the hedge each year, I'd suggest that it be taken out and replaced with young nursery plants. Privet and other deciduous shrubs used for hedges should last a lifetime if one-third of the oldest ones are cut down to the ground each year and new growth kept within bounds by regular trimming. Like other plantings, hedges should be fertilized each spring to keep them thrifty.

• • •

Mrs. J. R. S. wants to know where she can purchase treated paper to wrap about fruit tree trunks to prevent rabbits and mice from nibbling the bark.

Any good building paper such as common tar paper, will protect your trees against damage by mammals.

You will find any weatherproof building paper satisfactory. Wrap and securely tie it about the trunk to a height of 30 or more inches. Burlap or hardware cloth will also do the trick.

• • •

Another reader would like to know what shrub may be cut for forcing flowers indoors in early spring and the best method for doing it. Among shrubs that force easily are Forsythia, Japanese Quince, Flowering Peach, Pussy Willow, Early Bush Honeysuckle (Lonicera fragrantissima) and Star Magnolia. Cut young, vigorous, well-budded growth the desired length, place in a warm temperature and cut off the bottom inch of the stems every four or five days. Daily syringing with warm water speeds up the opening of flower buds.

GARDENING QUESTIONS

Q—Can you give me a list of climbing and spreading vines that will grow fast and cover a wire fence?—H.W.

A—The following plants will do well on a wire fence: Clematis paniculata, Dutchman's Pipe, Silver Lace Vine, Virginia Creeper, Akebia quinata and Climbing roses such as Silver Moon and Dr. Van Fleet.

• • •

Q—Are the colorful potted chrysanthemums now offered by the florists worth keeping for bloom next summer in the garden?—M.E.

A—Yes and no. While it is true that a few varieties of the chrysanthemums offered by the florists are the same as those grown outside, most of them are strictly for forcing and would be useless planted in the garden.

• • •

Q—Our house plants, a jade plant and African violets are infested with something like dabs of cotton. What is it and what should be done to eradicate it?—W.D.

A—My guess is that the citrus mealy bug, which hides under the cottony substance, is sapping the strength of your plants. You can get rid of them by twisting a speck of cotton around a toothpick, dipping it in alcohol, and picking them off one by one. And, spray with a pyrethrum-rotenone solution every two weeks.

FUNNY BUSINESS —By Hershberger

Girls Set For Fast Break As Leap Year Nearly Here

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Take to the woods, men!—1952 is leap year and the girls are all set for a fast break Tuesday morning.

As the traditional open season on the available male is declared by millions of post-25 spinsters, we consulted a man-trapping authority on the rules governing the sport.

Miss Ruth Marr, president of the Bachelor Girls of America, Inc., an organization of around 30,000 manless but hopeful females, has been studying the techniques involved.

1. Meet him, preferably through friends or through organizations. (Pick-ups get you off to a bad start.)

2. Impress him. (Act feminine, flatter him and make a good listener. Tell him he's a fine figure of a man even if he's overweight; admire his voice, even if it's a squeak.)

3. Agree with him on every subject—this will "draw him out". (Tell him he's so-o right and so-o clever, even if you disagree violently. Time enough to tell him off once he's hooked.)

Set The Stage

4. Set the stage. (On a dinner date, persuade him into a fairly inexpensive restaurant which serves excellent food. Or ask him with some other friends to dinner and impress him with what a cook you are, even if you have to hire a caterer to do it.)

5. Baby him. (Act concerned over his job and his problems. Take his health particularly seriously and make a production of worrying about such things as head colds—but stop short of acting proprietary.)

6. Surprise him. (Find out some of his favorite dishes, and then have a dinner party with his favorite pie. But don't get into this routine too often, or he'll just come to your house to eat and never get around to proposing marriage.)

7. Don't talk about yourself, particularly your past. (If he gets inquisitive, say something like, "Oh, you're so much more interesting. Let's talk about you!")

8. Show a violent interest in domesticity. (Talk a lot about loving children. Indicate that you think there's nothing so wonderful and stimulating as making beds and dusting.)

9. Agree with everything he says about his mother and her cooking.

10. Be demure with his parents. (Listen to them, agree with them, keep quiet, smile a lot and try to help his mother with her chores.)

11. Drag a proposal out of him subtly. (Bring the subject around frequently to things you can do together—even if you loathe them—and be so helpless that he'll feel that he has to be around permanently to protect you.)

Miss Marr—who says she's been too busy to practice the matrimony she preaches—has a few warnings for the eager husband-hunter.

"Don't waste time with doctors, lawyers and engineers," she cautioned. "The good ones have been snapped up when they were too young to be wary. Stick to business men."

East German Red Party Recruiting After Purge

By VINCENT BUIST

BERLIN, Dec. 31—(Reuters)—The Eeast German Communist party is again recruiting after a purge which cost thousands of Communists their membership cards.

The purge, which began at the beginning of the year, was the first major attempt to clean up the Socialist Unity party since its birth in 1946, when East German Communists and Social Democrats merged.

The vast, methodical and ruthless examination of the morals, loyalty and Marxist education of 1,600,000 members was an important stage in development towards "the party of the new type"—a party unquestioningly loyal to the Kremlin.

The purge eliminated careerists, opportunists, Titoists (or national Communists), the "morally down-trodden" and the definitely hostile members.

Former Liberals

Previously about one-third of the members had been former Social Democrats with a political creed founded on a Liberal attitude towards problems of individuality and freedom, and who might excusably be lukewarm towards the 100-per-cent pro-Moscow development.

The purge was carried out by 21,000 investigators organized into 4,000 interrogating commissions. Orders from party headquarters were:

"Members must be questioned freely and without force. There must be open, comradely discussion. Screening is not to be done in public."

Typical questions:

"What have you done to learn Marxist teachings?"

"What are your social origins?"

"Give your views on American colonialism in West Germany."

Some members were not expelled but were reduced to candidate members. If they do exceptionally well in the next 12 months, they may qualify for reinstatement.

No exact figures of expulsions have been published, but party officials have often spoken of 50-per-cent dismissals — 160,000 members.

This examination of the rank and file has revealed one important fact. Although its physical power is great, the party's hold on the minds of East Germany's 18,000,000 people is far from firm.

The party propagandists are men and women who subject themselves to a course if ideological training which includes evening study after regular employment hours, as well as full-time schooling lasting months or even years.

Files Divorce Suit

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Dec. 31 (AP)—Actor Stirling Hayden, former Gloucester fisherman and ex-communist, Friday filed suit for divorce from his wife of four years. The rugged actor charged his wife with mental cruelty and said she caused him "humiliation and embarrassment." The Haydens have three children.

A DOG NAMED SPITZIE is held by his master while a Portland, Me., patrolman saws some child-size handcuffs off the pet's paw. Spitzie was found on the street barking his unhappiness. Police believe some child snapped Christmas-gift handcuffs on the dog and was unable to get them off again.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

BUSINESS NORMAL

Management of the Liquor Control Store said that business both Saturday and today was normal, and sales would probably be the same for the holiday period in 1950.

NOMINATION MEETINGS

The last four of the 15 municipalities in Peterborough county are holding their nomination meetings today. They are Ennismore, Asphodel, Douro and Smith ownships. If there is an election in these municipalities it will be Jan. 7.

WINTER RESCUE

Harry Oakman, Peterborough, landed his plane on Chemong Lake Sunday morning to rescue a loon that had been caught by ice north of the causeway. The loon was taken to the open waters of the Otonabee River after the rescue.

VERANDAH ROOF CAVES IN

Residents of the west section of a long row of houses on the south-east corner of King and Rubidge streets, found their verandah roof blocking their front door today. There was a considerable amount of snow on the roof of the west section of the verandah which caved in Sunday evening.

HEAVY GOING FOR SKIERS

The quantity of snow was not good for skiers over the weekend, after all. It was too soft. It was so wet and heavy that the tow was unable to operate at Kemp's Hill on the Warsaw Road. The same conditions existed at Bethany; too wet. Some experts say that the snow is packing and hardening and shaping up for a "good go" today and if the weather turns decidedly colder, conditions will be excellent. The Kemp's Hill tow will operate today, it is expected.

FIRE DAMAGE

A fire, believed started by children playing with matches, caused about $75 damage Sunday afternoon at the home of Vern Marshall, 518 Park Hill Rd. The fire smouldered for some time in the children's upper bedroom and was not discovered until it had done considerable damage to blankets and bedding and had smoked up the upper portion of the house. Firemen used two booster lines to extinguish the blaze.

1951's FIRST YEAR'S BABIES will be celebrating their first birthday Tuesday. Full of life, Margaret Ann Clinton, (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clinton, 39 Hunter St. E., kept the Examiner photographer busy for a half-hour before this picture was taken. She was born at 2.05 a.m. New Year's Day at St. Joseph's hospital. Donald Barry Mullins (right), who was born at 8.55 p.m., shows a loving interest in his dog, Tiny, who is 18 years old. Open Season On Males Starts Jan. 1

Leap Year being just around the corner, it's time for you eligible bachelors to Brasso your cuff-links, have your ties cleaned and sharpen up on how to say "No".

A brisk brushing of suits may also be in order, as well as a clean shirt, shined shoes and newly washed socks. If you're going to tell a girl you can't or you won't marry her, you might just as well be dressed for your funeral.

Special Permission

Right here, for the benefit of any bachelor a little shy on custom and tradition, it should be said that Leap Year is the one year in four during which a woman is formally permitted to propose to a man, thus saving herself a few hundred dollars in gewgaws, perfumes and lacy whatnots.

It is the year during which, without folderol or nonsense, a woman can come directly to the point and say: "Wed me, boy, wed me."

The proposal is not always so blunt, I don't suppose, but that conveys the sense of it.

The man, being the proposee for a change, can refuse in any terms he thinks fit. He can even accept the proposal. (Editor's note: not recommended).

Let's look at an example, a necessarily fictional example of a woman proposing. She and her intended are roughly of an age, both good-looking and possessing similar tastes.

Stage Set

The scene opens in the living-room of the young man's apartment. His parents are hiding behind a closet door wondering if, at last, this is IT! The lights are low, a radio-phonograph plays soft, romantic music, and a borrowed air-conditioner wafts the sent of "He" (A man's perfume; when women smell it, they can't help themselves) in a beeline over the sofa.

On the sofa sit the young man and his young woman. He is playfully nonchalant, gazing at his fingernails, the ceiling, winking at his father, and waiting patiently for the girl to pop the question.

The girl is anything but nonchalant. She nervously touches her necklace, adjusts the hem of her skirt, taps both feet on the floor at once, and blushes from time to time in a maiden-like fashion.

At last she coughs, discreetly, and looks adoringly at the young man. This is where the real action starts.

Young Woman: Ah, George.... uhmmmm.....there's something I've been meaning to say....I mean ask....uh....you for ah....about.....well, for quite a while now. (George keeps his eyes mostly on the carpet.) I've been wanting to....uh....well...what I mean to say is....George.... did you ever think of marriage?

George: (George is speechless; he giggles, blushes and starts to twiddle his thumbs).

Young Woman: George, don't be shy, I want....well....I'd like to tell....I mean ask you....uhmm ....George, would you....could you....marry me?

George's mother (in the closet): That fool girl can't know it's Leap Year. She's gotta root, hog, or die.

George: Give me a moment to think. This has come so suddenly!

Y.W.: (Stricken but noble) Is it that you love another?

George: (blushing again) No.

Y.W.: (Hope eternal) Then you mean....?

George: (still blushing and twiddling all 10 fingers) Yes.

Y.W.: Oh, George!

George: Oh, Y.W.!

George's mother: Oh, heavens! (Before the curtain can fall, the air conditioner gobbles up the whole bottle of "He" and spits it out in a great spray; the murphy bed in the closet falls down, stunning George's mother and father, the automatic record changer starts throwing records across the room, George and Y.W. embrace and George's father shoots himself. Then, the curtain falls, and a good thing.)

Garage Owner Traps Man Looting

Victim of two recent robberies, Arthur Gilders who operates a service station on the Chemong Road has been constantly on the alert for weeks, to prevent a third break-in.

His vigilance paid off early Sunday morning. He surprised Volney Woodcock, 33, 405 Wellington St., looting the refreshment booth at the south end of his garage and held him at gun point until police arrived.

OPP Constables Jim Healey and Doug. Kostka arrested Woodcock and placed him in county jail.

In police court today, he elected summary trial and pleaded not guilty. He was remanded on $1,000 to Jan. 7.

An electric alarm, plus a lucky hunch helped Mr. Gilders catch Woodcock as he was literally ransacking the place. Having emptied a jute bag filled with waste paper, Woodcock was hurriedly stuffing it with cigarettes, chocolate bars, cigars and miscellaneous articles from the shelves when Mr. Gilders arrived.

According to Mr. Gilders, he has never seen anyone as surprised as Woodcock, when Woodcock turned around and found himself looking through the glass door, straight down the barrel of a .32 rifle.

Fired For Help

After warning Woodcock to stay where he was and keep his hands in the air, Mr. Gilders fired his rifle once in the air. Then, seeing that Woodcock was still standing with his arms raised, he fired again.

Marvin Hamilton, 297 Wolsley St., a neighbour of Mr. Gilders, heard the shots and phoned the police. Mr. Gilders praised the quick action of both provincial and city police in answering the alarm. The garage is just outside the city limits, and it was only a matter of a few minutes he said until officers of both forces arrived.

After firing twice in the air to obtain assistance, Mr. Gilders inserted the key in the lock, still keeping his rifle trained on Woodcock, and went inside.

Desperate, Woodcock began inching towards a metal fuel pump at the end of the counter. Mr. Gilders said he saw Woodcock eyeing the metal object just as he appeared about to risk reaching for it and ordered him to stand back.

$100 In Goods

When caught, Woodcock had nearly $100 worth of merchandise in the sack. There were 62 packages of cigarettes, an electric razor valued at $32, a large cigarette roller, a box of cigars, two shirts and two pairs of socks (Christmas presents which Mr. Gilders had left under the counter), a lighter, and a small amount of cash in bills and change.

After his service station was broken into about the first of August, and again three weeks later, Mr. Gilders hooked up an electric alarm system with his home at 266 Wolsley St. about 350 feet away.

Sensed Trouble

"Something just seemed to tell me Saturday night that something was going to happen," he said in explaining how he happened to load his rifle before going to bed, and leave it on a table.

At 3 o'clock the alarm sounded.

"He was really surprised," said Mr. Gilders, when he looked around and saw me behind him with a gun.

The south window of the refreshment booth was forced, when the premises were first entered in August and $60 in cash was taken.

Three weeks later, the north window of the garage was broken, and the entire stock of cigarettes, valued at approximately $170 was cleaned out.

Determined to thwart a third robbery, Mr. Gilders took steps to prevent another break-in, played out the string, by spending "many sleepless night," and Sunday morning his patience was rewarded.

Models Ask Increase

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (CP). — Toronto's artists models have asked for a meeting with the board of directors of the Ontario College of Art in their drive for pay increases of from 50 cents to $1.50 an hour. Mrs. Isobel Lucas, secretary of the local branch of the Models' Guild of Canada, said that principal L. A. C. Panton of the art college had turned down requests for day rates of $2 an hour and night rates of $3 an hour.

O. Montgomery Dies In Kingston

Veteran of two wars and councillor of Chandos council for 14 years, Owen Montgomery, 69, Apsley, died in Kingston Sunday following a short illness.

Mr. Montgomery was born in Middlesex, England, son of the late Charles Montgomery and Louise Talmidge and has lived in the Peterborough district since coming to Canada in 1902. He was a farmer near Clysdale for 25 years and has lived the past four years in Apsley.

A veteran of the South African war Mr. Montgomery also served in the First World War in the 8th Canadian Mounted Rifles. He was a councillor of Chandos for 14 years and served on the Clysdale school board for 12 years. He was a member of St. George's Anglican Church, Apsley and a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

He leaves his wife, Edith Hobbs, one daughter, Mrs. Herman Kidd (Queenie), Lakefield; one son, Hector, Apsley; six sisters, Mrs. May France, Seattle, Washington; Mrs. Wm. Bartlett, Buffalo, NY; Mrs. Grace Schabb, Los Angeles, Calif.; Ruth, Ada and Alice, all of England; and three brothers, Morris, Toronto and Scott and Norman, both of England.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 pm from the Hendren funeral home, Lakefield, to St. George's Anglican Church, Apsley. The Rev. C. A. G. Spence of St. George's Anglican Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Apsley cemetery.

Business Block Fire Biggest News Four Lives Were Lost

By JIM ENGLISH

Peterborough, 1951.

It was a year of tragedy and joy, a year that watched living costs rise to new records as each month passed, and a year that was tainted with the threat of war.

Peterborough felt the twinges of growing pains again, as the post-war boom held good. Building permits for the first quarter of the year totalled $1,094,333.

It wasn't as difficult a year as most people felt. Living standards rose with living costs, and wages were at on unparalleled high. A milkman summed it up in these words: "It isn't as bad as you think. Everybody's got a buck, and if they haven't got it, they can get it. I've seen the time when everybody didn't have a buck, and if they didn't have it, well, they couldn't get it."

A civil defence organization was set up for the city; this was the first sign of war worries. Defence demands made steel hard to get, and the shortage slowed down some construction.

Four Lives Lost In Fire

Three firemen and a volunteer died when the fire-weakened roof of a $300,000 building block collapsed on May 19. Death came to them, tragically, when the fire seemed under control and they were sent into the smouldering ruins to quench the last remains of the fire.

The four who died were Firemen Orville Rome, George Reynolds, Grover Deck, and the volunteer, florist Earl Spenceley.

At 5:30 that morning, City Constable Douglas Farthing saw a window at the rear of the George St. building blow out. Smoke and flames reached up the brick wall from the window.

Constable Farthing roused the tenants in the upstairs of the building after turning in the alarm. Two pumpers and the aerial ladder were the first of the fire equipment on the scene.

By 9:30 am the fire was under control. Thousands of people, attracted by radio reports and the miles-long pall of thick smoke lying over the city, crowded around the fire scene. They were held in check with ropes set up by police.

At 10 am, the roof and parts of the walls collapsed, trapping the four men who died, and three others who escaped.

A horrified city mourned with the four families. Mayor Max Swanston and other men of the city organized a relief fund for the families. By noon of the Monday after the fire, $5,000 had been raised. When the fund was closed, it had reached more than $60,000.

A coroner's jury, called by Ontario chief coroner Smirle Lawson, found no negligence in connection with the fighting of the fire.

42 Fatalities

Fatal accidents on the highways and drownings in district lakes and river accounted for 34 deaths. Half-a-dozen others died in fires throughout the district, and two men were killed in hunting accidents.

Financially, the city was better off than some other Ontario centres, but not to any great degree. For the first time, it was forced to sell its debentures—$413,000 worth—at a price better than three cents below par.

The tax rate was set at 55.5 mills to raise $2,083,912; a higher rate was needed as municipal costs rose with others.

A new city hall was opened, and luckily for the tax rate, most of the cost was borne by the bequest of the late W. G. Morrow, who bequeathed the city roughly half-a-million dollars to build the new city buildings.

In the face of rising costs, county council did some remarkable budgeting and came up with a tax rate 4.2 mills less than the rate in 1950.

The Ontario Court of Appeal upset the early closing bylaw which affected city gasoline stations, declaring it invalid.

On May 25, the last train rolled over the Port Hope-Millbrook line.

CAPT. C. H. ROGERS

Claude H. Rogers Dies Suddenly In Arizona

A director of the Peterborough Canoe Company and a former vice-president, Capt. Claude Henry Rogers died at Phoenix, Arizona, on Sunday, in his 69th year. He had been in ill health for some time and had lived in Phoenix for the past 13 years.

Capt. Rogers was born in Peterborough, son of the late John E. Rogers, founder of the Peterborough Canoe Company, and Mrs. Rogers, and lived in the city until 1938 when he moved to the south-western states for his health. He was educated in Peterborough schools and graduated from the University of Toronto in 1906 in civil engineering. Following his graduation he worked on the Niagara power development and later at survey work at Fort Churchill in the Hudson Bay district. He returned from there on the death of his father to take charge of the canoe factory in this city.

Won Military Cross

Enlisting with the Engineers in the First World War, Capt. Rogers was gassed while serving in France. He was awarded the military Cross. After returning to civilian life his health, as a result of being gassed overseas, was so impaired that he moved to Arizona. While at the Canoe Company he started a subsidiary company, Canadian Ventilating Shades, that later became a separate unit in 1942 under its own management and has grown to an important industry in the city today.

Capt. Rogers was president of the Peterborough Rotary Club in 1926-27, a member of the Peterborough Club and the Peterborough Golf and Country Club and of Corinthian Lodge 101, AF and AM. He was a lifelong member of St. John's Anglican Church.

He leaves his wife, the former Ehrma Wells, and two daughters, Mrs. I. C. D. Sorby (Margaret), of Kingston, and Mrs. S. C. Howard (Beverley) of Peterborough, and two sons, James W., of Edmonton, and David B. Rogers, of this city, and nine grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held in St. John's Anglican Church on Wednesday at 2 pm, and burial will be in Little Lake cemetery at a later date.

Drivers Good, Weekend Stays Quiet

Few Accidents Reported In City And On Highways

Both city and provincial police report a very quiet weekend, with only a few minor accidents, involving property damage to the vehicles involved.

There were no highway injuries in the district.

Of the six accidents on city street, during Saturday and Sunday, only one resulted in serious damage.

Hit Parked Car

An estimated $600 damage resulted when a car driven by Joe Marino, Parkhill Rd., struck a parked car on Aylmer St., belonging to William Gray, RR 3, Peterborough, early Saturday morning.

Marino told police he was driving north on Aylmer St., and met a south-bound car, which crowded him over, just as he was approaching the parked car. He said he saw it too late to avoid a collision.

The Marino car was damaged to the extent of approximately $400. Damage to the Gray car amounted to an estimated $200.

Both drivers involved in an accident at Hunter and Water streets Friday evening told police they did not see the other car in time to avoid an accident.

Driving south on Water St., Robert Woodward, 132 Dufferin St., said he signalled to make a left hand turn to go east on Hunter St.

Arthur Turney, 180 Parkhill Rd., was driving north on Water St., and when his car was about three-quarters of the way across the intersection at Hunter St., the two cars collided.

Each car was damaged to the extent of an estimated $150.

Constable Harold Andrew investigated.

Living Costs For Midgets Zooming Too

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP). — Ever stop to think about the high cost of living for a midget?

A midget eats less, wears less, occupies less space in this world of carefully-apportioned spaces, but it frequently costs him more to maintain himself than it does the average man.

True, a family-man midget who eats at home will spend less on food. But a bachelor midget, like 40-year-old George Day, a native Briton who eats out, always pays for more than he can eat. Too embarrassed to order children's portions, he has the full blue-plate special, eats only half, pays full price.

Day, who stands three feet, seven inches, and weighs 79 pounds, must have all his suits tailor made.

"I never get by for less than $125 or $140 a suit these days," he says. "The tailor and I always have the same argument. I argue that he uses less material—about 2½ yards for me, about 4½ for the normal-sized man — but it never does me any good."

Dresses Like Adult

Because he wants to dress like an adult, not like a child, Day wears custom-made shirts costing between $6 and $10 and custom-made shoes between $18 and $30. He wears boys' socks, boys' underwear, boys' gloves, hats and ties.

Day has to pay full price for cleaning a suit, getting a haircut, travelling on trains, planes or buses. At home, he requires custom-made chairs; children's furniture is too uncomfortable. However, he is comfortable in a normal-sized bed

The so-called little things in life aren't little enough for Day.

He uses ladies' handkerchiefs and a small custom-made razor to shave. Since he can't get custom-made money, he has to use a normal size wallet which bulges out of his small back pocket.

He needs a stool to reach the washstand and a stool for the refrigerator. He has to stretch mightily for a light switch or a coin box in a subway. If there is no one to help him, he has to chin himself to drop a letter into a mail box.

SCIENTIFIC POET

Omar Khayyam, the Persian poet, was famous throughout the East as a mathematician in the 11th century.

IT WAS NO WONDER these one-humped camels looked a bit forlorn at Chicago's Brookfield Zoo recently. The record snowfall which has blanketed the city—some 33.4 inches in December—has made life miserable even for the animals. Chicago's average for the entire winter is 33.2 inches and 47.3 inches have already fallen this season.

Canada's Atomic Work Aiding Entire World

By FRANK CAREY

CHALK RIVER, Dec. 31 (AP) —Canada is moving fast on the highway of atomic progress as it follows "atoms with tail lights".

These atoms include radio-active isotopes "hotter" from a radiation standpoint than those now produced by any other country, as far as is known.

And, scientists of the Dominion's atomic energy project also are turning up information of potential importance to the entire scientific world by studying fundamental atomic "rays" which provide the "tail-lights" on the atoms.

Such activities are made possible by the fact that a device around which Canada's whole program revolves — an atomic "furnace" or reactor—is unique among all known reactors in the world.

World's Champion

It's the world's champion concentrated produce of "neutrons" —invisible atomic bullets which are basic to all nuclear research and development. That is, it can generate more of them in a given time and area than can any other reactor.

Canada is producing enough radioactive isotopes to sell them in Canada and other countries, including the United States.

Dominion scientists contend that their extremely "hot" isotopes—as compared with those of lesser "specific radioactivity"—allow greater ease in accomplishing certain industrial jobs employing isotopes.

They explained this is because certain of their isotopes can be prepared in smaller sizes than isotopes produced in other reactors—and yet the Canadian brands can emit better defined and more intense beams of radiation.

Important Use

This is important, they say, in using such isotopes for detecting minute flaws in industrial equipment, such as castings and other machinery parts and also in overland oil-carrying pipes. Rays from the isotopes, passing through a piece of machinery, record such flaws on X-Ray film.

And they say their ability to make such "smaller and hotter" isotopes offers potentialities for better treatment of deep-seated cancers with radio-active cobalt in the same way that more-expensive radium and a few high-energy X-Ray machines now are used.

Canada's scientists are also employing this radio-active cobalt for such unusual uses as tracing the activities of the "white pine weevil"—a pest which annually costs Canada hundreds of thousands of dollars in timber loss. Tiny quantities of the radio-active material have been placed in some of these beetle-like creatures without killing them, and now they are being traced by Geiger counters as they hibernate beneath the soil. The atomic sleuths hope to learn more about their migratory and reproductive habits.

New Experiments

With radio-active phosphorus, frogs in a Nova Scotia lake have been made radio-active in experiments designed to study the rate of phosphorus uptake from natural foods present in the lake.

Purpose of the study is to seek means of increasing the fish population of Canada's waterways.

In more fundamental atomic research—aimed at helping solve the innermost riddles of nuclear forces—Dominion scientists already have made these contributions to world studies in the field:

They've found a new "mass" (roughly, the weight) for the neutron, a particle so tiny that millions of them could fit on a pinhead.

They've got a new timing on the radio-active "life" of the neutron.

And they've measured radio-active "lifetimes" of various atomic rays down to such levels as one-thousand-millionth of a second.

(The Canadians say that American friends at Oak Ridge, Tenn. in describing measurements of their own, say jokingly, "These are the shortest lifetimes south of the Canadian border.")

In the laboratories of Dr. Andre Cipriani and his staff, continuing studies are made on "radiation hazard control" and on the effects of radiation on living tissue cells.

Bacteria and rats are among their subjects in tests designed to help solve the riddle of "radiation sickness" and possibly aid towards preventing this potential hazard of the atomic world.

Higher Costs Fail To Retard CPR Expansion

By W. A. MATHER

MONTREAL, Dec. 31—In 1951 business activity in Canada continued at a very high level. Developments in international affairs and the necessity for heavy defence production caused some dislocations but employment remained generally at a high level and the volume of both internal and international commerce was maintained at record heights in most fields, W. A. Mather, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company declared in his year-end review.

Canadian railways shared in this activity. However, in the case of the Canadian Pacific Railway, while the estimate of tonnage to be handled during the year, prepared for the information of the Board of Transport Commissioners, was about realized, on the other hand an increase in working expenses, owing to higher wages and costs of material and supplies, together with the introduction of the 40-hour week, resulted in net railway earnings being less than those of 1950 by some $10 million.

In a year of high economic activity, this result must be regarded as extremely disappointing, and it has again been necessary for the railways to make application to the Board of Transport Commissioners for authority to increase their freight rates.

It should perhaps be pointed out that after all the outstanding applications have been granted, the increases in railway charges will have amounted to less than 60 per cent from the levels prevailing before the Second World War. Compared with this, wholesale prices in general are now more than 140 per cent higher than at that time and the increases are most marked in commodities essential to railway operation. Wage rates have risen almost in the same ratio. The total income of the nation, whether measured in production of goods or in money, has increased many fold.

It Takes Money

Without doubt, the great majority of the Canadian people would agree that its railways should have facilities and equipment of the most modern kind to permit the safest, speediest, most efficient and most economical movement of goods and passengers, but this can only be accomplished by the railways being permitted to earn enough to finance the outlay which this program will necessitate.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is now engaged in executing a five-year plan which will involve an investment of $400 million in new motive power, rolling stock, both passenger and freight, and other facilities, and this program is by no means excessive as compared with the needs which are to be anticipated if the nation is to continue its present rate of progress.

Order Freight Cars

To meet the constantly increasing demands of shippers, orders for some 3,575 freight car units were placed for delivery during 1951 and additional orders for 4,250 freight car units have been given for 1952 delivery.

The total capital outlay for new equipment, including locomotives, passenger equipment and freight cars during 1952 will amount to around $60 million.

For the better handling of perishable commodities, Canadian Pacific transportation experts and engineers worked closely with the National Research Council and others interested in the development of a new kind of mechanically refrigerated freight car. Tests are continuing and it is expected that the new equipment will add considerably to the efficient transportation, in many cases over transcontinental distances, of such perishables as fish, meat and fruits.

Winter Cruiser

During 1951 the growth of the Canadian economy was reflected in heavier rail carryings of such commodities as sand, stone, gravel and cement as well as iron and steel products, pulpwood and paper. There was also a subtantial increase in the volume of grain and grain products.

Early in 1951, the 26,300-ton flagship of the Canadian Pacific fleet, the Empress of Scotland, restored the house flag to winter cruises out of New York, making a series of seven cruises to the West Indies and South America. The popular liner gained further distinction in November when Their Royal Highnesses, the Princess Elizabeth and The Duke of Edinburgh, embarked at Conception Bay, Newfoundland, to return to Liverpool after their Canadian tour. This vessel will make four cruises this winter, operating, however, both from Southampton and New York

Lindsay Engineer RetiresFrom CNR After 44 Years

LINDSAY, Dec. 31—More than 44 years of continuous service with the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Railways ended [illegible] 21 when [illegible] arles Golden retired on pension.

Born in Ohio, Mr. Golden started his railway career in Lindsay in 1907 as a fireman. In 1912, he was classed as an engineer, working most of his career out of Lindsay, except for brief stretches of service in Belleville and Hamilton.

For a number of years he was in charge of the weekend passenger train to Haliburton, and later on the diesel electric passenger train from Lindsay to Midland. For the past few months, owing to ill health, he has been employed in yard work in Lindsay.

Only two serious accidents marked his career—one in 1919 at Reaboro and one at Kinmount in 1930. Both times the engines turned over, and he was able to escape serious injury.

A member of Cambridge St. United church and of B of LE 174, IOOF 100, and the Canadian Club, his hobbies are fishing, hunting and gardening.

Cloak-and-Dagger Thriller Behind Canada's Atomic Work

By FRANK CAREY

CHALK RIVER, Dec. 31 (AP) — There's a cloak-and-dagger thriller behind Canada's contribution to atomic-energy development.

It's a yarn that begins with the fall of France in 1940 when two fugitive scientists, aided by a British Earl, fled across the channel to Britain.

They bore with them 165 quarts of "heavy water" virtually the world's entire supply at the time.

Today, at an isolated spot here along the Ottawa river in northeastern Ontario, chapters still are being added to the story as Canada pushes ahead with a "unique" phase of atomic development.

Essentially, it's the story of the first real pay-off on the use of "heavy water" as an aid in the controlled release of atomic energy.

Canada's contribution to atomic energy consists in the development of the world's first known "heavy-water" reactor for the controlled release of such energy on a high-power scale.

Basically, it was an outgrowth of preliminary experiments in England made possible by the precious cargo of "heavy water" secreted into Britain by the fugitives from France.

The "heavy water" is employed to sustain a chain reaction in a pile of uranium. Atomic experts of the United States, where most known reactors employ graphite, have stated that Canada's is the "most advanced" of all in design and performance.

In 1932 it was shown that hydrogen is not a simple element but contains a small amout of an isotope known as "heavy" hydrogen.

Thus, the way was opened to obtaining from ordinary water its "heavy component".

But the method deemed most practical for that purpose in the 1930s—running an electric current through water—was extremely expensive.

Thus, world production of the newly-noted substance centred in Norway where electric power was relatively cheap.

Tremendous Discovery

Meanwhile, in 1939, a tremendous discovery was made—the discovery that the uranium atom could be fissioned or "split," thereby releasing unprecedented energy.

Scientists in various countries immediately saw the possibilities that if a "chain reaction" could be produced in a certain quantity of uranium or similar substance, an explosive outstripping all others would be had. Also, such a system would have great potentialities for peacetime power and other uses.

A prime problem was the selection of some material which would "slow-down" neutrons, or atomic rays, released by the initial splitting of certain uranium atoms. The objective was to "reflect" these neutrons back into further uranium atoms so as to sustain a chain reaction.

One such possible material was "heavy" hydrogen, or its water form—"heavy water".

French and British scientists began experimenting with heavy water.

Britain had only tiny quantities of "heavy water".

But, just before Norway was invaded by the Nazis, the French government purchased from the Norsk Hydro Company approximately 165 quarts, at that time virtually the world's stock.

The French had planned to use it to demonstrate the feasibility of sustaining a chain reaction with the aid of heavy water.

But then, in 1940, France fell to the Germans. Professor F. Joliot, heading France's atomic research, directed two of his key researchers to hustle the heavy water out of France and try to get it to England.

The Earl of Suffolk had already established a reputation in rescuing many people from Nazi-controlled France. So, one night, with Suffolk's help, the scientists escaped from Bordeaux to England with not only the water but a full account of France's preliminary work.

Britain's scientists welcomed the fugitives and their precious cargo, and immediately stepped up their experiments.

Within a year, proof was established that the release of atomic energy with heavy water aid was feasible.

Peterborough's First Big Oil Boom Proved Disappointment 86 Years Ago

With new oil wells coming in every week in Alberta, Peterborough too had its day of oil speculation and boom, and a day when it was ...ed that oil would be disco... ... within the limits of the town. But that was 86 years ago, or in the last months of 1865, some 15 years after the town had been incorporated. At that time oil was the golden wand that was unlocking riches in the United States. Whale oil as an illuminant was fast being driven off the market. The pioneer candle, home made and home greased, was almost a thing of the past in urban localities. For kerosene was the coming light and old fashioned whale oil lamps were being altered to take and consume the new fuel.

Here is how the late Frank H. Dobbin, father of Ross L. Dobbin described the adventure in drilling for oil in Peterborough when writing more than 30 years ago in the Examiner.

Prospecting Was General

This was in 1864-65. More or less talk among the people. Blairton to the east had set a-going a very acceptable iron mine. Down at Marmora and in the adjoining townships gold was being looked for with a prospect of success, though the avails from the rock promised to be slow but sure. In behind what is now Havelock an English company was spending money in a prospect for gold that promised slow, if sure, return. Up on the shore of Bald Lake, an arm of Pigeon Lake and tucked in behind Big Island, (exploited for its timber by the Boyd Comany) a bed of stone, such as s used in the art of lithographic printing, had been discovered. Samples taken out promised to be useful. In Galway the Stricklands and others were digging into beds of what looked like a fairly payable stratum of lead ore. All this promised, at least, that activity might be the rule.

"Money" Was Chary

So Peterborough sat up and took notice. Surely there would be something that Peterborough might claim as its very own. And this longing to get something that might prove profitable was taken up and for a few months the prosecution of the Trent Valley Canal had a well-deserved rest. Some geological sharp had dropped hints that in this neighbourhood oil might be found. He even sent forward a friend who prospected to see if the locality would bite for a scheme and take stock, no, the town would be cautious. The monied man of the burg were almost venturesome in real commercial speculation, but boring into the vitals of the earth on a sort of "hit and miss" proposition did not promise lucrative returns.

Inevitable Public Meeting

Finally a friend of a friend came along and things now looked much better. After some period of canvassing a public meeting was called with the object in view to organize a company "to prosecute operations to ascertain if petroleum existed in paying quantities in this neighbourhood." The meeting discussed the proposition from many angles. Where would they bore? How much would it cost? How far down would the boring have to go to find out if oil could be found? Nothing was known or divulged as to the geological strata underlying the town, of the indications of oil—in fact, no information, only large conjecture. But the meeting wanted to spend some money and took a sporting chance.

A committee was at once appointed to consider and report. Which it did at an adjourned meeting on June 25th, 1865. So far as the financial requirements were concerned, that committee had made up its mind and said that a joint stock company would be about the right thing, so that no one man could get in any deeper than another, and if $4,000 stock were subscribed and of this $2,000 paid up at once it would be enough to begin operations on, which seemed reasonable. For eighty-six years ago two thousand dollars seemed quite a heap of money. Someone expressed the opinion that by the time the hole had gotten down to, say 400 feet, the committee stood a chance of seeing what it was looking for. This statement, though rather cryptic, satisfied for the moment.

Driller Makes Bargain

In town was Mr. John Cragie, Jr. brother-in-law of Jack Stephenson, of canoe invention fame, who had come back from working around the American oil fields, erecting derricks and such appliances. Cragie professed to be able to drill such a hole as would be judicious and to do it "judgematically," as he defined the operation. He offered to put down the four-hundred-foot hole at the rate of four to six feet per day and do it for one thousand dollars. As no one had the slightest idea of the cost of holes, and whether prices were likely to advance or recede and as the well would in any event be an upside-down monument to civic enterprise, a bargain was at once struck.

All of this was extremely edifying and practically clinched the proposition. Everybody was eager to see the thing started. So on formal motion, duly seconded and carried, the Peterborough Petroleum Company, was organized, with a Mr. Hall as president and a Mr. Stewart as secretary, and a sufficiency of trustees from among the qualified stockholders. And by June 30 all this had been settled.

Promoters Paid Up

On August 14 a first call was made on the stockholders, and the required fifty per cent paid in. Having now the sinews of war, it was necessary to find out where the drilling should be located. There was a distinct call from parts of the town so that the patronage of the company should be bestowed here or there, for if the anticipated gusher was struck the value of the property in the immediate neighbourhood would at once increase amazingly. But to drive the machinery of the derrick power would be required. If located away from any of the then visible sources of power a steam plant would have to be made use of. Such would absorb quite a chunk of the capital. This was frowned down on.

Bore On River Bank

In the end it was decided to use water power, and, of course, along the river was decided on. Power close to a spot where the derrick and boring tools could be erected and driven by means of a belt, or rope, from the source of power. So a spot was selected, without any consideration as to the probability of hitting oil, on the edge of the river bank, alongside the Blythe mill, the spot now being covered in the head race of the Auburn power-house, nearly opposite the old ruined foundation, the retaining wall of which still stands on the west side of the road. Foot room for the derrick was scooped out of the bank. The derrick built up, a sort of straddling contrivance, much like those supporting windmills, with a waling-beam at the top, from which the chain to connect with the rope and boring tools was suspended. The whole driven by a sort of crank motion from below. The tools—drinks, easing links, grappling irons, hoisting apparatus, etc.—had been brought in from the oil regions in order to get the right thing. And on September 4th operations commenced.

A $1,000 Hole

Now a hole 400 feet long is something of an orifice, even when homemade. If pulled up and stretched along the sidewalk on the north side of Hunter St. it would extend from George St. to Bethune St. And in money cost about a $1,000 a hole, as holes went at the time. Cheap enough, one would say; not much more than the cost of a line fence at $2.50 per foot.

It has been remarked that Mr. Cragie promised to expedite the hole at the rate of from four to six feet per day. It would have been better for him if he had taken the contract on the cost-plus plan, same as the Hunter street bridge. For by October 5 they had gone down only 52 feet. One could almost measure the depth with an ordinary fishing rod such as used in those days. The stockholders were getting inquisitive, and to fend off public inspection, which had grown apprehensive, the derrick and working floor were both boarded in and operations continued, as one might say, in camera.

Like a "Movie" Resort

It had grown to be a place of public resort. Folks out for a walk in the evening, there being nothing like the "movies" or the Lift Lock to provide entertainment, strolled up to the works to see how the operation was getting on. Fellows would scramble down the bank and get sticks and have them rubbed by the rope as it moved up and down in the hole, and then smell the sticks and carry the stick up the bank to let enquiring friends have a smell also. At that time the nose was relied on more than eyesight to discover if oil were about the premises.

Rumour Was Previous

On October 7 it was rumored in town that oil had been struck. Good. Just like Peterborough everybody said, to do the thing quickly and show the territory that when it came to discovering oil Peterborough was right up in the front row. Critical investigation showed that while there seemed to be indications there was not enough to be conclusive, which was putting it diplomatically. On the strength of the rumor, those interested went out and made another call on the shareholders. By November 8 a depth of 134 feet had been reached. There was no doubt of this, for when the drill was hauled up to be sharpened they tied a piece of red flannel on the rope at the top of the bore, wound the whole thing up on the roller and afterwards stretched it out along the road and took the dimensions. Water brought up from the bottom of the hole developed; it was said by those who drank it had strong saline taste. This, if not oil, was hopeful. Perhaps, as one remarked, they might strike a salt well if not oil. Either would be acceptable. Then again the superintendent averred that at times gas exuded from the bore of the well. Many matches was used in lighting the exudation.

We now come to a critical time in the exploration. By November 23 the drill, at a depth of 200 feet, had reached and passed through about thirty feet of dark red sandstone. This sandstone, when ground to powder by the drill and as suspended in the water that filled the hole, gave a distinct encouraging color to the prospect. And on this basis another slight call was made on the subscribers.

Youth Takes Hand

Shortly after it seemed to a number of choice spirits, of which there were many in the town, that the enterprise deserved encouragement. Among these were Dave Henthorn, and his twin clip Bill. Three-fingered Jack Robinson, than which no finer conspirator could be found when mischief was on the tapis. Bill Wrighton had much of versatility and Dan Haggart knew a thing or two. Besides, standing on the outskirts of such an aggregation, in a sort of engineer and consulting capacity, was Harry Winch. These men and others were fresh from the triumph of devising and putting on public view, the May 24 preceding, the first great and gorgeous kalithumpian aggregation and procession—a whale of a success. Had they not introduced to an astonished and admiring public the Prince of Timbucdahyrrucagruoojilis, Generalissimo of the F.X.S.G.T., etc.? And much other that was rare and uncommon. The foregoing particulars are mentioned to show that there was talent at hand.

Hole Had Been Salted

By December 20 the drill had gone down to the 250-foot level and was getting rather unmanageable. The weight of the wet rope was a hindrance. The following morning the startling intelligence reached the centre of the town that oil had been struck. Real goodness to gracious ail. One who hoofed it from the scene to Hunter St. had brought a sample in an old oyster can. It was critically examined. Almost black, decidedly greasy, had all the attributes of the crudest of crude oil, of stench, filth and the other things that were said to be present in oil when purloined from the entrails of the earth. Citizens stirred the contents of the can with pieces of shingle and speculated. Dan Haggart, who was prowling about, realized the situation. He had invested $20.00 in the venture just in a spirit of comradeship. He found a taker and sold out on the spot, the only man with presence of mind and who grasped opportunity. A rush was made for the scene of action. All streets led to Blythe mill. People who managed to squeeze into the confined space where the drill rope was bobbing up and down presently emerged and went up on the bank and used queer language and to clean the Villaneous mixture off the soles of their boots. The floor was covered and more came up with the motion of the drill rope. Samples were eagerly solicited. No trouble to show goods. Stockholders arrived and congratulated the drillers, postponing a vote of thanks and resolution for another occasion. Peterborough was now on the map. But of the stockholders several were cautious and unconvinced. Of the Doubting Thomas kind. The well would go deeper, to see if the indications would hold out.

Then The Rope Broke

All hands knocked off for Christmas, and during the week following a calamity ensued. The drill stuck in the well. In pulling at it the rope broke. Disappeared down the hole and despite all efforts to fish it up remained. Mr. Cragie said that if proper tools were procured he could recover the rope and drill, but the ensuing call for more money found few takers. During January operations ceased. At a meeting of shareholders a statement was submitted that $2,252 had been expended, which was moderate considering all the excitement and conversation the venture had occasioned. Following, the trustees were instructed to wind up the company, and so mote it be.

The well had been "salted," as it was termed. Beyond the shadow of a doubt and as verified by the admissions of those who had a hand in it. Getting a good sized barrel they had collected a lot of deceased whale oil, paint oil and axle grease, mixed in with flour, a lot of potash, half a pail of lye, some real coal oil, and all the old oil that they could scrap off the shafts in the base of the flour mill. The contributions were as many and varied as the donations to a Sunday School tea meeting. Having pulled up the rope and drill and gotten considerable water out of the hole, the mixture was heated over a fire at the road side in the deep, dark dead of night and poured in, with the tools and rope replaced. The first few strokes of the apparatus brought the concoction surging to the surface and spewed it all over the floor of the derrick. The smell was hideous and the hue awful. As Dave Henthorn said, it banged Bannegar. But it made and gained results, which after all is the chief end of endeavor.

Eventually, the derrick was wrecked and the hole became obscured, no doubt by this time filled in with the tools at the bottom, to be found in ages hence by some enquiring friends, or accidentally stumbled on.

WITH FINGERS STIFFENED BY COLD, workmen for an engineering company ready sticks of dynamite to blast the mountains of ice at the flood-breeding bottleneck where Riviere des Prairies joins Riviere des Mlle Isles and flows into the St. Lawrence near Montreal. Close to 400 boxes of dynamite, each containing 46 pounds, were brought to the flood-stricken area and strategically placed in the ice jam to blast the river free. The blasting failed to move the flooding waters.

US Outlook Said Good For '52 Economy

By JOHN TRACY

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—(CP)—War and taxes influenced United States finance in 1951 but the nation rode out the year on a booming economy.

The country's economic production surpassed all records in dollar value and another booming year was forecast for 1952. The gross national product was running at a record rate and national income stood well above last year's level.

But Wall Street had its ups and downs throughout the year just ending. It began 1951 on the crest of the 1950 year-end rally which continued into February. Near the end of 1951, however, it was declining although prices averaged above late 1950 levels.

False Korean peace reports together with Washington rumors of higher taxes and stiffer controls depressed the market in March. It soared again in May only to topple over for causes variously described as technical reaction and optimistic military reports from Korea.

Broke Sharply

The June recovery ran head-on into Russia's cease-fire proposals and the market broke sharply. When traders figured that peace in Korea could not prevent heavy future expenditures on armaments the market boomed again.

After reaching a 21-year high in mid-October, stocks reflected the thoughts of business men about higher taxes and lower third-quarter earnings and slid downward. There was some recovery in early December, then the market dawdled along toward the year end.

Peak Employment

This year was the first full year of production since the start of the Korean war and it was marked by peak employment levels and record personal earnings.

Some of the trouble spots were a slow-up in buying as people began to save more, higher taxes and lower corporate profits.

The general outlook for 1952 was jobs aplenty, busier factories and high government expenditures on rearmament, but higher taxes and prices.

One notable fact about 1951 was that Americans spent more money on food than ever before. The food bill was expected to add up to about $56,000,000,000, $3,500,000,000 higher than last year. Virtually all of the increase is believed to reflect higher prices than any notable boost in the amount of food consumed.

Income Up

The farmers' share in this spending was expected to amount to a net income of $15,000,000,000 compared with 1950's $12,700,000,000 and the record $17,000,000,000 in 1947.

Here are some of the facts of US economic life in 1951:

Gross national product—running at a rate of $328,000,000,000 compared with 1950's $280,000,000,000.

National income—at a rate of $280,000,000,000 compared with $239,000,000,000.

Employment—a peak of 62,630,000 compared with the previous peak of 62,367,000 in 1950.

Corporate profits after taxes—a rate of $17,000,000,000 compared with the record of $22,800,000,000 last year.

SNOW, SNOW AND MORE SNOW—Mr. and Mrs. Don Brewer are doing what lots of other Chicagoans had to do recently as they get started on the job of excavating their car from mounds of snow. The couple's next worry is where to store the salvaged car once they get it out.

Greater Toronto Area Expected Set Record

TORONTO, Dec. 31 — (CP)— Construction in the Greater Toronto area in 1951 is expected to set a record. Residential building, however, may show a sizeable decrease.

Statistics supplied by MacLean Building Reports Ltd., to the end of November show $190,671,700 worth of construction in Toronto in the first 11 months of this year.

This compares to $166,122,800 for the same period of 1950.

MacLean's show the amount spent on residential building, however, as $85,222,200 in the first 1 months of 1951—$11,478,000 less than in the same period last year. Industrial construction was up $31,133,600 to $46,323,300.

Seek Army Nurse

KINGSTON, Dec. 31 (CP) — Civil and military police Sunday sought a 26-year-old army nurse who had not been seen since she left Kingston military hospital Dec. 24 on Christmas leave. Hospital officials said that Lieut. Louise Sanson of Stanley, NB, intended to spend her leave with an aunt, Mrs. A. A. Savage at Sherbrooke, Que., but did not arrive there.

Fine Father $25

KINGSTON, Dec. 31 (CP) — Max Hodorek, accused of using a red-hot poker to discipline his seven-year-old son, Saturday was fined $25 or one month in jail on a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm. The boy said in court that his father put the poker in his nose for "a couple of minutes" but he did not cry out for fear that the treatment might be repeated.

118 Transfusions

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (CP) — Thanks to 118 pints of blood—a record in transfusions for Chorley Military Hospital — Pte. George McIntosh of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps is facing another new year. He was brought here from Camp Borden early this month with a large stomach ulcer.

Subway Delayed

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (CP) — An uncertain steel supply may force postponement of the opening of Toronto's subway, scheduled for Jan. 1, 1954, W. E. P. Duncan, Toronto Transportation Commission Operations manager, said Sunday in a statement.

Fails To Save Two In Fire

ST. MARGUERITE STATIONS, Que., Dec. 31 (CP).—Despite the frantic rescue efforts of a young Montrealer, two persons died and three others of a skiing party were injured when fire swept through a two-storey wooden building Saturday.

The heroic attempt of Jack Shackleton of Montreal almost cost him his life. Badly burned, he tried to fight his way back into the flaming house and finally had to be knocked out by a neighbor.

Dead are Ann Hryciw, 22, of Montreal.

Joan Warner, 20, Montreal.

Injured, also from Montreal were Shackleton, 29; June Redwood, 19, and Barbara Dendy, 19.

The three injured were taken to hospital, Shackleton suffering from serious burns and Misses Redwood and Dendy from minor burns.

The fire is believed to have been caused by the explosion of an oil stove. Oil splattered the walls and the fire quickly raced through the building.

MR. AND MRS. C. G. MACKENZIE DICKSON, following their wedding, which took place Saturday in St. Andrew's United Church. The bride, the former Mary Jane Collins, is the daughter of the late Frederick H. Collins and Mrs. Collins, and the groom is the son of the late W. Parker Dickson and Mrs. Dickson, Montreal.

Mary Jane Collins Weds In Grandmother's Gown

A very lovely wedding was that of Miss Mary Jane Collins, daughter of the late Frederick H. Collins and Mrs. Collins of Peterborough, to Mr. Charles Gordon MacKenzie Dickson in St. Andrew's United Church on Saturday afternoon at four thirty o'clock. The groom is the son of the late W. Parker Dickson and Mrs. Dickson of Montreal.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. James F. Collins, and she wore the gown of her grandmother, the late Mrs. Charles W. Leeming of Brantford and Chicago, which was fashioned of heavy ivory silk with a tight fitting bodice with leg-o-mutton sleeves, shirred from the elbow to the wrist, and finished with rosepoint lace, and with a bertha collar edged with the same lace. Her veil was of ivory net caught to a headdress of rosepoint lace and she carried a cascade of gardenias.

Attendants were her sister Mrs. Derek Smith, matron of honor, Miss Peggy Brown, and Miss Anne Hatton, bridesmaids, and her niece Allison Smith, flower girl. They were frocked in very full floor-length taffeta gowns with short lace capes. The matron of honor wore gold with gold mesh mitts and cap, the bridesmaids irridescent midnight blue taffeta and matching lace capes with silver mesh mitts and coronets and the flower girl was in gold taffeta with a net overskirt and a pleated net coronet. Mrs. Smith carried an old fashioned colonial nosegay of talisman roses, Miss Brown and Miss Hatton and Miss Smith each had nosegays of multi-colored flowers.

Mr. Andrew D. Harris of Lakefield was the groomsman. Ushers were David Smith of St. Lambert, Edgar Moore of Lakefield, Derek Smith of Barrie and Robin Collins, brother of the bride.

The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Henry Cotton and the wedding music was played by organist Mr. Harry Northrop. During the signing of the register Mr. Northrop played "Where'er you walk" by Handel.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 194 McDonnel St. Mrs. Collins was wearing a floor length gown of black lace over white satin with a white feather hat and she had a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother assisted her to receive, gowned in silver and bronze brocade with a dusty pink petal hat and wearing a corsage of creamy pink carnations.

Leaving afterward for a honeymoon in the Laurentians the bride was wearing a red and green plaid suit with a short green coat and green hat and her corsage was of sweetheart garnet roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickson will live in Ormstown, Quebec.

Men Shoppers Cause Stampede

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (CP)—Shopgirls at a department store which held a two-hour "men only" sale of nylons don't want to go through the same experience again.

Trying an experiment, the store opened for the sale of nylons to men at 5.30 pm. For two hours there was pandemonium.

The queue outside the store stretched three and four deep for more than 30 yards.

Girls and showcases were pushed back some 15 feet. Men jumped the counters, shopgirls fainted and police were called to restore order.

Andrus-Blake Wedding In Campbellford Church

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 31 — (ENS)—The marriage took place in the Campbellford Baptist Church on Saturday morning of Harriet Blake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blake of Campbellford, to Harold Raymond Andrus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Andrus of Carrying Place. The Rev. D. M. Smith officiated, assisted by H. S. Staples.

The church was decorated with gold and mauve 'mums, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Bruce Barnum. During the signing of the register, Mrs. H. S. Staples sang "Because."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of navy blue crepe with midnight blue accessories. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Bridesmaid was Miss Florence Free. She was frocked in navy blue taffeta with rose accessories, and wore a corsage of red roses. The best man was Earle Rowe, and Robert Andrus acted as usher.

A reception was held at the Trent House, where 25 guests enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner. The bride's mother received, wearing a gown of forest green crepe with a hat of green fur felt. She wore a bouquet of orchids. The groom's mother also received, and wore a navy blue crepe gown with a black felt hat. She wore a bouquet of orchids.

The bride and groom later left for points unknown, and for travelling the bride wore a dress of midnight blue with black accessories. On their return the couple will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Hendricks and Tommy of Portage-du-Fort, PQ; Miss Marilyn Andrews and Mr. Donald and Paul Andrus, all of Carrying Place.

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD RAYMOND ANDRUS are pictured after their marriage in Campbellford Baptist Church on Saturday morning. The bride, the former Harriet Blake, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blake of Campbellford and the groom is Harold Raymond Andrus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Andrus of Carrying Place. They will live in Belleville.

Retiring Age For Women Charged Unfair

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (CP). — Why are women retired at 60 or 62 when men in the same firm work until they are 65 or 70? Why, when a woman over 40 loses her job, has she so much difficulty getting established elsewhere?

The Toronto Local Council of Women intends to find the answer and do something to change this situation.

The Council's decision to wage a publicity campaign to make employers aware of the contribution an older woman can make to a field of work was based on a report by its Trades and Professions Committee.

This committee, headed by Jane Little, is made up of key women in the major occupations for women. It recently made a survey of conditions among older working women.

It found that school teachers and business women were the hardest-hit groups of older women in employment.

The Toronto Board of Education, Miss Little said, requires that a woman give up her position at 62, while a man may continue until he is 65.

Besides losing three years' work this often forces a woman to go out of the city to a school where no such ruling exists in order to make up the three years and fulfill the pension requirement of service.

Hastings Women Re-Elect Mrs. Dodd

HASTINGS, Dec. 31 —(ENS)— Mrs. C. Dodd opened her home for the meeting of St. Andrew's WMS. The scripture reading and devotions were taken by Mrs. A. Sherwen, Mrs. Whitred, Mrs. Wm. Richardson, Mrs. Rita Johnston and Mrs. Scott Fife.

Treasurer's report showed a successful year, the allocation was met and a nice sum above the set allocation raised.

Mrs. Scott Fife was chairman for the election of officers. The president Mrs. C. Dodd was re-elected. Mrs. Dodd thanked all the members for their support in the past year and asked that they give the same support in the new year.

Vice president, Mrs. Wm. Richardson; secretary, Mrs. J. C. Taylor; treasurer, Mrs. A. Sherwin; Home Helpers and supply secretary, Mrs. John McMillan; glad tidings, Mrs. Wm. Whitred; pianist, Mrs. H. B. Wilson; assistant pianist, Mrs. Rita Johnston; current events, Mrs. Scott Fife.

A social hour was enjoyed. A gaily decorated table was laden with refreshments and gifts were distributed. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Dodd by Mrs Fife for her hospitality.

Shower Is Given Norwood Bride

NORWOOD, Dec. 31 (ENS).— Mrs. Ross Althouse, Misses Jean and Ruth Baskin were joint hostesses on Thursday for a shower in honor of a recent bride Mrs. Terrance Moore (nee Sylvia Ferguson), at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Baskin.

The evening was spent in contests, winners being Helen Scott, Mrs. Ross Althouse and Mrs. Donald Telford.

The bride was seated at a lace covered table with pink and white streamers falling from the ceiling, where she opened the gifts. Mrs. Moore thanked all for their gifts and for those who had made the evening a success.

Those present were: Mrs. John Baskin, Mrs. Colin Althouse, Mrs Donald Telford, Mrs. Jack Hyslop, Mrs. Ross Althouse, Mrs. Dean Kelly, Mrs. Gordon Henry, Mrs. Charles Rose, Mrs. Darwin Moore, Mrs. Andrew Wrightly, Mrs. Terrance Moore, Misses Jean and Ruth Baskin, Helen and Viona Scott, Elsie Clements and Hazel Kelly.

Those sending gifts but unable to be present: Mrs. Thomas Lumsden, Mrs. O. R. Edwards, Mrs. Cecil Cuthbertson and Miss Barbara Davey.

Lunch was served by the hostesses.

British Royalty Listed Among 10 Best Dressed

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 — The Duchess of Windsor's Royal in-laws, Princess Margaret and the Duchess of Kent, are threatening her supremacy in the fashion realm, the official 1951 best dressed tally revealed today.

The New York Dress Institute's anhual poll of 500 fashion designers, style authorities, editors, and socialites gives both members of the British Royal family top honors for the first time; the Duchess of Windsor has consistently led the voting for 10 years.

A count of the written ballots gives the world's top style honors this year to:

The Duchess of Windsor (New York and Paris); Mrs. William Paley (New York); Mme. Louis Arpels (Paris and New York); Mrs. Byron Foy (New York); Irene Dunne (Hollywood); Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr. (New York and Washington); Marlene Dietrich (New York and Hollywood); The Duchess of Kent (London); Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt (New York); Mrs. D MacArthur (New York); Mrs. George McGhee (Washington, wife of Assistant Secretary of State); Mrs. Henry Ford II (Detroit); Princess Margaret (London); Countess Uberto Corti (Rome).

Newcomers to the list beside the British royalties, include Mrs. MacArthur; Mrs. McGhee, pretty mother of five children; Irene Dunne and Marlene Dietrich were frequent runners-up but never before among the top selectees, and Countess Uberto Corti, young leader of Roman society.

Feminine Washington figured prominently in the voting, a Dress Institute spokesman said. Among them: Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, Mrs. Alben Barclay, Mrs. Joseph Davies, Mme. Henri Bonnet (wife of the French Ambassador), and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney.

Stage, television and Hollywood personalities who reached high in the poll though not to top listing, were: Mary Martin, Ann Sheridan, Jinx Falkenburg McCrary, Maggi McNellis (Mrs. Clyde Newhouse); Mrs. Leland Hayward, Faye Emerson, Loretta Young, Anita Colby, Joan Crawford, Rosalind Russell, Ginger Rogers, Gertrude Lawrence, Lynn Fontainne, Sally de Marco and Mrs. Arthur Hornblow Jr.

International society, although contributing fewer than normal names to the final list this year, was well represented in the balloting, the Dress Institute said. Strong vote-getters included: Mrs. Winston Guest and Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith; young Palm Beach beauties; Mrs. Millicent Rogers and Mrs. Harrison Williams, both for many years among the top 10, but now living retired lives; Mrs. S. I. Newhouse, wife of the newspaper publisher; Mrs. Philip Isles, Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Mrs. Harold Talbott, Mrs. Andre Embiricos, Mrs. Mary Sinclair, Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, Mrs. Carroll Carstairs, and her sister Mrs. Wolcott Blair, and Mrs. de Witt Wallace, all of New York; Mrs. Morton Lee and Mrs. James Bush of St. Louis, Mrs. James Henry Calvert, San Antonio; Mrs. Morris Bush of Birmingham.

Lady Rothermere, London, Baroness Frederic de Cabrol and Mme. Lopex-Willshaw of Paris, Mrs. Norman Winston of New York and Paris, Mrs. Byron Tosi, Boston; Mrs. Frank McKinney, Indianapolis; Mrs. Chad Nelms, Houston; Mrs. Charles de Brettville, San Francisco; Mrs. Edgar Scott, Mrs. Thompson Biddle and Mrs. Lyddon Pennock of Philadelphia; Mrs. David Peck, II, Chicago; Oveta Culp Hobby of Houston (former head of the WAC); Mrs. Paul Mellon of Sewickley, Pa.; Mrs. Jaine del Amo, Madrid, Spain, and Countess Sandra Spolletti of Rome and New York.

Happy New Year

DOROTHY DIX

Role Of Stepmother Found Most Difficult One To Fill

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 26, wanting to live again. Two years ago I married a man who has three children. Their mother left him when he was in the army. I have cared for the children as best I could but they continually compare me to their mother. I've tried to teach them manners and help with their schoolwork but they resist every attempt I make to improve them. This month they came home with six F's among them. The 8-year-old girl strikes at me when I try to make her mind. I love their father very much but these youngsters have men down, and I'm afraid I can't go on much longer. What can I do?

M. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A girl who marries a widower and tries to mother his orphaned children has a difficult job, but the stepmother of youngsters whose own mother is still very much around is confronted with an almost impossible task. A woman who has failed in her job of wife, and mother is very reluctant to see another woman step into her shoes and try to make a success of the job. Even though she no longer wants her husband or children, wife No. 1 will do everything in her power to disrupt the new household her successor tries to establish. Visits with her children are devoted almost entirely to undermining the authority of the stepmother. What chance has a second wife against odds like this?

Make Husband Help

The only hope you have for maintaining a half-way successful household is to have your husband exercise some authority over his own children, which apparently he does not do at present. The youngsters, of course, are in a difficult position themselves, as are all children of broken marriages. However, since the first marriage was dissolved and a second one contracted, every effort should be made by your husband to make some success of his second matrimonial venture. The children are bound to have divided loyalties, and it is their father's duty to see that some measure of unity is nevertheless brought into the household.

Your problem is the rule—rather than the exception—in any case where a girl marries a divorced man with children; it is one reason why I so vehemently caution against these unions. At best, the situation settles down to a state of armed truce; nothing better can be hoped for.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently my niece married and I gave her a sum of money as a gift. In some manner, she misread the figure on the check for half the amount I gave her, and told her mother and sister she had received the lesser amount. Now they are all, in common parlance "mad at me". I have always been as generous as my means would allow, and they hardly ever remember me with a birthday card.

J. E. F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your relatives are certainly mercenary to take so petty an attitude over your gift. Even if you had given a smaller amount than your niece actually received, there is no excuse for her family's conduct. Can't you set them straight on the amount of your gift? In any event, since your kindness has been so ungraciously received, you'd be foolish to continue your generosity.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a working girl of 20, and very interested in a young man whom I only see in church on Sunday. What can I do to meet him?

MARILYN

ANSWER: Why not scout among your friends and see if anyone who knows this young man could arrange a meeting for you? Perhaps he is active in church affairs. A dance, play or bazaar will provide a quite adequate introduction.

By becoming so much interested in a man you don't know, however, you are creating a romantic illusion that could prove to be a great disappointment.

CLOTHES PRETTIER

At ease clothes are prettier than ever, making home life even sweeter! Huge marabou cuffs that extend from elbow to wrist add charm to an otherwise quite simple robe of sheer wool. Robe comes in pastel colors, and has a chiffon lining. Tiny stand-up collar, full skirt and self tie belt are other details.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Lessons In Cooking Meat Start With Roast Of Pork

A rash of resolutions broke out in this house last night. Pete vowed he would study every night instead of cramming on the weekends. Marianne resolved she would learn to cook meat—after overbaking some smoked sausages I had paid $1.60 for. If I had been cross I think she could have stood it. But I grinned and ate bravely on, she said—"As if I were a child." I was surprised at this little show of spirited resentment.

So I resolved to leave the cooking of meat to her, and laying my plans for these lessons with that in mind I fixed on this tentative system: Let her start with something glamorous like a roast, and when the next cooking lesson comes up teach her how to make low-cost meat into a high-class dish.

How would you like to go along with us on these lessons? How would you like to start the new year with a course in meat cooking—for those who are not sure or who do not know already?

I'll see what response I get from you on this, but meanwhile will carry on. Marianne loves roast pork so we had.

Roast Loin of Pork

(Thank goodness it's cheaper too! You know—it's amazing how fond I've become of pork myself—since the price came down!)

If you take the meat directly from the refrigerator these are the roasting times: 3 lb. roast 35 minutes to pound; 6 pound roast 40 minutes to pound. Preheat oven to 325 deg. Fahr. Do not increase heat; do not add water; do not cover; do not baste. Dredge all surfaces with salt and paprika and pepper if desired, and roast fat side up.

Breaded Pork Chops

Dip chops in beaten egg mixed with a little milk. Let drain then cover with sifted dry breadcrumbs. Cook in shallow or deep fat until done through or bake at 325 deg. Fahr. These breading instructions will do for veal and lamb chops too.

Pork Chop and Potato Casserole.

A great favourite with our friends the Maxwells.

Eight small potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 cups whole or skim milk, 8 ½ or ¾ inch pork chops. Wash and pare potatoes and slice thin as for scalloped potatoes. Place layer of potatoes in buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour and dot with butter or not as you wish. Repeat until all potatoes are used. Pour the milk down the side of the dish to prevent washing salt away. Place pork chops on top. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. until potatoes are tender—about 1½ hours. A slice of unpared apple may be placed on top of each chop 15 minutes before baking time is finished.

I wish you the best of health and happiness and cooking in the new year. I hope that at your parties tonight the food is beautiful, the driving safe, and that friendships are strengthened.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

A CHARMER!

A charmer is a short-skirted evening dress of gray nylon net over white. The deep-necklined bodice has a wide fichu that forms sleeves and is gathered into a cluster of white pique, rhinestone-spattered flowers. Similar flowers, small and large, are scattered over the bodice and the full, stiffened skirt.

First Woman In Germany Heading Party

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BONN, Germany, Dec. 31 (AP). — A plump, motherly - looking spinster, the first woman to head a political party in Germany, is a front-rank leader in the fight against rearming Western Germany to share in Europe's defence.

Helene Wessel, 53, brunette and bespectacled, heads the Catholic Centrist party. It has nine seats of 410 in the West German parliament.

Frau Wessel (women in public posts in Germany usually are called Mrs., whether married or not) was formerly a social-welfare worker.

She said in an interview that she believes "a state must have power and it could have an army," but she doesn't want any soldiers for the West German state.

A Catholic and non-Communist, Frau Wessel feels that 18,000,000 Germans in Soviet-occupied East Germany are held as "hostages" by the Russians in the cold war.

Keep Door Open

She and Dr. Gustav Heinemann, former minister of interior in the West German government, are leaders of an organization called the "Emergency League for Saving the Peace in Europe."

Frau Wessel says she is for "keeping the door to the East open" for continued negotiations with the Russian-zone Communist rulers for unifying the country.

"I am afraid that the rearming of West Germany would close our doors to the East," she says. "Worse, I fear that rearming would provoke the Russians to such an extent that a Third World War should be inevitable. We Germans have suffered enough. We don't want to be a battlefield again."

But she concedes that "if the Kremlin want to start a war it probably won't even attempt to produce a pretext."

Fashion Flashes

Much more formality than has been seen in many seasons seems to dominate new resort fashions. A typical ensemble includes a princess coat of heavy silk shantung in gray with a matching dress trimmed with gray lace over pink satin.

✧ ✧ ✧

Long absent from the Winter scene, the muff is staging a nice come-back, perhaps because of the popularity of the all-fabric coat. Anyway, muffs—in the inexpensive, middle, and luxury brackets—are all moving well, say the stores. A beauty is a long, narrowing muff of mink with little cuffs finishing the ends.

✧ ✧ ✧

A nice softener for a silk or velvet theatre suit fashioned on simple lines is a jabot of nylon tulle, in a wide butterfly shape, sprinkled with rhinestones or sequins.

✧ ✧ ✧

Of course there is plenty of color in the new resort collections, but black is a big favorite. A charming evening dress has a short-sleeved, deep V-necked bodice of black net with white lace overlaid in a cross-bar effect—the lace worked into points below the waistline. The lace is spattered with tiny rhinestones. The skirt is of black net, short and billowy.

✧ ✧ ✧

Good for all-day wear is a dress of wool in a tiny checked pattern—in black, blue, yellow and pink—which gives a pretty, colorful effect. Dress fastens to below the waist with jeweled buttons, is slim of line, has hidden pockets in the slightly peg-top skirt, and is a budget beauty.

6—In Memoriam

CALLADINE—In memory of dear father, who passed away January 1st, 1951.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Pat and Rane.

CALLADINE—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Samuel Calladine who passed away January 1, 1951.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Sadly missed by wife Madge, Sam and grandchildren.

CHIMENTI — In loving memory of dear father, Peter Chimenti, who passed away January 1, 1951.
One year has passed dear father
Since you were called away
How well do I remember
That sad and weary day
You suffered much, you murmured not.
We watched you day by day.
We cried and prayed that your dear life
Would not be taken away.
—Ever remembered by daughter Virginia and family.

CHIMENTI — In loving memory of dear husband, Peter Chimenti, who passed away January 1, 1951.
What would I give his hand to clasp,
His patient face to see,
To hear his voice to see his smile
As in the days I used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife
And clasp each other's hand once more
In Heaven that happy life.
—Ever remembered by loving wife.

CRAWFORD—In loving memory of a dear brother and son who passed away January 1st, 1947.
Five years have passed since that sad day,
When our dear Jack was called away.
We miss him just as much as in the hour he passed away.
—Sadly missed and remembered by mother, dad, Harold, Roy, Orland, Don and sister June.

FALLIS—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, William Herbert Fallis, who passed away three years ago today, December 31, 1948.
We lost a husband and dad with a heart of gold,
Who was more to us than a wealth untold
Without a farewell he fell asleep
With only happy memories for us to keep.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife Isabel, son, and daughters and grandchildren.

HARTWICK—In loving memory of Mrs. Sarah Hartwick, who passed away, December 30, 1950.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by husband and family.

HARTWICK— In memory of a dear daughter, Mrs. Wm. Hartwick, who passed away one year ago today.
O, Happy hours, we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by mother and dad.

HARTWICK—In loving memory of a dear sister, Mrs. William Hartwick, who passed away Dec. 31, 1950.
You are not forgotten, sister,
Nor ever will you be
As long as life and memory lasts
We will remember thee.
—Ever remembered by Amelia.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

6—In Memoriam

MARSHALL—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Anetta Marshall, who passed away one year ago on January 1st, 1951.
Tho here on earth we shall not meet
Again to hold communion sweet,
We hope to meet on that blest shore
Where parting words are heard no more.
—Always remembered by her daughters Violet, Florence and Edith and son Alfred.

SMITH—In loving memory of George H. Smith who passed away two years ago January 1st, 1950.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Ever lovingly remembered by wife Helen and daughters Marjorie, Dorothy, Linda, Sharon and son Grant.

7—Cards of Thanks

Mr. Galvin Dunford wishes at this time to sincerely thank all kind friends and neighbors, the staff and nurses of Peterborough Civic Hospital, the sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, also Mr. K. Stewart, Rev. R. McNaught, attending doctors for the kind attention shown during the illness and death of a loving wife.

Mrs. R. B. Lobb wishes to thank nurses of Civic Hospital, attending doctors, Rev. Mr. Yarr, the two gentlemen from Peterborough that did so much for me at time of accident, all kind friends and neighbors and societies who sent cards, letters, candies, fruit and flowers during my stay in hospital.—Mrs. R. B. Lobb.

Mr. Frank Merrett wishes to extend thanks to all her friends who so kindly remembered him while he was in St. Joseph's hospital during his recent illness, and to the attending doctors, Mother Superior, and the nurses for the wonderful care which was given him during his stay there.

Mrs. Post and Betty wish to thank relatives, friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses and floral tributes during their recent sad bereavement. Special thanks to attending doctor, Canadian Legion 389, Bruce Curtis, Rev. R. G. Newman and Rev. R. D. Duncanson.

US Navy To Have New Hydrogen Gun

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 31 (AP)—The United States navy scon will have a hydrogen gun—not an H-bomb, but something that will shoot bullets at fantastic speeds.

The gun will give bullets a speed of around four miles a second or perhaps faster. That is about seven times as fast as the average rifle bullet.

Reports Saturday to the American Physical Society at a group of researchers from the naval ordnance test station at Inyokern, Calif., told of the gun.

British Private Receives VC

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 31 (AP)—A six-foot, six-inch Briton, Pte. William Speakman, Sunday received the second Victoria Cross to be awarded in Korea.

Maj.-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commander of the 1st Commonwealth division, pinned the ribbon, symbol of the Commonwealth's highest decoration for gallantry, on Speakman's chest.

Early in November, Speakman led a series of suicidal grenade charges against withering enemy machine-gun fire. He continued to lead the attacks even after he was wounded.

Canada Praised For Dropping Controls

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP) — The New York Times says today that Canada's abolition of foreign-exchange controls is a triumph based on "a courage and integrity that are all too rare."

The Times editorially reviews the basis for Canada's action two weeks ago in dropping the war-born controls, which were continued after the war to conserve dollar funds.

"What makes the contribution of Canada significant is that the Dominion occupies no such position of pre-eminence in the field of production as we do," the Times says.

"Canada's ability to throw away the crutches of exchange control is not therefore, a triumph of sheer industrial power.

"It is a triumph for a fiscal and monetary program which has been based, not on political expediency and compromise, but on a courage and integrity that are all too rare in modern governments," the Times says.

All-American Look Keynote For 1952 Beauty

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 31 (AP)—At the stroke of midnight, it's open season, girls. Another leap year will be here and it's legal to trap a man.

Of course, getting the fellow to yes is another matter. For advice on this subject I went to William Tuttle, chief of makeup at MGM studios. He says there's no reason why any girl can't look like a movie queen. Well, almost like one, anyway.

"Any girl ought to be able to land a man next year—if she pays some attention to her appearance," he remarked.

The keynote of beauty in 1952, he added, will be the all-American look. He cited such examples as Debbie Reynolds, June Allyson and Esther Williams.

"A man may be attracted by a vamp with loads of makeup," Tuttle observed. "But the girl he wants to marry is the typical American girl — well-groomed, well-scrubbed and natural. Simplicity is the key-note."

No Big Bills

A man is not eager a marry a gal who is going to run up heavy bills at the beauty parlor. He advises women to stick to the short haircut.

The makeup expert commented that the important element in snagging a male is the face. "After all," he remarked, "the face is the means of communication among human beings. A man wants to marry a face he will be able to live with for years to come."

"A girl can change her whole appearance by the use of two small instruments—lipstick and eyebrow pencil," he said. "If she doesn't have an eyebrow pencil, even a soft lead pencil will do."

Couple Married 50 Years Celebrate New Year's Day

At one Peterborough home New Year's Day will be a double celebration. The incoming year will be suitably welcomed, of course, but that is not the main event: it also happens to be the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas I. Hill, 97 Robinson St.

Neither Mr. and Mrs. Hill was born in Peterborough. They came here in 1910, but both of them have long since adopted this city as their home.

"We've lived here in Ashburnham since we came 41 years ago," sys Mrs. Hill, a motherly-looking woman who will be 70 next July. "We think it's the best place anywhere."

"It certainly is," agrees 75-year-old Mr. Hill, "the only trouble is the hills seem to get me now. I can't seem to climb them anymore."

Retired Three Years

That is the clue to the fact that Mr. Hill is no longer in good health. He retired from his trade as a shoe repairer three years ago. The first seven weeks of his enforced retirement were spent in hospital.

"I pushed myself too hard when I was working, I guess," says Mr. Hill.

The upshot of his illness was that he has not been able to do a lick of work since. At one time his favorite hobby was gardening, but he has had to give that up. Even the constitutional walks his only exercise now are often cut short by the hills of Ashburnham.

Before the excitement of Christmas day, Mr. Hill had to spend the day in bed to save up his strength. And when the Examiner visited the couple this week Mrs. Hill was teasing her husband that he would probably have to rest up again before the double celebration on New Year's Day.

Mrs. Hill retains good health and divides the housework with her daughter Catherine.

She has already baked the multi-layer anniversary cake. And the couple are looking forward to having their family around them for a happy, but necessarily quiet time.

Also living at home—besides their daughter Catherine—are two sons: Bill and John. A married daughter, Mrs. Samuel McIlroy (Mabel), lives in Toronto.

Taught Sunday School

For at least 25 years Mrs. Hill had a Sunday school class at Mark Street United Church. Her daughter Catherine is now carrying on the family tradition.

At present Mrs. Hill finds her hands pretty full looking after her husband. Not that she begrudges the time.

"He's the best patient I ever had," she says.

Mr. Hill probably rates as one of the top sport-by-radio fans in Peterborough. He listens to hockey and baseball games and is willing to develop the subject without any preliminary conversation.

Toronto is a favorite sporting town with him, but he also has a soft spot in his heart for Boston because the Hills once lived in nearby Concord, Mass.

Born In Hamilton

He was born in Hamilton, son of Thomas Hill and Catherine Arthurs. Nine years after marrying Mrs. Hill, the former Hannah Lougheed of Thornbury, Ont., Mr. Hill moved to Peterborough with his wife.

Most of his time here he was in the horse-collar business. But when the demand for horse collars fell away he switched to shoe repairing. For the last 15 years he had a shop at 51 Hunter St.

Three years ago he was forced to retire.

Anyway, on Tuesday there will be a double greeting to the Hills from their friends and kinfolk: "Happy New Year," and the less reverent, but equally warmhearted: "Congratulations—the first 50 years are the hardest."

Price Setting Freedom New Era For Retail Merchant

OTTAWA, Dec. 31—(CP)—The man behind the retail counter now has full freedom in setting prices for the customer.

It is against the law for minimum prices to be dictated to him otherwise than by the law of consumer demand.

Parliament's action Saturday in giving Royal assent to the government's anti-price-fix bill means that each handler, down the line from the manufacturer to the final buyer, may have his own prices independently on each article he sells.

The practice of some manufacturers or immediate dealers setting prices for the retail trade on a variety of articles is outlawed. The legislation specifies particularly that sellers refusing to meet set price levels are not to be shut off from supplies.

The penalties for violation range up to two years' imprisonment for individuals and to $25,000 in cash fines for corporations.

The measure is not expected to make a big dent in the cost of living. That is conceded by the government, which sponsored it, and emphasized by its opponents.

The terms of the 500-word measure are simple, despite the hundreds of thousands of words that have exploded over it in the stormy debate that started Dec. 17 and resulted in the fall session of parliament spilling over beyond Christmas.

It says that retail price maintenance—the practice of a manufacturer or dealer telling anyone the prices at which his goods are to be sold—is illegal. It applies to the fixing of set prices, minimum prices, mark-ups or discounts.

The enforcement is in the hands of officers of the Combines Commission, which deals with violations of the Combines Investigation Act. The newly-passed measure is an amendment to that act.

Under the act as it stood before Saturday, there could be prosecutions against "horizontal" combines, those in the same level, such as manufacturers. The change now outlaws a "vertical" combine—one in which the price may be sent down from the manufacturer at the top to the retailer at the bottom of the distribution line.

While advocates and opponents of the new law are agreed that its direct effects on the cost of living will not amount to much immediately, they disagree on the long-term impact on the economy.

Government Idea

The government in the Commons advanced the idea that resale price maintenance tends to hold up prices at higher levels than would prevail under conditions of pure competition. The Progressive Conservatives, who led the long fight against the bill, held it will leave small retailers vulnerable to cut-throat competition from price-slashing by big outlets.

Justice Minister Garson, who sponsored the bill, said the size of mark-ups in many price-fixed lines leaves room for efficient retailers to pass on to consumers the savings from their efficiency. Opponents replied the bill will open the little business man to take it on the chin from the larger stores' use of "loss leaders"—the selling of items at abnormally-low prices to draw in customers.

The rocky route of the anti-price-fixing bill hit a relatively-clear stretch in the Senate Saturday and the contentious measure slipped quickly through the last stages of passage.

As the Senators disposed of the bill in an hour and 40 minutes against seven embattled days in the Commons, they added a reverse twist from the Commons debate. Senate opposition came from the Liberal position came from the Liberal side, while the only representatives of the nine-member Progressive Conservative Party in attendance gave it full support.

With the swift Senate passage out of the way—the bill got second and third readings almost simultaneously Saturday—it became law later in the day after receiving Royal assent at the end of the session.

In the Upper House Saturday, 78-year-old Senator Arthur Marcotte (PC, Saskatchewan), emphasizing that he was speaking only for himself, said he agreed to the bill, "because I am for liberty of trade, for libery of action by individuals."

Senator Marcotte was the only member of his party in the sparsely-attended House, which at no time had more than 21 Senators present and which at times came close to falling below the 15-member quorum.

Conditions Better Than Year Ago St. Laurent Says

OTTAWA, Dec. 31 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Sunday night the free nations are still a long way from security but are in a better position to resist aggression than a year ago.

Mr. St. Laurent issued his annual New Year's message to Canadians. It will be broadcast over the CBC's French network tonight and over English networks Tuesday night.

"The free nations," the Prime Minister said, "are in a better position to resist aggression than they were a year ago, but we still have a long way to go before our people can feel really secure. The nations which want peace must continue to build up their strength and to maintain their unity."

Hope For Truce

Dealing with the Korean war, he said that "we are still hoping for a successful end to the hostilities in that desolate land, where the peace-loving nations have banded together to stop aggression and enforce respect for the rule of law."

Of Canada's internal affairs, he said:

"I know there are many families where the cost of living has caused real concern and even some hardship. But we can be thankful that most Canadians are gainfully employed.

"Compared with all other nations but one, we enjoy a very high standard of living, indeed. And that good fortune has enabled us to help the less fortunate in our own midst."

Toss Missionary Into River

TORONTO, Dec. 31 — (CP) — Parents of the Rev. Ralph Osborn Hines, Evangelical missionary who was beaten and thrown in the river Friday on his way to conduct a service 50 miles north of Bogota, Colombia, said Sunday that "worry doesn't help him."

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hines, of Toronto, sent their son a telegram Sunday which read: "All thinking of you. Loving sympathy and prayers from many. Not worrying. Mother."

A letter received a week ago from Mr. Hines said he was planning a trip to Cambao for the first baptism there. He expected three candidates for the baptism.

(It was near Cambao that Hines and a Colombian lay preacher were thrown in the the river by police and civilians.)

"The authorities seem to be maintaining good order just now, though the man on the ferry still molests some," said Hines in his letter.

Hines was largely supported by Faith and Waverly Road Baptist Churches in Toronto.

Kingston Man Guest Preacher At NY Cathedral

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—(CP)—The Very Rev. A. T. Briarly Brown, Dean of St. George's Anglican Cathedral in Kingston, was guest preacher Sunday at the choral eucharist of the famed Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York.

With Dean Browne, at the invitation of the Bishop of New York, was the 62-voice male choir from St. George's Cathedral.

The 32 boys and 30 men were the first choir from outside the United States ever invited to take part in a choral eucharist at the world's largest Gothic cathedral.

In his sermon, entitled "A New Departure," Dean Browne likened the voices of the choir to the components of "heavenly harmony."

The soprano voices represented the melody of high ideals, the tenors were like the lightness of optimism of life, the contraltos supplied some of the accompaniment of life in resolute courage, and the basses were like the purpose of life.

Sang Twice

The coir, conducted by Choirmaster George N. Maybee, sang both Saturday and Sunday at the cathedral.

The St. George's choir, winners of the International Rotary Festival of Music Trophy in 1950 and 1951, sang many Candian compositions by Dr. Healey Willan and a Canadian Indian carol with words written by Father Breboeuf, 17th century missionary.

The choir will stay in New York for New Year's Eve and will end the visit New Year's Day when the group returns to Kingston.

Members of the choir range in age from nine-year-old Peter Haley to Dr. P. G. C. Campbell, 73-year-old Queen's University French professor.

WOLF! WOLF!—As stunned Londoners look on, Pat Kerley, a Royal Academy of Art student, flees from the "wolf". The grotesque creature pursued her in spite of the sign at right, which warns: "No unauthorized person allowed beyond this note." It was all in preparation for the annual Chelsea Arts Ball.

Faces Theft Charge

HAMILTON, Dec. 31 (CP) — Norman Bigley, 18, of Hamilton gave himself up to police during the weekend and has been charged with automobile theft. He will be turned over to Stamford township police. He told police that, while hitch-hiking home from Buffalo, NY, several days ago, he came across an unlocked car with the ignition keys in it and drove it from Stamford, near Niagara Falls to Hamilton.

Racing Against Deadline To Get Defence Ready

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

PARIS, Dec. 31 (CP)—Western unity planners are racing against a Feb. 2 deadline, when their defence plans are supposed to be jelled enough for setting a pattern of military and economic co-operation.

The deadline is the opening of the council meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—a meeting already heralded in some official quarters as decisive for the future or Western unity.

The big problems are the set-up of the projected European army and the question of Germany's integration into the Western defence force. Interlocked with these problems are various economic factors, including the dividing of rearmament costs among the 12-member countries and the fate of the Schuman plan for pooling coal and steel production.

None of the proposed plans has been fulfiled yet, although all have shown some progress. But even while officials express hope they will be able to come up with definite blueprints in February, alternatives for Western defence arrangements are being formulated.

Some Hurdles

The idea for a European army still has some hurdles to leap before it becomes a reality. This force, made up of soldiers from France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Germany, would form one unit standing alongside the separate units of United States, British and Canadian forces.

The main difficulties holding up the European army now are political.

In both France and Germany the extreme nationalists threaten the chances of ratification by parliaments in their objections to giving up any sovereignty—the plan is to merge national units into larger groups of mixed nationalities. And on the economic side, the Benelux countries are making strong objections to a common military budget for the countries involved in the European army.

Kingston Named 8th Biggest City In Ontario

KINGSTON, Dec. 31—At midnight tonight this city will become the eighth largest in Ontario with 9,000 new citizens. Annexation of the village of Portsmouth and a section of Kingston township will raise Kingston's population to 42,000.

The city will acquire 3,354 residents from the village of Portsmouth and about 5,000 from Kingston township. Annexation is expected to increase the city's taxable assessment by about $9,000,000. This will mean a total of around $45,000,000 against the present figure of $36,051,440.

In addition to this, Kingston has $16,800,000 in tax-exempt property and another $4,000,000 is expected to be added to this with the city's expansion.

Smuggled Cigarettes

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (CP).—J. C. Farr, president of the Toronto Retail Tobacconists Association, said Saturday he had received word that retail stores in Montreal, Three Rivers and other Quebec cities are openly selling smuggled American cigarettes across the counter. The prices range from 27 to 30 cents for a package of 20 compared to 42 to 46 cents for Canadian brands.
